Village to Oppose Apartment Project

Arlington Heights, apparently, will throw its full weight behind an effort to get a 32-acre apartment development west of Northwest Community Hospital defeated.

Owner of the land Johanna Gosch has applied to the Cook County Zoning Board of Appeals for a change in zoning for the tract from single family residential to apartments. A hearing will be conducted at 4:30 p.m. April 15 in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson asked the village board Monday to authorize the village attorney to appear at the hearing. The board directed Atty. Jack M. Siegel to appear, to oppose the petition and, if necessary, to hire expert witnesses to support the village's opposition.

UNDER QUESTIONING from Trustee Roy A. Bressler, Siegel said it would be helpful if residents of the area circulate petitions against the development and appear at the hearing.

The Gosch tract is between Kirchoff and Central Rds. There is a petition pending with the Arlington Heights plan commission for rezoning of the tract for apartments within the village. The village hearing originally scheduled was postponed, and the petitioner has not sought a new hearing date.

Village Pres. John G. Woods said he was upset by the request for county zoning. He said the village and its engineers and planners had spent "considerable time" studying the tract and drainage problems they felt were involved with it and the attempt to develop it in the county was "very serious."

Asked for a description of the county zoning procedure, Siegel said he did not know the attorney representing Gosch but a small group of attorneys had excellent luck in having zoning requests approved. If the Gosch request is approved by the county zoning board, Siegel said, Arlington may file objections. In that case, a ¾ vote of the county board of commissioners is necessary to override Arlington.

Three New Parking Lots Are Slated

Here's good news, shoppers. Arlington Heights will add three new parking lots in the downtown area, two of them for free shopper use.

The two shopper lots — both in the old railroad park between Davis Street and the railway — will contain a total of 84 spaces. Sixty-two spaces will be between Arlington Heights Road and Evergreen. Twenty-two will be between Dunton and Vail.

In addition, a 92-space lot will be added to an existing lot on the south side of Sigwalt Street, east of the Municipal Building. That lot, for commuter use, will be metered.

Bids for paving the lots will be opened at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the office of village Mgr. L. A. Hanson. Bids for lighting the lots will be opened there at 10 a.m. Wednesday.

The engineering department has estimated the cost of the lots, with lighting, at around $50,000. Hanson said the funds will come from the current village budget. The village has also indicated it is working on development of additional parking on the north side in the near future.

5 Races Involve Village

(See inside for additional stories, editorial.)

School board races in the five districts serving Arlington Heights will cross the finish line Saturday wher residents go to the polls.

All polling places for Elementary Districts 25, 23 and 59, Junior College District 301 and High School District 214 will be open from noon to 7 p.m.

Campaigns in Districts 214 and 59 have evoked the most attention. Acceptance of federal aid to schools has headed the list of issues in the 214 race. Candidates Arthur Aronson, Dr. Frank J. Smith, John K. Auld and Dr. Otto Bouc repeatedly have voiced opinions on the question.

Though none of the 214 candidates have totally rejected the idea of federal aid, board incumbents Aronson and Smith have taken the firmest stand in favor of it. Auld and Bouc, seeking to unseat the two incumbents, have contended there are inherent dangers to local control when federal aid is accepted.

THE IDEA OF merger with Schaumburg Elementary District 54 has dominated campaign debates in Elk Grove District 59, which includes the southern end of Arlington Heights. The five candidates for two seats on the board are incumbent A. M. (Bud) Bernstein, the Rev. David Crail, Gene R. Artemenko, C. Elmo Hilderbrand, and Wayne Little.

Underscoring the merger controversy is the question of whether the issue should go to a referendum. Bernstein has advocated intense study of the merger before any action but has said he sees no need for a referendum.

Little and Artemenko have asserted a referendum is a prerequisite for the merger.

The second seat being sought in the District 59 election is now held by Vance Folkman, who will retire.

Elections in Junior College District 301 and Elementary Districts 25 (Arlington Heights) and 23 (Prospect Heights) no doubt will pass as quietly as have the campaigns. Candidates for the three boards all are uncontested.

Junior college board incumbents Paul O'Dea and Richard L. Johnson drew one-year terms when the district was formed last year. Both candi-

Polling Places at Jr. Highs

Polling places for elementary, high school and junior college elections will be uniform throughout Arlington Heights Saturday.

Elementary District 25 will have three precincts for its election and those of the high school and junior college. Residents will vote at the junior high whose attendance area they live in. The one exception is the Westgate area south of the railroad tracks. Though it is part of the Thomas Junior High attendance area, its residents will vote at South Junior High.

ARLINGTON RESIDENTS in Elementary District 23 (Prospect Heights) will vote in a model home at 1409 Lillian St. High school and junior college elections also will be held there.

Elementary District 59 (Elk Grove) voters living in Arlington may cast their ballots for the three elections at Forest View High School.

Gifts for the Wounded

'Dodo' Sparks Viet 'Thank You' Drive

by GENE NOJEK
Staff Writer

Arlington Heights people will be seeing a lot of serious clowning this month.

It's no joke. The clowning will be done by Dave Lynk, the man in charge of track security at Arlington Park, who will be donning grease paint and a billowing polka dot get-up to become "Dodo the Clown."

He'll be taking to the streets of the village to dramatize a campaign called "Operation Appreciation."

The operation was thought of as a local effort to express appreciation to American servicemen who were wounded in the Viet Nam conflict and are recovering at Great Lakes Naval Hospital. It will be conducted by Lynk with the help and support of the Hi Pal Club of Arlington Heights and local businessmen.

THEY WILL BE asking Arlington Heights people to sign up by donating $1.50 to provide gift packages to the returning wounded. Each package will include toiletries, candy, playing cards and books.

The goal of the effort will be to raise funds for a total of 2,000 gift packages, which Lynk estimates will be enough for one package for each veteran hospitalized at Great Lakes for the coming year.

This is not to be another impersonal fund raising campaign. In Operation Appreciation, each package will contain a card signed by the donor. This will put it on a personal basis, and the recipient can return a note of thanks to the donor if he wishes.

It is not that the wounded veterans don't have the necessities of life. What they need, Lynk emphasizes, is personal attention. The gift packages are intended to be tokens of individual appreciation from the people of Arlington Heights.

"I WANT IT to be a community effort of individuals," said Lynk, "rather than a campaign of appealing to a few businessmen and raising the $3,000 it will cost."

This personalized character of Operation Appreciation will be further stressed when the gift packages are distributed at Great Lakes. Lynk and the two-piece combo and three singers who regularly perform at the Arlington Park Carousel Lounge will be going along to entertain the Viet Nam veterans with music and clowning.

Operation Appreciation started off as Lynk's idea. He explains, "The wounded in the hospitals are not there because they supported the war in Viet Nam but because our government sent them. Instead of ignoring them I think we should show our appreciation for what they have done."

Lynk presented his proposal for Operation Appreciation to the Hi Pal Club. They are a group of eight Arlington Heights women who have been doing charitable work in the area for the past 25 years and are head-

Garbage Opinion Poll Starts Soon

A telephone sampling of residents' attitudes towards back door garbage pickup will be begun "relatively soon," Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said Tuesday.

Laying aside suggestions for a post card or newspaper coupon survey or a referendum, the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night instructed Hanson to conduct the telephone survey, based on a scientific random sampling of residents.

Recommendation for the telephone survey came from the board's public relations committee, where the matter was sent two weeks ago after the board bogged down in indecision over the survey method.

COMMITTEE Chairman Roy A. Bressler, who said a telephone survey was the unanimous recommendation of his committee, suggested the press monitor the survey to assure residents it is conducted properly.

The board adopted a policy of uniform backdoor collection 16 months ago. Service at back door or curb—with two rates—was formerly optional.

When the winning Caucus Party candidates campaigned for election last spring, they ran on a platform promising a "referendum" to determine residents' attitudes towards the change.

Hanson, who recommended a

Spring Reminder Mows Him Down

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

Spring. When the snow flurries finally stop, it'll be here.

The mild weather over the weekend encouraged me to think about spring. The tiger lilies were up about four inches. The bare patches of lawn seemed to stick out like sores.

BAUMANN

So I bought a pound of grass seed to fill in the bare spots. Seeding's a pleasure.

I also set about spring cleaning chores—a thorough scrubbing of the basement, straightening piles of carelessly left tools, sorting nuts and bolts scattered during winter repair jobs into their proper containers. Even painted a little in the course of my enthusiasm.

Then it happened. I stumbled into the dimly lit storage bin and tripped on something. Something green, with long antenna-like arms. And it ended my reverie.

The blasted lawn mower.

Spring, I remembered, wasn't all cookouts and swimming and picnics and warm evenings and sowing of seeds.

It's also mowing and picking up twigs that four-year-olds seem to collect and sorting gravel from grass . . . and mowing and mowing.

That pound of Kentucky blue is still on the shelf. I may not plant it.

Spring, on the whole, is wonderful. But why feed its faults?

Add Food Service Experts to Group

Three women with experience in the food service field have been added to the District 214 Citizens Committee charged with recommending what type of lunchroom facilities the new sixth high school should have.

The three, who have all accepted are, Mrs. Howard Shub of 930 Beau Drive, Des Plaines; Mrs. Dale E. Bycroft of 2300 George, Rolling Meadows, and Mrs. W. H. O'Donnell of 119 W. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

ALL THREE wrote letters to the high school administration commenting on the board's earlier decision to automate the lunch room in the sixth high school.

The high school board revoked this decision March 28 and gave the reactivated Citizens Committee for the Sixth High School full rein in recommending what type of food service the new school should provide.

First meeting of the committee has been set for Thursday, April 14, at 8 p.m. in the administration center at 799 Kensington Road, Mount Prospect.

Novotny Names 3 Women's Chairmen

Three local women who are supporting Thomas W. Novotny in his campaign for election as Republican committeeman of Wheeling Township have accepted appointment as village chairmen of Republican Women for Novotny.

Mrs. Earle G. Miller, 105 N. School, Mount Prospect, will serve as chairman for that village. She has been president of the Mount Prospect Midget Football League Auxiliary and a board member of the Women's Society for Christian Service of the Trinity Methodist Church and the Mount Prospect Woman's Club.

IN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, the chairman will be Mrs. Harry J. Jenkins, 915 N. Belmont Ave. Mrs. Jenkins has served as corresponding secretary of the Wheeling Township Women's Republican Club and is presently treasurer of that group.

She has served on the Nominating Committee of School District 25 and is a board member of the Community Concert Association. She has been active in the Great Books program and is presently Northwest Area Coordinator for the Junior Great Books program.

Mrs. Ernest W. Stephan will be chairman for the village of Wheeling. She lives at 1021 Valley Stream and is corresponding secretary of the Northwest Homeowners' Association Hollywood Ridge Association.

Mrs. Stephan, who is a secretary at the General Blower Co., Wheeling, is a member of the public relations commission of the village of Wheeling and the League of Women Voters.

THE REQUEST is for a varruirements for three contiguous 25 foot lots located at 1404 E. Northwest Highway, which is the corner of Northwest Highway and Wilshire Lane. The corner is presently occupied by the old Stonegate Tavern building.

The request comes from Roto Mercury Sales, Inc. who seeks the variation in connection with plans for the planned expansion of the present sales room and garage facilities.

Shadows in Hollywood for TV

From Arlington Heights' Cellar to Hollywood. That's the route of the Shadows of Knight "Big beat" group which got its start when the Cellar opened a year ago.

The group was in Hollywood this week taping programs for three network television shows: Lloyd Thaxton, Dick Clark and Where the Action Is. It is the group's first network contract, although the Shadows have appeared on television on local shows in Cleveland, Detroit and Cincinnati.

SHADOWS members are Jerry McGeorge, Jim Sohns, Joe Kelly, Tom Schiffour and Warren Rogers. They are accompanied on their tour by manager Paul Sampsin, owner of the Cellar and the Arlington Record Shop.

The Shadows left Monday and will return Saturday. They will leave Monday for New York City where they have a two-week engagement at the Phone Book, a discotheque, and a possible appearance on the Ed Sullivan show. (AM

Spring Reminder Mows Him Down

by DAN BAUMANN
News Editor

Spring. When the snow flurries finally stop, it'll be here.

The mild weather over the weekend encouraged me to think about spring. The tiger lilies were up about four inches. The bare patches of lawn seemed to stick out like sores.

BAUMANN

So I bought a pound of grass seed to fill in the bare spots. Seeding's a pleasure.

I also set about spring cleaning chores— a thorough scrubbing of the basement, straightening piles of carelessly left tools, sorting nuts and bolts scattered during winter repair jobs into their proper containers. Even painted a little in the course of my enthusiasm.

Then it happened. I stumbled into the dimly lit storage bin and tripped on something. Something green, with long antenna-like arms. And it ended my reverie.

The blasted lawn mower.

Spring, I remembered, wasn't all cookouts and swimming and picnics and warm evenings and sowing of seeds.

It's also mowing and picking up twigs that four-year-olds seem to collect and sorting gravel from grass . . . and mowing and mowing.

That pound of Kentucky blue is still on the shelf. I may not plant it.

Spring, on the whole, is wonderful. But why feed its faults?

Add Food Service Experts to Group

Three women with experience in the food service field have been added to the District 214 Citizens Committee charged with recommending what type of lunchroom facilities the new sixth high school should have.

The three, who have all accepted are, Mrs. Howard Shub of 930 Beau Drive, Des Plaines; Mrs. Dale E. Bycroft of 2300 George, Rolling Meadows, and Mrs. W. H. O'Donnell of 119 W. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

ALL THREE wrote letters to the high school administration commenting on the board's earlier decision to automate the lunch room in the sixth high school.

The high school board revoked this decision March 28 and gave the reactivated Citizens Committee for the Sixth High School full rein in recommending what type of food service the new school should provide.

First meeting of the committee has been set for Thursday, April 14, at 8 p.m. in the administration center at 799 Kensington Road, Mount Prospect.

Arlington High Gym Needs to Be Probed

The long-needed expansion of physical education facilities of Arlington High School will be discussed by architects at a District 214 board meeting Monday.

Representatives of Berger, Kelley, Unteed and Associates will outline at the 7:30 p.m. meeting their "very preliminary" plans for coping with the shortage of gym and sports space in the high school, oldest in the district.

The "phys ed" expansion space is being planned now to dovetail with alterations necessitated by the Life Safety Code requirements.

THE ARCHITECTS' proposals will come in what will be, in effect, a third meeting for District 214 school board meeting that evening.

The first meeting will be of the present high school board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. to canvass the votes on Saturday's school board election and declare official winners.

The canvass will be followed by official organization of the newly-constituted board. Included will be election of a president, official action to set the secretary's salary—a nonexistent one—and election of the secretary. Unanimous permission must then be given by the new board to go ahead with the already-scheduled meeting.

The architects' report will follow and a report on bus transportation problems will also be made at the meeting.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer told Paddock Publications Tuesday that either he or Frank Coleman, business manager, will comment on each question raised at the March 28 board meeting by Mrs. Leah Cummins, who criticized supervision of bus operations and sale of district - purchased gasoline for non-school use.

THE BOARD will also consider whether to apply for the grant available to them under Title II of P.L. 89-10, the elementary and secondary education act, for purchase of library materials. Size of the Title II grant is based on the number of public and parochial high school students in the district.

No high school in the district is as badly equipped for physical education as Arlington High school despite several additions and renovations since the early 50's.

Planning for expansion of the area available for sports is complicated at Arlington High by the fact that the site on Euclid and Ridge is smallest of the school sites in use.

AS A RESULT, playing fields at the high school are so well trodden that keeping a good stand of grass (and avoiding mud) is a constant problem. Out of necessity, winter intramurals and gym classes feature Bemidji Ball, a hockey-like sport played on tennis courts with brooms instead of standard hockey sticks.

The school has a small girls' gym, a larger boys' gymnasium, but no fieldhouse. In 1964 Prospect and Arlington High Schools had an identical number of P.E. "stations"—eight—but remodelling is being completed this year to increase the number at Prospect High.

Tenebrae Service Tomorrow

Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church (corner of Euclid, Lake and Wolf Roads) will hold a Tenebrae Service at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Good Friday). Tenebrae is an ancient service during which the place of worship grows increasingly dark, to help capture something of the feeling of misery and tragedy that surrounded the crucifixion of Christ.

The service at Grace will feature the senior choir in selections from the cantatas, "The Crucifixion" by John Stainer, and "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Theodore Dubois. A reading of the Scripture story and the showing of a film entitled "The Crucifixion" will intersperse the musical selections.

HAROLD KLUMPP, music director at Grace, will conduct and accompany the choir. Pastor Albert Weidlich will read the Scripture and Don Hanan Jr. will show the film.

A special children's service is scheduled for Friday at 10 a.m. at the church. One feature of this traditional service is the gradual removal of the altar appointments by the altar committee until the altar is bare, giving a sense of desolation. The film, "The Cruicifixion," will also be shown at this service.

Youth Corps Program For Summer Studied

A proposal to continue the District 214 Neighborhood Youth Corps through the summer will be considered by the high school board at its 7:30 p.m. meeting next Monday.

Immediate approval of the summer NYC program was urged March 28 by board members Hal Armstrong and Dr. Frank J. Smith at a board meeting where Director George Theodore's report on present NYC activities received approving comments from every board member.

Theodore said the NYC program, which provides 101 needy students with part-time in-school jobs, is valuable to the teenagers because of the money they both earn and the on-job counseling they receive.

He said students were tabbed for the program both because of their income levels and because of their need for such extra guidance.

SOME 50 or 60 of "the very neediest" will be chosen for the summer NYC program proposed. They would be employed between 15 and 32 hours a week in high schools or junior highs, be given special on-job guidance and receive $1.25 an hour.

Cost of the summer program is budgeted at $28,560, with $21,500 covering student wages, transportation, Social Security and the like. Administrative salaries will be $2,660, with another $3,440 budgeted for guidance and supervisory services provided the NYC enrollees. Another $897 covers miscellaenous expenses such as transportation, paper and postage, and staff insurance, social security, and hospitalization.

Funds for the program are still available from the initial federal grant of $75,000 in Office of Economic Opportunity funds for the present Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Only some $23,000 of the anti-poverty money has been expended so far, because of low student enrollment initially and low on-the-job hours due to tight study schedules. Another $15,000 will be expended by the end of school on June 15.

Grace Church Plans Building Fund Drive

Monday, April 11, will mark the beginning of a month-long drive to raise funds for a new house of worship for Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, located at the corner of Euclid and Wolf Roads. This new edifice will be joined to the existing building.

Spearheading the endeavor will be Adrian Amstutz of Long Beach, Calif., a capital funds counselor for the Lutheran Laymen's Movement for Stewardship of the Lutheran Church of America. This 2,500-member Laymen's Movement operates a service to raise capital funds for institutional and congregational building projects.

Amstutz is a former school teacher and administrative officer in the U. S. Department of Justice, with broad experience in personnel and church work, who left secular employment to serve the Lutheran church. Since joining the LLM staff he has directed campaigns from coast to coast.

Village Opposes School Traffic Plan

A traffic flow plan that would move cars from District 214's sixth high school site into residential areas will be opposed by the Village of Arlington Heights.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the high school district had indicated it planned to acquire a lot at the northwest corner of its 40 acre tract on Thomas Street with a view to having a drive out to Avon Drive. The manager said he would prefer to see traffic routed in one direction, on Thomas or Waterman which border the site. Trustees agreed and asked him to make their attitude known to the school district.

In related action, the board annexed the site and at the suggestion of the plan commission, trustees voted to ask District 214 for half street dedication and improvement on Goebbert Road and Falcon Drive, adjacent to Forest View High School.

Trip Tips

Wayne Griffin

On arriving in Honolulu for cur just completed 1966 tour, I started to inquire about a guide for our group for the island of Maui.

Our assigned guide in Honolulu was Cousin Sam — all Hawaiians are cousins I guess — or so they claim. Cousin Sam is A Mr. 6 by 6. He's too tall to be 5 by 5. And his big opu (stomach) made him like a year round Santa Claus.

Anyway — Sam told me he would contact his cousin Nelson on Maui who would be a good guide for our gang.

Sure enough, when we arrived at the Maui airport, there was Cousin Nelson, ready and waiting.

Going down the highway the first few miles from the airport it became apparent that his constant statement, between jokes, of "Isn't if wonderful," had a slight Liberace overtone. During the next two days Nelson proved not only his prowess as a more than competent guide, but an entertainer as well. He led group singing on the bus, gave us plenty of laughs — and then revealed himself as one of the best ukelele players in the world. You see, after being our guide and driver all day, he led the trio in the cocktail lounge at the Sheraton Maui Hotel at night, and if that is moonlighting, let's have more of it.

Plans are already underway for our 1967 tour to Hawaii, and we'll announce it in due time.

In the meantime, for all your travel needs contact Wayne Griffin Travel, 104 North Evergreen, Arlington Heights, CL 5-7010.

Arlington High Gym Needs to Be Probed

The long-needed expansion of physical education facilities of Arlington High School will be discussed by architects at a District 214 board meeting Monday.

Representatives of Berger, Kelley, Unteed and Associates will outline at the 7:30 p.m. meeting their "very preliminary" plans for coping with the shortage of gym and sports space in the high school, oldest in the district.

The "phys ed" expansion space is being planned now to dovetail with alterations necessitated by the Life Safety Code requirements.

THE ARCHITECTS' proposals will come in what will be, in effect, a third meeting for District 214 school board meeting that evening.

The first meeting will be of the present high school board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. to canvass the votes on Saturday's school board election and declare official winners.

The canvass will be followed by official organization of the newly-constituted board. Included will be election of a president, official action to set the secretary's salary—a nonexistent one—and election of the secretary. Unanimous permission must then be given by the new board to go ahead with the already-scheduled meeting.

The architects' report will follow and a report on bus transportation problems will also be made at the meeting.

Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer told Paddock Publications Tuesday that either he or Frank Coleman, business manager, will comment on each question raised at the March 28 board meeting by Mrs. Leah Cummins, who criticized supervision of bus operations and sale of district - purchased gasoline for non-school use.

THE BOARD will also consider whether to apply for the grant available to them under Title II of P.L. 89-10, the elementary and secondary education act, for purchase of library materials. Size of the Title II grant is based on the number of public and parochial high school students in the district.

No high school in the district is as badly equipped for physical education as Arlington High school despite several additions and renovations since the early 50's.

Planning for expansion of the area available for sports is complicated at Arlington High by the fact that the site on Euclid and Ridge is smallest of the school sites in use.

AS A RESULT, playing fields at the high school are so well trodden that keeping a good stand of grass (and avoiding mud) is a constant problem. Out of necessity, winter intramurals and gym classes feature Bemidji Ball, a hockey-like sport played on tennis courts with brooms instead of standard hockey sticks.

The school has a small girls' gym, a larger boys' gymnasium, but no fieldhouse. In 1964 Prospect and Arlington High Schools had an identical number of P.E. "stations"—eight—but remodelling is being completed this year to increase the number at Prospect High.

Tenebrae Service Tomorrow

Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church (corner of Euclid, Lake and Wolf Roads) will hold a Tenebrae Service at 8 p.m. tomorrow (Good Friday). Tenebrae is an ancient service during which the place of worship grows increasingly dark, to help capture something of the feeling of misery and tragedy that surrounded the crucifixion of Christ.

The service at Grace will feature the senior choir in selections from the cantatas, "The Crucifixion" by John Stainer, and "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Theodore Dubois. A reading of the Scripture story and the showing of a film entitled "The Crucifixion" will intersperse the musical selections.

HAROLD KLUMPP, music director at Grace, will conduct and accompany the choir. Pastor Albert Weidlich will read the Scripture and Don Hanan Jr. will show the film.

A special children's service is scheduled for Friday at 10 a.m. at the church. One feature of this traditional service is the gradual removal of the altar appointments by the altar committee until the altar is bare, giving a sense of desolation. The film, "The Cruicifixion," will also be shown at this service. (ACM

Youth Corps Program For Summer Studied

A proposal to continue the District 214 Neighborhood Youth Corps through the summer will be considered by the high school board at its 7:30 p.m. meeting next Monday.

Immediate approval of the summer NYC program was urged March 28 by board members Hal Armstrong and Dr. Frank J. Smith at a board meeting where Director George Theodore's report on present NYC activities received approving comments from every board member.

Theodore said the NYC program, which provides 101 needy students with part-time in-school jobs, is valuable to the teenagers because of the money they both earn and the on-job counseling they receive.

He said students were tabbed for the program both because of their income levels and because of their need for such extra guidance.

SOME 50 or 60 of "the very neediest" will be chosen for the summer NYC program proposed. They would be employed between 15 and 32 hours a week in high schools or junior highs, be given special on-job guidance and receive $1.25 an hour.

Cost of the summer program is budgeted at $28,560, with $21,500 covering student wages, transportation, Social Security and the like. Administrative salaries will be $2,660, with another $3,440 budgeted for guidance and supervisory services provided the NYC enrollees. Another $897 covers miscellaenous expenses such as transportation, paper and postage, and staff insurance, social security, and hospitalization.

Funds for the program are still available from the initial federal grant of $75,000 in Office of Economic Opportunity funds for the present Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Only some $23,000 of the anti-poverty money has been expended so far, because of low student enrollment initially and low on-the-job hours due to tight study schedules. Another $15,000 will be expended by the end of school on June 15.

Grace Church Plans Building Fund Drive

Monday, April 11, will mark the beginning of a month-long drive to raise funds for a new house of worship for Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, located at the corner of Euclid and Wolf Roads. This new edifice will be joined to the existing building.

Spearheading the endeavor will be Adrian Amstutz of Long Beach, Calif., a capital funds counselor for the Lutheran Laymen's Movement for Stewardship of the Lutheran Church of America. This 2,500-member Laymen's Movement operates a service to raise capital funds for institutional and congregational building projects.

Amstutz is a former school teacher and administrative officer in the U. S. Department of Justice, with broad experience in personnel and church work, who left secular employment to serve the Lutheran church. Since joining the LLM staff he has directed campaigns from coast to coast. (ACM

A traffic flow plan that would move cars from District 214's sixth high school site into residential areas will be opposed by the Village of Arlington Heights.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said the high school district had indicated it planned to acquire a lot at the northwest corner of its 40 acre tract on Thomas Street with a view to having a drive out to Avon Drive. The manager said he would prefer to see traffic routed in one direction, on Thomas or Waterman which border the site. Trustees agreed and asked him to make their attitude known to the school district.

In related action, the board annexed the site and at the suggestion of the plan commission, trustees voted to ask District 214 for half street dedication and improvement on Goebbert Road and Falcon Drive, adjacent to Forest View High School. (AG

Area News Roundup

PALATINE TOWNSHIP—The body of Suzanne Proeber, 21, of 928 S. Vermont, unincorporated Palatine, was found Monday in a shallow grave in Ferndale Heights subdivision, immediately north of Palatine on Hicks Road. Miss Proeber had disappeared Dec. 3. The grave was found by a boy walking his dog. County and state police were waiting to question an ex-boy friend of Miss Proeber whom she had wanted to marry.

HOFFMAN ESTATES—Harold G. Appleby, former Mount Prospect village manager, has been hired as the first village manager for Hoffman Estates. He will begin his duties on or before May 1.

SCHAUMBURG—The first issue of the Schaumburg Herald, the 17th weekly Paddock Publication was published this week.

BENSENVILLE—Eleven candidates are seeking six school board posts in Bensenville this Saturday. The Fenton District 100 high school board offers competition among five candidates, two of them incumbents. There are six hopefuls, including two incumbents, campaigning for three Bensenville District 2 grade school board seats. Two board members are retiring—Carl Wehr in District 2 and Ernest Olson in District 100. In Wood Dale the two incumbents are both challenged for their seats on the District 7 board.

ITASCA—A DuPage County Circuit Court judge has set April 30 as a special election date when about 100 property owners north of Itasca may decide if they want to be annexed to the village. The proposed annexation comes hard on the heels of a successful bond issue referendum last Saturday, when voters approved a 60-acre Itasca Greenbelt Park Plan.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS—There's good new for shoppers. Arlington Heights is planning to open three new downtown area parking lots—two of them for free shopper use. The two shopper lots will be on Davis Street, south of the railroad tracks. The third lot—a metered lot for commuters—will be east of existing commuter lots on Sigwalt Street.

WHEELING—The Wheeling Library District Board has called for an increase in its tax levy from six to 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The board says the additional money is needed to maintain the present library and expand services and equipment.

ROLLING MEADOWS library board may ask the city council to hold a $173,000 library building bond issue referendum in conjunction with the May 17 special mayoralty election. The library has a $57,468 federal grant providing the balance of the construction funds are available by June 30. An alternate financing method being studied is the lease-purchase arrangement bill passed by the 1965 state legislature.

ROSELLE—Saturday's election for the school board in Roselle District 12 will be one of the hottest in the area. Eight candidates, including the three incumbents, are in the running for three positions.

MOUNT PROSPECT—Two traffic lights have been approved by the village board for a stretch of South Elmhurst Avenue (Route 83). The second light came about after a group of citizens formed a safety committee seeking to force a change in the light's location. Although the second light is an appeasement effort by the board, many residents were not satisfied with the decision Tuesday.

HANOVER TOWNSHIP—Electors at the annual town meeting of Hanover Township approved a fiscal 1966-67 appropriation for the three funds totaling $56,275. No levies were approved for any fund, however. Surplus funds from fiscal 1965-66 and excess commissions in this fiscal year are to defray all expenditures.

'Dodo the Clown' Sparks Drive for Viet Wounded

ed by Mrs. Rose Carol, 104 E. Euclid St.

THE HI PALS liked the operation and have become its official organizers and backers. They will also be taking care of other details like wrapping the packages.

Owners of four Arlington Heights businesses will be supplying logistical support to the project.

Joseph Lohr, Lohr's Pharmacy, Paul Bell and Ray Bourbon, Arlington News Agency, Vernon Hagenbring of Hagenbring's Department Store and Bill Lynk of Elm's Grocerland will supply at cost all the products to be included in the gift packages.

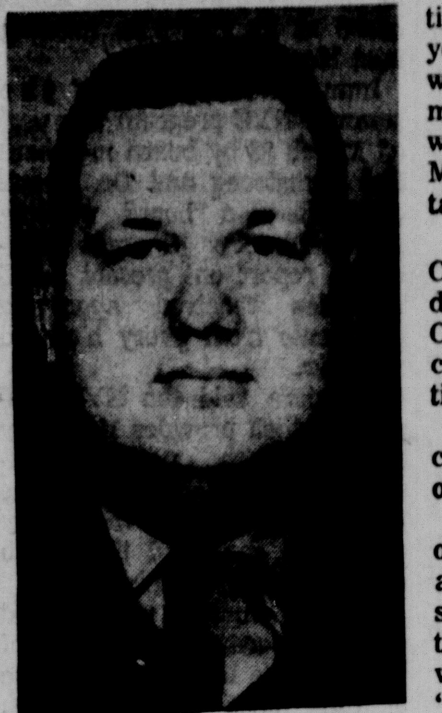
They will also cover the overhead costs of Operation Appreciation. This makes it possible for the gift packages to include $2.60 worth of merchandise for $1.50.

The same businessmen will also let their stores be used as collection points for people to sign up for Operation Appreciation.

THE CAMPAIGN begins this week and will last about six weeks. Dodo the Clown will be appearing throughout the village to pass out literature and explain Operation Appreciation. He will also be available for local benefits to help raise funds for the cause.

On May 22, Dodo and the combo from the Carousel Lounge plan to make their first visit to Great Lakes Naval Hospital. They will take about 350 packages on the first visit and will visit four wards.

It is Lynk's hope that some donors will also go along to the hospital to meet the recipients. The biggest problem of the hospitalized veteran is loneliness and having someone to talk to, he pointed out. They will appreciate the individual attention, especially if their afmilies live far from Chicago.



DAVE LYNK in mufti as security guard at Arlington Park.

If this campaign is successful, Lynk sees the possibility of making it a yearly occurrence. And if the response is enthusiastic enough, he sees the possibility of supplying buses to carry people to the hospital for Sunday visits.

CLOWNING IS A comparatively new venture for the 28-year-old Lynk. He began serious work as a clown about four months ago by going to Northwest Community Hospital on Monday afternoons and entertaining the sick.

Since then, he has visited Cook County Hospital and Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. He also gets many calls to appear at birthday parties and various shows.

How does one get to be a clown in an age of the demise of vaudeville and circuses?

A lot of it, said Lynk, rubbed off from his father who was an amateur magician and did shows at local carnivals and at the Arlington Theater where he was manager from 1920 to 1940. "And then, I'm somewhat of a ham so the rest came by itself," he said.

LYNK HAS LIVED in Arlington Heights all his life. He is a 1955 graduate of Arlington High School where he played football, basketball and baseball.

Lynk is married to the former Gwen Warfield of Arlington Heights. They have four children and now live at Arlington Park, where Lynk's job as chief of track security requires 24-hour attention. He has been there since 1963, and he previously operated a service station at 1428 E. Northwest Highway.

Additional Police, Firemen Approved

Arlington Heights will add six men to its fire department and three men to its police department.

A legal notice, announcing dates for competitive examinations, job requirments, etc., is printed on today's Herald Legal Page. Examinations will be conducted by the police and fire commission on May 7 in Arlington High School.

To meet the needs of its growing population, the village annually adds a three-man shift to each department. This year, however, the fire department will be enlarged by six.

VILLAGE MGR. L.A. Hanson said the increase will be to "catch up" to the village growth rate. Three firemen will be added in May, three in November.

The police department expansion will be through addition of one lieutenant, one sergeant and one patrolman.

The competitive exams will provide the police and fire commission with a list of men eligible for appointment to the two departments. Applicants must be between 21 and 35 years except that applicants for police telephone operator must be between 19 and 25 years. Those wishing to take the exam must have a written application on file before the start of exams.

Salary range for policemen is $6,100 to $7,600 and for firemen $5,800 to $7,300. Police department presently has 43 staff members; the fire department has 17 full time and 17 volunteer firemen.

dates agreed that the planned campus site and bond referendum in June are the major issues facing the two-year college.

Election also appears certain for announced candidates in Districts 25 and 23. Both districts have candidate nominating committees.

District 25 candidates are Mrs. Marian Malcolmson and James W. Penn. Mrs. Malcolmson is an incumbent and Penn is running to fill the seat of Joseph Faner, who is retiring.

Named by the Caucus in District 23 are Mrs. Martha Koelsch, J. D. Elston and Leroy Weinberg. The three candidates are incumbents.

Offer Plots For Local Gardeners

Don't have room to satisfy your hankering to plant sweet corn, melons, pumpkins or other room-consuming plants in your back yard?

The Arlington Heights Park District is offering plots of land free of charge on a future park site to residents who want to grow vegetables this season. Land available is quite fertile, according to Park Supt. Thomas Thornton.

THE OFFER will not only give residents a chance to vent their gardening instincts, Thornton noted, but will save the park district money on temporary ground cover until development of the park site is imminent.

telephone survey when the board asked him to determine what could be done with a budget of $200, said he would begin work on it "immediately." But he said he was not sure when actual phoning will begin. It will be done under auspices of the University of Illinois.

HANSON distributed to trustees a copy of a letter from Carl M. Larson, professor of marketing at the University of Illinois Chicago Circle Campus.

In his letter, Larson said, "A probability sample of 400 households will yield results that will not differ significantly from results that would be obtained if you had contacted all 9,000 households.

"The advantages in cost and time are of course apparent. I must caution you that choosing the 400 must not be done haphazardly but through the use of random numbers which are published in specially prepared tables."

Hanson said the question or questions would be designed by university personnel and the random selection of names would be done by them.

NO RESIDENTS appeared to speak for or against the method of survey. However, Clarence White, 2006 Mulberry Lane, a resident of the recently annexed Arlington Vista subdivision, asked whether the board had considered reducing the number of collections to one a week. He was told it was the first time a resident had asked for a reduction in frequency of pick-up.

Vote on the telephone survey was 6 to 1, with Trustee Thomas Hanlon casting the lone "no" vote. Hanlon reminded trustees he had brought the question before the board and still felt the board had a "moral obligation to give the community at large a chance to speak on it."

Seek Lower Speed Limit On Central

A step in that direction was taken when Col. Truman F. Cook, 45th Artillery Brigade commander, decreed a 35 mile-an-hour limit for base personnel driving on Central Road between Arlington Heights and Wilke Roads. The order was published in the March 28 issue of the base bulletin.

COL. COOK'S order does not affect non-military personnel. Speed limits on Central Road Road are controlled by the Cook County highway department which handles requests for their change.

According to base safety officer, Lt. John Marshall, meetings have been held with Edward G. Whiston of the Cook County highway department to study feasibility of lower limits.

Agreement On Library Site Near

Action on condemnation of part of the site for a new Memorial Library was postponed by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday after Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said negotiations for the site have become hopeful.

Siegel said he met with the Heller sisters who own the north half of the block bounded by Euclid, Dunton, Vail and Freemont. The meeting took place Friday, Seigel said, and "I feel we're near an agreement."

A week earlier, the attorney had requested authority to begin condemnation procedings.

A giant yellow egg will visit Arlington Heights Friday.

The egg — affixed to the back bumper of the Poultry and Egg National Board's "eggmobile," will be outside the Jewel-Osco store, 122 N. Vail Ave., from 10 a.m. until noon. It is part of a joint effort by the national poultry group, the U. S. Department of Agriculture Consumer and Marketing Service and state egg producers to highlight the value of egg-eating.

Arlington Heights is one of 15 cities to be visited on the eggmobile's 4,500 mile cross-country tour. A restored 1929 Buick, the eggmobile is being driven from North Carolina to Los Angeles by North Carolina State University student Michael Auth and his wife Marie. It is scheduled to reach Los Angeles in time for the Poultry and Egg National Board's annual meeting.

The local Jewel store is cooperating in the appearance here, which will involve state and national egg men. In addition to the 4½ foot high plastic egg, the display will include colored Easter eggs and egg recipe books.

Mother of 4 Nominated For Award

MRS. AUSTIN

Mrs. Myron R. (Doris) Austin, 1322 N. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights, has been nominated for the 1966 Chicago area Volunteer of the Year Award.

The mother of four, Mrs. Austin was nominated by the Chicago Area Council of Camp Fire Girls. Spokesmen for the Volunteer of the Year Award said despite her family responsibilities she is "an effective and dynamic group leader for Camp Fire Girls.

"Dealing with three different age groups, Mrs. Austin has emphasized long-range program planning so that each girl has an over-all picture of the coming year's activities. Service projects are selected to help complete honors in using kitchen equipment and homemaking skills. Normally, a girl may earn an average of 10 honor beads a year; Mrs. Austin's girls have each earned approximately 40 honor beads during the past year."

THE AUSTINS' children are June 12, Susan 9, Daniel 8 and Barbara 4.

The annual award campaign began Monday with display of portraits and biographies of all 113 1966 candidates in the exhibition corridor of Chicago's City Hall. The award program, in its 20th year, is co-sponsored by the State Street Council and the Volunteer Bureau of the Welfare Council of Metropolitan Chicago.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP—The body of Suzanne Proeber, 21, of 928 S. Vermont, unincorporated Palatine, was found Monday in a shallow grave in Ferndale Heights subdivision, immediately north of Palatine on Hicks Road. Miss Proeber had disappeared Dec. 3. The grave was found by a boy walking his dog. County and state police were waiting to question an ex-boy friend of Miss Proeber whom she had wanted to marry.

HOFFMAN ESTATES—Harold G. Appleby, former Mount Prospect village manager, has been hired as the first village manager for Hoffman Estates. He will begin his duties on or before May 1.

SCHAUMBURG—The first issue of the Schaumburg Herald, the 17th weekly Paddock Publication was published this week.

BENSENVILLE—Eleven candidates are seeking six school board posts in Bensenville this Saturday. The Fenton District 100 high school board offers competition among five candidates, two of them incumbents. There are six hopefuls, including two incumbents, campaigning for three Bensenville District 2 grade school board seats. Two board members are retiring—Carl Wehr in District 2 and Ernest Olson in District 100. In Wood Dale the two incumbents are both challenged for their seats on the District 7 board.

ITASCA—A DuPage County Circuit Court judge has set April 30 as a special election date when about 100 property owners north of Itasca may decide if they want to be annexed to the village. The proposed annexation comes hard on the heels of a successful bond issue referendum last Saturday, when voters approved a 60-acre Itasca Greenbelt Park Plan.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS—There's good new for shoppers. Arlington Heights is planning to open three new downtown area parking lots—two of them for free shopper use. The two shopper lots will be on Davis Street, south of the railroad tracks. The third lot—a metered lot for commuters—will be east of existing commuter lots on Sigwalt Street.

WHEELING—The Wheeling Library District Board has called for an increase in its tax levy from six to 12 cents per $100 assessed valuation. The board says the additional money is needed to maintain the present library and expand services and equipment.

ROLLING MEADOWS library board may ask the city council to hold a $173,000 library building bond issue referendum in conjunction with the May 17 special mayoralty election. The library has a $57,468 federal grant providing the balance of the construction funds are available by June 30. An alternate financing method being studied is the lease-purchase arrangement bill passed by the 1965 state legislature.

ROSELLE—Saturday's election for the school board in Roselle District 12 will be one of the hottest in the area. Eight candidates, including the three incumbents, are in the running for three positions.

MOUNT PROSPECT—Two traffic lights have been approved by the village board for a stretch of South Elmhurst Avenue (Route 83). The second light came about after a group of citizens formed a safety committee seeking to force a change in the light's location. Although the second light is an appeasement effort by the board, many residents were not satisfied with the decision Tuesday.

HANOVER TOWNSHIP—Electors at the annual town meeting of Hanover Township approved a fiscal 1966-67 appropriation for the three funds totaling $56,275. No levies were approved for any fund, however. Surplus funds from fiscal 1965-66 and excess commissions in this fiscal year are to defray all expenditures.

ed by Mrs. Rose Carol, 104 E. Euclid St.

THE HI PALS liked the operation and have become its official organizers and backers. They will also be taking care of other details like wrapping the packages.

Owners of four Arlington Heights businesses will be supplying logistical support to the project.

Joseph Lohr, Lohr's Pharmacy, Paul Bell and Ray Bourbon, Arlington News Agency, Vernon Hagenbring of Hagenbring's Department Store and Bill Lynk of Elm's Grocerland will supply at cost all the products to be included in the gift packages.

They will also cover the overhead costs of Operation Appreciation. This makes it possible for the gift packages to include $2.60 worth of merchandise for $1.50.

The same businessmen will also let their stores be used as collection points for people to sign up for Operation Appreciation.

THE CAMPAIGN begins this week and will last about six weeks. Dodo the Clown will be appearing throughout the village to pass out literature and explain Operation Appreciation. He will also be available for local benefits to help raise funds for the cause.

On May 22, Dodo and the combo from the Carousel Lounge plan to make their first visit to Great Lakes Naval Hospital. They will take about 350 packages on the first visit and will visit four wards.

It is Lynk's hope that some donors will also go along to the hospital to meet the recipients. The biggest problem of the hospitalized veteran is loneliness and having someone to talk to, he pointed out. They will appreciate the individual attention, especially if their afmilies live far from Chicago.

DAVE LYNK in mufti as security guard at Arlington Park.

If this campaign is successful, Lynk sees the possibility of making it a yearly occurrence. And if the response is enthusiastic enough, he sees the possibility of supplying buses to carry people to the hospital for Sunday visits.

CLOWNING IS A comparatively new venture for the 28-year-old Lynk. He began serious work as a clown about four months ago by going to Northwest Community Hospital on Monday afternoons and entertaining the sick.

Since then, he has visited Cook County Hospital and Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago. He also gets many calls to appear at birthday parties and various shows.

How does one get to be a clown in an age of the demise of vaudeville and circuses?

A lot of it, said Lynk, rubbed off from his father who was an amateur magician and did shows at local carnivals and at the Arlington Theater where he was manager from 1920 to 1940. "And then, I'm somewhat of a ham so the rest came by itself," he said.

LYNK HAS LIVED in Arlington Heights all his life. He is a 1955 graduate of Arlington High School where he played football, basketball and baseball.

Lynk is married to the former Gwen Warfield of Arlington Heights. They have four children and now live at Arlington Park, where Lynk's job as chief of track security requires 24-hour attention. He has been there since 1963, and he previously operated a service station at 1428 E. Northwest Highway.

Additional Police, Firemen Approved

Arlington Heights will add six men to its fire department and three men to its police department.

A legal notice, announcing dates for competitive examinations, job requirments, etc., is printed on today's Herald Legal Page. Examinations will be conducted by the police and fire commission on May 7 in Arlington High School.

To meet the needs of its growing population, the village annually adds a three-man shift to each department. This year, however, the fire department will be enlarged by six.

VILLAGE MGR. L.A. Hanson said the increase will be to "catch up" to the village growth rate. Three firemen will be added in May, three in November.

The police department expansion will be through addition of one lieutenant, one sergeant and one patrolman.

The competitive exams will provide the police and fire commission with a list of men eligible for appointment to the two departments. Applicants must be between 21 and 35 years except that applicants for police telephone operator must be between 19 and 25 years. Those wishing to take the exam must have a written application on file before the start of exams.

Salary range for policemen is $6,100 to $7,600 and for firemen $5,800 to $7,300. Police department presently has 43 staff members; the fire department has 17 full time and 17 volunteer firemen.

dates agreed that the planned campus site and bond referendum in June are the major issues facing the two-year college.

Election also appears certain for announced candidates in Districts 25 and 23. Both districts have candidate nominating committees.

District 25 candidates are Mrs. Marian Malcolmson and James W. Penn. Mrs. Malcolmson is an incumbent and Penn is running to fill the seat of Joseph Faner, who is retiring.

Named by the Caucus in District 23 are Mrs. Martha Koelsch, J. D. Elston and Leroy Weinberg. The three candidates are incumbents.

Offer Plots For Local Gardeners

Don't have room to satisfy your hankering to plant sweet corn, melons, pumpkins or other room-consuming plants in your back yard?

The Arlington Heights Park District is offering plots of land free of charge on a future park site to residents who want to grow vegetables this season. Land available is quite fertile, according to Park Supt. Thomas Thornton.

THE OFFER will not only give residents a chance to vent their gardening instincts, Thornton noted, but will save the park district money on temporary ground cover until development of the park site is imminent.

Interested residents should write the Arlington Heights Garden Club, Box 362, Arlington Heights.

Atcher Outlines Plan For Highway Expansion

A program for "badly needed" highway development and improvement in the northwest suburbs was proposed this week as a campaign plank by Robert O. Atcher, Republican candidate for state senator in the third Illinois senatorial district in Cook County.

Atcher, who is mayor of Schaumburg, said projected rapid development for the eight townships that comprise the third senatorial district "will demand immediate planning and fast action if this area is to cope with the transportation burdens its own growth will place on it during the next decade."

Atcher proposed modifications in the present Northwest Tollway and called for a new diagonal expressway to serve the northwest area.

THE CANDIDATE asserted that the eastern portion of the third senatorial district can be facilitated "to survive increasing amounts of traffic" by what he called "extensive reworking of Dundee Road (Route 68) and Waukegan Road (Route 42A)."

The communities of Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates will be served "very well" by the currently planned Interstate Highway 90, Atcher said, but he declared that other communities in the district not adjacent to the new highway "need a diagonal free expressway in the near future."

The new expressway, Atcher said, "might very well be made from what now is Algonquin Road, if planning is undertaken right away."

Atcher also cited what he described as "needs for modifications in the Northwest Tollway."

ENTRANCES and exits on the tollway at Arlington Heights Road and Roselle Road would "encourage more use of the tollway from populated areas of Arlington Heights,. Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates and would provide our people with much better highway transportation," Atcher said.

Atcher also called for a system of "short tolls" to enable more tollway use within the northwest area. A "short toll" fee, Atcher asserted, should also be considered for Mount Prospect residents who now must pay 35 cents "to travel two miles before getting off the tollway and onto the Kennedy Expressway."

Atcher said he plans to develop and introduce enabling legislation in the Illinois senate for the highway proposals and pledged to "work closely with the state planning groups involved."

He said that transportation "looms as one of the most potentially serious problems facing the communities in the third district and one of the most dangerously neglected. Before we know it," Atcher warned, "we're likely to find ourselves with a State and Madison rush hour horror in our own front yard."

Growth, Atcher said, has come "so fast and will come so much faster, that we cannot afford to wait another year before realistic and effective transportation measures are undertaken for this area." (B-10

Adult School Plans Electronics Course

High School District 214's Adult School will start on April 14 another short-term course aimed at easing a critical area labor shortage.

The adult education department will offer a course in Basic Quality Control for people working in electronics industries in the area.

The course will be held for eight consecutive Thursday nights from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the electronic laboratory at Arlington High School, Room 139.

James Chapman, who has been training industrial employes for many years in inspection and quality control, will teach the course. Topics to be covered will include both mechanical and electronic visual inspection, the use and care of micrometers, calipers, vernier gauges, thread gauges, "Jo" blocks and many other types of gauges and measuring devices used in industry.

Blue print reading will be taught as will quality control procedure, zero-defects, and, where applicable, military specifications will be introduced. All supplies and equipment will be furnished by the school.

The entire cost for the course will be $10.00.

W. L. (PAT) Randle, director of adult education for the high school district, has been assured by industrial management people that the shortage of qualified people in electronics inspection and quality control field is critical.

An Adult School electronic wiring and soldering course, also aimed at easing a critical labor shortage was recently completed. Some industries paid the tuition for their employes who attended the course and will probably do the same for this new course in quality control.

For information concerning registrations interested persons are invited to call Randle at CLearbrook 3-1700.

Atcher Outlines Plan For Highway Expansion

A program for "badly needed" highway development and improvement in the northwest suburbs was proposed this week as a campaign plank by Robert O. Atcher, Republican candidate for state senator in the third Illinois senatorial district in Cook County.

Atcher, who is mayor of Schaumburg, said projected rapid development for the eight townships that comprise the third senatorial district "will demand immediate planning and fast action if this area is to cope with the transportation burdens its own growth will place on it during the next decade."

Atcher proposed modifications in the present Northwest Tollway and called for a new diagonal expressway to serve the northwest area.

THE CANDIDATE asserted that the eastern portion of the third senatorial district can be facilitated "to survive increasing amounts of traffic" by what he called "extensive reworking of Dundee Road (Route 68) and Waukegan Road (Route 42A)."

The communities of Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates will be served "very well" by the currently planned Interstate Highway 90, Atcher said, but he declared that other communities in the district not adjacent to the new highway "need a diagonal free expressway in the near future."

The new expressway, Atcher said, "might very well be made from what now is Algonquin Road, if planning is undertaken right away."

Atcher also cited what he described as "needs for modifications in the Northwest Tollway."

ENTRANCES and exits on the tollway at Arlington Heights Road and Roselle Road would "encourage more use of the tollway from populated areas of Arlington Heights,. Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates and would provide our people with much better highway transportation," Atcher said.

Arlington Road Plan Protested

Petitions and vocal protest struck blows at the proposed Arlington Heights thoroughfare plan last week during a lengthy plan commission hearing.

The most determined opposition to the plan came from residents of Euclid Street, between Rand Road and Walnut, and from the Stonegate Assn. Both groups presented petitions enumerating reasons for their concern.

LEADING THE attack for the Euclid Street homeowners was Ollie Thelander, 14 W. Euclid, who presented a petition which he said was signed by all but three of the 153 residents living on the street.

Thelander contended that the proposed widening of Euclid to 44 feet, a secondary arterial, would destroy at least $500,000 worth of trees and would make the street hazardous for children and elderly persons.

"In my opinion it is not progress to destroy beauty and create hazards for pedestrians, especially children," argued Thelander. He also spoke out against possible increased speed limits, saying that the current limit of 30 miles per hour was fast enough.

ROLF C. CAMPBELL and Donald J. Peto, representatives of Tec-Search, Inc. which formulated the thoroughfare plan, also were criticized by Thelander.

"It seems to me, gentlemen," he asserted, "that you are playing Russian roulette with our children."

Thelander contended that the trend in municipal thoroughfare plans was to take the heavy traffic around the town.

"It appears to me that you proposed to chop right through the town," he said. Widening of Euclid also would cut property value by a third of a million dollars, he argued.

COMMISSION member Fred Ainslie, chairman of the thoroughfare committee, pointed out that the widening of Euclid was proposed in plans dating back to 1959 and 1939. He added that before any widening could be done, the plan would have to be approved by the county.

Thelander countered, "Now is the time to nip it. Let's present the plan to the county showing Euclid as a two-lane street." Thelander's presentation was interrupted several times by applause from supporters.

A petition bearing the names of 329 Stonegate residents was presented to the commission by George N. Gow, 348 S. Wilshire Lane. Gow said that some petitions were still out and that an additional 79 names might be expected.

THE PROTEST was launched against the designation of a railroad grade crossing at Arthur Ave., which is planned as a collector from Central Road to the Northwest Highway. This, said Gow, would run heavy traffic through the Stonegate subdivision.

Campbell responded, "It is not the intention to have that traffic running through this area."

Nevertheless, said Gow, that is where the traffic will end up.

Gow recommended a grade crossing at Dryden Place or Cleveland Ave. as an alternative.

John F. Gillen, 331 S. Windsor Drive, backed Gow and added that Cleveland would be a much better street for the grade crossing because it would deadhead onto the Northwest Highway, forcing traffic to turn.

AMONG OTHER Stonegate residents protesting was Edward H. Ferguson, 311 S. Windsor Drive, who stated, "I think within three to five years you'll be talking about Wilshire Lane the same way as you're talking about Euclid today."

Comments also were forthcoming from village residents other than those living on Euclid Street or in Stonegate. T. Darcy Sullivan, 923 S. Evergreen St., recommended that the planners consider designating a secondary arterial somewhere between Arlington Heights Road and Elmhurst Road.

Campbell responded, saying that there was no road suitable for such designation. Sullivan said he thought something could be done north of Palatine Road. Campbell recommended to the board that this proposal should be considered.

HAROLD W. Klingner, representing the Board of Local Improvements, posed several questions to the commission and Tec-Search representatives.

Klingner said he thought the plan proposed too many collector streets going too far.

"There ought to be a break in these streets," asserted Klingner, "so they don't create traffic problems."

The 3½ hour meeting was opened with an explanation of the comprehensive plan.

Members of the thoroughfare subcommittee ar expected to review the arguments and recommendations and prepare a report for the next meeting May 11. (A

Nine Out of Ten Children Catch Measles

But now they don't have to. Your physician can vaccinate them against measles, just as he does to prevent smallpox. Measles is not a simple disease without problems. One out of every six children with measles develops a secondary bacterial infection such as a pneumonia or an ear infection. While these infections usually respond to a doctor's care, why allow serious trouble? About one out of every 1,000 cases develop encephalitis — an infection for which there is as yet no specific treatment.

Since the conquest of polio, measles causes more deaths than any other common disease of childhood. If your child has not had measles, and has not yet been vaccinated against it, visit a physician soon.

Parked Cars Play Big Accident Role

A parked car is involved in 30 per cent of all accidents in Arlington Heights.

This figure was cited by Chief of Police L. W. Calderwood in his recent release of the results of a study into the parking situation.

THE STUDY pointed out three particular parking violations which create traffic hazards:

—Parking left wheel to the curb in residential sections. Chief Calderwood noted that the driver who parks in this manner also must drive on the wrong side of the street to park and to leave the parking area, which is a moving traffic violation.

—Parking on the sidewalk, which may block the motorists' view and prevent him seeing existing hazards. Also, cars parked blocking the sidewalks force pedestrians to walk in the roadway. In a 1960 incident three servicemen walking along Central road in front of the Nike base were struck and killed.

—Double parking and standing, a major problem in the downtown area when commuter trains arrive. This creates hazards which are increased at dusk.

CHIEF CALDERWOOD said records indicate that in the past three years there has been an increase in all accidents, including a 39 per cent increase in injury accidents, a 43 per cent increase in property damage accidents and a 63 per cent increase in pedestrian accidents.

He stressed that in selective enforcement of village traffic ordinances, police intend not to harrass citizens but attempt to reduce death and injury on village streets. (A

The restrictions were lifted after the Air Force opened a second training center. (A

ROLF C. CAMPBELL and Donald J. Peto, representatives of Tec-Search, Inc. which formulated the thoroughfare plan, also were criticized by Thelander.

"It seems to me, gentlemen," he asserted, "that you are playing Russian roulette with our children."

Thelander contended that the trend in municipal thoroughfare plans was to take the heavy traffic around the town.

"It appears to me that you proposed to chop right through the town," he said. Widening of Euclid also would cut property value by a third of a million dollars, he argued.

COMMISSION member Fred Ainslie, chairman of the thoroughfare committee, pointed out that the widening of Euclid was proposed in plans dating back to 1959 and 1939. He added that before any widening could be done, the plan would have to be approved by the county.

Thelander countered, "Now is the time to nip it. Let's present the plan to the county showing Euclid as a two-lane street." Thelander's presentation was interrupted several times by applause from supporters.

A petition bearing the names of 329 Stonegate residents was presented to the commission by George N. Gow, 348 S. Wilshire Lane. Gow said that some petitions were still out and that an additional 79 names might be expected.

THE PROTEST was launched against the designation of a railroad grade crossing at Arthur Ave., which is planned as a collector from Central Road to the Northwest Highway. This, said Gow, would run heavy traffic through the Stonegate subdivision.

Campbell responded, "It is not the intention to have that traffic running through this area."

Nevertheless, said Gow, that is where the traffic will end up.

Gow recommended a grade crossing at Dryden Place or Cleveland Ave. as an alternative.

John F. Gillen, 331 S. Windsor Drive, backed Gow and added that Cleveland would be a much better street for the grade crossing because it would deadhead onto the Northwest Highway, forcing traffic to turn.

AMONG OTHER Stonegate residents protesting was Edward H. Ferguson, 311 S. Windsor Drive, who stated, "I think within three to five years you'll be talking about Wilshire Lane the same way as you're talking about Euclid today."

Comments also were forthcoming from village residents other than those living on Euclid Street or in Stonegate. T. Darcy Sullivan, 923 S. Evergreen St., recommended that the planners consider designating a secondary arterial somewhere between Arlington Heights Road and Elmhurst Road.

Campbell responded, saying that there was no road suitable for such designation. Sullivan said he thought something could be done north of Palatine Road. Campbell recommended to the board that this proposal should be considered.

HAROLD W. Klingner, representing the Board of Local Improvements, posed several questions to the commission and Tec-Search representatives.

Klingner said he thought the plan proposed too many collector streets going too far.

"There ought to be a break in these streets," asserted Klingner, "so they don't create traffic problems."

The 3½ hour meeting was opened with an explanation of the comprehensive plan.

Members of the thoroughfare subcommittee ar expected to review the arguments and recommendations and prepare a report for the next meeting May 11. (A

Nine Out of Ten Children Catch Measles

But now they don't have to. Your physician can vaccinate them against measles, just as he does to prevent smallpox. Measles is not a simple disease without problems. One out of every six children with measles develops a secondary bacterial infection such as a pneumonia or an ear infection. While these infections usually respond to a doctor's care, why allow serious trouble? About one out of every 1,000 cases develop encephalitis — an infection for which there is as yet no specific treatment.

Since the conquest of polio, measles causes more deaths than any other common disease of childhood. If your child has not had measles, and has not yet been vaccinated against it, visit a physician soon.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

Parked Cars Play Big Accident Role

A parked car is involved in 30 per cent of all accidents in Arlington Heights.

This figure was cited by Chief of Police L. W. Calderwood in his recent release of the results of a study into the parking situation.

THE STUDY pointed out three particular parking violations which create traffic hazards:

—Parking left wheel to the curb in residential sections. Chief Calderwood noted that the driver who parks in this manner also must drive on the wrong side of the street to park and to leave the parking area, which is a moving traffic violation.

—Parking on the sidewalk, which may block the motorists' view and prevent him seeing existing hazards. Also, cars parked blocking the sidewalks force pedestrians to walk in the roadway. In a 1960 incident three servicemen walking along Central road in front of the Nike base were struck and killed.

—Double parking and standing, a major problem in the downtown area when commuter trains arrive. This creates hazards which are increased at dusk.

CHIEF CALDERWOOD said records indicate that in the past three years there has been an increase in all accidents, including a 39 per cent increase in injury accidents, a 43 per cent increase in property damage accidents and a 63 per cent increase in pedestrian accidents.

He stressed that in selective enforcement of village traffic ordinances, police intend not to harrass citizens but attempt to reduce death and injury on village streets. (A

The continuation was granted at the request of Bouse's attorney.

Air Force Openings Announced

Enlistment quotas for U. S. Air Force commissioning and non-commissioning programs opened up recently after a six-month backlog of enlistments restricted acceptance of applicants, according to Arlington Heights recruiter, Sgt. James L. Edick.

The number of applications to officer and non-officer programs in the Air Force previously had imposed a three-month waiting period on applicants before enlistment.

The restrictions were lifted after the Air Force opened a second training center. (A

Tomasek to Manage Campaign for Means

TOMASEK

Dan Tomasek, 412 Gregg Lane, Buffalo Grove, has been named campaign manager for William L. Means, candidate for the Republican nomination to the Illinois House of Representatives.

Tomasek is a supervisor for the Western Electric Co. in Skokie.

In naming Tomasek, Means said, "Having Dan with us is a major part of our effort to bring back to the party those good Republicans who have lost interest over the years—practical, conservative Republicans who recognize their interest in state government, but who still temper their opinions with their concern for local control.

"This is so important to all of us, that I ask all Republicans to join us in making our wishes known." (B-10

Buffalo Grove Man Seeks GOP House Post

WILLIAM L. MEANS

William L. Means, 33, of 260 Rosewood, Buffalo Grove, barely made it under the deadline for filing last week to join the field of Republican candidates for the Illinois House of Representatives.

Means presented his petitions at Springfield Monday, March 28, about 3:30 p.m.; the week-long filing period closed at 5 p.m.

He joins four other candidates for the two Republican nominations in the Third District to be voted on in the June 14 primary. They are incumbent Eugene Schlickman and William Moore, both of Arlington Heights; David J. Regner of Mount Prospect; and Robert Hesse of Palatine.

Means is a member of the Wheeling Township Republican organization and served as a precinct captain in 1964; he was a director of the organization, and has been active in politics since his introduction to the northwest suburban area six years ago.

EXPLAINING HIS candidacy, he said, "I thought this was an ideal opportunity to run for the House, inasmuch as the district will send two people to Springfield.

"I thought Gene Schlickman should make up his mind what he wants to do." Schlickman is running for both the House and Township GOP Committeeman.

The Wheeling Township organization had endorsed only Schlickman as of presstime Wednesday, but the group's precinct captains had scheduled a meeting for Wednesday night.

Concerning endorsements and organization support, Means, a soft-spoken editor of an industrial house organ for Teletype Corporation, Skokie, said, "I assume the position is wide open.

"I'm hoping I will, however, be overlooked by the precinct captain's meeting Wednesday night."

HE COMMENTED that although other candidates for the post had been asked to appear before the group, he had not officially been notified of the session.

Means said he is not connected with the Illinois Congress of Conservatives, a group sponsoring Gerry Moe of Buffalo Grove (Means' neighbor) for U.S. senator against GOP challenger Charles Percy and incumbent Paul Douglas (D-Ill.).

He did, however, express high regard for Moe.

Means and his wife, Arlene, have three daughters: Sandra, 10; Beth, 7, and Susan, 6.

He is a member of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd in Prospect Heights; the Arlington Heights Elks Lodge, and has served on the Citizen's Advisory Council for School District 21.

HE IS A graduate of Knox College and a native of Peoria, "where," he commented, "I was not active in politics."

Says Charity Drive Not Authorized

Solicitations for the Salvation Army in Arlington Heights were unauthorized, the president of the Arlington Heights United Fund said Tuesday.

Pres. John F. Gillen said in a letter to the Herald he had checked on the solicitation after it was criticized by Herald News Editor Dan Baumann in his "Eye on Arlington" column. Gillen said he was concerned by the criticism.

"I immediately called Mr. John Frieburg, who is a director of the Salvation Army in Arlington Heights and a member of our (United Fund) board, and asked him for a clarification.

"HE TOLD me there is no planned or scheduled fund raising by the Salvation Army in Arlington Heights. In the Salvation Army's words, this was probably a contact by an individual who did not have specific authority to solicit you or any other individual. The Salvation Army has agreed on a once-a-year collection in Arlington Heights."

Baumann had noted the Salvation Army was one of 13 agencies in the local United Fund and had questioned a separate collection. (A

Solicitations for the Salvation Army in Arlington Heights were unauthorized, the president of the Arlington Heights United Fund said Tuesday.

Pres. John F. Gillen said in a letter to the Herald he had checked on the solicitation after it was criticized by Herald News Editor Dan Baumann in his "Eye on Arlington" column. Gillen said he was concerned by the criticism.

"I immediately called Mr. John Frieburg, who is a director of the Salvation Army in Arlington Heights and a member of our (United Fund) board, and asked him for a clarification.

"HE TOLD me there is no planned or scheduled fund raising by the Salvation Army in Arlington Heights. In the Salvation Army's words, this was probably a contact by an individual who did not have specific authority to solicit you or any other individual. The Salvation Army has agreed on a once-a-year collection in Arlington Heights."

Baumann had noted the Salvation Army was one of 13 agencies in the local United Fund and had questioned a separate collection. (A

Wheels Stolen, Top Slashed in Apartment Lot

Cars parked in apartment lots along Shady Way in Arlington Heights were the object of theft and vandalism over the weekend.

According to police, Robert Guy, 822 Shady Way, reported that three wheels were stolen from his auto which was parked in his apartment parking lot. He said the theft occurred between 2 and 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

A slashed top on her convertible was reported Sunday by Betty Linneweh, 920 Shady Way. On checking her report, police found two other cars parked in that apartment lot damaged. One had five slashes in its convertible top and another had flat tires. (A

No Easter Ducklings Advised

Due to an increase in salmonella infections in humans throughout the United States, parents are warned not to buy chicks and ducklings as pets for children.

The Cook County Department of Public Health states there is no doubt that poultry and poultry products are one of the leading sources of salmonellae, and that the bacteria may be transmitted by either live or stuffed natural chicks and ducklings.

THE ANIMAL Welfare League, 6224 S. Wabash, Chicago, adds that health risks aside, live rabbits, ducks and chicks are not toys to be squeezed or otherwise mauled by youngsters. In addition, they require special care which most urban dwellers are unable to provide.

Illinois statutes prohibit the sale, bartering or giving away of live chicks, ducklings or other fowl which have been artificially dyed or colored. All complaints regarding violations of this law will be investigated by League humane officers, who will also pick up unwanted or abandoned fowl or animals if called at NO 7-0088. (A15

Foundation Gives Funds For Center

Northern Illinois University's journalism department has been awarded $3,000 by the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc., to support first-year activities of NIU's recently-established Suburban Press Project.

Dr. Granville Price, NIU professor of journalism and acting project director, said the grant would provide for office services and maintain an editorial critique and evaluation service.

Reserach and services offered by the project are open to all suburban newspapers and related interests, regardless of Suburban Press Foundation affiliation. The NIU project was established with the cooperation of the Foundation, a national non-profit organization with headquarters in Chicago.

PRICE SAID the first research report in the project's Suburban Research series was issued recently and is available trial coverage in suburban newspapers.

The study was conducted by Dr. Price, editorial consultant for the project, and is based on December, 1965, and January, 1966 issues of 46 weekly and semiweekly papers in 16 states and one in Canada. (A15

Foundation Gives Funds For Center

Northern Illinois University's journalism department has been awarded $3,000 by the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc., to support first-year activities of NIU's recently-established Suburban Press Project.

Dr. Granville Price, NIU professor of journalism and acting project director, said the grant would provide for office services and maintain an editorial critique and evaluation service.

Reserach and services offered by the project are open to all suburban newspapers and related interests, regardless of Suburban Press Foundation affiliation. The NIU project was established with the cooperation of the Foundation, a national non-profit organization with headquarters in Chicago.

PRICE SAID the first research report in the project's Suburban Research series was issued recently and is available trial coverage in suburban newspapers.

The study was conducted by Dr. Price, editorial consultant for the project, and is based on December, 1965, and January, 1966 issues of 46 weekly and semiweekly papers in 16 states and one in Canada. (A15

YOUR TAX BILL

BY P. J. CULLERTON
COOK COUNTY ASSESSOR

In the next few weeks real estate tax bills will be going out to the owners of every piece of property in Cook county—some 1,200,000 parcels in all.

Whether you are a new owner of property and receiving a tax bill for the first time, or whether you have owned property for years and are accustomed—perhaps we should say resigned—to the yearly obligation, certain questions are likely to arise in your mind about the bill. If you have never owned property before, maybe you haven't bothered to familiarize yourself with the property tax procedure, or if you have perhaps you have never quite figured it out to your satisfaction.

It is my aim in this article and three that will follow to explain what the property tax is, how it is levied, who collects it, how appeals may be made and, perhaps most important of all to the individual ttaxpayer, how it is determined how much tax he must pay upon his individual house or lot.

FIRST, LET me make it clear that the assessor does not levy the tax. His sole function is to place a valuation on the property for tax purposes, and thereby to make sure that the burden of the cost of local government falls fairly and equitably on each parcel of property in the county in proportion to its percentage of the total value.

The assessor might more accurately be called an appraiser. His main goal is to assess every piece of property at the same level. It is a widely held misconception that when the assessor changes the level of assessments, taxes are automatically changed. The amount of tax is determined by the need of taxpayers for services, as reflected in the appropriations of the tax-spending bodies.

The property tax is a local tax, collected in Cook county from the owners of property located in the county. The revenue stays here and is returned to the citizens in the form of schools, police and fire protection, parks, forest preserve areas, medical care, and the whole host of services that citizens in a highly complex community such as this demand from government.

IN THIS respect it differs from taxes imposed by the state of Illinois (sales tax, inheritance tax, etc.) and the federal government (income tax, excise taxes of vairous kinds, etc.). The point, however, is that the property tax is locally administered, locally collected, and, above all, locally spent.

A real estate property taxpayer's first question may concern the figures on the bill he receives in the mail. What do they mean? Though today's bills are much simpler and easier to understand than those of a few years ago which included lengthy and complicated legal descriptions of the property, the vast accounting system needed to keep accurate records on each parcel of property still requires a myriad of figures.

Appearing with today's article is a copy of part of a 1964 tax bill for a parcel of property located in Chicago.

FIRST, YOU will note that the bill comes in two parts, labeled first installment and second installment. Normally, the first installment is due May 1 and the second installment not until Sept. 1.

The first number under "Town" is 7201. This indicates that this piece of property is located within the combination of tax districts which is numerically identified by this code.

The next 10 digits under "Permanent Real Estate Index Number" indicate the area (roughly a six mile square, commonly referred to as a township) sub area (a square mile commonly referred to as a "section"); block and parcel. This particular piece of property is parcel 001 in block 328 which is located in sub area 17 of area 20.

ANOTHER WAY to describe the location of this property is that it lies in the block and township which is a township within the corporate boundaries of Chicago, between 5500 and 6300 south, and between Halsted and Ashland. We determine this from the first four digits. To identify the parcel more particularly would require access to detailed block maps which are readily available at the offices of the clerk and assessor.

The next three lines of name and address on the tax bill are the result of an instruction given to the County treasurer by the taxpayer herself. The name and address appearing on any tax bill have no legal significance. The name is not necessarily that of the owner nor does the address necessarily describe the location of the property taxed. The County treasurer's office merely attempts to accommodate taxpayers by mailing tax bills to names and addresses they request.

There is no obligation imposed on the treasurer, however, to see that the taxpayer receives his bill. The obligation is upon the taxpayer himself. A space is provided on a portion of the bill, not shown here, where the taxpayer may inform the treasurer of a name and address change.

THE NEXT two numbers appearing on the tax bill are volume 391, item 24. These two numbers identify the property under the system in use prior to 1959, prior to the use of the permanent real estate index number. It is merely a numeric code for the legal description. It has no natural relation to the legal description, however, so a cross-index is required if identification is desired. Such is not the case with the permanent real estate index number which, in itself, is a legal description. Insofar as the assessor's office is concerned, it is superfluous.

However, for a few more yea years other county offices feel they need the "tie-in" to the older records which the volume-item provides. Eventually, it probably will be omitted from the tax bill.

THE NEXT number appearing on the bill is the assessed valuation of 5669. This is the valuation of the property determined by the assessor. The next number is the assessed valuation times the equalization factor of 1.42, or $8050, all of which will be discussed in detail in future articles.

The final numbers on the bill are the amounts due under the "First Installment" and the "Second Installment" — $216.31 each. These amounts combined $216.31+$216.31=$432.62 for the year) are the product of multiplying the assessed valuation of 5669 by the state equalization factor of 1.42 and then by the tax rate for 1964 of 5.374.

Ideas Win Cash

Three suggestions saving the government more than $5,500 annually have won cash awards totaling $295 for Jack Van Wagner, 116 Poplar Drive, Justice, Ill., of the missile master support detachment in Arlington Heights. The awards were presented to Wagner by Col. Benjamin C. Chapla, post commander, at ceremonies at Fort Sheridan.

Wagner won $110 for suggesting use of copper print to repair encoder relay cards. A second suggestion to use silver print to repair printed circuits of missile equipment gained him $165. He rounded out the triple award by presenting an idea to use a preheater to increase the reliability of missile master equipment. This idea won Wagner $20. (B10

Panel Says Leadership Needed for Downtown Renewal

There were few, if any, sacred cows when the Arlington Heights Lions Club met to discuss downtown redevelopment Tuesday night. The Lions Club program included a five-man panel representing various interests.

Criticism, ranging in severity, was leveled at downtown property owners, businessmen, planners, the newspaper, financial institutions and the village.

Consensus of the panel and of some prominent members of the audience appeared to be that strong leadership was necessary, particularly from the business community, in spurring downtown revitalization.

Panel members included moderator Joseph Schneller, a downtown businessman; E. C. Alft, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce; Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg village president, who was formerly active in the local chamber; H. C. Best, village director of building and zoning, and Dan Baumann, Herald news editor.

"WE (BUSINESSMEN) can't wait for depression of the railroad and implementation of the downtown plan," Schneller said.

He said his business, by heavy advertising and promotion programs, has increased its volume 300 per cent since moving to downtown Arlington Heights a year ago. And, he added, many customers come from far beyond the borders of Arlington Heights. He suggested merchants become more promotion and advertising conscious.

Noting other communities also are trying to develop shopping areas, Schneller said there is a competition among communities for facilities. He said the Tec Search firm, which developed Arlington's proposed downtown plan, is doing similar work for Des Plaines.

And he added a representative of the firm approached him asking whether he would open a store in Des Plaines. "I let him know I had no intention of leaving Arlington Heights."

SCHNELLER called for a block-by-block development of large parcels.

"We here in northwest Cook County are living on the hottest piece of real estate in the United States," said Atcher. Citing his optimism for the growth of the whole area, Atcher suggested Arlington Heights could become an "administrative nerve center" for new plants in the area seeking a "prestige office address."

Alft said in his three years with the chamber "I've seen growth, but along with it has been a very apathetic mind." He praised the village for its leadership in planning renewal, but added, "we need businessman's leadership. We have to forget our apathetic thinking. We're static."

Best said the community received $37,000 in local sales taxes last month and termed the figure impressive. "We used to get excited," he said, when a store closed. "We don't get excited about it any more. We find it's replaced by a better store."

BEST CITED a string of private investments in downtown which have occurred in the past five years.

Baumann said he felt a downtown report must be adopted soon as the basis of downtown renewal and was critical of the pace of considering the plan. Under questioning from Victor Beisler, a member of the plan commission, he said the initial downtown plan was presented to the village last summer and the village did not receive technical data needed to begin consideration of the plan until reports were submitted in December and February.

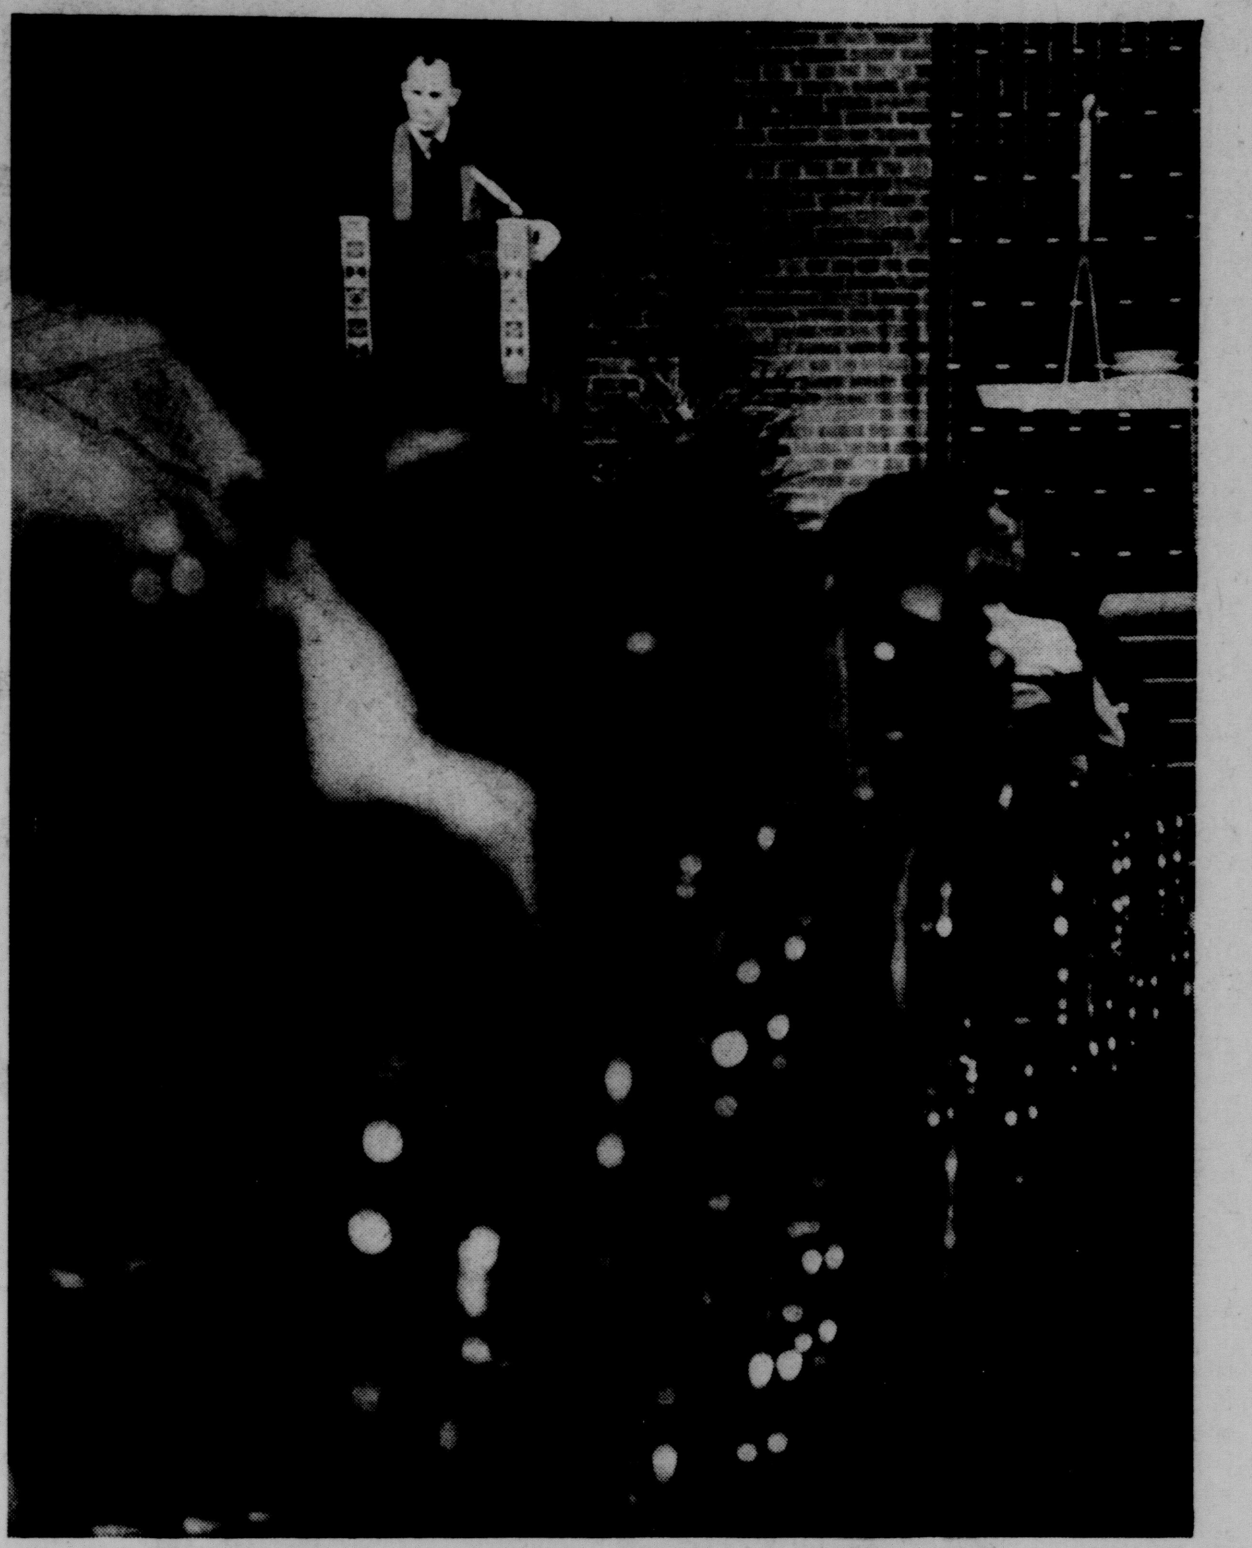
Paul Collins, president of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association, responding to a remark from the panel that financing was not available on developing commercial property, said no one had approached his firm. "There's money available. Let's stop kidding ourselves."

Nicholas Lattof, a downtown property owner, laid much of the blame for the slow pace of renewal at the feet of some land owners who will not sell. "Some old buildings cannot be bought."

HE SAID an attempt was made to get businessmen together "long before Dunton Court or Randhurst." They wouldn't get together, he added.

Stating Northwest Community Hospital could not have been built without the support of Paddock Publications, he said the paper should more actively support the renewal of downtown. He added, "The businessmen have to wake up and work together."

Citing the chamber of commerce as the focal point of business in any community, Alft suggested the Lions and other service clubs get together and work through the chamber to support redevelopment. (A



PROJECT RENEWAL at the Arlington Heights First Methodist Church Saturday attracted more than 120 disabled persons from throughout the metropolitan area. END OF THE PRAIRIE HOTEL: The pre-Civil War structure at 105 N. Evergreen Avenue (foreground) became a pile of rubble last Thursday. The building right next to it at 109 N. Evergreen was torn down on Friday. It had been a meeting place for the Odd Fellows during the 1890's. Both buildings had been considered eyesores and were removed by the Arlington Theater which will use the space for parking.

Razing of Eyesores Forward Step in Downtown Progress

By GENE NOJEK
Staff Writer

The removal of two old frame buildings south of the Arlington Theater last week marks another step in downtown redevelopment.

The two eyesores, located at 105 and 109 N. Evergreen Ave., were removed by the Arlington Theater. They are the fifth and sixth such buildings that the theater management has had removed in the immediate area during the past few years.

According to theater manager Don Knapp, the property was acquired by the Arlington Theater on a lease arrangement and will be temporarily used for theater parking.

BUT WHILE anachronistic eyesores, the two structures held a store of memories for Arlington Heights old-timers.

The larger of the two, the one at 105 N. Evergreen, has a history which goes back over 100 years to pre-Civil War days. It formerly stood at the site now occupied by Loretta's Restaurant at the corner of Northwest Highway and Evergreen Street and was once known as the "Prairie Hotel."

The building torn down at 109 N. Evergreen was the younger of the two and has seen usage as an Odd Fellows hall, barber shop, taxi headquarters and laundry shop, among other things.

According to records of the Arlington Heights Historical Society, the story begins in 1845 when William Dunton, founder of Arlington Heights, obtained the land for the village. The three lots at 101, 105 and 109 N. Evergreen were part of that land and their titles are signed by a U. S. Land Commissioner, William Foster.

Dunton laid out the streets of the town in 1854 and named it "Dunton" after himself. At the same time, he gave the name Prairie Street to what is now Evergreen Street.

THE PRAIRIE Hotel building —more recently known as 105 N. Evergreen—was built sometime after 1854 at the corner of Northwest Highway and Prairie (Evergreen) Street. The first record of it is 1860 when one Ira Woodruff opened the hotel.

From then, the Prairie Hotel was operated by a number of people until 1882 when it passed into the hands of August Kelling.

Kelling was a stone mason and an immigrant from Hamburg Germany, who came to the U.S. at the age of 16.

In 1894, Kelling moved the Prairie Hotel from the corner lot and converted it to a two-flat residence which it remained until last week. He lived there with his family while he and a carpenter, Henry Garmse, built the brick tavern building at 101 N. Evergreen which is presently known as Loretta's Restaurant.

Nobody, including Mrs. Milton Daniels, curator of the Historical Society, apparently knows the exact origin of the Prairie Hotel's partner in demolition, the building at 109 N. Evergreen.

FIRST RECORDED usage of it was in 1889 when the upper floor was dedicated by the International Order of Odd Fellows for a meeting hall.

The Odd Fellows met there until 1897 when they moved to the second floor of August Kelling's new brick building. After that, the upper floor of 109 N. Evergreen was divided into two apartments.

The first floor of 109 N. Evergreen was always used for various small businesses like barbershops and delicatessins.

Arlington Heights' most famous barber, Frank White, proprietor of the legendary "Star Chamber," performed his tonsorial arts there for some time. Another barber who used it was Henry Miller.

Beginning with 1930, the first floor served as a taxi company office. From 1941 to 1952, it doubled as a taxi office and Rudy Stein's candy shop and news agency.

Wing's Laundry occupied the building in 1956, and it became vacant last year when the laundry moved to its present location at Vail Avenue and Campbell Street. (A

Parkway Request Sent to Planners

A request that Mors Parkway, a short frontage road north of Northwest Highway and west of Arlington Heights Road, be vacated has been referred to the plan commission by the Arlington Heights Village Board.

The request came from the Socony-Mobil Co., which holds an option on land abutting the parkway. The village recently rejected another request for vacation of a remnant of the old street on the grounds that plans for downtown development are not solidified and the vacation could affect them. (A

College Board to Get Building Cost Figure

Campus building costs and a figure for the June referendum may be presented to the District 301 junior college board next Thursday (April 14).

Junior college president Dr. Robert P. Lahti reported he met Monday and Tuesday with architects from Caudill, Rowlett & Scott and Fridstein & Fitch to study educational consultant reports from Arthur D. Little Inc. They were to meet Wednesday with an Arthur D. Little representative to work out estimated costs for over-all and first phase construction.

THE ESTIMATE for over-all construction will be used in determining the amount of funds to be sought from voters in the June referendum. The referendum figure will also be based on land acquisition, improvement and equipment costs.

Lahti explained that 25 per cent of the total cost must be guaranteed by a bond referendum before the district can apply to the state for the remaining 75 per cent.

Construction costs currently are being based on a projected full-time equivalent enrollment of 7,000 students by 1980, but Lahti cautioned that this estimate could be revised after final consultant reports are submitted Wednesday.

MEANWHILE, price negotiations continued between the district and the owner of the second half of the land designated as a campus site. Lahti reported that appraisers were evaluating the 90-acre tract owned by George Jayne.

No agreement apparently was reached with Jayne last week in negotiations that followed price settlement between the district and owners of 80 acres of the site.

The settlement gave the district an option to buy the land for $5,000 an acre. The site, known as the Tri-Color farm, is at Roselle and Algonquin Roads.

Panel Says Leadership Needed for Downtown Renewal

There were few, if any, sacred cows when the Arlington Heights Lions Club met to discuss downtown redevelopment Tuesday night. The Lions Club program included a five-man panel representing various interests.

Criticism, ranging in severity, was leveled at downtown property owners, businessmen, planners, the newspaper, financial institutions and the village.

Consensus of the panel and of some prominent members of the audience appeared to be that strong leadership was necessary, particularly from the business community, in spurring downtown revitalization.

Panel members included moderator Joseph Schneller, a downtown businessman; E. C. Alft, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce; Robert O. Atcher, Schaumburg village president, who was formerly active in the local chamber; H. C. Best, village director of building and zoning, and Dan Baumann, Herald news editor.

"WE (BUSINESSMEN) can't wait for depression of the railroad and implementation of the downtown plan," Schneller said.

He said his business, by heavy advertising and promotion programs, has increased its volume 300 per cent since moving to downtown Arlington Heights a year ago. And, he added, many customers come from far beyond the borders of Arlington Heights. He suggested merchants become more promotion and advertising conscious.

Noting other communities also are trying to develop shopping areas, Schneller said there is a competition among communities for facilities. He said the Tec Search firm, which developed Arlington's proposed downtown plan, is doing similar work for Des Plaines.

And he added a representative of the firm approached him asking whether he would open a store in Des Plaines. "I let him know I had no intention of leaving Arlington Heights."

SCHNELLER called for a block-by-block development of large parcels.

"We here in northwest Cook County are living on the hottest piece of real estate in the United States," said Atcher. Citing his optimism for the growth of the whole area, Atcher suggested Arlington Heights could become an "administrative nerve center" for new plants in the area seeking a "prestige office address."

Alft said in his three years with the chamber "I've seen growth, but along with it has been a very apathetic mind." He praised the village for its leadership in planning renewal, but added, "we need businessman's leadership. We have to forget our apathetic thinking. We're static."

Best said the community received $37,000 in local sales taxes last month and termed the figure impressive. "We used to get excited," he said, when a store closed. "We don't get excited about it any more. We find it's replaced by a better store."

BEST CITED a string of private investments in downtown which have occurred in the past five years.

Baumann said he felt a downtown report must be adopted soon as the basis of downtown renewal and was critical of the pace of considering the plan. Under questioning from Victor Beisler, a member of the plan commission, he said the initial downtown plan was presented to the village last summer and the village did not receive technical data needed to begin consideration of the plan until reports were submitted in December and February.

Paul Collins, president of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association, responding to a remark from the panel that financing was not available on developing commercial property, said no one had approached his firm. "There's money available. Let's stop kidding ourselves."

Nicholas Lattof, a downtown property owner, laid much of the blame for the slow pace of renewal at the feet of some land owners who will not sell. "Some old buildings cannot be bought."

HE SAID an attempt was made to get businessmen together "long before Dunton Court or Randhurst." They wouldn't get together, he added.

Stating Northwest Community Hospital could not have been built without the support of Paddock Publications, he said the paper should more actively support the renewal of downtown. He added, "The businessmen have to wake up and work together."

Citing the chamber of commerce as the focal point of business in any community, Alft suggested the Lions and other service clubs get together and work through the chamber to support redevelopment. (A

END OF THE PRAIRIE HOTEL: The pre-Civil War structure at 105 N. Evergreen Avenue (foreground) became a pile of rubble last Thursday. The building right next to it at 109 N. Evergreen was torn down on Friday. It had been a meeting place for the Odd Fellows during the 1890's. Both buildings had been considered eyesores and were removed by the Arlington Theater which will use the space for parking.

Razing of Eyesores Forward Step in Downtown Progress

By GENE NOJEK
Staff Writer

The removal of two old frame buildings south of the Arlington Theater last week marks another step in downtown redevelopment.

The two eyesores, located at 105 and 109 N. Evergreen Ave., were removed by the Arlington Theater. They are the fifth and sixth such buildings that the theater management has had removed in the immediate area during the past few years.

According to theater manager Don Knapp, the property was acquired by the Arlington Theater on a lease arrangement and will be temporarily used for theater parking.

BUT WHILE anachronistic eyesores, the two structures held a store of memories for Arlington Heights old-timers.

4-H Names Best Vegetable Judges

Forty-nine suburban Cook County 4-H members participated in 4-H vegetable judging held recently at the Cook County Truck Gardeners Building, Arlington Heights.

Beverly Levan, Roselle was the top judge with a score of 12. Theresa Burns, Wheeling, placed second with a score of 37.

Merlyn Heyen, Associate Farm Adviser, stated that in vegetable judging a points off system is used in scoring and thus the lower scores indicate the best contestants. The contest included the identification of vegetable and flower varieties and seeds, nutrient deficiencies, weeds, diseases, insects, potato grading and judging of plates of vegetables.

OTHER 4-H members who scored in the top 25 and their scores are as follows:

Gail Huenerberg, Elgin, 63; Roy Zuehlhe, Streamwood, 99; Mary Reynolds, Evanston, 101; Peggy Reynolds, Evanston, 108; Fritzi Broadwater, Palatine, 130; Jill Reynolds, Prospect Heights, 136; Tom Frey, Palatine, 150; Heidi Broadwater, Palatine, 158; Wendy Broadwaer, Palatine, 159; Jeff Trochuck, Mount Prospect, 160; Richard Reese, Roselle, 161; Eileen Levan, Roselle, 161; Hugh Frey, Palatine, 164; Christ John, Palatine, 165; Mike Trochuck, Mount Prospect, 165; Keith Heyen, Mount Prospect, 170; Kay Weber, Arlington Heights, 173; John Ireland, Mount Prospect, 174; Mary Wollney, Barrington, 177; Chuck Huff, Palatine, 180; Oriela Sanders, Palatine, 182; Lynn Wiese, Roselle, 182; Keith Freund, Palatine, 184.

The top judges enrolled in horticultural projects who are 14 years of age will be invited to participate in an area contest scheduled for June 13 at the DuPage County Fairgrounds. From this group will be selected the 4-H members to represent Suburban Cook County in the State Vegetable Judging Contest scheduled to be held at the University of Illinois in late June.

April 12 Deadline

Applications for the first Helene Bristol Memorial Scholarships are now being accepted, reports Larry S. Jenness, chairman of the program's executive board.

The scholarship program was established earlier this year as a memorial to the late Helene Bristol, education editor of Paddock Publications suburban newspapers.

Application blanks are available from all college counselors in District 214 and 211 high schools. They must be returned to the counseling offices no later than April 12.

A MINIMUM of $200 will be granted each recipient.

"All other things being equal," explained Jenness, "preference will be given to students who demonstrate financial need in combination with an interest in teaching, special education, or journalism. We expect to make our first awards later this spring."

Scholarship recipients will be selected by the executive board. In addition to Jenness, who is principal of Forest View High School, board membership includes: Don Morton, executive vice president, Arlington Heights Federal Savings & Loan Association; Charles E. Hayes, executive editor, Paddock Publications; Don Thomas, principal of Elk Grove High School; Don Holtzee, president, Northwest Suburban Division, Illinois Education Association, Ray Mills, director of guidance, Palatine High School; Jack Martin, assistant to High School District 214 superintendent; and Leotta Hampton, college counselor, Arlington High School.

Popular as Home Color

There are fashions in home exterior colors as well as in a woman's wardrobe.

Ten years ago white was the dominant color on the outside of homes, but today the demand for colors, particularly pastels, is rapidly increasing according to Harry J. Nassan, board chairman of U.S. Aluminum Corp. Nassan singled out colony olive green, a new shade, as fast becoming the second most sought-after color in aluminum sided homes.

He cited the results of a recent nationwide homeowner survey conducted by Creative Research Associates which indicated the growing popularity of olive green, sandalwood, and light and dark grays in home remodeling and new residential construction.

FOR THE traditional home, white siding can often be used effectively with contrasting green and black shutters and accessories," Nassan pointed out.

"This distinctive combination makes the small home appear larger. Some homeowners are turning to softer hues of gray and green as well as beige for a subdued, conservative look," he said.

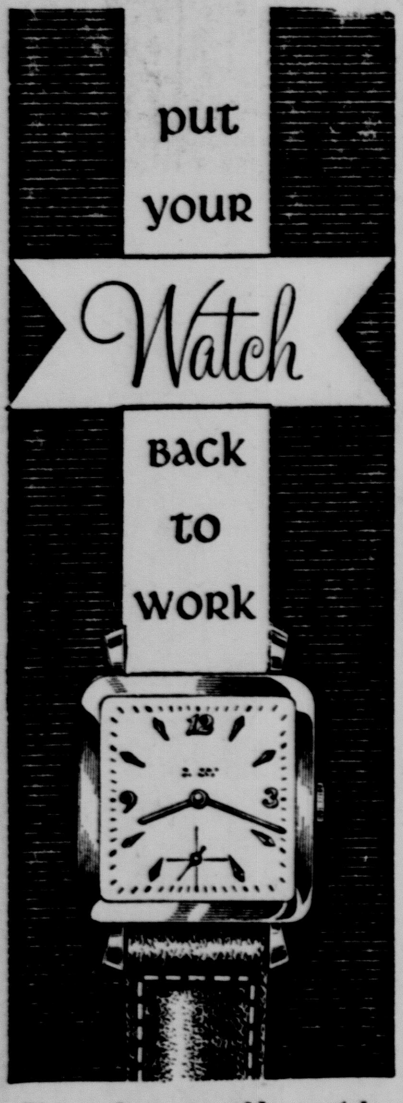
Aluminum siding comes in a wide variety of pastels and deeper colors.

The survey also indicated that homeowners prefer low maintenance above all other features in planning their home exteriors, followed closely by durability and beauty. This preference for extended home life span was based on the large number of houses that now have chipped, blistered and peeling paint.

ABOUT 450,000 homeowners covered their homes with alumimum siding during 1965 and 355,000 of their residences were remodeled homes. The trend to aluminum siding is expected to continue in 1966 when it is anticipated that over 500,000 homes will be sided with factory finished aluminum.

Nassan explained that modern coatings technology has spurred the swing to aluminum.

"Costly repainting is practically eliminated by the use of improved vinyl plastic and acrylic enamel coatings. These long lasting finishes resist severe weathering, harmful crayon and chalk markings, household sprays and garden insecticides," he said.



If you have an older watch that you're not wearing because it needs a repair, you'd be surprised how simple and reasonable it is to put it back in good running condition. Why not let us have a look at it. There's no obligation.

Popular as Home Color

There are fashions in home exterior colors as well as in a woman's wardrobe.

Ten years ago white was the dominant color on the outside of homes, but today the demand for colors, particularly pastels, is rapidly increasing according to Harry J. Nassan, board chairman of U.S. Aluminum Corp. Nassan singled out colony olive green, a new shade, as fast becoming the second most sought-after color in aluminum sided homes.

He cited the results of a recent nationwide homeowner survey conducted by Creative Research Associates which indicated the growing popularity of olive green, sandalwood, and light and dark grays in home remodeling and new residential construction.

FOR THE traditional home, white siding can often be used effectively with contrasting green and black shutters and accessories," Nassan pointed out.

"This distinctive combination makes the small home appear larger. Some homeowners are turning to softer hues of gray and green as well as beige for a subdued, conservative look," he said.

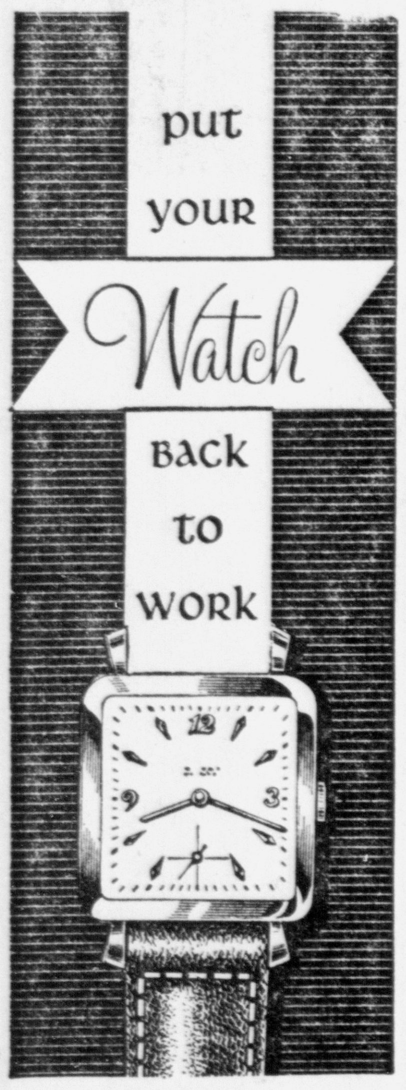
Aluminum siding comes in a wide variety of pastels and deeper colors.

The survey also indicated that homeowners prefer low maintenance above all other features in planning their home exteriors, followed closely by durability and beauty. This preference for extended home life span was based on the large number of houses that now have chipped, blistered and peeling paint.

ABOUT 450,000 homeowners covered their homes with alumimum siding during 1965 and 355,000 of their residences were remodeled homes. The trend to aluminum siding is expected to continue in 1966 when it is anticipated that over 500,000 homes will be sided with factory finished aluminum.

Nassan explained that modern coatings technology has spurred the swing to aluminum.

"Costly repainting is practically eliminated by the use of improved vinyl plastic and acrylic enamel coatings. These long lasting finishes resist severe weathering, harmful crayon and chalk markings, household sprays and garden insecticides," he said.



If you have an older watch that you're not wearing because it needs a repair, you'd be surprised how simple and reasonable it is to put it back in good running condition. Why not let us have a look at it. There's no obligation.

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

BUCKS AND DOES

Members of the Elk Grove club have been calling, dancing, thieving, but not retrieving lately, and having a gay old time for themselves in the happy process. Member-callers Walt Byington and Bill Davis performed for his fellow Bucks and Does, Walt in his capacity as caller for the Jacks and Jills of Carpentersville, and Bill with his Club 27 in Northlake.

Visiting the Jacks and Jills, and enjoying the calls of Walt, the Bucks and Does showed their gratitude for a fine evening by filching the host club's banner. In Northlake with Bill and his club, the B & Ds minded their manners and limited their activities to following Bill's calls. There wasn't any banner to snitch, anyway.

On the losing end of the game, Bucks and Does waved byebye to their own pennant when a contingent from the Arlington Squares recently paid a visit. Plans are afoot, however, for a retrieving raid soon.

Jerry Whitebread was at the mike for Bucks and Does' last dance and delighted a bumper crowd — 24 squares — with his fine performance. The club's hoping for an equal number of dancers Saturday night when caller Lenny Roos will be featured. Square-'em-up time is 8 o'clock, the place is Dempster Junior High School, and guests are always welcome. There'll be round dancing, too, led by Carl and Marie Peterson. Dempster School is located on Dempster Street, just west of Route 83 in Elk Grove Township.

Club members are reminded that a general meeting and election of officers is scheduled for next Tuesday, April 12, at 8 o'clock in the VFW Hall, Arlington Heights. There will be refreshments and LOTS of dancing in addition to the business portion of the meeting.

Everyone's invited to pop in on the Bucks and Does Tuesday nights when Paul "Foggy" Thompson instructs a workshop. The club reports "wonderful crowds and we're going great guns." Information about the workshop or any club activity is available via Danny Hagen, 824-3870.

PLAIDS AND CALICOS

Club members are readying the welcome mat (recently retrieved) for Saturday night's Easter dance and an open invitation is extended to all area dancers. Also recently retrieved and being hung in time for the dance is the club pennant which was temporarily in the custody of the Ribbons and Beaus of Elmhurst. The welcome mat was filched by the A-C Square Wheels in Deerfield, who called on the Plaids and Calicos with banner banditry in mind a few weeks ago, and took the mat when they discovered that the Ribbons and Beaus had been there first.

Bob Kim will get things swinging at 8:30 Saturday night in Schaumburg Elementary School. Club members are reminded that it's also election night and officers for the coming season will be chosen.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

When Arlington Squares talk about door prizes they are quite literal about it — they awarded a door to a guest couple at their last dance! Winners were Pairs club and they plan to give it away to different clubs to see how many signatures they can get on it. There's door prizes and then again there's door-prizes. This one was donated by the Fred Martins who apparently had one more door than doorway in their home.

Arlington Squares, besides giving away odd things, had serious moments too and elected new officers for the coming season. Chairmen for the 1966-67 season are Lyle and Mary Lou Busse, treasurers are John and Helen Mengel, secretaries are Ray and Rose Neal. Program chairmen are Al and Bev Santeler and John and Nancy Damico; handling refreshments will be Don and Lorrayne Tyler and Roger and Cora Gallager, and in charge of publicity will be Leo and Bobby Larson. Callers signed up for the season are Lenny Roos and Jim Smith, who have done such a fine job for the past year.

Club members and regular drop-ins are reminded that there'll be no dance tomorrow night because it is Good Friday; next regularly scheduled get-together is April 22 at St. Simon's Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights. Unless retrievers from Broadview turn up in the meantime there'll be a Dudes and Dolls banner gracing the walls, which was snitched last week — the banner, not the walls. Doors may come and doors may go, but so far at least, the walls stay put. (A15

Club members are readying the welcome mat (recently retrieved) for Saturday night's Easter dance and an open invitation is extended to all area dancers. Also recently retrieved and being hung in time for the dance is the club pennant which was temporarily in the custody of the Ribbons and Beaus of Elmhurst. The welcome mat was filched by the A-C Square Wheels in Deerfield, who called on the Plaids and Calicos with banner banditry in mind a few weeks ago, and took the mat when they discovered that the Ribbons and Beaus had been there first.

Bob Kim will get things swinging at 8:30 Saturday night in Schaumburg Elementary School. Club members are reminded that it's also election night and officers for the coming season will be chosen.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

When Arlington Squares talk about door prizes they are quite literal about it — they awarded a door to a guest couple at their last dance! Winners were Pairs club and they plan to give it away to different clubs to see how many signatures they can get on it. There's door prizes and then again there's door-prizes. This one was donated by the Fred Martins who apparently had one more door than doorway in their home.

Arlington Squares, besides giving away odd things, had serious moments too and elected new officers for the coming season. Chairmen for the 1966-67 season are Lyle and Mary Lou Busse, treasurers are John and Helen Mengel, secretaries are Ray and Rose Neal. Program chairmen are Al and Bev Santeler and John and Nancy Damico; handling refreshments will be Don and Lorrayne Tyler and Roger and Cora Gallager, and in charge of publicity will be Leo and Bobby Larson. Callers signed up for the season are Lenny Roos and Jim Smith, who have done such a fine job for the past year.

Club members and regular drop-ins are reminded that there'll be no dance tomorrow night because it is Good Friday; next regularly scheduled get-together is April 22 at St. Simon's Episcopal Church, Arlington Heights. Unless retrievers from Broadview turn up in the meantime there'll be a Dudes and Dolls banner gracing the walls, which was snitched last week — the banner, not the walls. Doors may come and doors may go, but so far at least, the walls stay put. (A15

Ancient Depots—When Will They Go?

Some of the ancient railway commuter stations in the northwest suburbs may be replaced in the next few years.

Railroad officials say it costs too much to keep remodeling the facilities.

The Chicago and North Western says the Arlington Heights station, built before the turn of the century, will probably be one of the first stations in the northwest area to be replaced.

Frank Cole, of the railroad's public relations department, said the Arlington Heights station had been remodeled several times. "It's one of the top 10 as far as passenger traffic," he said, "and will be replaced rather than remodeled again."

COLE SAID THE railroad's over-all program calls for eventual replacement of all "older" stations in order of condition combined with amount of traffic.

He pointed to the recent announcement by the North Western that a new $100,000 facility would be erected in Glen Ellyn. The colonial designed station will be similar to those recently built in Elmhurst and Villa Park, Cole said.

In Arlington Heights a redevelopment plan for the downtown area has been proposed and a study completed. The study recommends that the North Western tracks be depressed through the downtown area and a new combined railway-bus depot be built above.

Cost of just lowering the tracks is estimated at between $16 and $22 million. In preliminary meetings with railroad officials village officials have been optimistic about the completion of the project.

THE PALATINE commuter station was erected in 1948. It is one of the newest in the area. Although it might be remodeled it is unlikely that it would be replaced in the near future, railroad officials say.

The facility in Mount Prospect is about 25 years old and recently underwent extensive remodeling.

DuPage County commuter stations on the Milwaukee Road are somewhat older.

At Roselle, the depot serves not only that village but Bloomingdale, Keeneyville, Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. The structure was erected 93 years ago.

The station has undergone remodeling during that time but the outshell of the facility has remained the same. Last year village officials talked the railroad into painting the building.

THERE HAVE been negotiations between Roselle officials and the Milwaukee Road about relocating the depot east of the village on Irving Park Road. Last fall officials seemed optimistic about the prospects of moving the ancient depot.

No official word has been mentioned by railroad officials, however. A new facility might be built if the move is made.

Bensenville's somewhat bigger depot was built in 1893, and remodeled in 1945, just at the end of World War II. Marc Green, director of publicity for the Milwaukee Road, said an origiginal station was constructed in 1872, but was destroyed by fire and replaced by the building which still stands on the spot.

Medinah's station is the newest, erected about two years ago.

Itasca's commuter station also boasts a 93-year history, being erected in 1873. Wood Dale's facility is somewhat newer, built in 1883.

Green said all stations have undergone improvements and modernization, including installation of automatic oil heaters.

OFFICIALS OF both railroads admitted that some of the stations were "not the best." But they added that the railroads had expended initial investments in improving the service and now would improve the individual stations.

North Western has between 50 and 60 stations in the metropolitan Chicago area and Cole maintained that it would take a few years to replace all of them.

"We've modernized the trains themselves, now we'll start on the stations," he said.

A spokesman for the Milwaukee Road said the railroad's 1966 budget doesn't allow for any new construction of commuter stations.

SOME COMMUTERS, mostly women, interviewed believed the stations ought to be beautified and enlarged.

But some men who worked in the Loop and commute to Chicago daily felt that the stations were not used enough to rate expensive facilities.

An Arlington Heights advertising executive, Lester H. Ploetz, said "I never have an occasion to use the station except for a few minutes." He added that the condition of the station had not been disturbing to him.

"They keep it warm," he added.

He said he thought "architecturally its not bad."

A ROSELLE WOMAN, Mrs. Ramona Bidault, employed at the Phoenix Insurance Co. in Chicago, says the depot there is too small. "There just isn't any room in the depot so I just stand outside. She added that no seats are provided in the small station.

In the winter "We're packed in there (the depot) like sardines," Mrs. Bidault added.

Mrs. Bidault, who has commuted to the Loop since the late 30s, says the service is excellent, however.

Ken Freeto, also of Roselle, echoed Mrs. Bidault's remarks about the inside of the station. He pointed to the new paint job and stated that was an improvement.

THIS 93-YEAR-OLD railroad station in Roselle has served the people of northwest DuPage County and southwest Cook County nearly 100 years. During the time the area has grown from small farming towns to booming suburban communities. The structure, although painted in 1965, looks about the same as it did when it was erected.

Behind the Bylines

Sports Editor Has Achieved His Grade School Ambition

BOB FRISK, SPORTS EDITOR
(First in a Series)

When Bob Frisk was a seventh-grader, he said in the yearbook of South Grade School (now South Junior High in Arlington Heights) he wanted to be a sportswriter some day.

Unlike most seventh-grade goals, though, Frisk attained his and then went on to better it by becoming sports editor of Paddock Publications, Inc., at the age of 22.

Now 29, Frisk literally grew up with sports in the northwest suburbs to direct a section that won recognition as best in its class in 1964 from the Illinois Press Assn.

His father, Donald, a buyer for Leath Furniture Co., moved to Arlington Heights in 1945 and Frisk recalls that "it was a big thing for me in grade school to follow sports at Arlington High."

AFTER FRISK entered Arlington High, he found his seventh-grade goal began to take shape when he began working with the Paddock chain in 1952 by covering the summer baseball leagues.

He was sports editor of the school's newspaper in both his junior and senior years and also sports editor of the yearbook in 1954.

Frisk somehow found time to also letter two seasons in track as a dash man at Arlington High and to earn academic honors as a member of the Quill and Scroll and the National Honor Society.

While at the University of Illinois, Frisk was a sportswriter for both the campus newspaper, the Daily Illini, and for the Champaign-Urbana Courier.

A MEMBER of the Sigma Pi Fraternity, a national social fraternity, he edited the group's newsletter and contributed articles to the national fraternity magazine, for which he won three awards.

To this day, Frisk says one of the more satisfying things he has done in sportswriting was a series he wrote on Arlington Park race track in 1955.

Then a sophomore at the university, Frisk went to the race track every Friday to gather material for the six-week series.

Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of the chain, meanwhile, was then editing the sports section and hoping that Frisk would accept the sports editor job after graduation.

"I always hoped he would want to stay in his home town with us when he got out of school," Paddock recalled. "Our expansion plans were forcing me out of the sports department, and I saw in Frisk the man we needed to take over the job."

FRISK DID accept after graduation in 1958, but then joined the Air Force Reserves a few months later to go on active duty for six months. (He was discharged from the Reserves in 1964.)

When the new sports editor returned to his desk, there were only three high schools in the area, including Arlington, Palatine and Fenton of Bensenville.

"The main thing we've had to do since then is keep pace with the way the area's been growing," Frisk says. "We've added about 11 schools in just eight years — and the end isn't in sight yet."

In addition to the 1964 Illinois Press Assn. award, the highly-rated sports section of the chain received a national award in 1961 for its thorough coverage of high school wrestling from the Amateur Wrestling Assn. under Frisk leadership.

"This is our most important goal," he says. "We have to keep expanding our section as our area expands, but keep its quality at the level it's been in the past."

FRISK, WHO lives at 528 S. Phelps in Arlington Heights with his wife, Nancy, says the two biggest events he's covered came within four months of each other last year.

First, St. Viator High School of Arlington Heights placed second in the state baseball tournament at Peoria — a tourney which Frisk covered on the spot for three days in the spring.

Shortly afterwards, the Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team finished fifth in the nation in the summer.

"Normally," says Frisk, "The summer is relaxing for us, but the Legion team created a great deal of interest. I don't think I've ever enjoyed anything so much.

"The tension kept getting bigger and bigger. They had to beat Rockford twice on the same Sunday to win the state at Carmi. It was a double-elimination tournament, and Arlington had lost one game and Rockford hadn't lost any.

"To make things worse, it rained. But, Arlington beat Rockford 3-2 in the first game in extra innings and 5-4 in the second game to take the state championship."

FROM THERE, Arlington went on to win the Regional over Detroit and East Chicago, Ind., to win a berth in the national contest.

Frisk, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, edits three sports sections and has two other full-time men and seven part-timers on his staff at the peak sports period during football and basketball seasons.

"If I've ever had an ambition," he says, "it would be to have a team from one of our schools go downstate to the basketball tournament. I don't think there's any event around that can compare with the excitement, drama and enthusiasm that this generates."

The closest he's come to realizing his dream, he says, was when Arlington made it into the sectional finals, and, then was beaten by Elgin High in 1960.

Nancy, Frisk's wife, is also a graduate of Arlington High and the University of Illinois. The former Nancy Haskins, she and Frisk were married Nov. 10, 1962.

LITTLE CITY'S non-automated egg farm has been very prolific with eggs. Shown here are two of the children collecting the eggs from the troughs.

Day Student Signup Open at Little City

Little City in Palatine, a training and treatment center is now accepting day students in its sheltered workshop program.

This program includes working in Little City's special, deautomated egg farm, where the youngsters grade, candle, gather, package and clean the eggs under the supervision of a professional. They also care for the hens, and reports show that in the six months the farm has been in operation it has maintained higher egg production per hen than commercial automated farms.

A special feature of the farm is the country store, which is so located that purchasers may watch the children at work through a wall of one-way glass while buying their eggs in Little City cartons.

IN ADDITION to working in the farm, children are given training in such fields as homemaking and vocational workshop, and instruction in various academic subjects, as well as music and art therapy.

There are 150,000 persons in Chicago and surrounding communities who are mentally retarded, according to Bette Kurtzman of the Little City Foundation in Chicago. Little City is one answer for parents in the area who need help for their handicapped children.

Further information about day school care at Little City may be obtained by calling Mrs. Adams of the social service department at FL 8-5510.

Vocational Career Night Is April 26

A first in the area—the first Career Night for students who aren't college bound—will take place April 26 at Wheeling High School.

Open to all students in the high school district and their parents, the Career Night is one man's dream come true.

Valmer D. Erickson, vocational counselor at Wheeling High School, first began planning for the non-college Career Night three years ago.

Letters to industrial firms and training institutes went out early in 1966.

THE RESONSE, says Erickson, has been "overwhelming." So far close to 1,000 job openings are represented in the industrial firms planning exhibits in the Wheeling cafeteria for the Career Night.

District 214 students are not the only ones showing interest. Delegations from Conant High School in District 211 will be attending and permission has also been given for a group to visit Wheeling from Maine West.

Representatives of the Illinois State Employment Service, Des Plaines, will be at Wheeling High on April 26 to talk to students. So will recruiting officers for the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines. Draft board personnel will also be available to answer questions.

The exhibits will show not only job, but training possibilities. Technical schools, barber colleges, art schools, business colleges and beauty schools have all requested information about the Career Night.

The late-in-the-year date was chosen with a purpose, Erickson says. By April 26 he expects that the area's students getting turndowns on college applications will have received them.

In addition to the 1964 Illinois Press Assn. award, the highly-rated sports section of the chain received a national award in 1961 for its thorough coverage of high school wrestling from the Amateur Wrestling Assn. under Frisk leadership.

"This is our most important goal," he says. "We have to keep expanding our section as our area expands, but keep its quality at the level it's been in the past."

FRISK, WHO lives at 528 S. Phelps in Arlington Heights with his wife, Nancy, says the two biggest events he's covered came within four months of each other last year.

First, St. Viator High School of Arlington Heights placed second in the state baseball tournament at Peoria — a tourney which Frisk covered on the spot for three days in the spring.

Shortly afterwards, the Arlington Heights American Legion baseball team finished fifth in the nation in the summer.

"Normally," says Frisk, "The summer is relaxing for us, but the Legion team created a great deal of interest. I don't think I've ever enjoyed anything so much.

"The tension kept getting bigger and bigger. They had to beat Rockford twice on the same Sunday to win the state at Carmi. It was a double-elimination tournament, and Arlington had lost one game and Rockford hadn't lost any.

"To make things worse, it rained. But, Arlington beat Rockford 3-2 in the first game in extra innings and 5-4 in the second game to take the state championship."

FROM THERE, Arlington went on to win the Regional over Detroit and East Chicago, Ind., to win a berth in the national contest.

Frisk, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, edits three sports sections and has two other full-time men and seven part-timers on his staff at the peak sports period during football and basketball seasons.

"If I've ever had an ambition," he says, "it would be to have a team from one of our schools go downstate to the basketball tournament. I don't think there's any event around that can compare with the excitement, drama and enthusiasm that this generates."

The closest he's come to realizing his dream, he says, was when Arlington made it into the sectional finals, and, then was beaten by Elgin High in 1960.

Nancy, Frisk's wife, is also a graduate of Arlington High and the University of Illinois. The former Nancy Haskins, she and Frisk were married Nov. 10, 1962.

LITTLE CITY'S non-automated egg farm has been very prolific with eggs. Shown here are two of the children collecting the eggs from the troughs.

Day Student Signup Open at Little City

Little City in Palatine, a training and treatment center is now accepting day students in its sheltered workshop program.

This program includes working in Little City's special, deautomated egg farm, where the youngsters grade, candle, gather, package and clean the eggs under the supervision of a professional. They also care for the hens, and reports show that in the six months the farm has been in operation it has maintained higher egg production per hen than commercial automated farms.

A special feature of the farm is the country store, which is so located that purchasers may watch the children at work through a wall of one-way glass while buying their eggs in Little City cartons.

IN ADDITION to working in the farm, children are given training in such fields as home-making and vocational workshop, and instruction in various academic subjects, as well as music and art therapy.

There are 150,000 persons in Chicago and surrounding communities who are mentally retarded, according to Bette Kurtzman of the Little City Foundation in Chicago. Little City is one answer for parents in the area who need help for their handicapped children.

Further information about day school care at Little City may be obtained by calling Mrs. Adams of the social service department at FL 8-5510.

Vocational Career Night Is April 26

A first in the area—the first Career Night for students who aren't college bound—will take place April 26 at Wheeling High School.

Open to all students in the high school district and their parents, the Career Night is one man's dream come true.

Valmer D. Erickson, vocational counselor at Wheeling High School, first began planning for the non-college Career Night three years ago.

Letters to industrial firms and training institutes went out early in 1966.

THE RESONSE, says Erickson, has been "overwhelming." So far close to 1,000 job openings are represented in the industrial firms planning exhibits in the Wheeling cafeteria for the Career Night.

District 214 students are not the only ones showing interest. Delegations from Conant High School in District 211 will be attending and permission has also been given for a group to visit Wheeling from Maine West.

Representatives of the Illinois State Employment Service, Des Plaines, will be at Wheeling High on April 26 to talk to students. So will recruiting officers for the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines. Draft board personnel will also be available to answer questions.

The exhibits will show not only job, but training possibilities. Technical schools, barber colleges, art schools, business colleges and beauty schools have all requested information about the Career Night.

The late-in-the-year date was chosen with a purpose, Erickson says. By April 26 he expects that the area's students getting turndowns on college applications will have received them.

Tips Given

A paint bursh probably figures in your spring clean-up plans, so keep these fire safety pointers in mind:

1. For paint removing and brush cleaning, solvents labeled "non-flammable" are safest, the National Fire Protection Association says. If you must work with flammable ones, better do it outdoors—but never in any area where there is open flame (as from a stove) or where anyone is smoking.

2. Get rid of old paint and solvent containers, and those with small left-over amounts. Store paints and solvents well away from furnace, and only in capped metal containers—glass jars break easily, creating a definite fire hazard.

3. Safest practice with rags used to wipe up solvents or paints is to dispose of them immediately outside the house.

Roses Are Widely Used in Landscaping

Roses have many functional uses on the property.

They make colorful beds along the driveway and serve, too, as borders for annuals or other shrubs.

Climbing varieties can be planted to adorn the garage or an unsightly fence post.

Planted near the house, rose bushes add color to the evergreen foundation plants from spring through fall. They can be used as accent plants, and if well placed they will emphasize the architecture of the house.

AS HEDGES they create privacy where desired, and they are useful as screens as well as ground covers. Rows of miniature rose bushes add striking effect under picture windows or along walks.

The early gardener acquires bigger and better rose blooms, says the American Association of Nurserymen. The sooner your rose plants throw out their roots, the earlier the plants will grow and bud, forming better quality first-year flowers. So start early in your rose plantings.

Bare root rose plants preferably are set out when they first come into the markets. At that time they are in their most perfect condition, and of course, they will have the benefit of longer season of growth and flower.

A FAIRLY new type of rose is a class known as "grandiflora." Its name characterizes this plant, which is vigorous in growth and has a wealth of blooms. It is ideal as a specimen or accent plant, its blooms often having a spectacular display.

Floribunda roses are extremely useful for landscaping. They afford masses of blooms of just about the right height for narrow beds along a walk or fence, or rose beds .Many new floribunda roses have been introduced in recent years, and they are available in a wide range of colors.

The smallest rose plants are the miniatures which have had a revival in modern landscaping where low rose plants are desired beside a terrace or as a low border to a garden or other flowers.

The small flowers are perfectly formed miniatures of the larger blooms and they are increasingly being used for pots, table arrangements and boutonnieres.

TREE ROSES have assumed more importance recently as the demand for landscape roses has increased. Tree roses are grown on a single large stem or "trunk," branching out at a height of about four or five feet to appear like a bouquet of roses. They are grown in a variety of colors. Along walks, in a regular rose garden to give "two-tier" effect, or set on a terrance in tubs or pots, they impart a rather formal effect.

As always, climbing roses are best for arbor planting or beside a porch, garage or along a fence or high wall. They are widely used in landscaping.

For formal rose gardens the hybrid tea rose is preferred by many, although it is often used elsewhere, in beds along walks, beside a patio or garden living room and similar locations.

SOME OF the newer varieties are conversation pieces and like other species, they provide cut flowers for inside the home. New colors, from lavender to orange, with many new shades of yellow, pink and red, are continuously being produced by famous hybridizers here and abroad.

So select your rose plants with care to serve your property functionally as well as for beauty.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

April is a busy month for gardeners. This is true if you want to give the yard just minimum amount of care or if you have a genuine green thumb.

First of all you should get right at the lawn. If you've not fertilized you'll want to do it as soon as possible. The sooner applied the sooner it starts to help the lawn develop into the lush carpet you want. Apply ten pounds of 20-10-5 fertilizer per 1,000 square feet. If you use a 10-6-4, 10-5-5, or a fertilizer that has a 10 for the first number apply twenty pounds per 1,000 square feet. If you haven't seeded forget it. A thin weedy lawn will obtain more help from a good heavy fertilization program than from seed.

PRUNING TIME IS here for trees and shrubs too. Actually you can prune at anytime of the year. However, its much easier to see the outline of the plant now. With the outline readily apparent you can prune more intelligently. On old lanky shrubs you may want to remove a third of the old wood completely to the ground. Some of the remaining branches can be selectively cut back a third or two thirds. Don't give your shrubs a brush cut. This will develop plants that are twiggy on top and bare at the bottom.

Regardless of how cold, damp and miserable it is this is the time for planting trees, shrubs and roses.

The commonest mistake is to fertilize at planting time. Instead, include peat moss or top soil in the planting soil. Don't if possible just refill with subsoil. A neat and easy way to dig the hole is to pile the soil on a large sheet of plastic, burlap or canvas. Then the excess material can be shoveled up and carried away quite easily.

When buying roses select several of one variety for mass display. Keep them all in one bed for ease of spraying. Some of the excellent rose varieties that have recently had their patents expire are the yellow Peace and the Red Mirandy.

IT MAY SEEM too early but believe it or not vegetable planting time is here. Here are some vegetables that be planted now. Asparagus plants, garlic from cloves, onion sets and rhubarb crown. Certain vegetables can also be started from seed this week. They include onions, radishes, spinach and turnips. Before planting spade in about ten to fifteen pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer per 1,000 square feet.

Arbor Day is Friday April 29. You can still plan a ceremony with your improvement association, civic or school group. For list of suggested trees in this area, drop a card to me at 201 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, Ill. (O

Soft Water Brings Many Satisfactions

Have you received a water bill lately? If you have, you know that water—one of the best things in life—is not quite free. Every time you turn on a faucet, you are spending money.

Dollar for dollar, are you getting your money's worth?

"You are only if the water has been fully softened," states J. L. Bruner, president of the Water Conditioning Foundation. "People are apt to forget there are many grades of water," he adds. "Everybody knows there is a vast difference between distilled water and sea water. But there are many who do not realize that water supplies adequate for fire fighting or lawn sprinkling will not necessarily do justice to the laundry, the dishes and many other homemaking chores."

MANY LAUNDRIES, car washes, restaurants, motels and beauty shops install water softeners. "Because the water conditioning industry can provide water of any desired quality it is now true economy to upgrade water quality for home use as well.

Fully soft water permits cutting down on soaps and detergents. A coffee measure full rather than a cup full will do the job on dirty clothes. Soft water and a minimum of cleaning agent will cut grease and put a new sparkle on dishes.

And soft water will protect water using appliances. Often overlooked is the fact that hard water scale and sludge can cause appliance failures. Soft water tends to keep repairs to a minimum.

Bruner cautions against evaluating a softener appliance merely in terms of dollar savings.

"THERE IS NO price tag on satisfaction. When laundry comes out color bright; when dishes sparkle; when mirrors gleam and bathtubs stay spotless all the time, the homemaker has the satisfaction of knowing her work is well done."

Consumer stulies show that the modern homemaker and her family are most pleased with soft water for bathing, showers and shampoos. Time and again people report, "With soft water I feel clean, really clean. It's wonderful"

In all but a few areas of our country water supplies are so hard, water softening is essential for modern homemaking.

"Today 5½ million homes are equipped with softeners. And the number is increasing. With better use of water supplies a must, our industry is urging homeowners everywhere to investigate the advantages and personal satisfaction possible with quality water for homemaking," Bruner further adds.

THE INVESTMENT in a softener appliance can be geared to the budget in almost all cases. Homeowners can buy a unit outright and extend payments over five years in many instances. If you prefer, you can rent a unit or obtain a soft water service. Many dealers offer several options.

For more information on soft water for your need contact a local water conditioning dealer. Or if you prefer you can obtain a booklet "Quality Water at the Tap." Gaslight Popularity Still High

The popularity of gaslights and outdoor gas grills with area homeowners is continuing high, according to 3,100 employes of Northern Illinois Gas Company now in the midst of their annual light and grill sale.

During the sale, which will end April 29, special low prices on both lights and grills are being offered, and for families wishing to purchase both a light and grill, an attractive combination price is now in effect.

There are 20 models of lights from which to choose, and five grills — all designed for permanent outdoor installation.

TWO EXTRA mantles come with each gaslight, and a supply of long-lasting ceramic briquets come with each grill. The briquets are self-cleaning and last for years. Also, a handy gas grill lighter is given free with the purchase of each grill.

Last year during the territory-wide gaslight and grill campaign, NI-Gas employes sold over 16,000 lights and 1,400 grills to their friends and neighbors.

Homeowners wishing to inspect the lights and grills being featured during the 1966 sale may do so at any NI-Gas store or office. (A15

by PAT HENSEL
Staff Writer

Water well drillers are really gung-ho about drilling water wells.

And they've done some pretty interesting things lately to dispel a few unflattering myths and, thereby, improve their public image.

Gone is the prototype of the old, whiskery well-driller wearing a muddy, ragged lumberjacket and cursing at every chip of the bit.

The well-driller today is a well-educated craftsman, usually, who wears white collar and tie for his not infrequent trips to the state legislature and to statewide meetings on water conservation or water pollution.

WHEN HE'S on the job, or supervising the work of others, the reliable well-driller may wear heavy boots as a protection against ankle-deep mud and pneumonia.

But he's clean-shaven, often young, polite, poised and can recite the legal phraseology of laws now protecting the public from unsafe water supplies.

And guess who got these laws through the legislature? The well-drillers, of course.

Take Rod Wellendorf, for instance. Heredity is why he's in the well-drilling business. He operates largely in North DuPage, and keeps his equipment on a farm near the old Bloomingdale Road bridge. The business used to belong to his father.

He had a man out drilling a well at a new home in Elmwood Avenue, Wood Dale, last week. Against the sporadic patter of a somewhat heavy rainfall could be heard the kaboom - pause - kaboom - pause - kaboom of the heavy drill.

Taking cover from the downpour, Wellendorf told his story.

BEFORE YOU can enter into a well-drilling contract, you have to get a permit. The DuPage County health department handles permits for water wells in municipalities and on some farms, and the county building and zoning department does it for all unincorporated areas.

If the well is going to go as deep as limestone — which most should — then a state permit also is needed. The shallower, gravel wells are found mostly on farms — far away from septic, sewer, or other water systems.

Limestone wells — or "open rock" wells as they are called by the craftsmen — are characterized by water feeding through crevices in the rock, about 100 to 150 feet underground.

To get to this water, a casing must be sunk down into the open rock in such a manner as to prevent contamination.

IN ORDER to get the necessary permits to drill a well—(never, never say "dig a well" to a well driller) — the local and state health departments must have certain assurances.

First of all, a water well must be at least 50 feet away from a vitrified tile sewer line, 50 feet from a septic tank, and 75 feet from a septic drainfield.

No "willow sticks" are used to determine the location of a water well. Drillers know the water is down there. How far? is the only question. But even this does not vary too much from handy geological maps now provided by the state.

If health departments—state, county and municipal, if any—are satisfied that the distance requirements are met, the well-driller may proceed.

INSPECTIONS are made by county and village officials before the work is started (to double-check distances from sources of contamination) and after the work is finished (to be sure proper measures have been taken to cap the new well and bring pipelines to the house).

The most popular (and modern) device used to drill a well is a percussion drill. Very heavy in weight, it is connected to a cable on a truck, and the cable is connected to a "walking beam."

The walking beam drops the drill into the ground, then lifts it, then drops it again, then lifts it, and so on. At each drop, the drill pivots slightly to make a round hole.

After about 20 feet of this, the first length of casing goes in, protected on the bottom by a forged steel drive shoe.

The "shoe" eventually will be driven into the limestone to make a tight seal against infiltration of contaminated substances.

AFTER THE first length of casing is inserted, the drill is dropped down through the casing to work on the next 10 or 20 feet. Periodically, a new length of casing is driven down to wedge into the one before it, and to drive the full length deeper underground.

The layers between the ground surface and the limestone usually include a few feet of "yellow dirt," a few feet of "yellow clay," then 20 or 30 feet of "blue clay," a few feet of sand, then a mixture of clay and gravel.

When the drill starts working through a layer of coarse gravel, the well-driller knows he's just about down to bedrock.

The bedrock, limestone, "open rock," or whatever the layman wants to call it, is shot through with crevices filled with pure water.

THE WATER is nothing more than rainfall, usually, which seeps underground and filters through the layers of sand, clay and gravel. The sediment settles into the limestone and the pure water flows — one of the wonders of nature.

"Wells going dry?" scoffed Wellendorf. "That's a lot of baloney.

"Maybe some wells aren't deep enough, but there's plenty of water down there."

Wellendorf is perturbed about the many "old wives' tales" about water wells. He said said some wells, 10 to 15 years old "seem" to have gone dry because the underground water level has dropped.

The simple solution to that, he said, is "just deepen the well." Or deepen the pump, he added. Sometimes it's just that the pump is up too high.

"Or maybe the pump isn't strong enough to push the water up anymore," he remembered.

"IF PEOPLE just wouldn't get so shaken up when something seems to be wrong," he said, shaking his head.

"If they would just remember that, if they have their own water wells, they can be independent. Municipal systems aren't so handy, you know, and they're pretty expensive. Besides, with a municipal system, there are plenty of times you can't sprinkle the lawn when you want to, or wash your car."

In Wellendorf's opinion, private wells are just about the greatest things on earth. They average about $1,000 in cost for an average depth of 150 to 200 feet. And, if they're that deep, hardly anything ever goes wrong.

"Compare that with your water bill sometime, and you'll see what I mean," Wellendorf challenged. "A water well is for a lifetime."

A week is the average time it takes to drill a well and install the pump. The well contractor usually charges extra for running water pipes and the pump's electric lines to a house.

THE MAN who is mostly responsible for this state's tight restrictions on well-drillers and pump suppliers is Ruben Sahr of Bensenville.

He is past president of the Illinois Water Well Drillers Assn. and current chairman of the association's legislative committee. As such, he works directly with the United States Health Department.

Largely through his efforts the last session of the Illinois General Assembly passed six laws: to establish a code for water well drillers, governing location, construction and repairs; to require the proper plugging of all abandoned water wells and notification of this to health departments; to license pump suppliers and installers (including well-drillers who do this work); and to provide for penalties for violations of the above laws.

(Licenses for water well drillers had been required in previous legislation.)

ACCORDING to Sahr, "The Water Well Drillers Assn. was incorporated in 1934, not only to protect the public, but to protect the legitimate contractor.

The group works for the uplifting of sanitary construction codes. We found that licensing of well-drillers was not enough. We found pump equipment contractors were not being careful in keeping pump connections uncontaminated. Now, we can license pump equipment contractors."

Although it varies from town to town, according to Sahr, 99 per cent of all wells drilled in northern Illinois are drilled down to bedrock (waterbearing) limestone.

The home well is from 150 to 300 feet deep, and the average municipal well is from 300 to 2,300 feet deep. It depends on water strata. Unfortunately, in some cases, it depends on finances.

SAHR recommends that municipalities, definitely, and schools, motels and industrial plants should have a dual water supply.

"If one goes out, you can switch to the other until repairs are made," he said. "The biggest headaches come when a system is not adequately planned to start with."

He pointed out that it's more expensive at first, but cheaper in the long run, for towns to have interconnected systems to permit switch-overs.

According to Sahr, 92 per cent of the available fresh water supply is underground — not in lakes, rivers and other surface waters — and well water is the purest of all water.

He predicts that 150,000 new water wells will be drilled in the United States this year, for commercial uses, and for residential uses at the average rate of 50 gallons of water per day per person.

(A-15

WATER WELL DRILLING has become a science, according to craftsmen in the trade. When they're not working with heavy drill equipment, as shown above, they're just as likely to be found in a water conservation seminar or deeply engrossed in a study of water pollution. They expect to drill about 150,000 pure-water wells in the United States this year.

New Illinois Group to Expand Efforts, Percy Says

Can a volunteer citizens committee really help to solve such weighty problems as illiteracy, unemployment, slum housing and economically - depressed communities?

"The answer is an unqualified yes," said Charles H. Percy, chairman of the New Illinois Committee, in reporting first-year results achieved by this non-for-profit organization.

"We are so encouraged by the success of our pilot programs," Percy added, "that the New Illinois Committee is expanding its activities this year. I personally feel our efforts are so important that I have agreed to continue as chairman even though I am currently campaigning for the U. S. Senate seat from Illinois."

While the committee's projects so far have been small in scope, Percy said, "they show conclusively that ordinary citizens can make effective contributions to the attack on poverty and its many evils. They prove, too, that programs calling for some measure of positive action from the people who need help can be the most rewarding."

ONE DYNAMIC example of that premise, Percy believes, is the pilot educational program that was a forerunner of the New Illinois Committee. This was the 3-R Program, financed by a grant from the W. Clement and Jessie V. Stone Foundation and which operated for a year through the Chicago Boys Clubs. The idea for the program was developed by Percy and W. Clement Stone just after the 1964 election.

At centers in three pockets of poverty on Chicago's North, West and South Sides, teaching programs were established to offer help in reading, writing, spelling and the new math to three groups: students having difficulty with these subjects in school, school dropouts who could not find jobs because of insufficient skills in the 3 R's, and adults who were unable to read or write well enough to find or hold jobs.

"School learning became meaningful to young dropouts," Percy reports, "when they realized they couldn't even work in a filling station without knowing some arithmetic." tic."

TYPICAL OF THE adults helped by the program was a 32-year-old man who failed an employment test for lack of reading skill, but passed the same exam successfully after eight weeks study.

A public school principal who encouraged 50 students to enroll in the program reported to Percy: "These classes provided new opportunities for personality and leadership development and resulted in changed attitudes toward school, more regular attendance in school, changed behavior patterns, at least some desire to acquire the tools of learning, some improved feelings about, self-discipline, and an increased self-respect."

Among the adult graduates, Percy said, many were able to find jobs and others are going ahead to earn high school equivalency certifications or to take additional training for specific vocations.

The 3-R Program's modern teaching techniques are being considered by the U. S. Office of Education for educational television, and details of the television, and detalils of the program are being made available to private foundations to encourage support of similiar projects.

THE SAME SORT of citizen effort and initiative led to a formation in March 1965 of the new Illinois Committee by a group of businessmen who asked Percy to serve as chairman. Among the notable programs initiated in the first year of its activity are these:

—Call for Action, a cooperative effort with Radio Station WVON, handled 1,700 telephone complaints about such building code violations as lack of heat, faulty electric wiring, out-of-order plumbing, and rat or roach infestation.

Committee volunteers have been able in about 25 per cent of the cases to persuade landlords to correct these conditions.

When this approach fails, the violations are routed to the city building department for administrative or legal action—and the Call for Action volunteers follow through to see that results are obtained within a reasonable time.

Call for Action "is a going thing," Percy said. "There are thousands of residential buildings in Chicago alone which violate building codes and contain hazardous conditions. Many residents feel they just can't get through to anyone to report legitimate complaints. Call for Action is a way of getting —JOB OPPORTUNITIES, a through and getting action."

—JOB OPPORTUNITIES, a bi-weekly listing of jobs available to both men and women with limited skill or training, is distributed through community organizations throughout Chicago. The volunteers directing this project actively seek out job openings by regularly contacting employers.

This effort has helped hundreds obtain temporary and permanent work, Percy comments, and will be expanded this year.

—Legal Aid, a comprehensive guide of free legal services available to those unable to afford a lawyer, was published and distributed widely throughou Chicago. It describes legal aid organizations and encourages persons afraid of or lost in the complexities of the law to seek counsel when it is needed.

—29TH WARD FAMILY Center, a pilot family center on Chicago's West Side, is currently providing classes for preschool children, social activities for junior high school students and for senior citizens, and choral groups under the direction of professional musicians. The center is manned by about 35 volunteers from the suburbs.

"This project shows excellent promise," Percy said, "and the New Illinois Committee will help others to establish similar centers to offer enrichment programs to children and adults in other neighborhoods."

On a broader economic level, Percy reported, the New Illinois Committee is planning new efforts in the area of community development. The goal is to help neighborhoods, suburban communities and downstate cities to accelerate their economic growth.

"We are now preparing a directory of the many planning services available through industry and government to help community development groups," Percy explained. "Thus highly professional skills and research can be recruited to help attract new business and industry."

At the same time, the committee itself is seeking to encourage the establishment and expansion of industrial firms in to less developed areas of Illinois.

"ONE OF OUR efforts in this direction," said Percy, "was a mailing to hundreds of out-of-state companies stressing the economic advantages of establishing plants in Illinois. We have had a number of inquiries and requests for further information which indicate that several firms are at least considering such a move."

The work of the New Illinois Committee in all these areas—education, housing, job opportunities, economic development—will be expanded this year, Percy said. And research which may lead to other projects is being conducted to help for the handicapped, air and water pollution, flood control and other areas of concern to Illinois residents.

With increased activity will come the need for more volunteers "who care enough to spend their time and money and offer their ideas and talent to seek solutions to the everyday problems of our society," Percy said.

"This project shows excellent promise," Percy said, "and the New Illinois Committee will help others to establish similar centers to offer enrichment programs to children and adults in other neighborhoods."

On a broader economic level, Percy reported, the New Illinois Committee is planning new efforts in the area of community development. The goal is to help neighborhoods, suburban communities and downstate cities to accelerate their economic growth.

"We are now preparing a directory of the many planning services available through industry and government to help community development groups," Percy explained. "Thus highly professional skills and research can be recruited to help attract new business and industry."

At the same time, the committee itself is seeking to encourage the establishment and expansion of industrial firms into less developed areas of Illinois.

"ONE OF OUR efforts in this direction," said Percy, "was a mailing to hundreds of out-of-state companies stressing the economic advantages of establishing plants in Illinois. We have had a number of inquiries and requests for further information which indicate that several firms are at least considering such a move."

The work of the New Illinois Committee in all these areas—education, housing, job opportunities, economic development—will be expanded this year, Percy said. And research which may lead to other projects is being conducted to help for the handicapped, air and water pollution, flood control and other areas of concern to Illinois residents.

With increased activity will come the need for more volunteers "who care enough to spend their time and money and offer their ideas and talent to seek solutions to the everyday problems of our society," Percy said.

Voters to Elect Two for High School Board

by Mary Schlott

The voters—as usual—will have the last word.

All four District 214 school board candidates obviously had that in mind this week as their supporters made the last round of coffees, phone calls and leaflet distribution.

Absentee ballots requests, a good indicator of interest, were running high Tuesday at the high school administration office.

On Saturday absentee ballots will be delivered to polling places to be counted along with regularly-cast ballots in deciding which two of the four candidates—Dr. Frank J. Smith, John K. Auld, Arthur Aronson, or Dr. Otto Bouc—will be elected.

For challenger Auld, final campaigning was complicated by the fact that his Air Force reserve unit is on active duty this week at O'Hare Field. Part of the time he's been wearing a candidate's hat, the rest of the time that of a lieutenant colonel.

PLANS OF local FM station WNWC to get the four candidates together for a Sunday forum, with a Paddock Publications staff member helping with the quiz, had to be scrubbed when neither Auld nor Bouc could clear the time.

Bouc, an orthopedic surgeon who resides in unincorporated Mount Prospect, issued a last round statement this week pledging that as a school board member he will encourage "greater citizen participation" and make sure all aspects of any new program "including federal aid" be fully explored "to avoid unnecessary criticism and misunderstanding by the taxpaying public."

District 214's use of federal aid, the issue which has brought conservative support to both Bouc and Auld, drew some last-minute comments from Dr. Smith this week.

"Some elements of the community have become so unobjective about the subject that it is possible that a candidate could be elected on an anti-federal aid stand, regardless of how well qualified he is to serve on a board of education," Dr. Smith said.

HE ADDED that "political interests" raising this issue "insult the administrators, teachers and District 214 residents when they suggest that any of us would sit still for any kind of federal control of our schools' curriculum."

Aronson, currently board president, told Paddock Publications Tuesday he was dismayed by the "unfounded charges" printed in a sheet being distributed by a group called Citizens for Auld.

THE MIMEOGRAPHED leaflet charges that on controversial issues the school administration "packs the audience," claims that in accepting federal money for the Neighborhood Youth Corps "your school district reports direct to the U.S. Department of Labor" and declares that the school board spends millions of dollars without getting competent construction advice or using competitive bids.

Aronson branded the whole sheet as containing "half-truths at best."

Auld told Paddock Publications that he did not know who had put the leaflet out and that it was done without his authorization or approval. He said he had seen the leaflet at coffees in Mount Prospect. (ACME

Teachers Break Precedent, Endorse Aronson and Smith

In unprecedented action last week, the Northwest Suburban Division of the Illinois Education Association endorsed the two incumbents seeking re-election to the High School District 214 board.

The chairman of the ethics and welfare committee recommended the chapter endorse Dr. Frank Smith and Arthur Aronson. He told a representative assembly meeting last Thursday that study showed Smith and Aronson were the obviously superior candidates.

"District 214 now enjoys quality education which is due partially to the efforts of Dr. Frank Smith and Arthur Aronson," a resolution adopted by the group stated. "These board members have always held quality education uppermost when deciding important issues for the district." It added that "the welfare of the children and the teachers were instrumental in their determinations. They have shown that time after time sound judgment was used in their decisions."

Both have "proven experience in education," the resolution stated.

The same resolution detailed the role teachers should take in elections. "The willingness of the teachers to assert themselves fully as citizens is vital to the pursuit of high quality education," according to the resolution. All teachers should be guaranteed full equality with other citizens in the exercise of their political rights and responsibilities, including such rights as voting, campaigning for candidates, and running and serving in public office.

The statement emphasized that teachers should take an active interest in choosing the best candidates for office. "It is of primary importance to all teachers to see that those who are in policy-making position should be the best persons available for these posts.

Teachers and educators should evaluate school board candidates on the basis of their educational aspirations, indicated interests, and humanitarian concern, according to the resolution. "It is the responsibility of all teachers to actively support all candidates whose educational outlook is conducive to the highest standards of education," it said.

Only one negative vote could be heard in the voice vote.

Siegel Defends Legality Of School Bus Ordinance

The Arlington Heights school bus licensing ordinance has been defended by Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel as "a proper enactment."

He said so this week in a three-page letter sent N. E. Hutson, state department of public instruction legal adviser who had given District 25 Supt. Ralph Clabaugh an opinion that the village went beyond its authority in passing the bus licensing ordinance last November.

"I have examined the statutes cited by you and respectfully suggest that I cannot agree with your conclusions," Siegel told Hutson in the letter, copies of which have been sent to school Districts 25 and 214.

And Siegel cited the same statutes referred to by Hutson in drawing the conclusion that the state department of public instruction does not have exclusive jurisdiction in school bus matters — a jurisdiction claimed in Hutson's letter — and terming village passage of the ordinance entirely proper.

SIEGEL TOLD Paddock Publications Tuesday evening he hoped that Hutson, after studying the matter, would agree.

"Mr. Hutson is a careful lawyer. I can only conclude that he either misread the statutes—or had an incorrect statute in front of him at the time," he commented.

"It is very clear," Siegel added "that the village has a perfect right to find out who all these bus drivers are, whether they are physically able and whether they have criminal records." A fingerprint requirement is the fastest, cheapest way to make the latter check, he pointed out.

Siegel's restudy of the school bus ordinance's legality was done at the direction of village trustees, after Hutson's letter disputing their licensing right was cited by Supt. Clabaugh at a meeting also attended by Dist. 214 Supt. H. L. Slichenmyer, and board members Richard A. Bachhuber and William Griffith.

THE MEETING was termed "friendly" by representatives of all three taxing bodies, despite unkind comments made since the school licensing ordinance was passed.

School officials cited the fingerprinting and the requirements that four villagers' references be given by drivers as likely to make it difficult to staff for the contracting school bus companies.

Village officials indicated that they were willing to compromise on some sections of the ordinance but held firm on the fingerprinting check. They told school officials they would rescind the ordinance if it is found to be invalid. (AE

Mt. Prospect Group Backs Auld and Bouc

Endorsement of High School District 214 board candidates John K. Auld and Dr. Otto Bouc was reaffirmed Monday evening by the board of ROSE, the Mount Prospect group called Residents Organized for Sound Education.

Their action was taken after a previous ROSE statement endorsing Auld and Bouc had been challenged by a ROSE member, Mrs. Robert J. Wilson Jr.

Mrs. Wilson, a supporter of incumbent District 214 board members Arthur Anrson and Dr. Frank J. Smith, asked correction of Paddock Publications original report of the endorsement. She said that although endorsement of high school candidates had been discussed at ROSE meetings, no official action in that regard had ever been taken.

QUERIED, ROSE chairman Carleton B. Shaffer Jr. issued a statement saying that the endorsement had been made at a March 6 meeting.

But a search of the secretary's minutes showed that only Auld had been mentioned in an endorsement motion by vice chairman Norman Watters — and neither the Wilsons nor Watters recalled the motion being made.

Both the recommendation and endorsement were commented upon caustically Tuesday by Dr. Smith. He said he could see "little value" in an endorsement made by an organization that could not "take the time" to hear all four candidates before making its decision.

Monday evening's meeting took place in the home of Mrs. Joseph Vavra, 502 Prospect Manor, Mount Prospect. In addition to voting endorsement of Bouc and Auld, the group made final plans to enlist support for their elementary District 57 candidates. (ACME

Girl Scouts in Court as Naturalization Sponsors

Twenty-four Cadette Scouts from Arlington Heights assisted Tuesday morning at naturalization ceremonies in the Federal District Court, Chicago.

It was a first for everyone—the 96 new citizens' first day as full-fledged Americans, the girls' first visit to a federal courtroom, and the first time that Girl Scouts have served as sponsors for a naturalization ceremony.

To make the 9:30 a.m. rites, the 24 junior high girls and their eight leaders left at 7:30 o'clock by bus from Arlington Market. Some of them were up at 5:30 a.m. preparing for the trip.

AFTER THE ceremony, presided over by Federal District Judge Hubert Will, the scouts were hostesses at a reception arranged by the Citizenship Council of Greater Chicago. They sang songs, served refreshments to the newly-naturalized Americans and heard an address by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights).

Also attending the ceremony were State Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights), himself a father of a cadette, and Mrs. Jeanne Novotny, Arlington Heights village clerk. Mrs. Novotny represented Village Pres. John G. Woods at the ceremony.

Naturalization ceremonies take place at the federal district court every Tuesday morning, with the Citizenship Council making arrangements for the programs and receptions which follow. Often Daughters of the American Revolution chapters assist, but this is the first time for a scout group.

IN JOINING in the ceremony, the Cadettes fulfulled a citizenship "challenge," part of their scouting requirements.

Arrangements for the trip were made by Mrs. E. H. Jack Cushing, 633 S. Bristol Ave., and Mrs. Earl C. Christopherson, 118 S. Belmont Ave.

The scouts: Carol Zwissler, Troop 638; Pat Weber, Vicki Janda, Diane Plant and Kathy O'Connell, all from Troop 474; March Sklencar, Troop 639; Sue Grashorn, Troop 131; Linda Rung and Kathy Haire, Troop 294; Trisha Dean, Mary Kay Stearns and Marianne Clausing, Troop 521; Anne Nieland, Cathy Smith and Pat Breister, Troop 474; Patti Cushing and Linda Hudak, Troop 131; Betty Shubeck, Marilyn Epsky, Becky Blaine and Debbie Yates, Troop 638; Pat Erbach, Laurel Steele, Stephanie Miller and Karen Hilb, Troop 639; Dianne May and Terry Thompson, Troop 294 and Christine Wolter of Troop 521.

Pat Erbach designed the program cover which showed an American flag, world friendship flag and the Girl Scout trefoil along with a welcome to the citizens. The invocation was given by Carol Zwissler followed by a flag ceremony with commands by Pat Weber. Diane Plant carried the American flag with Vicki Janda and Kathy O'Connell as escorts. The Star Spangled Banner was sung by all with Linda Hudak leading the scouts. (A

SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

What Your Grip On A Steering Wheel Tells About You

By Jane Sherrod Singer

A recently conducted study photographed people behind the wheel of their automobiles and compared them with a personality inventory test which was weighted heavily with questions dealing with their attitudes toward driving and relationships with people. See if you can match the driving posture with the personality. Then perhaps you will discover something about yourself when driving a car.

DRIVING POSTURES.

1. This person squeezes himself at an angle between the door and the seat. One arm either hangs out the car or lies on the top of the seat. He or she steers the car with one hand, usually at 12 o'clock on the wheel.
2. This driver sits well back in the seat and leans over so that both elbows are akimbo and hangs onto the wheel with a sturdy grip at 3 o'clock and 9 o'clock.
3. This type of personality sits straight and well back in his seat. Both arms are straight, hands at 3 o'clock and 9 o'clock. Turns are made by passing the wheel from one hand to the other.
4. This person sits like limp spaghetti in his seat, steering the car with two fingers of both hands that lie in his lap.
5. This driver sits well back in a relaxed but upright position. His hands are at 20 minutes to 4 or 10 minutes to 2 o'clock. He seldom passes the rim of the steering wheel from one hand to another.

PERSONALITIES

a. The show-off devil-may-care hot-shot.
b. The angry, tense, hurried type.
c. The authoritarian, get-out-of-my-way driver. (Possibly an older person.)
d. The falsely casual or pseudo-sophisticated driver.
e. A driver who knows the safest way to hold the wheel of a car.

ANSWERS:

If you have paired the postures and the personalities as 1-a, 2-b, 3-c, etc. down the line, you are correct. Any driver, with the exception of Number Five, is in for trouble if he meets an emergency requiring drastic steering action.

She's 'Out Of Place' At Home

MY PARENTS MAKE ME FEEL AWFUL.

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a sister and a brother who live elsewhere. I stay with my parents, which I enjoy. I have a roof over my head, a fine nephew and fine parents. But, somehow I feel "out of place" at home. I sometimes feel I should leave. But, I don't have anywhere to go. I know I am not old enough to go out on my own because I am still in junior high school. I enjoy living at home, but most of the time my parents make me feel awful. They don't know they hurt me and I don't want to tell them. But I do suffer. I laugh on the outside, cry on the inside, more than ever. Is there anything I can do?"

OUR REPLY: If you enjoy living at home, then do some serious thinking about the situation or circumstances which make you unhappy otherwise. If your parents make you feel "awful", they are probably unaware of this situation. Perhaps whatever it is that displeases you is not as it really seems to be. You may be reading something into their words or their actions that is not really there.

The problem may be a lack of communication between you and your parents. You can do something about this. If something worries you, if you have a problem, go to your parents, talk it over with them. Give them the opportunity to know and to understand your problems.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS. COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE. FRANKFORT, KY.

The Star Spangled Banner was sung by all with Linda Hudak leading the scouts. (A

What Your Grip On A Steering Wheel Tells About You

By Jane Sherrod Singer

A recently conducted study photographed people behind the wheel of their automobiles and compared them with a personality inventory test which was weighted heavily with questions dealing with their attitudes toward driving and relationships with people. See if you can match the driving posture with the personality. Then perhaps you will discover something about yourself when driving a car.

DRIVING POSTURES.

1. This person squeezes himself at an angle between the door and the seat. One arm either hangs out the car or lies on the top of the seat. He or she steers the car with one hand, usually at 12 o'clock on the wheel.
2. This driver sits well back in the seat and leans over so that both elbows are akimbo and hangs onto the wheel with a sturdy grip at 3 o'clock and 9 o'clock.
3. This type of personality sits straight and well back in his seat. Both arms are straight, hands at 3 o'clock and 9 o'clock. Turns are made by passing the wheel from one hand to the other.
4. This person sits like limp spaghetti in his seat, steering the car with two fingers of both hands that lie in his lap.
5. This driver sits well back in a relaxed but upright position. His hands are at 20 minutes to 4 or 10 minutes to 2 o'clock. He seldom passes the rim of the steering wheel from one hand to another.

PERSONALITIES

a. The show-off devil-may-care hot-shot.
b. The angry, tense, hurried type.
c. The authoritarian, get-out-of-my-way driver. (Possibly an older person.)
d. The falsely casual or pseudo-sophisticated driver.
e. A driver who knows the safest way to hold the wheel of a car.

ANSWERS:

If you have paired the postures and the personalities as 1-a, 2-b, 3-c, etc. down the line, you are correct. Any driver, with the exception of Number Five, is in for trouble if he meets an emergency requiring drastic steering action.

She's 'Out Of Place' At Home

MY PARENTS MAKE ME FEEL AWFUL.

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a sister and a brother who live elsewhere. I stay with my parents, which I enjoy. I have a roof over my head, a fine nephew and fine parents. But, somehow I feel "out of place" at home. I sometimes feel I should leave. But, I don't have anywhere to go. I know I am not old enough to go out on my own because I am still in junior high school. I enjoy living at home, but most of the time my parents make me feel awful. They don't know they hurt me and I don't want to tell them. But I do suffer. I laugh on the outside, cry on the inside, more than ever. Is there anything I can do?"

OUR REPLY: If you enjoy living at home, then do some serious thinking about the situation or circumstances which make you unhappy otherwise. If your parents make you feel "awful", they are probably unaware of this situation. Perhaps whatever it is that displeases you is not as it really seems to be. You may be reading something into their words or their actions that is not really there.

The problem may be a lack of communication between you and your parents. You can do something about this. If something worries you, if you have a problem, go to your parents, talk it over with them. Give them the opportunity to know and to understand your problems.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS. COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE. FRANKFORT. KY.

'Good Will' Workshop Response Is Surprise

Mount Prospect's workshop on "Rearing Children of Good Will" already has a sign up list of close to 120 residents—and no one could be less surprised than those Arlington Heights women who took the course a year ago.

Just 12 housewives pioneered in the workshop last year in Arlington Heights.

Their enrollment spontaneously doubled the last week of the series, as they added in their husbands because the discussion was too good to miss.

"We just had to share the friendships and insights we'd gained with our husbands," said Mrs. James Ostler, one of the dozen women. "It was too frustrating trying to erplain it second hand."

THAT WAS THE reaction all over Chicagoland, apparently, or so the story goes among local women who were involved in last year's "Rearing Children of Good Will" workshop under the auspices of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

This year's series will start April 14, keyed to evening television shows on Channel 11 rather than the radio programs used last year.

Many of the 12 women in last year's Arlington Heights workshop plan to "do the bit" again this year—joining with their husbands this time, since this year's series is geared to couples' hours.

Mrs. William Dempsey, workshop chairman for the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee has been calling village ministers to encouage them to line up couples from their congregations for the six weeks' series.

In Mount Prospect Mrs. William Kuivenin and other members of the Mount Prospect Human Relations Committee have signed up 120 participants, including seven nuns. Leaflets telling of the workshop were carried home from Sunday School.

Such interest doesn't surprise Mrs. Dieter Burkhardt of Arlington Heights' St. James parish. The women's group she met with last year had representatives of three major faiths, supplemented by at least one agnostic.

COMMENTING ON the latter, Mrs. Burkhardt said, "The hardest working woman in the workshop was the nonbeliever. The workshop put me to work, at least partly as a result of watching the energy the non-believer poured into good while I was resting on prayer and good intentions!"

Mrs. Isaac Strain. wife of a Baptist minister, provided the first opportunity several of the other women had had to see what "Mrs. Minister" is really like. For herself, the gain came in getting to know women of other denominations, especially Catholics.

"I always thought I knew a lot about the Catholic Church," said Mrs. Strain, "but knowing facts is no substitute for knowing people. This is the understanding perhaps that is the beginning of wisdom."

Mrs. Bernard Gordon, answering a workshop call that came last year to Temple Ben Tikvah, found the series so worthwhile that she is having one this year in her new home in Chicago.

"I almost didn't go last year because I knew we might be leaving town soon," Mrs. Gordon told her friends this spring. "But having met so many nice people, I'm glad I decided to do what I could to help others understand even a little about Judaism." (B10

Pastors Invited to Institute

"The Pastor and His Family" is the topic for the Seventh Annual Institute for Pastors May 11-12 at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge. The program, open to clergymen and their wives of all denominations, is sponsored by the hospital's department of pastoral care in co-operation with the Foundation for Human Ecology.

Speakers include Dr. Armin Grams, Merrill-Palmer Institute of Human Development and Family Life, Detroit; Dr. Gibson Winter, University of Chicago Divinity School; Dr. Fredric M. Norstad, the Lutheran Institute of Human Ecology, Park Ridge, and the Rev. Herbert Skarie, Lutheran General Hospital.

Among the topics to be covered are "Rearing Children in a Changing World," "Your Husbands Tell Us," "Your Wives Tell Us," "Woman, Wife, Mother" and others. Formal presentations and group discussions will be included.

"WE ARE again inviting pastors and their wives to attend. Last year's program which was for both pastors and their wives drew the largest attendance in history. In response to the demand, we are scheduling the institute on similar topics," said the Rev. Lawrence E. Holst, director of the department of pastoral care.

Sessions will run from 3 p.m. to 10 p.m. Evening meals will be served in the hospital's 10th floor dining room.

"Because of the hospital's limited facilities, attendance is being restricted to 150 persons," Pastor Holst stated.

Center Plans Special Good Friday Worship

BY BEVERLY AIRTH

Come, enjoy the Springtime color at Randhurst and relax for a half hour in peaceful worship attending the special united Good Friday services, Friday, April 8 from noon until 2 p.m. These half hour services are held in the Town Hall located on the lower level.

Aren't you glad it's almost Easter? Just three more days and you will be in your Easter bonnet with all the frills upon it! If you are like the rest of us, there probably are a few last minute items that are needed for Easter Sunday, white socks for Susie, tie for brother, gloves for mother, and another box of candy for Auntie, and, of course, a few goodies for the Easter baskets. I talked with Randy Rabbit this morning and I understand he is very sad about having to leave his Bunnyland for another year. The ducks are growing up now so they will be content to retire on a farmer's pond and not have to put on shows for everyone who comes to see them, and I know the photographer will miss all the children.

THERE STILL IS time to bring your children to Randhurst to visit with Randy in Bunnyland, and if you like, have your child's picture taken with him. Randy is always happy to pose.

Are there any budding artists in your family? His efforts might prove fruitful. All he has to do is color the entry blank found in Bunnyland.

The entries are classified according to age and are judged on neatness and originality of presentation. After your child has colored the picture to his liking, place the entry in Randy's mailbox before 5:30 p.m. Saturday, April 9. All entries will be judged Tuesday and winners will be announced in this paper on Thursday April 14th.

Who knows, maybe your child will be one of the six happy winners to receive a shiny new bicycle? (Rh

YMCA Board Elects Officers, Directors

Officers and directors for 1966-67 were elected by the board of governors of Northwest Suburban YMCA at the recent 13th annual meeting.

New board members for a 3-year term include Jack D. Hughes, president of Littelfuse, Inc., and George R. Busse, Mount Prospect realtor. Elected for a one-year term were Richard Dickerson, Mount Prospect, and William Weinacht, Arlington Heights.

Officers who were re-elected were James D. Norman, Itasca, chairman, board of directors; Edwin Bruning, vice chairman, Palatine; Stephen Jurco, vice chairman, Arlington Heights; John E. Gobeille, vice chairman, Mount Prospect, and Ralph H. Martin, vice chairman, Des Plaines.

THE MEETING was highlighted by a physical fitness talk and demonstration by Bonnie Prudden, national fitness expert, who first brought the attention of President Eisenhower to the comparative physical weakness of American youth.

James D. Norman also highlighted the year's progress, which showed the local YMCA as a membership record-breaker, with 17,000 members. In addition to a wide variety of membership program activities, many community service features were spotlighted, such as free classes for the handicapped, free learn-to-swim campaigns, free membership for needy youngsters and families, free and part-pay camp scholarships and use of facilities by over 150 community groups.

SPECIAL recognition went to Roger Tobin of Elk Grove, who coached the girls' swim team to 13 victorious meets and placed 40 of the girls in winning events in the Illinois state meet this year.

Other items presented at the meeting in an annual report showed a balanced budget in 1965 at $485,231, of which nine per cent was contributed through the Crusade of Mercy. National average support by contributions of some 1,800 YMCA's is 25 per cent. It was reported that the building debt of $1,452,263 needed just $57,000 more in pledges, although an additional $156,000 was still in the unpaid pledge category. (B10

YMCA Board Elects Officers, Directors

Officers and directors for 1966-67 were elected by the board of governors of Northwest Suburban YMCA at the recent 13th annual meeting.

New board members for a 3-year term include Jack D. Hughes, president of Littelfuse, Inc., and George R. Busse, Mount Prospect realtor. Elected for a one-year term were Richard Dickerson, Mount Prospect, and William Weinacht, Arlington Heights.

Officers who were re-elected were James D. Norman, Itasca, chairman, board of directors; Edwin Bruning, vice chairman, Palatine; Stephen Jurco, vice chairman, Arlington Heights; John E. Gobeille, vice chairman, Mount Prospect, and Ralph H. Martin, vice chairman, Des Plaines.

THE MEETING was highlighted by a physical fitness talk and demonstration by Bonnie Prudden, national fitness expert, who first brought the attention of President Eisenhower to the comparative physical weakness of American youth.

James D. Norman also highlighted the year's progress, which showed the local YMCA as a membership record-breaker, with 17,000 members. In addition to a wide variety of membership program activities, many community service features were spotlighted, such as free classes for the handicapped, free learn-to-swim campaigns, free membership for needy youngsters and families, free and part-pay camp scholarships and use of facilities by over 150 community groups.

SPECIAL recognition went to Roger Tobin of Elk Grove, who coached the girls' swim team to 13 victorious meets and placed 40 of the girls in winning events in the Illinois state meet this year.

Other items presented at the meeting in an annual report showed a balanced budget in 1965 at $485,231, of which nine per cent was contributed through the Crusade of Mercy. National average support by contributions of some 1,800 YMCA's is 25 per cent. It was reported that the building debt of $1,452,263 needed just $57,000 more in pledges, although an additional $156,000 was still in the unpaid pledge category. (B10

Residents Flee April Showers for Southern Climate

Arlington Heights, Scarsdale & Estates, Stonegate

Dorothy Meyer, CL 3-2298

April began things right this year, or at least by following true to form, with showers the very first day. But there were lots of Arlington Heighters who didn't mind a bit, since they were vacationing in a variety of spots where the temperatures were warmer and the weather couldn't have been better.

The Earl Rileys, 738 S. Mitchell, left March 18 for California, where their first stop was the Los Angeles home of their daughter and son-in-law, the Tom Gores. The Rileys, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gore and son, Bobby, then traveled to Palm Springs, where they spent two weeks in a resort area known as The Monkey Tree. On April 1, after a relaxing vacation which included golf and swimming, the Rileys returned to Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor, 1201 N. Dunton, returned last Thursday from an eight-day motor vacation to Hot Springs, Ark., and on Tuesday they returned from a two-day trip to Bloomington. Accompanying them to Bloomington was Mrs. Taylor's father, Edmund Whitney of Chicago.

A 12-DAY CRUISE on the Carmania was completed last week by the W. M. Brines, 642 S. Vail, and friends, the Robert Tituses of Wheaton. Sailing from Fort Lauderdale, the ship made stops at Nassau, Montego Bay, Barbados, St. Thomas, and San Juan, providing an opportunity for sightseeing in each place. "There's so much to tell," commented Mrs. Brine. "Everything was just lovely, especially the beautiful beaches at Barbados. The cruise and food were wonderful and we had an action-packed trip which was relaxing as well."

The Walter Meyer family, 1205 N. Dunton, returned Monday after a weekend visiting Mrs. Meyer's sister, Mrs. Fred Anderson in Montague, Mich., and brother and sister-in-law, the Walter Heinrichs in Muskegon, where they helped Mrs. Heinrich celebrate her April Fool's birthday.

Arriving April 1 to spend spring vacation with his parents, the Edwin Piepenbrinks, 1112 N. Walnut, was Allen Piepenbrink. He was accompanied by a school friend, Dave Kasischke of Fort Lauderdale. The boys will return to their classes at Concordia High School in Milwaukee on April 11.

ANOTHER LOCAL couple who returned on Sunday from a two-week vacation, much of which they spent on the Grand Bahama Island, were the Wier Swansons, 901 S. Highland. Before leaving the States, they visited friends, the Fred Westfalls in Tampa, and Mr. Swanson's brother, Donald, in Homestead, Fla. Then it was off to the Grand Bahama, where they enjoyed sailing, deep-sea fishing and using their snorkels. Sightseeing on the island included a shopping trip to the resort area West End.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Piontek, 735 N. Vail, entertained the latter's parents, the Earl Nachreiners, and cousin, Barb Bowers, all of Madison, as weekend guests. On Saturday evening, all were guests in the Villa Park home of Mrs. Pointek's sister and brother-in-law, the Dave Callsens, where Mr. Callsen was a surprised guest of honor at his birthday party.

A FORMER Arlington Heights resident, Mrs. Eugene Dresmal, who currently makes her home in LaFayette, Ind., left here Saturday, following a week's visit in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, the Frank Sopranos, 1106 W. Wing. Friday evening the Sopranos and Mrs. Dresmal were dinner guests of Mrs. Dresmal's daughter and son-in-law, the Dennis Blewitts of Park Ridge, following which they visited in the Evanston home of Mrs. Dresmal's son and daughter-in-law, the James Dresmals.

Martha, daughter of the Floyd Terbells, 402 W. Kirchhoff, arrived last weekend to spend spring vacation in her parents' home. She was accompanied by her college friend. Sue Dextra of Pella, Iowa. Since this is Sue's first trip to the area, Martha and her family have enjoyed showing her the many points of interest provided by Chicago and the suburbs. Saturday night Martha and Sue will attend the concert given by Peter, Paul and Mary at McCormick Place, and both girls will return to Iowa to resume their studies at Central College in Pella on Sunday.

MR. AND MR. Melvin Born, 1007 E. Olive, returned Sunday evening from a two-week motor trip to Florida. They were joined there the day of their arrival at Ormond Beach by their daughter, Beth, and Mr. Born's mother, Mrs. Rudolph Born, who flew down to spend the two weeks with them. A week later, another daughter, Marilyn, flew down for spring vacation to be with her parents and work on a suntan.

Driving home, the Borns left Marilyn in Bloomington, where she resumed her studies at Indiana University. "It's easy to see that we're fond of Ormond Beach," laughed Mrs. Born. "The weather, as usual, was beautiful, and this is our eighth vacation there."

On Saturday, David, son of the Edwin Bublitzes, 108 S. Evergreen, celebrated his third birthday at a family party. Present to help make the occasion a successful one were Mrs. Bublitz' aunt and cousin, Mrs. Hattie Johnson and Charles of Chicago, her mother, Mrs. Arthur Pape and brother and family, the Robert Papes, all of Palatine.

Entertainment was provided in the form of showing of home movies of past vacations and family parties.

Joan Pagliai, daughter of the Robert Pagliais, 442 S. Kennicott, was honored on her 10th birthday, March 24, with a family night at the Ice Capades. Guests present in the Pagliai home to join in the celebration and enjoy cake and coffee were Joan's grandparents, the Peter Pagliai's of Arlington Heights and the George Piemontes of Elmwood Park.

A family dinner party Sunday afternoon in the Raymond Roper home, 404 N. Chestnut, celebrated the confirmation of their daughter, Delores, one of 25 in the class of confirmands in St. John United Church of Christ. Here from Huntley for the occasion was the Arthur Hafferkamp family, joining local family members in feting Delores. Mrs. Hafferkamp served as Delores' sponsor. Others adding their blessings to the day were her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Blume of Arlington Heights, and uncles, aunts and cousins, the Harold Roper family of Rolling Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Roper of Palatine and Mrs. Lydia Bauer of Arlington Heights.

"WE MISSED the blizzard by a day," said Mrs. W. G. Franke of 126 Pine. "We drove to Minneapolis on March 22 to celebrate our grandson's birthday on the 23rd." Billy Eakins was 6 and had a children's party with pinatas brought from Mexico by the Frankes. His mother, Sana, is a former Arlington Heights resident. Mrs. Franke and Billy's great-grandmother drove up, followed later by Mr. Franke.

While there, they saw a showing of "Dr. Zhivago."

The Ralph Banks of 722 Mayfair flew to Florida to spend three days before going on to Nassau for a longer stay at the British Colonial Hotel. They relaxed, swam and fished in the beautiful 80 degree weather, returning rested and tanned.

An evening in New Orleans, complete with a Dixieland band and simulated Bourbon Street, was a birthday treat for Franz Burnier. His parents, the August Burniers of 516 Fairview, entertained Franz and his wife at Pheasant Run, where this atmosphere prevails, on March 26.

A BETWEEN quarters vacation for Carol Genn and parents, the Earl Genns of 352 Bristol, took them to California, where they visited Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and other Los Angeles area attractions before going to Palm Springs. They also enjoyed the tram ride up the San Jacinto Mountains. Final stop was Phoenix, for the rodeo of rodeos given by the Pheonix Jaycees. "It was a lot of fun," said Mrs. Genn.

Richard Garrity, Roger Hanson and Jim Weismueller, all high school seniors, spent last weekend in Denver looking over Regis College and the University of Denver. Richard is the son of the John Garritys, 615 Grove.

Spring vacation will mean a rest and seeing friends for Sulane Hamilton, 127 Brighton. She will be home from Dennison University in Granville, Ohio.

The Nathaniel Irwins, 329 Stratford, visited Mrs. Irwin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Walser in Hampton, Iowa, for the weekend. Daughters Nancy and Marilyn were along and they were joined on Sunday by her brother's family, the John E. Walsers of Des Moines.

It's amazing how many people have tickets for "Hello, Dolly" in May. Seems as though the ticket sellers decided to bloc the Northwest area residents who ordered tickets last fall and decided on May. An amusing note was struck by Mrs. Irwin, as she told of ordering tickets for this popular show last November to tuck in the family's Christmas stockings. They came and were for a May performance. When Mr. Irwin saw this, he remarked, "Well, at least the weather will be nice.'

A POST nuptial miscellaneous shower was held March 27 for Mrs. Robert Ficher, the former Jean Sullivan of 415 S. Windsor. Twenty-seven women gathered at the Frank Kroll home, 326 S. Derbyshire. Hostesses with Mrs. Kroll were Mrs. Chet Raasch and Mrs. Carl Mees.

Craig Kovar, son of Mrs. Chet Raasch, 420 Windsor, was 11 March 22. He entertained at a bowling party March 26 for Gary Leydig, Tom Truetler, David Born, Larry Campa and Jeff Horton.

Digging for mussels on Long Island and "doing the town" in Manhattan filled the last days of March for the Harry L. Wickstrom family, 527 S. Dryden, who recently returned from a business-pleasure trip to New York. Pure pleasure for Mrs. Wickstrom and the children, Lorie and Paul, the eastern stay included tours of 5th Avenue, Park Avenue, the Empire State Building, the Statue of Liberty, Central Park, the United Nations and Radio City Music Hall. Mussel-digging was a fringe benefit of a delightful day spent with former Scarsdale residents and longtime friends of the Wickstroms, the John Schweikert family.

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP" SYMBOLIZES U. S. IN WAR OF 1812

There's much to remember about the War of 1812—in addition to the glorious victories by Commodore Oliver Perry in the naval battle of Lake Erie, and by Andrew Jackson in the land battle of New Orleans.

One significant result of the war was the establishment of America—for the first time—as a world power. Our Navy was smaller than England's, and considered inferior, yet we scored naval triumphs over the British; beside Perry's victory, our frigate, the "Constitution" won a memorable battle off Nova Scotia.

And two of history's most famous quotes came out of the war: Perry said, "We have met the enemy and they are ours".

In another battle, Capt. James Lawrence on the "Chesapeake" said, "Don't give up the ship".

That quote continues to live today as a symbol of American spirit.

April began things right this year, or at least by following true to form, with showers the very first day. But there were lots of Arlington Heighters who didn't mind a bit, since they were vacationing in a variety of spots where the temperatures were warmer and the weather couldn't have been better.

The Earl Rileys, 738 S. Mitchell, left March 18 for California, where their first stop was the Los Angeles home of their daughter and son-in-law, the Tom Gores. The Rileys, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gore and son, Bobby, then traveled to Palm Springs, where they spent two weeks in a resort area known as The Monkey Tree. On April 1, after a relaxing vacation which included golf and swimming, the Rileys returned to Arlington Heights.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taylor, 1201 N. Dunton, returned last Thursday from an eight-day motor vacation to Hot Springs, Ark., and on Tuesday they returned from a two-day trip to Bloomington. Accompanying them to Bloomington was Mrs. Taylor's father, Edmund Whitney of Chicago.

A 12-DAY CRUISE on the Carmania was completed last week by the W. M. Brines, 642 S. Vail, and friends, the Robert Tituses of Wheaton. Sailing from Fort Lauderdale, the ship made stops at Nassau, Montego Bay, Barbados, St. Thomas, and San Juan, providing an opportunity for sightseeing in each place. "There's so much to tell," commented Mrs. Brine. "Everything was just lovely, especially the beautiful beaches at Barbados. The cruise and food were wonderful and we had an action-packed trip which was relaxing as well."

The Walter Meyer family, 1205 N. Dunton, returned Monday after a weekend visiting Mrs. Meyer's sister, Mrs. Fred Anderson in Montague, Mich., and brother and sister-in-law, the Walter Heinrichs in Muskegon, where they helped Mrs. Heinrich celebrate her April Fool's birthday.

Arriving April 1 to spend spring vacation with his parents, the Edwin Piepenbrinks, 1112 N. Walnut, was Allen Piepenbrink. He was accompanied by a school friend, Dave Kasischke of Fort Lauderdale. The boys will return to their classes at Concordia High School in Milwaukee on April 11.

ANOTHER LOCAL couple who returned on Sunday from a two-week vacation, much of which they spent on the Grand Bahama Island, were the Wier Swansons, 901 S. Highland. Before leaving the States, they visited friends, the Fred Westfalls in Tampa, and Mr. Swanson's brother, Donald, in Homestead, Fla. Then it was off to the Grand Bahama, where they enjoyed sailing, deep-sea fishing and using their snorkels. Sightseeing on the island included a shopping trip to the resort area West End.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Piontek, 735 N. Vail, entertained the latter's parents, the Earl Nachreiners, and cousin, Barb Bowers, all of Madison, as weekend guests. On Saturday evening, all were guests in the Villa Park home of Mrs. Pointek's sister and brother-in-law, the Dave Callsens, where Mr. Callsen was a surprised guest of honor at his birthday party.

A FORMER Arlington Heights resident, Mrs. Eugene Dresmal, who currently makes her home in LaFayette, Ind., left here Saturday, following a week's visit in the home of her daughter and son-in-law, the Frank Sopranos, 1106 W. Wing. Friday evening the Sopranos and Mrs. Dresmal were dinner guests of Mrs. Dresmal's daughter and son-in-law, the Dennis Blewitts of Park Ridge, following which they visited in the Evanston home of Mrs. Dresmal's son and daughter-in-law, the James Dresmals.

Martha, daughter of the Floyd Terbells, 402 W. Kirchhoff, arrived last weekend to spend spring vacation in her parents' home. She was accompanied by her college friend. Sue Dextra of Pella, Iowa. Since this is Sue's first trip to the area, Martha and her family have enjoyed showing her the many points of interest provided by Chicago and the suburbs. Saturday night Martha and Sue will attend the concert given by Peter, Paul and Mary at McCormick Place, and both girls will return to Iowa to resume their studies at Central College in Pella on Sunday.

MR. AND MR. Melvin Born, 1007 E. Olive, returned Sunday evening from a two-week motor trip to Florida. They were joined there the day of their arrival at Ormond Beach by their daughter, Beth, and Mr. Born's mother, Mrs. Rudolph Born, who flew down to spend the two weeks with them. A week later, another daughter, Marilyn, flew down for spring vacation to be with her parents and work on a suntan.

Driving home, the Borns left Marilyn in Bloomington, where she resumed her studies at Indiana University. "It's easy to see that we're fond of Ormond Beach," laughed Mrs. Born. "The weather, as usual, was beautiful, and this is our eighth vacation there."

On Saturday, David, son of the Edwin Bublitzes, 108 S. Evergreen, celebrated his third birthday at a family party. Present to help make the occasion a successful one were Mrs. Bublitz' aunt and cousin, Mrs. Hattie Johnson and Charles of Chicago, her mother, Mrs. Arthur Pape and brother and family, the Robert Papes, all of Palatine.

Entertainment was provided in the form of showing of home movies of past vacations and family parties.

Joan Pagliai, daughter of the Robert Pagliais, 442 S. Kennicott, was honored on her 10th birthday, March 24, with a family night at the Ice Capades. Guests present in the Pagliai home to join in the celebration and enjoy cake and coffee were Joan's grandparents, the Peter Pagliai's of Arlington Heights and the George Piemontes of Elmwood Park.

Saturday a party was given for Kathy. Partygoers were Mara Jones, Debbie Kanyuh, Amy Coffin, Sue Hanlon and Linda Gryzak. The young guests enjoyed a luncheon at the Rodens; an Easter theme was followed for the decorations. In the afternoon, they went to the Northwest Suburban YMCA to roller skate, play ping pong and swim. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

The Terrace bids farewell to Ron and Laraine Francis and their children, Mark, Kenny, Kevin and Kimberly, who moved from 1227 N. Wilke to a duplex in Sugarbrook in Arlington Heights on April 1. The family had lived on Wilke Road for nearly 12 years; their home was one of the first completed on Wilke Road in the Terrace.

Hostess at an afternoon coffee on Thursday was Shelba Leffort, 1246 N. Yale. The coffee served a dual purpose — for the neighbors to meet a newcomer to the area, Ginny Karavatos, and for the women to get together after their winter hibernation. Present were Mary Avery, Jean Guderley, Lorrie Balmer, Diane Peterson, Freya Jones, Debbie Gleeson, Deanna Herda, Karen Walters, Justine Kanyuh and 17 children.

Sunday Bob and Kay Roden and daughter, Kathy, 1212 N. Illinois, went to Skokie to attend the confirmation of Kay's niece, Patricia Kay Kelley. After the ceremonies they attended a party at the home of Kay's sister and family, the Richard Kelleys.

COLLEEN COLEMAN, daughter of the Jim Colemans, 1411 Clarendon, was 11 April 1. She celebrated at a luncheon Saturday attended by Mari Draughon, Margaret Kane, Patricia Dwyer, Elizabeth Winters, Cathy Deeter, Lisa Wuestenfeld, Victoria Sullivan, Janet Olson, Roberta Plant and Colleen's sister, Patricia. An Easter theme was used for the decorations.

Friday evening the Coleman family had a family celebration for Colleen and her mother, who shares her birth dazte.

Guests were Ricky Nieman, Kathy Maybee, David and Linda Fugate, Mike Galloway, Jeff Spaulding, Pat Walsh, Pat Slimmer, Vicki Kroman of Chicago, Kenny Elsner of Palatine and Robby's brother and sister, Steven and Dianna. A train and Indian theme were used for the decorations; special feature being a train cake.

Celebrating his eighth birthday Saturday was Jimmy Charleston, son of the James Charlestons, 1333 N. Chicago. Attending his afternoon luncheon were Doug Martin, Kenny Owens, two cousins, Patrick Braje of Ingleside and Kenneth Schmidt of Rolling Meadows, and Jimmy's sister, Jean.

Coming from Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, to visit the Bill Balows, 1424 N. Illinois, last week were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Corby and their married daughter, Mrs. Sharon Laye. They arrived on Monday and left Sunday. While here they visited Old Orchard and Randhurst and enjoyed dinner and an evening at the theatre at Old Orchard Country Club. The Corbys and Balows were joined by Bill Balow's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Brundage of Chicago, during their evening out at Old Orchard. KICKIN' IT AROUND

BOB FRISK
Sports Editor

Peterson Earns Yankee Slot . . .

Fred (Fritz) Peterson has won a place on the New York Yankee pitching staff.

That was the word from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Sunday after Peterson, an Arlington High School graduate in 1960, pitched seven strong innings in an 8-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Peterson not only has won a spot on the Yankee staff, but he also may find himself in a starter's role. The starting job that's open used to belong to Jim Bouton, and Bouton has had an erratic spring.

Whitey Ford, Mel Stottlemyre, Bob Friend, and Al Downing presently rate as the four regular starters on the Yankee staff. Peterson ranks No. 5 at the moment which is good for "spot starting" assignments early in the season when the schedule is light.

"However, neither Friend nor Downing have been so unquestionably impressive as to preclude further advancement for Peterson, who has done well every time he has pitched," reports Leonard Koppett of the New York Times.

Peterson's performance against the Phillies Sunday wasn't spectacular but it was steady, and the Yankees haven't been blessed with steady mound work this spring.

In 23 innings of spring pitching Peterson has a sparkling 1.98 earned run average, 13 strikeouts and only three walks. That record is surpassed only by Whitey Ford.

Peterson, who went to Northern Illinois University from Arlington High, kept the Phillies hitless in five of the seven innings Sunday, striking out five (Richie Allen twice) and issuing his only walk in the seventh. He scattered six hits.

If our memory serves us correctly, Peterson and Dick Bokelmann, another pitcher and an Arlington High School graduate in 1944, are the only Paddock area products to ever reach the big time in professional baseball.

Several boys have inked pro contracts and have toiled in the minors, but Peterson and Bokelmann are the only area grads to actually reach the major leagues.

Unlike Peterson, who didn't grab too many big headlines in his high school days at Arlington, Bokelmann was a prep phenom. He lost only one game at Arlington and had a string of low-hit affairs.

After two victories in his soph year, Bokelmann turned in a 5-0 junior season, throwing four two-hitters. As a senior, he lost only one start, a 3-0 decision to Niles, though pitching a three-hitter.

In his first three assignments in 1944 Bokelmann blanked Ela, 5-0, allowing four hits and striking out 16; followed with a two-hitter and 15 strikeouts against Warren; and then whipped Leyden, 1-0, on a two-hitter, fanning nine.

The right-hander went from Arlington to Northwestern University and signed a professional contract with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1947.

"I started out with Rochester but did a lot of traveling around in the minors," Bokelmann recalls. "I went to Fresno in California, back to Rochester, to Allentown, to Omaha and spent the 1950 season with both Rochester and Houston."

It was in 1951 that Bokelmann, who had been mainly a starting pitchér, was switched to a relief role. He was a minor league sensation as a relief pitcher, compiling a 10-2 record and brilliant 0.75 earned run average for Houston in the Texas League.

DICK BOKELMANN
First to Reach Majors

Bokelmann's performances at Houston that year prompted his recall to the St. Louis Cardinals in August. He finished out the season and worked 20 games for Manager Marty Marion, compiling a 3-3 record.

"He started me once against Chicago, but I was primarily the short relief man," Dick points out. "Al Brazle was the lefty in the bull pen. We did finish fourth so I got a slice of the World Series money."

Eddie Stanky then took over as manager of the Cardinals, and Bokelmann had what he termed "a bad spring training" in 1952.

"I had a bad arm and couldn't seem to get anyone out," Dick remembers, "but stuck with the Cardinals until June when they sent me back to Rochester. I was in one decision with St. Louis and lost it.

Bokelmann finished out the 1952 season with Houston and reported to the Cardinal camp in 1953 with high hopes. "It was a better camp for me than in '52 but they sent me to Houston in May and then I finished up at Columbus, Ohio."

Bokelmann was sold to Cincinnati in the spring of 1954 and spent the entire season with Tulsa in the Texas League. He appeared in 66 games for Tulsa, a club that was operated by Grayle Howlett, a former resident of Arlington Heights who was a great high school booster in the days when Bokelmann was pitching.

"When Cincinnati didn't pick me up at the end of the season, I decided to get out of organized baseball and start a permanent occupation," says Bokelmann, who lives in Arlington Heights with his wife and two children and works in insurance out of the Prudential office in Palatine.

Dick didn't stop pitching when he departed from the professional ranks, and spent some impressive summer seasons with area semi-pro teams, including the Arlington Redwings, a club that used to attract large crowds on Sunday afternoons at Recreation Park.

Dick Bokelmann was the first and Fred (Fritz) Peterson is the second area product to graduate to the major leagues.

There may be a third in a very short time. The professional bird-dogs still have a "can't miss" tag on Tommy Lundgren, the fire-balling left-hander who prepped at Forest View and was a key man in Arlington's rise to national prominence in American Legion ranks.

Lundgren is a freshman at the University of Missouri.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

Arlington opened its baseball season with a 6-3 victory over LaGrange as John Sujack and Al Smeby worked on the mound . . .The Cards also whipped Niles 5-2 behind the pitching of Bob Getts but dropped a 7-6 decision to Glenbard West . . .Bill Palmer was a double winner against both Maine and Waukegan in track, topping the high hurdles and high jump.(

Nisen Takes Over at Helm

New Season, New Coach But Knight Golfers Still Strong

by MICHAEL HESS

New season, new coach, but Prospect's golf team should be the same old powerhouse.

Knights linksmen open 1966 action next Wednesday. First of 14 scheduled meets will be against a team from Elgin-Larkin.

Directing Prospect golfers this campaign is Mike Nisen. In his first year as a teacher and first as a coach, Nisen replaces former headman Warren Collier.

In 1964, under Collier, the Knights varsity captured Mid-Suburban League and district titles and was sixth in the state meet. The M-SL frosh - soph crown also went to Prospect.

LAST SPRING, again with Collier at the helm, the Knights compiled a 7-2 upper level duals mark, losing only to New Trier by eight strokes and Glenbard South by five. They again won conference and district championships and were eighth among state contestants.

Lower level competition during '65 found Prospect dropping just one of nine duals, that to NT by nine strokes. The younger golf entry was again first in league and, in one of its matches, set a school record of 312 for 18 holes.

Returning from the varsity team of one year ago is a trio of senior lettermen, Doug Lytle, Dave Lovgren, and Neal Rowe. Juniors Harry Wallace, Bob Phelan, Joe Rosanova, Fred Fassnacht and Tom Bialczak have moved up from the frosh-soph unit.

Two others, Bill Oelklaus and Bill Volk, expand Niesen's varsity squad for the coming season to an even 10 members.

DAVE LOVGREN
State Experience

LYTLE, ONE year ago, had 12 hole totals of 39, 53 and 54 and 18s of 75, 78, 80 and 92. He was third best in the conference meet, with an 80, and carded the same score in district competition. A 94 and an 87 gave Lytle a 181 in the two-day state event.

Over 12 holes last spring Lovgren turned in a 39, a 48 and a 53 plus rounds of 73, 80, 91, 83, 84 and 90 for 18. He had identical 83's in the M-SL and district meets. Downstate Lovgren started with a 43-43-86 and wound up with a 38-39-77 for a 163, putting him 20th best in the meet.

Rowe, playing parttime, had a nine of 39 and 12 of 57 in '65.

In F-S greens and fairways action last year Wallace averaged 39 strokes, best on the team, for each nine holes he covered and 85 for each 18. He grabbed medalist honors in the Mid-Suburban meet with 82.

AVERAGES of 41 for nine and 85 for 18 belonged to Phelan while Rosanova was 42 over nine holes and, best on the team, 83 over 18. Phelan, whose 35 was the team's lowest nine of the season, was third in the league meet with 88. Rosanova, carding a 75 for the team's low-

Other Golf Units

Four other Paddock area golf units open 1966 schedules next week. Forest View linksmen get underway Thursday, April 14, while St. Viator starts April 15, Wheeling on April 18 and Arlington April 19. See next week's Paddock sports section for complete details on that quartet of golf forces.

Key Wheeling Returnee

WILDCATS LEADER in their opening 1966 baseball game this Saturday will be senior Mark Newman. He'll start on the mound for Wheeling in the lid-lifter against Niles North. Last spring Newman posted a 1-4 pitching record and a .327 mark at the plate for coach Steve Chernicky's diamond entry which had a 5-12-1 standard in its initial year of competition.

St. Viator Bumps Lane Tech

Collins Boys Spark Lions in First Win

St. Viator's varsity Lions, silenced without a run in the season opener, unleashed some offensive fireworks Saturday at the expense of a perennial high school baseball power.

With the Collins boys, Dan and Tom, combining to deliver five hits and drive across eight runs, Coach Len Sparacino's Lions ripped Lane Tech of Chicago, 9-5, for their first victory of the 1966 season.

Three boys worked on the mound for Sparacino as he watched his club break away from a 4-4 deadlock with a three-run barrage in the fourth inning.

Right hander John Loughman started on the hill for the Lions and departed after three innings, yielding four runs on five hits.

LEFTY BOB Stevens followed Loughman, making his first appearance since he threw a no-hitter at Waterloo in the state tourney last spring. Stevens allowed one run and one hit over two frames, and the safety was of the scratch variety.

Tom Collins, another right-hander, finished up for St. Viator and "did an excellent job" according to Sparacino. Collins got the side on only five pitches in the sixth frame and needed only four pitches in the seventh.

St. Viator scored its first run of the '66 campaign in the first inning on a walk to Loughman, error on an attempted pickoff, single by Dan Collins, and sacrifice fly by Tom Collins.

LANE TECH, ALSO a state finalist last spring, got to Loughman for three runs in the first, capitalizing on two walks that kicked off the stanza. Back-to-back doubles were the big blows with two outs.

The Lions came right back with a three-run salvo of their own in the second, and Dan Collins was the key man here. Collins slammed a booming triple to left field after a single by Tom McDonald, hit batsman, and single by Loughman had loaded the bases.

DAN COLLINS

Two hits brought in the tieing run for Lane in the third inning, but St. Viator climbed into a lead it didn't relinquish again in the fourth.

McDONALD GOT things started with a triple and after Bill Kaveney walked, Loughman lifted a run-scoring sacrifice fly. Dan Collins delivered his third straight hit and fifth straight of the season, and two errors by the second baseman helped send two more runners across.

Lane chopped one run from the Lion lead in the fifth, but the visitors concluded their scoring with a two-run outburst in the sixth.

Loughman started the rally with a walk and he stole second. Dan Collins was checked for the first time this season when he drove a fly to left field, but Tom Collins slapped a single that sent Loughman across.

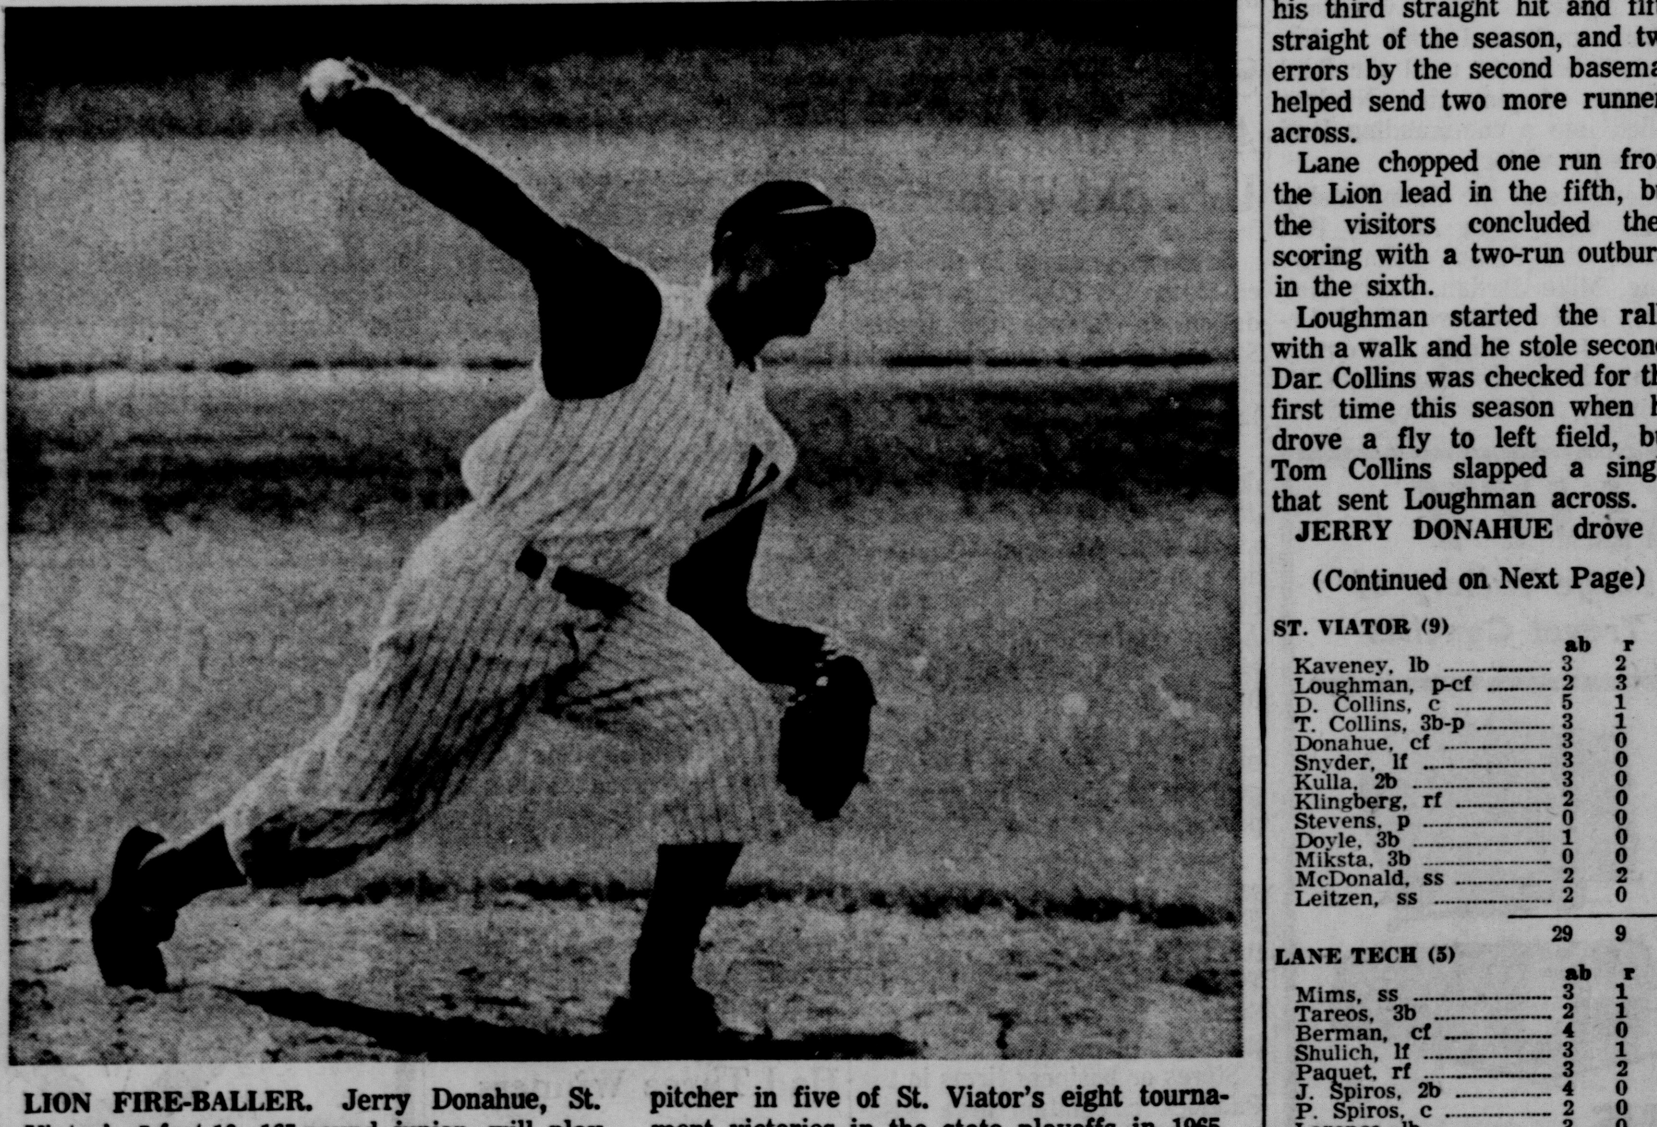
Lions' Strong Right Arm



LION FIRE-BALLER. Jerry Donahue, St. Viator's 5-foot-10, 165-pound junior, will play a key role for the Lions in the 1966 varsity baseball campaign. Donahue, who pitched a two-hitter but still lost a 1-0 decision in his mound debut last week, was the winning pitcher in five of St. Viator's eight tournament victories in the state playoffs in 1965. Jerry plays in the outfield when he's not pitching. Weather permitting, St. Viator will entertain Ridgewood today (Thursday) at 11 a.m.

Wheeling Nine Hosts Niles W.

Newman, Bischoff Hurl For Chernicky's Squad

by Michael Hess

Certainly late, probably last, but definitely not least . . .

All area baseball teams have tried to venture into 1966 schedules. All have tried to meet opening opponents. All except one.

Wheeling's diamond entry hasn't attempted to start a new campaign and won't until Saturday. At 11:00 a.m., when they host Niles North, the 'Cats will finally get underway.

Coach Steve Chernicky's nine compiled a 5-12-1 over-all record in its first season of play. That '65 mark includes a seventh place finish, at 4-10, in Mid-Suburban League standings.

Will the Wildcats improve this year? Said Chernicky:

"TO IMPROVE WE have to do two things. One, we have to tighten our defense which let in too many runs last year. Two, we have to get more clutch hits because we left too many runners stranded. Also, we'll have to make up for losing two good pitchers."

Those hurlers lost to Wheeling are Jim Pavelle and Skip Grandt.

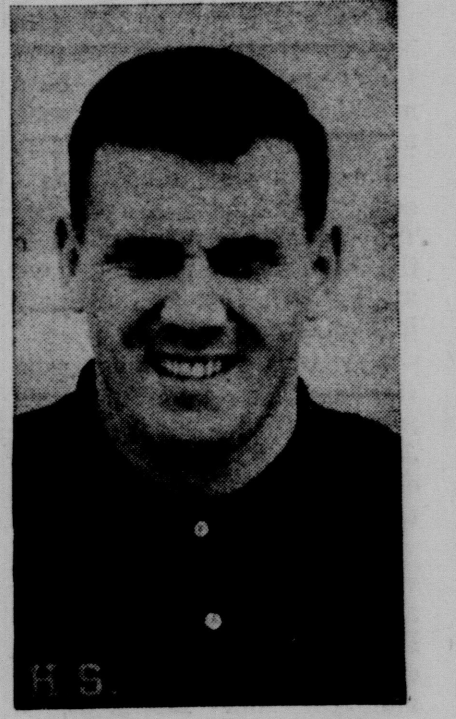
Grandt led the Wildcats' mound staff last spring. He appeared in the most games, 15, most innings, 47, had the lowest ERA, at 2.69, and tied for the strike-out lead, with 48, on his way to a 2-5 record. Grandt hit .125, going three for 24.

Working on the hill in 39 innings of 10 games, Pavelle fanned 48, had a 3.65 ERA and ended with 2-3 won-lost totals. At the plate he was fourth best on the team swatting two homers, 15 singles and picking up six RBI's in 55 times up for a .309 average.

Grandt had his appendix removed last Friday and won't throw for at least five weeks. Pavelle has moved to Washington, D.C. Because that pair is gone the pitching-hitting burden on other 'Cats diamond personnel will be much greater.

PERHAPS THE heaviest work load will fall to Mark Newman.

As a hurler in '65 Newman worked in 33 innings of 10 games setting down 46 on strikes while walking just eight. He had a 1-4 record and 5.69 ERA. With a bat Newman led Wheeling in hits, 18, runs scored, 12, doubles, 3, and runs batted in, 13. He had a .327 average.



STEVE CHERNICKY
Missing Two Pitchers

During the summer Newman played on the Arlington American Legion unit which won 42 of 48 contests and was fifth in the nation. He hit .358 with the Legion, getting 48 hits in 134 trips to the plate, and also gained two victories on the mound.

Backing up Newman on the 'Cats hill this season will be juniors Scott Bischoff, Greg Fedyski, Rich Haddock and senior Tom Manderscheid.

Bischoff didn't play one year ago due to injury but he's scheduled to follow Newman's hurling stint against Niles North. Fedyski toiled with the soph team last season while Manderscheid has switched to the hill from infield duty where he hit .346 in '65. Only Haddock has any varsity pitching experience, one inning last year.

"WE'VE ONLY worked indoors," commented Chernicky, "but so far our pitchers have looked good. They've all been throwing hard, have decent control and have shown good form."

Behind the plate for Wheeling will probably be senior Bob Krug. As a junior he topped his team with a .375 average, getting 15 hits in 40 at bats. Backing up Krug will be juniors Ford Drogenueller, a transfer from Michigan, and Dan DeVito, who hit .074 last season.

The Wildcats infield slots are fairly well set, except at first.

Competing at first are senior Jim Whittington and junior Rex Peterson. Whittington hit .275

The Lions were scheduled to play Ridgewood today (Thursday) at 11 a.m. in a makeup of their Monday contest.

Arlington will host Prospect Friday at 1 p.m. at Recreation Park in a makeup of their game washed out last Friday.

Peterson Earns Yankee Slot . . .

DICK BOKELMANN
First to Reach Majors

Fred (Fritz) Peterson has won a place on the New York Yankee pitching staff.

That was the word from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Sunday after Peterson, an Arlington High School graduate in 1960, pitched seven strong innings in an 8-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Peterson not only has won a spot on the Yankee staff, but he also may find himself in a starter's role. The starting job that's open used to belong to Jim Bouton, and Bouton has had an erratic spring.

Whitey Ford, Mel Stottlemyre, Bob Friend, and Al Downing presently rate as the four regular starters on the Yankee staff. Peterson ranks No. 5 at the moment which is good for "spot starting" assignments early in the season when the schedule is light.

"However, neither Friend nor Downing have been so unquestionably impressive as to preclude further advancement for Peterson, who has done well every time he has pitched," reports Leonard Koppett of the New York Times.

Peterson's performance against the Phillies Sunday wasn't spectacular but it was steady, and the Yankees haven't been blessed with steady mound work this spring.

In 23 innings of spring pitching Peterson has a sparkling 1.98 earned run average, 13 strikeouts and only three walks. That record is surpassed only by Whitey Ford.

Peterson, who went to Northern Illinois University from Arlington High, kept the Phillies hitless in five of the seven innings Sunday, striking out five (Richie Allen twice) and issuing his only walk in the seventh. He scattered six hits.

If our memory serves us correctly, Peterson and Dick Bokelmann, another pitcher and an Arlington High School graduate in 1944, are the only Paddock area products to ever reach the big time in professional baseball.

Several boys have inked pro contracts and have toiled in the minors, but Peterson and Bokelmann are the only area grads to actually reach the major leagues.

Unlike Peterson, who didn't grab too many big headlines in his high school days at Arlington, Bokelmann was a prep phenom. He lost only one game at Arlington and had a string of low-hit affairs.

After two victories in his soph year, Bokelmann turned in a 5-0 junior season, throwing four two-hitters. As a senior, he lost only one start, a 3-0 decision to Niles, though pitching a three-hitter.

In his first three assignments in 1944 Bokelmann blanked Ela, 5-0, allowing four hits and striking out 16; followed with a two-hitter and 15 strikeouts against Warren; and then whipped Leyden, 1-0, on a two-hitter, fanning nine.

The right-hander went from Arlington to Northwestern University and signed a professional contract with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1947.

"I started out with Rochester but did a lot of traveling around in the minors," Bokelmann recalls. "I went to Fresno in California, back to Rochester, to Allentown, to Omaha and spent the 1950 season with both Rochester and Houston."

It was in 1951 that Bokelmann, who had been mainly a starting pitcher, was switched to a relief role. He was a minor league sensation as a relief pitcher, compiling a 10-2 record and brilliant 0.75 earned run average for Houston in the Texas League.

Bokelmann's performances at Houston that year prompted his recall to the St. Louis Cardinals in August. He finished out the season and worked 20 games for Manager Marty Marion, compiling a 3-3 record.

"He started me once against Chicago, but I was primarily the short relief man," Dick points out. "Al Brazle was the lefty in the bull pen. We did finish fourth so I got a slice of the World Series money."

Eddie Stanky then took over as manager of the Cardinals, and Bokelmann had what he termed "a bad spring training" in 1952.

"I had a bad arm and couldn't seem to get anyone out," Dick remembers, "but stuck with the Cardinals until June when they sent me back to Rochester. I was in one decision with St. Louis and lost it.

Bokelmann finished out the 1952 season with Houston and reported to the Cardinal camp in 1953 with high hopes. "It was a better camp for me than in '52 but they sent me to Houston in May and then I finished up at Columbus, Ohio."

Bokelmann was sold to Cincinnati in the spring of 1954 and spent the entire season with Tulsa in the Texas League. He appeared in 66 games for Tulsa, a club that was operated by Grayle Howlett, a former resident of Arlington Heights who was a great high school booster in the days when Bokelmann was pitching.

"When Cincinnati didn't pick me up at the end of the season, I decided to get out of organized baseball and start a permanent occupation," says Bokelmann, who lives in Arlington Heights with his wife and two children and works in insurance out of the Prudential office in Palatine.

Dick didn't stop pitching when he departed from the professional ranks, and spent some impressive summer seasons with area semi-pro teams, including the Arlington Redwings, a club that used to attract large crowds on Sunday afternoons at Recreation Park.

Dick Bokelmann was the first and Fred (Fritz) Peterson is the second area product to graduate to the major leagues.

There may be a third in a very short time. The professional bird-dogs still have a "can't miss" tag on Tommy Lundgren, the fire-balling left-hander who prepped at Forest View and was a key man in Arlington's rise to national prominence in American Legion ranks.

Lundgren is a freshman at the University of Missouri.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

Arlington opened its baseball season with a 6-3 victory over LaGrange as John Sujack and Al Smeby worked on the mound . . .The Cards also whipped Niles 5-2 behind the pitching of Bob Getts but dropped a 7-6 decision to Glenbard West . . .Bill Palmer was a double winner against both Maine and Waukegan in track, topping the high hurdles and high jump.(

Nisen Takes Over at Helm

New Season, New Coach But Knight Golfers Still Strong

by MICHAEL HESS

New season, new coach, but Prospect's golf team should be the same old powerhouse.

Knights linksmen open 1966 action next Wednesday. First of 14 scheduled meets will be against a team from Elgin-Larkin.

Directing Prospect golfers this campaign is Mike Nisen. In his first year as a teacher and first as a coach, Nisen replaces former headman Warren Collier.

In 1964, under Collier, the Knights varsity captured Mid-Suburban League and district titles and was sixth in the state meet. The M-SL frosh - soph crown also went to Prospect.

LAST SPRING, again with Collier at the helm, the Knights compiled a 7-2 upper level duals mark, losing only to New Trier by eight strokes and Glenbard South by five. They again won conference and district championships and were eighth among state contestants.

Lower level competition during '65 found Prospect dropping just one of nine duals, that to NT by nine strokes. The younger golf entry was again first in league and, in one of its matches, set a school record of 312 for 18 holes.

Returning from the varsity team of one year ago is a trio of senior lettermen, Doug Lytle, Dave Lovgren, and Neal Rowe. Juniors Harry Wallace, Bob Phelan, Joe Rosanova, Fred Fassnacht and Tom Bialczak have moved up from the frosh-soph unit.

Two others, Bill Oelklaus and Bill Volk, expand Niesen's varsity squad for the coming season to an even 10 members.

DAVE LOVGREN
State Experience

LYTLE, ONE year ago, had 12 hole totals of 39, 53 and 54 and 18s of 75, 78, 80 and 92. He was third best in the conference meet, with an 80, and carded the same score in district competition. A 94 and an 87 gave Lytle a 181 in the two-day state event.

Over 12 holes last spring Lovgren turned in a 39, a 48 and a 53 plus rounds of 73, 80, 91, 83, 84 and 90 for 18. He had identical 83's in the M-SL and district meets. Downstate Lovgren started with a 43-43-86 and wound up with a 38-39-77 for a 163, putting him 20th best in the meet.

Rowe, playing parttime, had a nine of 39 and 12 of 57 in '65.

In F-S greens and fairways action last year Wallace averaged 39 strokes, best on the team, for each nine holes he covered and 85 for each 18. He grabbed medalist honors in the Mid-Suburban meet with 82.

AVERAGES of 41 for nine and 85 for 18 belonged to Phelan while Rosanova was 42 over nine holes and, best on the team, 83 over 18. Phelan, whose 35 was the team's lowest nine of the season, was third in the league meet with 88. Rosanova, carding a 75 for the team's low-

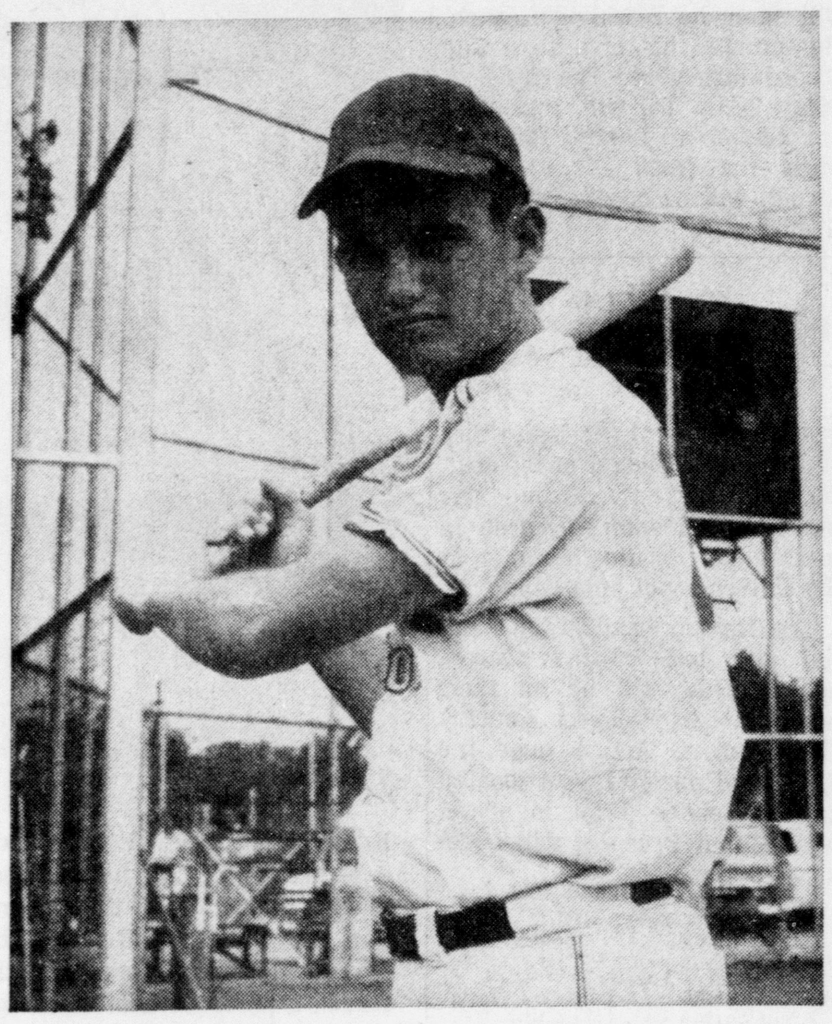
Other Golf Units

Four other Paddock area golf units open 1966 schedules next week. Forest View linksmen get underway Thursday, April 14, while St. Viator starts April 15, Wheeling on April 18 and Arlington April 19. See next week's Paddock sports section for complete details on that quartet of golf forces.

Key Wheeling Returnee



WILDCATS LEADER in their opening 1966 baseball game this Saturday will be senior Mark Newman. He'll start on the mound for Wheeling in the lid-lifter against Niles North. Last spring Newman posted a 1-4 pitching record and a .327 mark at the plate for coach Steve Chernicky's diamond entry which had a 5-12-1 standard in its initial year of competition. (Staff photo)

GEORGE POMEY

Michigan Frosh Job To Pomey

George Pomey, an All-state basketball player at Prospect High School in 1961, has been named frosh basketball coach at the University of Michigan.

Pomey, a regular guard as a senior at Michigan, replaces Tom Jorgensen who has taken the head coaching assignment at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

Jorgensen, a former prep star at Chicago Parker High School, is the uncle of Jim Jorgensen, a varsity performer for Arlington High last winter.

Pomey played two years of varsity basketball at Prospect after transferring from Grant High School. He is the greatest career scorer in school history although Tom Lundstedt, a Prospect junior, needs only 123 points to move into the No. 1 position.

Pomey was coached by Dick Kinneman in his two seasons at Prospect.

Track Meet Called Off

The ewather claimed one of the harbingers of spring Tuesday afternoon, the traditional track triangular featuring Palatine, Arlington and LaGrange.

The meet, schedule for Palatine's Fremd School track, was called off because of the mixture of drizzle, snow flurries and cold. No immediate plans were made to re-schedule it, and there was a possibility that the teams would not get together.

The meet would have been the 1966 outdoor opener for Palatine, which now has nothing scheduled until a dual with Evanston next Tuesday afternoon at Fremd. Arlington, which already had an outdoor dual meet stopped by the weather, was to run in a quadrangular at Maine West this afternoon (Thursday) and in a dual at home with West Suburban foe Hinsdale Tuesday afternoon.

Outfield candidates are paced by Manderscheid, who, when he's not pitching or aiding at second, will be in center. Left and right field slots are being battled over by Haddock, seniors Jeff Poweil and Doug Glaser and juniors John Hittman and Gerald Empkie.

"There are 17 out for the varsity," stated Chernicky, "and they've elected Newman as their captain for the year."

WHEN FACING NILES North last season Wheeling gained a split. The 'Cats were defeated 3-1, with Pavelle and Grandt doing the throwing, but came back to win 5-1 as Newman went all the way with a four hitter.

At the soph level Mike Owens will again be Wheeling's coach. He directed his nine to a 3-10 record last year. The frosh A team, 7-8 in '65, will work under headman Larry Pohlman while the frosh B's, 3-4 last spring, will be coached by Paul Grady.

Seek Financial Assistance for U.S. Ski Team

Support is needed by the United States Ski Educational Foundation to finance the United States ski team for the World Championship in Portillo, Chile, in August.

"We are asking the public for donations as the government does not subsidize our amateur athletes in this country as is done in other countries entering the competition," says Linda Ann Gammill of Arlington Heights, a member of the ski foundation.

All donations of one dollar or more will receive a blue and gold metal pin for lapel or ski parka.

Large donations should be sent to Linda Gammill, 436 S. Evanston, Arlington Heights, or the USSEF Ski Team Fund, c/o The Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colo. All donations are tax deductible.

Stores or business firms in the Paddock circulation area wishing to have a display set up in their establishment, at no cost to them, could contact Linda Gammill at the above address in Arlington Heights.

'Cats Move to Outside Track

This afternoon at 4:15 Wheeling will host Glenbrook North to open its 1966 outdoor track schedule. During their indoor campaign the charges of coach Jim Hoffman compiled a 6-3-1 record in varsity competition, including four straight dual triumphs. At the frosh-soph level the 'Cats were 10-1, including 10 in a row indoors.

One year ago 0-4 was the outdoor mark of the Wheeling varsity while the 'Cats frosh-soph unit was 0-3.

In Season Opener

One Run Is Enough; Carmel Edges Lions

by BOB FRISK

Shades of 1965.

The cliff-hanger, almost a way of life with St. Viator's varsity baseball team last spring, came back to haunt the Lions in the 1966 opener.

Carmel of Mundelein scored a single run in the fourth inning and held on for a 1-0 victory over St. Viator in a diamond battle cut short after six innings by darkness and marred by the cold weather.

Playing in tight games is nothing new for Coach Len Sparacino and his Lions. Seventeen of the St. Viator's 23 games in the 1965 season were decided by two or less runs. The Lions won four one-run games and lost four.

ST. VIATOR, operating with a makeshift lineup at the outset because of the absence of some key performers, had its chances but couldn't cash in against a trio of Carmel pitchers.

The Lions had base runners in every inning and had two men on in the concluding frame which, because of the darkness, shouldn't have been played.

Right hander Jerry Donahue, a fire-balling junior who was a key man on the hill in the Lions' march to the state finals last spring, went the distance against Carmel, had some difficulty with his control, but still deserved a better fate.

DONAHUE fanned 12 over the six frames, catching at least two men in five innings, and yielded only two hits, an infield tap in the first inning and bunt single in the fourth. Carmel didn't lift one ball to the outfield off the slants of the Lion ace.

The only run of the season opener for both clubs came in the fourth, and a walk touched off the uprising. The runner moved to second on a wild pitch and rode around on an error on an infield blow.

THE HOST LIONS, meeting because Glenbrook South cancelled out of its scheduled appearance, threatened in the first inning but the excitement didn't last long.

First baseman Bill Kaveney. a varsity regular as a junior, stroked a single to left field as the first Lion hitter of the 1966 season. Kaveney moved to second on an infield out and to third on a single by catcher Dan Collins, but on an attempted double steal he was cut down at the plate.

Don Kulla reached on an error and Tom McDonald slashed a single down the third base line as the first two hitters in the second inning, but they were stranded as the next three hitters fanned.

WITH ONE OUT in the third Larry Snyder beat out a hit to short and moved to second on a wild pitch. Dan Collins walked, and pitcher Donahue poked a single. Snyder tried to score but was nailed on a relay from center and rundown.

The Lions didn't rap out any safeties in the fourth, but they still had a base runner. Ed Erbach walked with two outs, but Tom Collins fouled out to end the inning.

JERRY DONAHUE
Goes Distance

Snyder reached on an error and Dan Collins singled to center with one out in the fifth, but once again the Lions couldn't capitalize. Donahue struck out and Dan Miksta popped to first.

IN THE SIXTH McDonald fanned to launch the frame, but pinch hitter Paul Rocca kept the Lion hopes alive by coaxing a walk. Pinch hitter Danny Klingberg, a soph in his first varsity assignment, also went down swinging.

By this time it was so dark just hitting the ball might have resulted in a home run.

Tom Collins drew a walk to push Rocca to second base with the tying run, but Kaveney, a dangerous swinger when he can see the ball, cut and missed on a 1-and-2 pitch.

Bob Jankowski, a 6-foot-3 basketball star for Carmel, picked up the hill win. He worked the middle three innings for the visitors who had dropped a 5-1 decision to St. Viator last spring.

Seek Financial Assistance for U.S. Ski Team

Support is needed by the United States Ski Educational Foundation to finance the United States ski team for the World Championship in Portillo, Chile, in August.

"We are asking the public for donations as the government does not subsidize our amateur athletes in this country as is done in other countries entering the competition," says Linda Ann Gammill of Arlington Heights, a member of the ski foundation.

All donations of one dollar or more will receive a blue and gold metal pin for lapel or ski parka.

Large donations should be sent to Linda Gammill, 436 S. Evanston, Arlington Heights, or the USSEF Ski Team Fund, c/o The Broadmoor, Colorado Springs, Colo. All donations are tax deductible.

Stores or business firms in the Paddock circulation area wishing to have a display set up in their establishment, at no cost to them, could contact Linda Gammill at the above address in Arlington Heights.

'Cats Move to Outside Track

This afternoon at 4:15 Wheeling will host Glenbrook North to open its 1966 outdoor track schedule. During their indoor campaign the charges of coach Jim Hoffman compiled a 6-3-1 record in varsity competition, including four straight dual triumphs. At the frosh-soph level the 'Cats were 10-1, including 10 in a row indoors.

One year ago 0-4 was the outdoor mark of the Wheeling varsity while the 'Cats frosh-soph unit was 0-3.

In Season Opener

One Run Is Enough; Carmel Edges Lions

by BOB FRISK

Shades of 1965.

The cliff-hanger, almost a way of life with St. Viator's varsity baseball team last spring, came back to haunt the Lions in the 1966 opener.

Carmel of Mundelein scored a single run in the fourth inning and held on for a 1-0 victory over St. Viator in a diamond battle cut short after six innings by darkness and marred by the cold weather.

Playing in tight games is nothing new for Coach Len Sparacino and his Lions. Seventeen of the St. Viator's 23 games in the 1965 season were decided by two or less runs. The Lions won four one-run games and lost four.

ST. VIATOR, operating with a makeshift lineup at the outset because of the absence of some key performers, had its chances but couldn't cash in against a trio of Carmel pitchers.

The Lions had base runners in every inning and had two men on in the concluding frame which, because of the darkness, shouldn't have been played.

Right hander Jerry Donahue, a fire-balling junior who was a key man on the hill in the Lions' march to the state finals last spring, went the distance against Carmel, had some difficulty with his control, but still deserved a better fate.

DONAHUE fanned 12 over the six frames, catching at least two men in five innings, and yielded only two hits, an infield tap in the first inning and bunt single in the fourth. Carmel didn't lift one ball to the outfield off the slants of the Lion ace.

The only run of the season opener for both clubs came in the fourth, and a walk touched off the uprising. The runner moved to second on a wild pitch and rode around on an error on an infield blow.

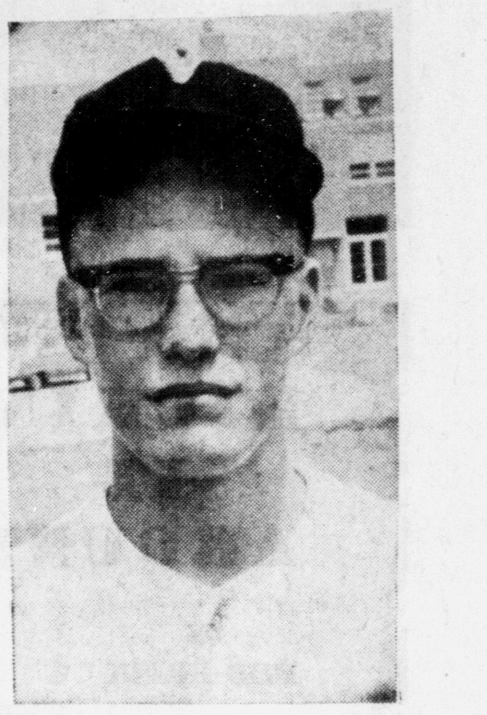
THE HOST LIONS, meeting because Glenbrook South canceled out of its scheduled appearance, threatened in the first inning but the excitement didn't last long.

First baseman Bill Kaveney. a varsity regular as a junior, stroked a single to left field as the first Lion hitter of the 1966 season. Kaveney moved to second on an infield out and to third on a single by catcher Dan Collins, but on an attempted double steal he was cut down at the plate.

Don Kulla reached on an error and Tom McDonald slashed a single down the third base line as the first two hitters in the second inning, but they were stranded as the next three hitters fanned.

WITH ONE OUT in the third Larry Snyder beat out a hit to short and moved to second on a wild pitch. Dan Collins walked, and pitcher Donahue poked a single. Snyder tried to score but was nailed on a relay from center and rundown.

The Lions didn't rap out any safeties in the fourth, but they still had a base runner. Ed Erbach walked with two outs, but Tom Collins fouled out to end the inning.



JERRY DONAHUE
Goes Distance

Snyder reached on an error and Dan Collins singled to center with one out in the fifth, but once again the Lions couldn't capitalize. Donahue struck out and Dan Miksta popped to first.

IN THE SIXTH McDonald fanned to launch the frame, but pinch hitter Paul Rocca kept the Lion hopes alive by coaxing a walk. Pinch hitter Danny Klingberg, a soph in his first varsity assignment, also went down swinging.

By this time it was so dark just hitting the ball might have resulted in a home run.

Tom Collins drew a walk to push Rocca to second base with the tying run, but Kaveney, a dangerous swinger when he can see the ball, cut and missed on a 1-and-2 pitch.

Bob Jankowski, a 6-foot-3 basketball star for Carmel, picked up the hill win. He worked the middle three innings for the visitors who had dropped a 5-1 decision to St. Viator last spring.

THE ALERT ANGLER won't have to be told, but for those who haven't yet realized it, spring fishing has returned.

That the return was early can't be doubted, because at this time one year ago, most of the water in this region was still shielded by ice and most of the fish had no inclination to rise to any bait, live or artificial.

Ice fishermen can attest to the difference. This year, they couldn't even get onto the lakes until mid-January, and by mid-February, they had to contemplate seriously getting off them. By mid-March, only something in the nature of the miraculous could have suspended them on the lakes, because the frozen footing was gone.

So whatever fussing you may have done over the winter, whatever vicarious pleasure you may have sought by reading about fishing or by tinkering with equipment cleaned and fondled to excess, you can now cleanse yourself of the anxiety.

No one can guarantee that you'll be able to pose on a greening shore or nestle in a boat with a snug sun glowing over your shoulder, because more likely you'll be nipped by a chill and deviled by a wind. But, with a small measure of fortitude, you should catch some fish.

The conditions are right for it, because not only are the streams, rivers, ponds and lakes open, but the water is getting stirred up and warmed up sufficient to get the fish stirred up and warmed up. Food is taking on that appealing look to them again, and for certain varieties, the reproductive bell is ringing urgently.

The best reports close to these suburbs are again emanating from the Chain O'Lakes. Assorted information from there indicates bluegill fishermen have on occasion been taking their quarry by the dozen, with worms especially potent; that crappies have been susceptible to a variety of small lures and jigs; that even largemouth bass have begun to clamp the hook with regularity, taking colorful spoons as well as floating and diving lures. The fish have been hitting in shallow water, a sure indication that they're up from the sleepy depths with their gaze out for most delectable-looking morsels.

The smaller lakes have been giving up some worthy finny prizes, and considering how hard they're worked in Northern Illinois in the course of a summer, this is doubtless the best time to have a try at them. What should be one of the lunkers of the year for this part of the state has already been landed, pulled out of Lake Zurich the day before St. Patrick's day. The bonanza was an eight-and-a-half pound largemouth bass, 21¼ inches long and 17½ inches around the girth. The bass, of which there may not be many more in Lake Zurich, fell victim to a frog-colored flat fish.

The smelt seem to be building up for an early charge, because they've been showing up with increasing frequency in this end of Lake Michigan, the first sightings off Waukegan and the most recent on Chicago's lake front. It shouldn't be long before they can be netted with abundance.

And the action is already getting sprightly with some of the Midwest's best spring fishing: the walleye runs in Wisconsin. Off to a much earlier, and possibly longer, run this season, the walleyes have begun to flock up the Fox and Wolf rivers in Wisconsin, and stories of good catches have been coming down for the past few weeks.

The weather has been a little more harsh, but the ingredients for catching them remain the same: deep-running minnows in the deeper stretches of water, especially in the river's bends or at the pools near rapids, falls and dams.

The trip for walleyes, if you're going to seek them in the more southerly Fox River, will run about 160 miles one way, but it's generally worth it. And, of course, when the walleyes are finishing up their spawning duties, the white bass will start storming up the same channels.

So, get alert, anglers.

IF YOU WANT A KEY to what fishing there is in Illinois, the Department of Conservation suggests you write for its free Illinois Fishing Guide, a 44-page booklet which promises to tell about fishing waters in every county, with information on lake size and depth, stream lengths, fishes present, restrictions if any. There's a companion, Illinois Fishing waters, summarizing the 34 state lakes, and you can get them both by writing the Division of Fisheries, Room 102, State Office Building, Springfield.

Cardinals, Lions Launch Loop Play

Conference baseball play will get under way for both St. Viator and Arlington High Schools next week.

St. Viator will kick off its Chicagoland Prep League schedule on Monday at St. Joseph.

The host Chargers, third in the Chicagoland last spring with an 8-4 mark, will be counting on veteran pitchers Dennis Desmond, Bob Thoma, and Tom Gehrke and promising newcomer Jim Wrobel.

Arlington will host York on Wednesday afternoon, April 13, at Recreation Park in the West Suburban Conference lidlifter.

York boasts four lettermen, plus several returning squad members who saw part-time action in 1965.

The Duke lettermen are infielders Scott Fiene, George Dean, and Glen Michi and catcher Ned Reese.

Dean of Skippers

Leo Durocher, new manager of the Chicago Cubs, is the dean of major league skippers. This is Durocher's 17th season. During his first 16 years Durocher's teams won 1,386 of 2,474 games to give Leo a .520 percentage.

Ottawa Tennis Teams Post Two Quad Wins

It's still early, but a veteran Ottawa High School tennis team stamped itself as a team to watch in Illinois circles this spring with an impressive victory Monday in the Arlington Quadrangular.

The Pirates, a district champion last spring with a veteran squad back for the 1966 campaign, topped both varsity and frosh-soph levels at Arlington as the Paddock area tennis schedule got under way.

Ottawa collected 13 points on a varsity level for a three-point cushion over runnerup Arlington. Niles East was third with six points and Forest View fourth with one.

Ottawa took frosh-soph honors with 12 points. Arlington was second with ten, Niles East third with six, and Forest View fourth with two.

"OTTAWA IS AN experienced team and it showed in a meet this early in the season," Arlington coach Tom Pitchford said. "They'll be tough this year."

"We were outclassed by the three other schools, but I felt our boys gained valuable experience which should aid us in future competition," Forest View coach Rog Steingraber pointed out.

In a meeting of Paddock area squads Arlington topped Forest View 5-0 on a varsity level and 4-1 in frosh-soph scuffling.

VON BOECKMANN, a state entry in singles as a freshman, knocked off Jim Buckholz in No. 1 play, 6-4, 6-1. Esser whipped the Falcons' Rick Gillespie 6-3, 6-0 in the second slot, and Jarecki scored a 6-1, 6-0 decision over Howie Brash in No. 3 singles.

In doubles play Arlington's Brian Burke and Dave Milligan toppled Forest View's Mike Gersie and Dick Zapfel in number one competition, 6-1, 6-3. The No. 2 match was more interesting, but Arlington still emerged with the team point as Mat Weeg and John Brost beat Bruce and Brian Lampert, 8-6, 8-6.

In frosh-soph play Forest View's Jim Musgrave gave the Falcons their only point with an impressive 6-4, 6-3 win over Arlington's Bob Gallagher in No. 1 singles.

CARDINAL WINNERS in singles were Charles Gibbel (over Gordie Folkman, 6-4, 6-4) and Rick Tindall (over Mike Kinneman, 6-1, 6-2).

In doubles Arlington took two points. Paul Stevens and Bill Stelling of Arlington topped Forest View's Jerry Budz and Mike Omelusik in No. 1 action, 6-1, 6-3. In the second spot the Cards' Bob Crockett and John Harman whipped the Falcons' Tim Ebel and Rick Knudson, 6-3, 6-2.

Arlington didn't fare as well against Ottawa as the Pirates posted a 4-1 varsity win and 3-2 frosh-soph triumph.

JARECKI, PLAYING third singles, was the only Card able to score in the varsity meet. He whipped Gary Stevenson im straight sets, 6-1, 7-5.

Ottawa took the two other singles tests in straight sets. Terry Rosborough, district champ in singles as a junior, stopped Arlington's Von Boeckmann 6-4, 6-2 in No. 1 play, and Jim Reynolds, one-half of the district championship doubles team, bumped Esser 6-2, 6-3 in the second spot.

Ottawa also took both doubles tests although Arlington's No. 1 entry of Burke and Milligan pushed the match to three sets before falling to Tom Makeever, a member of the Pirates' title-winning doubles team in the 1965 district, and soph Jeff Claus.

IN FROSH-SOPH play Arlington took both doubles matches. Stevens and Stelling triumphed 6-3, 6-1 in No. 1 firing and Crockett and Harman came through with a 6-3, 6-1 win in No. 2 action.

Arlington whipped Niles East at both levels, 4-1, losing only the number one singles matches.

Esser and Jarecki took home straight sets wins in varsity singles as Jarecki enjoyed a perfect 3-0 day.

Burke and Milligan topped number one varsity doubles (6-4, 6-1) and Weeg and Brost posted a 6-4, 6-0 win in second doubles.

Scoring wins for Arlington in frosh-soph ranks were Gibbel and Tindall in singles and the teams of Stevens and Stelling and Crockett and Harman in doubles.

NILES EAST TOOK Forest View in both matches by 4-1 counts.

Rick Gillespie gave the Falcons their only win of the day in varsity action by stopping Niles' Al Rosenfeld in second singles, 7-5, 6-3. "Rick seemed to get stronger as the day wore on," Steingraber said.

The lone Falcon win in frosh-soph ranks against Niles was posted by the No. 1 doubles team of Budz and Omelusik. They whipped their opponents 10-8, 6-1.

Ottawa tripped up Forest View in both matches by identical 5-0 scores.

The only match to go three sets was in No. 1 frosh-soph doubles. Budz and Omelusik took the first set against Ron McKeever and Kim Besse, 6-4, but then fell 6-1, 6-2.

Trying to Top Their Best

Prospect Netmen Open '66 Season Wednesday

by MICHAEL HESS

Last season was best in the history of tennis at Prospect. This season should be even better.

An 8-7 record in duals was posted by the '65 Knights varsity netters. That was their first time ever above the .500 mark.

Of 75 individual matches, Prospect won 43 for a 57.3 percentage. Included in the triumphs were 25 of 45 singles affairs and 18 of 30 doubles.

In frosh-soph action one year ago the Knights closed their campaign by taking seven meets in a row. That streak gave the younger net entry an 11-4 standard.

SINGLES WAS the strong point of Prospect's F-S tennis group. They were 34-11 in singles play but, being just 13-17 in doubles, their overall match figure was 49-26 or 65.2 percent.

Final Mid-Suburban League rankings put the Knights in identical places at both levels. A 25 point conference total went to the varsity while the frosh-sophs picked up 24 points. Each ended fourth.

Now 1966 net competition is about to start. Coach Chuck Sandine's Prospect team opens next Wednesday by hosting Elgin at 4:15 p.m. That's the first on a 15 meet schedule which should be the most successful in school history.

Causing the bright outlook in Knights tennis circles is the presence of nine top returnees from court battles one year ago. They are:

TOM JOHNSON, a senior letterman entering his third varsity season. According to headman Sandine, Johnson has a good service and net game plus one of the best strokes on the team. Last spring he used those talents to win eight times in singles, once in doubles and once in the M-SL meet. He dropped his lone district match.

Bryan Kiehl. He won six singles and three doubles matches in '65 before losing in the first round of conference and district meets. Kiehl is a senior letterman.

Glen Morton, a junior. Morton took 10 singles decisions at the frosh-soph level one year ago, then moved to the varsity where he won four more in singles. He gained one victory in the Mid-Suburban meet. "Morton," says Sandine, "is a consistent ground stroker who keeps the ball going back over the net and beats opponents on their own mistakes."

Craig Wolf, another senior who has earned his letter. Wolf started last season in singles, where he won four times, but switched to doubles, won nine straight, and captured the league first doubles title. Wolf was teamed with Tom Bryant, the only team regular who has graduated.

DOUG HEITZMAN and Chuck Hengels, both senior lettermen. Heitzman gained one singles triumph in '65 and then combined with Hengles to win five times in dual doubles. That pair also won once in district action.

Paul Colvanni. He won seven times in doubles last year and, with Heitzman, won once in the M-SL meet. Colvanni, a senior emblem wearer, was defeated in his only district venture.

Jeff Long and Paul Pomplum, juniors who were with the frosh-soph unit one year ago. At that level Long gained 13 singles victories and was secone in the conference meet while Pomplum won 12 singles matches including one in the M-SL meet.

"Johnson, Kiehl, Morton and Wolf will definitely start for us this season," comments Sandine. "Three of them will be in singles and one in doubles. I don't have any idea yet which of the others will complete our doubles teams."

CRAIG WOLF
Doubles or Singles

AT THE FROSH-SOPH level the coach this year, as last, will be Hank Szymanski. He has a good turnout of 44 underclassmen to work with.

Missing from the lower level entry are two sophomores, Pete Krembs and Jerry Stocking. That pair formed a tough doubles combination as freshmen, winning 11 times and taking the Mid-Suburban League second doubles crown. But, Krembs has moved and Stocking isn't out for the team.

Taking up slack left by the missing pair will be three freshmen whom Sandine tabs as being fine future prospects. They are Dave Johnson, Chuck Hughson and Bob Brule.

In A.A.U. Swimming . . .

Marsha Kaipus Wins 4 Firsts

Two records, four firsts, four medals—all gained by Marsha Kaipus.

Central A.A.U. girls indoor swimming championships were held last Saturday. Site of the meet was Illinois State University in Normal.

When the affair was completed the championship team trophy went to the Lake Forest Swimming Club. Individual standout for LFSC was 12-year-old Miss Kaipus.

Miss Kaipus is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kaipus of 815 E. Ridgewood Lane, Ivy Hill, Arlington Heights. She attends the seventh grade at St. Thomas of Villanova grade school in Palatine. But, mainly, she swims.

ENTERED IN THE 12 and under age group, Marsha started her amazing A.A.U. showing by qualifying first in the 50 yard freestyle with a time of :27.9. She came back to win the event in :27.5.

In the 100 yard freestyle Marsha was again the top qualifier with a 1:01.7 clocking. An excellent 1:00.6 in the finals resulted in her second first.

As part of Lake Forest's medley relay team, Miss Kaipus swam the backstroke leg in :32.2. Her team finished ahead in the event with a new Central A.A.U. record time of 2:10.1.

Going into the freestyle relays, LFSC was still 10 points out of first place. However, Marsha anchored her team's relay entry with a blistering :26.2 That performance lowered the team time to 1:55.8 which meant first place and another Central A.A.U. record.

LAKE FOREST had captured the team title and Marsha had her two records, four firsts and four medals.

Within the next few weeks Marsha's swimming plans call for her to enter meets in both Wisconsin and Iowa. Then she'll rest for nearly a month before starting the two-a-day workouts in preparation for the summer season.

THE ALERT ANGLER won't have to be told, but for those who haven't yet realized it, spring fishing has returned.

That the return was early can't be doubted, because at this time one year ago, most of the water in this region was still shielded by ice and most of the fish had no inclination to rise to any bait, live or artificial.

Ice fishermen can attest to the difference. This year, they couldn't even get onto the lakes until mid-January, and by mid-February, they had to contemplate seriously getting off them. By mid-March, only something in the nature of the miraculous could have suspended them on the lakes, because the frozen footing was gone.

So whatever fussing you may have done over the winter, whatever vicarious pleasure you may have sought by reading about fishing or by tinkering with equipment cleaned and fondled to excess, you can now cleanse yourself of the anxiety.

No one can guarantee that you'll be able to pose on a greening shore or nestle in a boat with a snug sun glowing over your shoulder, because more likely you'll be nipped by a chill and deviled by a wind. But, with a small measure of fortitude, you should catch some fish.

The conditions are right for it, because not only are the streams, rivers, ponds and lakes open, but the water is getting stirred up and warmed up sufficient to get the fish stirred up and warmed up. Food is taking on that appealing look to them again, and for certain varieties, the reproductive bell is ringing urgently.

The best reports close to these suburbs are again emanating from the Chain O'Lakes. Assorted information from there indicates bluegill fishermen have on occasion been taking their quarry by the dozen, with worms especially potent; that crappies have been susceptible to a variety of small lures and jigs; that even largemouth bass have begun to clamp the hook with regularity, taking colorful spoons as well as floating and diving lures. The fish have been hitting in shallow water, a sure indication that they're up from the sleepy depths with their gaze out for most delectable-looking morsels.

The smaller lakes have been giving up some worthy finny prizes, and considering how hard they're worked in Northern Illinois in the course of a summer, this is doubtless the best time to have a try at them. What should be one of the lunkers of the year for this part of the state has already been landed, pulled out of Lake Zurich the day before St. Patrick's day. The bonanza was an eight-and-a-half pound largemouth bass, 21¼ inches long and 17½ inches around the girth. The bass, of which there may not be many more in Lake Zurich, fell victim to a frog-colored flat fish.

The smelt seem to be building up for an early charge, because they've been showing up with increasing frequency in this end of Lake Michigan, the first sightings off Waukegan and the most recent on Chicago's lake front. It shouldn't be long before they can be netted with abundance.

And the action is already getting sprightly with some of the Midwest's best spring fishing: the walleye runs in Wisconsin. Off to a much earlier, and possibly longer, run this season, the walleyes have begun to flock up the Fox and Wolf rivers in Wisconsin, and stories of good catches have been coming down for the past few weeks.

The weather has been a little more harsh, but the ingredients for catching them remain the same: deep-running minnows in the deeper stretches of water, especially in the river's bends or at the pools near rapids, falls and dams.

The trip for walleyes, if you're going to seek them in the more southerly Fox River, will run about 160 miles one way, but it's generally worth it. And, of course, when the walleyes are finishing up their spawning duties, the white bass will start storming up the same channels.

So, get alert, anglers.

IF YOU WANT A KEY to what fishing there is in Illinois, the Department of Conservation suggests you write for its free Illinois Fishing Guide, a 44-page booklet which promises to tell about fishing waters in every county, with information on lake size and depth, stream lengths, fishes present, restrictions if any. There's a companion, Illinois Fishing waters, summarizing the 34 state lakes, and you can get them both by writing the Division of Fisheries, Room 102, State Office Building, Springfield.

Cardinals, Lions Launch Loop Play

Conference baseball play will get under way for both St. Viator and Arlington High Schools next week.

St. Viator will kick off its Chicagoland Prep League schedule on Monday at St. Joseph.

Ottawa Tennis Teams Post Two Quad Wins

It's still early, but a veteran Ottawa High School tennis team stamped itself as a team to watch in Illinois circles this spring with an impressive victory Monday in the Arlington Quadrangular.

The Pirates, a district champion last spring with a veteran squad back for the 1966 campaign, topped both varsity and frosh-soph levels at Arlington as the Paddock area tennis schedule got under way.

Ottawa collected 13 points on a varsity level for a three-point cushion over runnerup Arlington. Niles East was third with six points and Forest View fourth with one.

Ottawa took frosh-soph honors with 12 points. Arlington was second with ten, Niles East third with six, and Forest View fourth with two.

"OTTAWA IS AN experienced team and it showed in a meet this early in the season," Arlington coach Tom Pitchford said. "They'll be tough this year."

"We were outclassed by the three other schools, but I felt our boys gained valuable experience which should aid us in future competition," Forest View coach Rog Steingraber pointed out.

In a meeting of Paddock area squads Arlington topped Forest View 5-0 on a varsity level and 4-1 in frosh-soph scuffling.

VON BOECKMANN, a state entry in singles as a freshman, knocked off Jim Buckholz in No. 1 play, 6-4, 6-1. Esser whipped the Falcons' Rick Gillespie 6-3, 6-0 in the second slot, and Jarecki scored a 6-1, 6-0 decision over Howie Brash in No. 3 singles.

In doubles play Arlington's Brian Burke and Dave Milligan toppled Forest View's Mike Gersie and Dick Zapfel in number one competition, 6-1, 6-3. The No. 2 match was more interesting, but Arlington still emerged with the team point as Mat Weeg and John Brost beat Bruce and Brian Lampert, 8-6, 8-6.

In frosh-soph play Forest View's Jim Musgrave gave the Falcons their only point with an impressive 6-4, 6-3 win over Arlington's Bob Gallagher in No. 1 singles.

CARDINAL WINNERS in singles were Charles Gibbel (over Gordie Folkman, 6-4, 6-4) and Rick Tindall (over Mike Kinneman, 6-1, 6-2).

In doubles Arlington took two points. Paul Stevens and Bill Stelling of Arlington topped Forest View's Jerry Budz and Mike Omelusik in No. 1 action, 6-1, 6-3. In the second spot the Cards' Bob Crockett and John Harman whipped the Falcons' Tim Ebel and Rick Knudson, 6-3, 6-2.

Arlington didn't fare as well against Ottawa as the Pirates posted a 4-1 varsity win and 3-2 frosh-soph triumph.

JARECKI, PLAYING third singles, was the only Card able to score in the varsity meet. He whipped Gary Stevenson im straight sets, 6-1, 7-5.

Ottawa took the two other singles tests in straight sets. Terry Rosborough, district champ in singles as a junior, stopped Arlington's Von Boeckmann 6-4, 6-2 in No. 1 play, and Jim Reynolds, one-half of the district championship doubles team, bumped Esser 6-2, 6-3 in the second spot.

Ottawa also took both doubles tests although Arlington's No. 1 entry of Burke and Milligan pushed the match to three sets before falling to Tom Makeever, a member of the Pirates' title-winning doubles team in the 1965 district, and soph Jeff Claus.

IN FROSH-SOPH play Arlington took both doubles matches. Stevens and Stelling triumphed 6-3, 6-1 in No. 1 firing and Crockett and Harman came through with a 6-3, 6-1 win in No. 2 action.

Arlington whipped Niles East at both levels, 4-1, losing only the number one singles matches.

Esser and Jarecki took home straight sets wins in varsity singles as Jarecki enjoyed a perfect 3-0 day.

Burke and Milligan topped number one varsity doubles (6-4, 6-1) and Weeg and Brost posted a 6-4, 6-0 win in second doubles.

Scoring wins for Arlington in frosh-soph ranks were Gibbel and Tindall in singles and the teams of Stevens and Stelling and Crockett and Harman in doubles.

NILES EAST TOOK Forest View in both matches by 4-1 counts.

Rick Gillespie gave the Falcons their only win of the day in varsity action by stopping Niles' Al Rosenfeld in second singles, 7-5, 6-3. "Rick seemed to get stronger as the day wore on," Steingraber said.

The lone Falcon win in frosh-soph ranks against Niles was posted by the No. 1 doubles team of Budz and Omelusik. They whipped their opponents 10-8, 6-1.

Ottawa tripped up Forest View in both matches by identical 5-0 scores.

The only match to go three sets was in No. 1 frosh-soph doubles. Budz and Omelusik took the first set against Ron McKeever and Kim Besse, 6-4, but then fell 6-1, 6-2.

Trying to Top Their Best

Prospect Netmen Open '66 Season Wednesday

by MICHAEL HESS

Last season was best in the history of tennis at Prospect. This season should be even better.

An 8-7 record in duals was posted by the '65 Knights varsity netters. That was their first time ever above the .500 mark.

Of 75 individual matches, Prospect won 43 for a 57.3 percentage. Included in the triumphs were 25 of 45 singles affairs and 18 of 30 doubles.

In frosh-soph action one year ago the Knights closed their campaign by taking seven meets in a row. That streak gave the younger net entry an 11-4 standard.

SINGLES WAS the strong point of Prospect's F-S tennis group. They were 34-11 in singles play but, being just 13-17 in doubles, their overall match figure was 49-26 or 65.2 percent.

Final Mid-Suburban League rankings put the Knights in identical places at both levels. A 25 point conference total went to the varsity while the frosh-sophs picked up 24 points. Each ended fourth.

Now 1966 net competition is about to start. Coach Chuck Sandine's Prospect team opens next Wednesday by hosting Elgin at 4:15 p.m. That's the first on a 15 meet schedule which should be the most successful in school history.

Causing the bright outlook in Knights tennis circles is the presence of nine top returnees from court battles one year ago. They are:

TOM JOHNSON, a senior letterman entering his third varsity season. According to headman Sandine, Johnson has a good service and net game plus one of the best strokes on the team. Last spring he used those talents to win eight times in singles, once in doubles and once in the M-SL meet. He dropped his lone district match.

Bryan Kiehl. He won six singles and three doubles matches in '65 before losing in the first round of conference and district meets. Kiehl is a senior letterman.

Glen Morton, a junior. Morton took 10 singles decisions at the frosh-soph level one year ago, then moved to the varsity where he won four more in singles. He gained one victory in the Mid-Suburban meet. "Morton," says Sandine, "is a consistent ground stroker who keeps the ball going back over the net and beats opponents on their own mistakes."

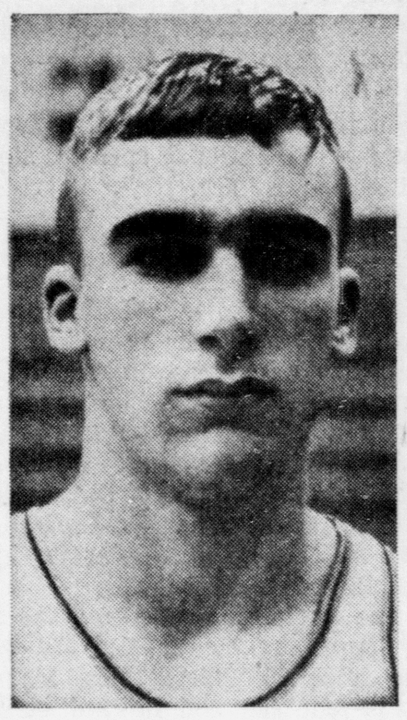
Craig Wolf, another senior who has earned his letter. Wolf started last season in singles, where he won four times, but switched to doubles, won nine straight, and captured the league first doubles title. Wolf was teamed with Tom Bryant, the only team regular who has graduated.

DOUG HEITZMAN and Chuck Hengels, both senior lettermen. Heitzman gained one singles triumph in '65 and then combined with Hengles to win five times in dual doubles. That pair also won once in district action.

Paul Colvanni. He won seven times in doubles last year and, with Heitzman, won once in the M-SL meet. Colvanni, a senior emblem wearer, was defeated in his only district venture.

Jeff Long and Paul Pomplum, juniors who were with the frosh-soph unit one year ago. At that level Long gained 13 singles victories and was second in the conference meet while Pomplum won 12 singles matches including one in the M-SL meet.

"Johnson, Kiehl, Morton and Wolf will definitely start for us this season," comments Sandine. "Three of them will be in singles and one in doubles. I don't have any idea yet which of the others will complete our doubles teams."



CRAIG WOLF
Doubles or Singles

AT THE FROSH-SOPH level the coach this year, as last, will be Hank Szymanski. He has a good turnout of 44 underclassmen to work with.

Missing from the lower level entry are two sophomores, Pete Krembs and Jerry Stocking. That pair formed a tough doubles combination as freshmen, winning 11 times and taking the Mid-Suburban League second doubles crown. But, Krembs has moved and Stocking isn't out for the team.

Taking up slack left by the missing pair will be three freshmen whom Sandine tabs as being fine future prospects. They are Dave Johnson, Chuck Hughson and Bob Brule.

In A.A.U. Swimming . . .

Marsha Kaipus Wins 4 Firsts

Two records, four firsts, four medals—all gained by Marsha Kaipus.

Central A.A.U. girls indoor swimming championships were held last Saturday. Site of the meet was Illinois State University in Normal.

When the affair was completed the championship team trophy went to the Lake Forest Swimming Club. Individual standout for LFSC was 12-year-old Miss Kaipus.

Miss Kaipus is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kaipus of 815 E. Ridgewood Lane, Ivy Hill, Arlington Heights. She attends the seventh grade at St. Thomas of Villanova grade school in Palatine. But, mainly, she swims.

ENTERED IN THE 12 and under age group, Marsha started her amazing A.A.U. showing by qualifying first in the 50 yard freestyle with a time of :27.9. She came back to win the event in :27.5.

In the 100 yard freestyle Marsha was again the top qualifier with a 1:01.7 clocking. An excellent 1:00.6 in the finals resulted in her second first.

As part of Lake Forest's medley relay team, Miss Kaipus swam the backstroke leg in :32.2. Her team finished ahead in the event with a new Central A.A.U. record time of 2:10.1.

Going into the freestyle relays, LFSC was still 10 points out of first place. However, Marsha anchored her team's relay entry with a blistering :26.2 That performance lowered the team time to 1:55.8 which meant first place and another Central A.A.U. record.

LAKE FOREST had captured the team title and Marsha had her two records, four firsts and four medals.

Within the next few weeks Marsha's swimming plans call for her to enter meets in both Wisconsin and Iowa. Then she'll rest for nearly a month before starting the two-a-day workouts in preparation for the summer season.

St. Viator scored two runs in the second inning and held on for a 2-1 frosh-soph baseball victory over Lane Tech last week.

Announce 12 Stakes Events

The coordinated Balmoral-Arlington-Washington meeting this week announced the first phase of its 1966 stakes program, listing 12 events, totaling $290,000 in added money, that will highlight the 30-day Balmoral Jockey Club meeting which launches the combined 103-day spring-summer season on Monday, May 16, at Arlington Park.

Director of Racing Larry Marsh said the balance of the coordinated stakes schedule, thru Mon., Sept. 12, will be an-announced later. He previously had announced the five "hundred granders" which highlight the summer season — $150,000 added Futurity, $100,000 added Lassie, $100,000 added Classic, $100,000 added American Derby and the $100,000 added Washington Park Handicap.

The Balmoral stakes program is topped by the coveted $50,000 added Equipoise Mile for three-year-olds and upward on Saturday, June 18. The Equipoise, named for racing's fabled Chocolate Soldier, climaxes the Balmoral session and serves as prelude for the regular 36-day Arlington Park meeting which opens the following Monday.

THE 12-RACE stakes schedule features five events for the three-and-up division, five for for fillies, and two for fillies and mares.

Grass - course racing, long an integral part of the Arlington - Washington label, receives strong emphasis. Five of the 12 stakes — two for three-year-olds, one for fillies and mares and two for the older handicap division — are turf events.

Three-year-olds will be spotlighted on the grass as early as the first Wednesday with presentation of the $15,000 added Education Handicap at 51 furlongs. The $30,000 added Swaps 'Cap for three-year-olds at one mile on the turf will be run Saturday, June 11.

OPENING-DAY feature will be the traditional Clang Handicap for three and - up at 5½ furlongs on the grass, carrying $15,000 in added value. The $30,000 added Round Table 'Cap on the infield green again will spark Memorial Day, falling this year on a Monday, May 30.

The $15,000 added Four Winds at 6 furlongs and the $20,000 added Modesty Handicap at one mile on the turf are restricted to fillies and mares. Three-year-old fillies will compete in the $15,000 added Cinderella at 6 furlongs and the $20,000 added Cleopatra Handicap at 7 furlongs.

Frosh Top Lane Tech

Barry Clark went the distance and Rich Dwyer and John Brawley supplied the big bats Saturday as St. Viator's frosh baseball team toppled Lane Tech of Chicago, 7-2, in the season opener.

Clark, a right - hander, didn't walk a man over seven innings and was never in serious trouble as he pitched the Lions past Lane.

Dwyer drove in two runs with a bases - loaded double, and Brawley collected three singles as the leadoff man.

Greg Gripentrog came up with the defensive gem of the game when he raced in from center field to grab a sinking line drive.

Driving Range Open for Play

Spring is in the air and Arlington Park's lighted, double-decked driving range is open for play. That was the anoucement of Golf Course supervisor Joe Mikan, who also doubles as manager of the Arlington Carousel Restaurant.

Arlington's popular 18-hole Par 60 Golf Course will be opened "no later than April 2, " Mikan added.

Meet The Sponsor: 11

Oldtimer Jeffery Now In Ninth PCTL Season

(This is the eleventh in a series of articles on sponsors in Paddock Classic bowling leagues for men and women.)

It was Saturday, May 11, 1957, and Jeffery was there.

On that day the Paddock Classic bowling league for men was founded. An original member and franchise holder was Jeffery Lanes.

Since that date league membership has grown from six to eight, team average limits have risen from 910 to 970, and a full traveling schedule initiated. Jeffery's still competing.

Located at 125 N. Wolf Road in Wheeling, Jeffery Lanes is owned by Bud Miller. It's not surprising that one of the nine-year oldtimers in the PCTL is Miller's team. He has been connected with bowling for a long time.

"It was family interest that got me started in bowling," states Miller. "My father owned the old Wheeling Bowling Lanes on Milwaukee Avenue. That property was in the family since 1895 and the alleys were opened in 1939."

Continued Miller: "I set pins there for a year and, in 1940, went into the Navy where I was for seven years. While I was in the service my father decided to retire so when I got out I managed the lanes for him."

Several years later a decision was made to sell the family establishment. However, Miller wanted to stay in the business and so, on October 1, 1955, Jeffery Lanes came into being.

"We opened with eight lanes, the number we still have," Miller comments. "For the first year we used pin boys but in June of '56 Brunswick automatics, the first in Illinois, were installed. About 11 months later we started in the Paddock league and have been there ever since."

DURING THE winter season business at Jeffery centers around over 20 leagues which use the kegling facilities. They monopolize the lanes for nearly the whole period, 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m., seven days a week, that Jeffery is open.

"Once the season ends," says Miller, "we have open bowling during the summer months. Anyone that wants to can call for reservations." That number to phone is LE 7-5370.

Through Jeffery's parallel existence with the PCTL there are two firsts which have never occurred. No one has rolled a perfect 300 on Miller's lanes, though 297 has been bowled twice, 294 once and 290 twice, and the Jeffery entry has never captured first place in Paddock standings.

In the current season Jeffery finished seventh after first round Classic competition concluded. This week's standings, three weeks away from the second round wrap-up, finds Jeffery is fourth, four out of third and 16 points from the lead.

TOPPING members of the Jeffery team is Don Christensen. He carries a 195.21 average, fifth in league. Backing him for Jeffery are Hec Healey and Whitey Hefferan, at 187; Bill Harris and John Kmety at 184; and Paul Zubak, at 183.

With all this bowling, present and past, as a major portion if his life, does Miller take part? "I'm not a bowler, I'm a golfer," Miller responds. "There's a Jeffery Lanes Golf League with 28 two-man teams. I like to play five days a week during the summer and I shoot in the low 80's."

Miller resides, with wife Grace and 13-year-old son Jeff, in an apartment above the alleys he owns. "We named the lanes after our son," concludes Miller, "because when we opened he was the brightest spot in our lives."

Three-year-olds will be spotlighted on the grass as early as the first Wednesday with presentation of the $15,000 added Education Handicap at 51 furlongs. The $30,000 added Swaps 'Cap for three-year-olds at one mile on the turf will be run Saturday, June 11.

OPENING-DAY feature will be the traditional Clang Handicap for three and - up at 5½ furlongs on the grass, carrying $15,000 in added value. The $30,000 added Round Table 'Cap on the infield green again will spark Memorial Day, falling this year on a Monday, May 30.

The $15,000 added Four Winds at 6 furlongs and the $20,000 added Modesty Handicap at one mile on the turf are restricted to fillies and mares. Three-year-old fillies will compete in the $15,000 added Cinderella at 6 furlongs and the $20,000 added Cleopatra Handicap at 7 furlongs.

Frosh Top Lane Tech

Barry Clark went the distance and Rich Dwyer and John Brawley supplied the big bats Saturday as St. Viator's frosh baseball team toppled Lane Tech of Chicago, 7-2, in the season opener.

Clark, a right - hander, didn't walk a man over seven innings and was never in serious trouble as he pitched the Lions past Lane.

Dwyer drove in two runs with a bases - loaded double, and Brawley collected three singles as the leadoff man.

Greg Gripentrog came up with the defensive gem of the game when he raced in from center field to grab a sinking line drive.

Driving Range Open for Play

Spring is in the air and Arlington Park's lighted, double-decked driving range is open for play. That was the anoucement of Golf Course supervisor Joe Mikan, who also doubles as manager of the Arlington Carousel Restaurant.

Meet The Sponsor: 11

Oldtimer Jeffery Now In Ninth PCTL Season

(This is the eleventh in a series of articles on sponsors in Paddock Classic bowling leagues for men and women.)

It was Saturday, May 11, 1957, and Jeffery was there.

On that day the Paddock Classic bowling league for men was founded. An original member and franchise holder was Jeffery Lanes.

Since that date league membership has grown from six to eight, team average limits have risen from 910 to 970, and a full traveling schedule initiated. Jeffery's still competing.

Located at 125 N. Wolf Road in Wheeling, Jeffery Lanes is owned by Bud Miller. It's not surprising that one of the nine-year oldtimers in the PCTL is Miller's team. He has been connected with bowling for a long time.

"It was family interest that got me started in bowling," states Miller. "My father owned the old Wheeling Bowling Lanes on Milwaukee Avenue. That property was in the family since 1895 and the alleys were opened in 1939."

Continued Miller: "I set pins there for a year and, in 1940, went into the Navy where I was for seven years. While I was in the service my father decided to retire so when I got out I managed the lanes for him."

Several years later a decision was made to sell the family establishment. However, Miller wanted to stay in the business and so, on October 1, 1955, Jeffery Lanes came into being.

"We opened with eight lanes, the number we still have," Miller comments. "For the first year we used pin boys but in June of '56 Brunswick automatics, the first in Illinois, were installed. About 11 months later we started in the Paddock league and have been there ever since."

DURING THE winter season business at Jeffery centers around over 20 leagues which use the kegling facilities. They monopolize the lanes for nearly the whole period, 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 a.m., seven days a week, that Jeffery is open.

"Once the season ends," says Miller, "we have open bowling during the summer months. Anyone that wants to can call for reservations." That number to phone is LE 7-5370.

Through Jeffery's parallel existence with the PCTL there are two firsts which have never occurred. No one has rolled a perfect 300 on Miller's lanes, though 297 has been bowled twice, 294 once and 290 twice, and the Jeffery entry has never captured first place in Paddock standings.

In the current season Jeffery finished seventh after first round Classic competition concluded. This week's standings, three weeks away from the second round wrap-up, finds Jeffery is fourth, four out of third and 16 points from the lead.

TOPPING members of the Jeffery team is Don Christensen. He carries a 195.21 average, fifth in league. Backing him for Jeffery are Hec Healey and Whitey Hefferan, at 187; Bill Harris and John Kmety at 184; and Paul Zubak, at 183.

With all this bowling, present and past, as a major portion if his life, does Miller take part? "I'm not a bowler, I'm a golfer," Miller responds. "There's a Jeffery Lanes Golf League with 28 two-man teams. I like to play five days a week during the summer and I shoot in the low 80's."

Miller resides, with wife Grace and 13-year-old son Jeff, in an apartment above the alleys he owns. "We named the lanes after our son," concludes Miller, "because when we opened he was the brightest spot in our lives."

Dominique Starrenburg of Hoffman Estates

Fleetwing Farm in Palatine will hold its spring horse show on Sunday, April 17.

Several northwest suburban area riders will compete for honors in the show which will be staged at the farm, located on 28 acres of rolling, wooded land on Central Road in Palatine.

A leading school of horsemanship, Fleetwing Farm's schools are personally supervised by Martha Jayne, founder and owner.

Hugo Schroeder and Sue Shaw head the staff of instructors.

Schroeder was a student of Fritz Stecken, world renowned trainer and instructor. He studied and practiced method riding under the chief riding instructor of the Government Riding School in Muenster, Germany and won a diploma in all phases.

SCHROEDER spent two years training Lippizzan stallions and has been instructing riding and training horses in the United States for eight years.

Sue Shaw is a skilled rider who has taught many young riders at Fleetwing for the past three years.

Sportsmanship is the prime objective of the Fleetwing school.

During the summer months Fleetwing's Day Horsemanship School offers lessons in theory, grooming, care of tack, parts of the saddle and bridle, correct saddling and care of the horse.

Included in the series of lessons are class lessons, practice time, day rides, cookouts and horse shows.

Hal Norum Takes Tournament Lead

Norum fired a 732 series and 255 game in the unusual tournament which is being staged over four weekends in April by Bill Radunz, Jr. and Bob Atkinson.

In the tournament, open to both men and women with or without league affiliations, a bowler scores a "strike" if he knocks down nine pins with his first ball in any frame.

Bowlers, who must submit a $10 entry fee, will shoot for a $500 first prize. The runnerup will receive $300, and even the 30th place finisher will take home $20.

Cuts Difference To Seven . . .

Bill Cook Buick Wins 5-2 Over Chalet Team

At least one team doesn't think Concourse Sports Chalet is invincible.

Bill Cook Buick, harboring its own designs on the Paddock Classic Traveling League's second round laurels, met and disposed of front-running Chalet 5-2 last Saturday.

The results of that league headliner left Buick seven points back of Chalet, so the leaders are hardly in a comfortable stance as the teams start down the PCTL stretch. There are four Saturdays to go in the round, including position night, and that means a possible 28 points for any team.

Brim's Pioneer Lanes held its third place status over the weekend, stopping Karlsen Pharmacy 4-3; and Jeffery Lanes held fourth despite a 5-2 setback by Morton Pontiac. Morton used that win and a 5-2 loss by City Welding Sales and Service to The Brass Rail to claim fifth alone. The Welders lost their tie for that spot.

TED GEIERSBACH

TED GEIERSBACH was the dominant force in the big Buick win, rolling out a fine 202-235-231 — 668 on Chalet's home Gunnell's Lanes, by far the biggest series on a night almost devoid of 600 efforts. But even his 231 third game wasn't enough to avert a 960-911 Sports Chalet win, salvaging something for Chalet and preventing Buick from cutting the margin to three points.

Paul Borvig added 609 for Buick, while Tom Kouros and Tony Sasso led Chalet with 583 each. Ray Neumann had a 572, including 211 in the important third game.

Brim's Pioneer won two close ones — including the third game by two pins — and took one lacing in gaining four points from Karlsen Pharmacy. The pharmacy five insured the point for total pinfall by running a 990-881 count in game two.

Larry Thon kept Pioneer in the action with a 597, including a 235 first game, while Joe Simonis had 595 and Jim Runkle 585 for Karlsen.

THE THIRD OF the evening's three 600 series showed up in the Morton Pontiac - Jeffery Lanes meeting, and it was an important one from Les Zikes Jr. He had a 611 total for Morton, with a 248 third game that gave his team the match's clincher. Bob Glaser had a 592, and Ray Olson a 556.

Jeffery got its best from Paul Zubak — a 595 — and Don Christensen, who had 557.

The Rail's John Giovanelli was big man in the match, with a 581 total. Teammate Harvey Randolph had 574, and for City Welding, Bill Todd was high at 571.

If the standings mean anything, both Sports Chalet and Bill Cook Buick shouldn't be troubled too much this weekend. Chalet is to tangle with City Welding at Thunderbird, while Buick meets The Brass Rail at River Rand Bowl. But, with both being away matches, there could be danger.

Brim's Pioneer and Jeffery Lanes will settle their dispute for third at Pioneer, and Jeffery — which has a date at the ABC tourney in Rochester, N.Y. — will follow that by bowling its scheduled April 16 match with City Welding at Thunderbird Bowl at 9:15 p.m. In the evening's other action, Morton Pontiac will meet Karlsen Pharmacy at Striking Lanes.

THE STANDINGS:

Bill Cook Buick	53
Brim's Pioneer	48
Jeffery Lanes	44
Morton Pontiac	40
City Welding	37
Karlsen Pharmacy	32

Lattof Opens 2-Point Lead

A two-point lead isn't anything to get cocky about, but Lattof Chevrolet welcomes what little daylight there is today between first and second place in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Lattof charged to four points as Steve's Restaurant was held to a deadlock Saturday evening, opening up a gap of two markers between the pace-setters in the torrid gals' title chase.

Lattof and Steve's had been tied for the coveted top position after firing on each of the two previous Saturdays.

VI DOUGLAS, Donna Reinhardt, and Rose Kraft were the major contributors as first half champ Lattof Chevrolet bounced Morton Pontiac, 4-0, with a 2693 team series, tops for the night.

Vi fashioned her season high with a 597 series and had games of 202 and 224 as she held on to her second place ranking in the overall average list.

Donna Reinhardt chipped in with a 576 and had a 202 opener as Lattof initiated its rout with a 921 game. Rose Kraft fired a 543, sandwiching games of 193 and 189 around a 161.

JOAN LINDAHL was the only gal able to eclipse 500 for the Morton Pontiac entry that suffered through a frustrating night. Joan had a 507 and 179 high game.

Steve's Restaurant wasn't a model of consistency as it emerged with a 2-2 split with Striking Lanes. Steve's had the biggest game of the night, a booming 988, but also suffered through 822 and 811 efforts.

Winnie Lohse topped Steve's with a 562 and was on her way to a big night when she skidded to a 145 finale. Winnie opened with a 193 and had a 224 middle game. Louise Lass was next in line at 531 with a 202 game.

EVELYN ELARDE and Judy Anderson played key roles as Striking knocked Steve's from a share of the women's lead. Evelyn had a pace-setting 551 series, and Judy fashioned a 539 with her two best games (196 and 206) instrumental in giving Striking its two markers.

In other action Saturday Rolling Meadows Bowl climbed into sole possession of third place with a 3-1 conquest of River Rand Bowl.

Jean Ladd knocked down the pins for a 581 count for Rolling Meadows. Marge Lindenberg was high for cellar dwelling River Rand with a 558.

The standings:

Lattof Chevrolet	36
Steve's Restaurant	34
Rolling Meadows Bowl	23
Striking Lanes	22
Morton Pontiac	17
River Rand Bowl	12

Hal Norum Takes Tournament Lead

Hal Norum is the early leader in the Beverly Lanes No-Tap Bowling Tournament which got under way last weekend.

Norum fired a 732 series and 255 game in the unusual tournament which is being staged over four weekends in April by Bill Radunz, Jr. and Bob Atkinson.

In the tournament, open to both men and women with or without league affiliations, a bowler scores a "strike" if he knocks down nine pins with his first ball in any frame.

"You have to shoot for any other spare," Radunz explained. "We expect the scratch scores to be very high. They'll bowl three games over six alleys, and the tourney will finish up on the weekend of April 23-24."

Bowlers, who must submit a $10 entry fee, will shoot for a $500 first prize. The runnerup will receive $300, and even the 30th place finisher will take home $20.

"Anyone can enter this tourney but squad times are limited," Radunz said. "Bowlers who are interested should call Beverly Lanes at CLearbrook 3-5238."

Norum's 732 was the high series for the opening weekend. John Rainey had high game of 298.

Other series leaders are Jim Whitt (677), Hank O'Connell (638), Rich Pugh (638), and Ed Peters (605).

Cuts Difference To Seven . . .

Bill Cook Buick Wins 5-2 Over Chalet Team

At least one team doesn't think Concourse Sports Chalet is invincible.

Bill Cook Buick, harboring its own designs on the Paddock Classic Traveling League's second round laurels, met and disposed of front-running Chalet 5-2 last Saturday.

The results of that league headliner left Buick seven points back of Chalet, so the leaders are hardly in a comfortable stance as the teams start down the PCTL stretch. There are four Saturdays to go in the round, including position night, and that means a possible 28 points for any team.

Brim's Pioneer Lanes held its third place status over the weekend, stopping Karlsen Pharmacy 4-3; and Jeffery Lanes held fourth despite a 5-2 setback by Morton Pontiac. Morton used that win and a 5-2 loss by City Welding Sales and Service to The Brass Rail to claim fifth alone. The Welders lost their tie for that spot.

TED GEIERSBACH was the dominant force in the big Buick win, rolling out a fine 202-235-231 — 668 on Chalet's home Gunnell's Lanes, by far the biggest series on a night almost devoid of 600 efforts. But even his 231 third game wasn't enough to avert a 960-911 Sports Chalet win, salvaging something for Chalet and preventing Buick from cutting the margin to three points.

Paul Borvig added 609 for Buick, while Tom Kouros and Tony Sasso led Chalet with 583 each. Ray Neumann had a 572, including 211 in the important third game.

Brim's Pioneer won two close ones — including the third game by two pins — and took one lacing in gaining four points from Karlsen Pharmacy. The pharmacy five insured the point for total pinfall by running a 990-881 count in game two.

Larry Thon kept Pioneer in the action with a 597, including a 235 first game, while Joe Simonis had 595 and Jim Runkle 585 for Karlsen.

THE THIRD OF the evening's three 600 series showed up in the Morton Pontiac - Jeffery Lanes meeting, and it was an important one from Les Zikes Jr. He had a 611 total for Morton, with a 248 third game that gave his team the match's clincher. Bob Glaser had a 592, and Ray Olson a 556.

TED GEIERSBACH

Jeffery got its best from Paul Zubak — a 595 — and Don Christensen, who had 557.

The Brass Rail returned to its winning late round form, taking a low-scoring tussle from City Welding at Thunderbird Bowl. The one game the Railers did lose was by 861-831.

The Rail's John Giovanelli was big man in the match, with a 581 total. Teammate Harvey Randolph had 574, and for City Welding, Bill Todd was high at 571.

If the standings mean anything, both Sports Chalet and Bill Cook Buick shouldn't be troubled too much this weekend. Chalet is to tangle with City Welding at Thunderbird, while Buick meets The Brass Rail at River Rand Bowl. But, with both being away matches, there could be danger.

Brim's Pioneer and Jeffery Lanes will settle their dispute for third at Pioneer, and Jeffery — which has a date at the ABC tourney in Rochester, N.Y. — will follow that by bowling its scheduled April 16 match with City Welding at Thunderbird Bowl at 9:15 p.m. In the evening's other action, Morton Pontiac will meet Karlsen Pharmacy at Striking Lanes.

THE STANDINGS:

Bill Cook Buick	53
Brim's Pioneer	48
Jeffery Lanes	44
Morton Pontiac	40

In Gals' Classic

Lattof Opens 2-Point Lead

A two-point lead isn't anything to get cocky about, but Lattof Chevrolet welcomes what little daylight there is today between first and second place in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League.

Lattof charged to four points as Steve's Restaurant was held to a deadlock Saturday evening, opening up a gap of two markers between the pace-setters in the torrid gals' title chase.

Lattof and Steve's had been tied for the coveted top position after firing on each of the two previous Saturdays.

VI DOUGLAS, Donna Reinhardt, and Rose Kraft were the major contributors as first half champ Lattof Chevrolet bounced Morton Pontiac, 4-0, with a 2693 team series, tops for the night.

Vi fashioned her season high with a 597 series and had games of 202 and 224 as she held on to her second place ranking in the overall average list.

Donna Reinhardt chipped in with a 576 and had a 202 opener as Lattof initiated its rout with a 921 game. Rose Kraft fired a 543, sandwiching games of 193 and 189 around a 161.

JOAN LINDAHL was the only gal able to eclipse 500 for the Morton Pontiac entry that suffered through a frustrating night. Joan had a 507 and 179 high game.

Steve's Restaurant wasn't a model of consistency as it emerged with a 2-2 split with Striking Lanes. Steve's had the biggest game of the night, a booming 988, but also suffered through 822 and 811 efforts.

Winnie Lohse topped Steve's with a 562 and was on her way to a big night when she skidded to a 145 finale. Winnie opened with a 193 and had a 224 middle game. Louise Lass was next in line at 531 with a 202 game.

EVELYN ELARDE and Judy Anderson played key roles as Striking knocked Steve's from a share of the women's lead. Evelyn had a pace-setting 551 series, and Judy fashioned a 539 with her two best games (196 and 206) instrumental in giving Striking its two markers.

In other action Saturday Rolling Meadows Bowl climbed into sole possession of third place with a 3-1 conquest of River Rand Bowl.

Jean Ladd knocked down the pins for a 581 count for Rolling Meadows. Marge Lindenberg was high for cellar dwelling River Rand with a 558.

The standings:

Lattof Chevrolet	36
Steve's Restaurant	34
Rolling Meadows Bowl	23
Striking Lanes	22
Morton Pontiac	17

Salt Creek Enrichment Program Set

Extra academic and "enrichment" activities will begin after Easter vacation for about 70 to 80 students at Salt Creek School in Elk Grove Village.

Elk Grove District 59 this week received a $9,716 federal grant for a program of "compensatory education."

The program, which includes academic and physical education activities, social work, and health services, is designed to fill the "gaps" certain children have in their learning experiences.

MANY OF THE children to be involved come from backgrounds with different cultural outlooks because of Spanish speaking parents or unusually mobile families. Salt Creek School has the highest concentration of these students.

The school is the ideal community resource to reach the children, Paul Lewis, social worker and administrator of the program, said. Any other kind of program attempting to reach the children would be more expensive.

Children in the third, fourth, and fifth grades or a minimum of eight years old have been designated for the program. Many of the children have been categorized as slow learners partially because of these learning experience "gaps." However, the program allows any bused child to Salt Creek School to be eligible. (A

Sure Sign of Spring: Lombard 'Lilac Time'

For the 27th consecutive year, Lombard will celebrate its famous "Lilac Time" with thousands of lilacs, tulips, pansies, and other floral displays.

Highlights of this year's Lilac Festival, which begins approximately Saturday, April 30, will be the coronation of the "Queen of the Lilacs" on Friday, May 6 or May 13, and the mammoth parade on Sunday, May 15. The coronation date is flexible, due to the possibility of inclement weather.

As in past years, thousands are expected to visit the famed Lilacia Park, scene of the festival, on Mothers Day, May 8.

GARDEN LOVERS from throughout the Midwest are expected to converge on Lombard during the festival. Last year, park district officials welcomed the 1,000,000th visitor to "Lilac Time."

Lombard's 7-½-acre Lilacia Park contains one of the world's finest collections of lilacs, some 1,200 lilac bushes which grow approximately 275 varieties of the flower. In addition, 62,000 tulips of 105 varieties and numerous colorful pansies form a matchless floral display. This is the 36th year in which Lilacia Park is open to the public.

According to Norman H. Klopp, president of the Lombard Park District, the lilac bloom will be at its best between May 2 and 19, and remain in bloom for approximately two weeks. Lilacia Park will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the blooming period of the lilacs. Visitors are particularly welcome during the weekdays, states Klopp, and points out that the park is also floodlighted at night.

Lombard is adapted to handle the thousands of visitors who attend each year, particularly over the May weekends. "We believe we have one of the miracles of nature out here, and we are anxious to share it with all who care to come," says Klopp.

FIVE PRINCESSES have been chosen in the annual "Queen of the Lilacs" contest sponsored by the Lombard Camera Club. The contestants, 17 to 21 years of age, reside within the Lombard Park District. The queen's selection is kept a secret until time for the crowning.

The 1966 Lilac queen and the four princesses will be in the park on the weekends to greet visitors and pose for photographers.

On Sunday afternoon, May 15, the festival parade will be held. The queen and her court will be in the vanguard of floats, bands, drum and bugle corps. The parade will end at the Lombard Common, where special exhibitions by parade participants are staged. (A-15

Road District Budget Has Smooth Sailing

Wheeling Township electors Tuesday night approved the 1966-67 road district budgets and distributed some $200,000 in surplus funds to school districts, local welfare agencies and the township general assistance funds.

Approximately 150 were present to authorize the spending of nearly $610,000 exactly as recommended by the township board of auditors.

THERE WAS NO opposition as moderator Roger Burke steered the $112,000 township budget and $298,000 road budget through swift approval.

The only slowdown in the efficient operation came during the distribution of surplus funds. There, voters asked for a spelled-out accounting of the transfers to community mental health agencies and the Over 50 Club of Wheeling Township, and proposed the transfer of surplus funds to the road district to bring about a lower tax levy.

APPROVED WITHOUT question within seconds of its presentation by Township Supervisor Albert D. Peters, the township budget allots $78,000 for the town fund, $27,000 for the general assistance fund and $6,500 for the cemetery fund.

At the recommendation of Peters, a transfer of $5,500 was made from the town fund to cover the planned edpenditures in the cemetery budget. Only $980 remained in the cemetery fund from last year.

At the same time, voters elected Henry Schuettler of Arlington Heights to a three-year term as township cemetery trustee. He had previously been appointed to complete the term of Tony Farina.

THE ROAD budget also got easy approval but not until it was outlined by Fred Weiszmann Jr., attorney for the township road department who represented the hospitalized Township Road Com. William W. Leuhring.

Weiszmann explained the following points:

The road budget for the coming year of $298,000 is almost identical with last year's $299,000 budget, with decreases in expenditures for equipment being made up for by increases in planned contract work and road material and supply purchases.

While the budgeted amount is the same as last year, the tax levy will go down from the 1965 levy of 11 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation to 10.02 cents. Weiszmann said that this is due to a $20-million increase in the township tax base.

Out of the $298,000, only $190,000 will be spent for township roads. The remaining $108,000 will be distributed to municipalities in the township.

Beginning next year, the end of the fiscal year for the township road district has been changed from the last day in February to Jan. 31. Weiszmann explained that this was to give the road commissioner more time to prepare the budget. The law requires that it be made public 30 days before the annual town meeting, and they wish to avoid a repeat of this year's situation when the fiscal year ended on Feb. 28 and the proposed budget had to be ready March 5, only five days later.

The latter point puzzled one person who pointed out that it would result in an 11-month fiscal year for this year. Weiszmann tried to clarify this by explaining that the change was in essence a bookkeeping transaction and would not affect actual expenditures because the road department spending does not begin until taxes start coming during June.

BREAKDOWN OF the transfer of $200,000 in surplus funds came about exactly as recommended by Peters: $140,000 to school districts, $40,000 to the community mental health agencies, $10,000 to the Over 50 Club and $10,000 to the township general assistance fund.

The words were barely out of Peters' mouth when Harold Sortor, president of the School Dist. 25 board, hastened to move for the $140,000 transfer to the schools. It was quickly seconded and approved.

THE $40,000 transfer to the mental health agencies did not have such smooth sailing.

Fredric Marks of Arlington Heights asked for an accounting of the funds spent by the recipient agencies and a presentation of their proposed budget for the coming year.

Peters answered that the expenditures of surplus funds by the mental health agencies are approved by the town board and a certified audit of those expenditures was available at the town hall.

He said that the breakdown would be based on last year's expenditures which were about $10,000 by Northwest Cooperative Community Mental Health Clinic, $16,500 by Clearbrook Center for the Retarded and $3,000 by Countryside Association for Retarded Children. He added that this year, a fourth agency, Door Inc. of Wheeling, had requested funds.

Marks asked that such an accounting be incorporated in next year's transfer proposals.

AT THIS POINT, an unidentified man in the audience pointed out that if all surplus funds were transferred as recommended by the town board, there would be nothing left to transfer to the road district.

He was referring to a proposal by Herbert Andersen of Wheeling at last week's budget hearings that a portion of the surplus funds be transferred to the road district to reduce the road tax levy.

A flurry was caused when Russell Lockwood of Scarsdale Estates moved that the entire $40,000 be transferred to the road district. He withdrew his mostion after Ralph Clabaugh, school Dist. 25 superintendent, and Byrn Witt of Clearbrook School rose to speak against it.

Lockwood said he proposed the transfer to demonstrate that at the town meeting voters could act directly to cut their taxes.

AN ACCOUNTING of expenditures also was asked before the transfer of $10,000 to the Over 50 Club was approved.

William G. Fisher, president of the Wheeling club, defended the transfer and said it would be broken down to $3,200 for the Arlington Heights club, $3,900 to the Wheeling Club and $2,900 to the newly formed Buffalo Grove club.

The meeting did not adjourn without a last ditch attempt for a token transfer of funds to the road district by its main proponent, Herbert Anderson. He noted $1,500 surplus in the town fund remained unassigned and asked that it be a token transfer to the road district.

His motion was defeated. (ACM

Mother Glad Bronze Star Winner Is Safe

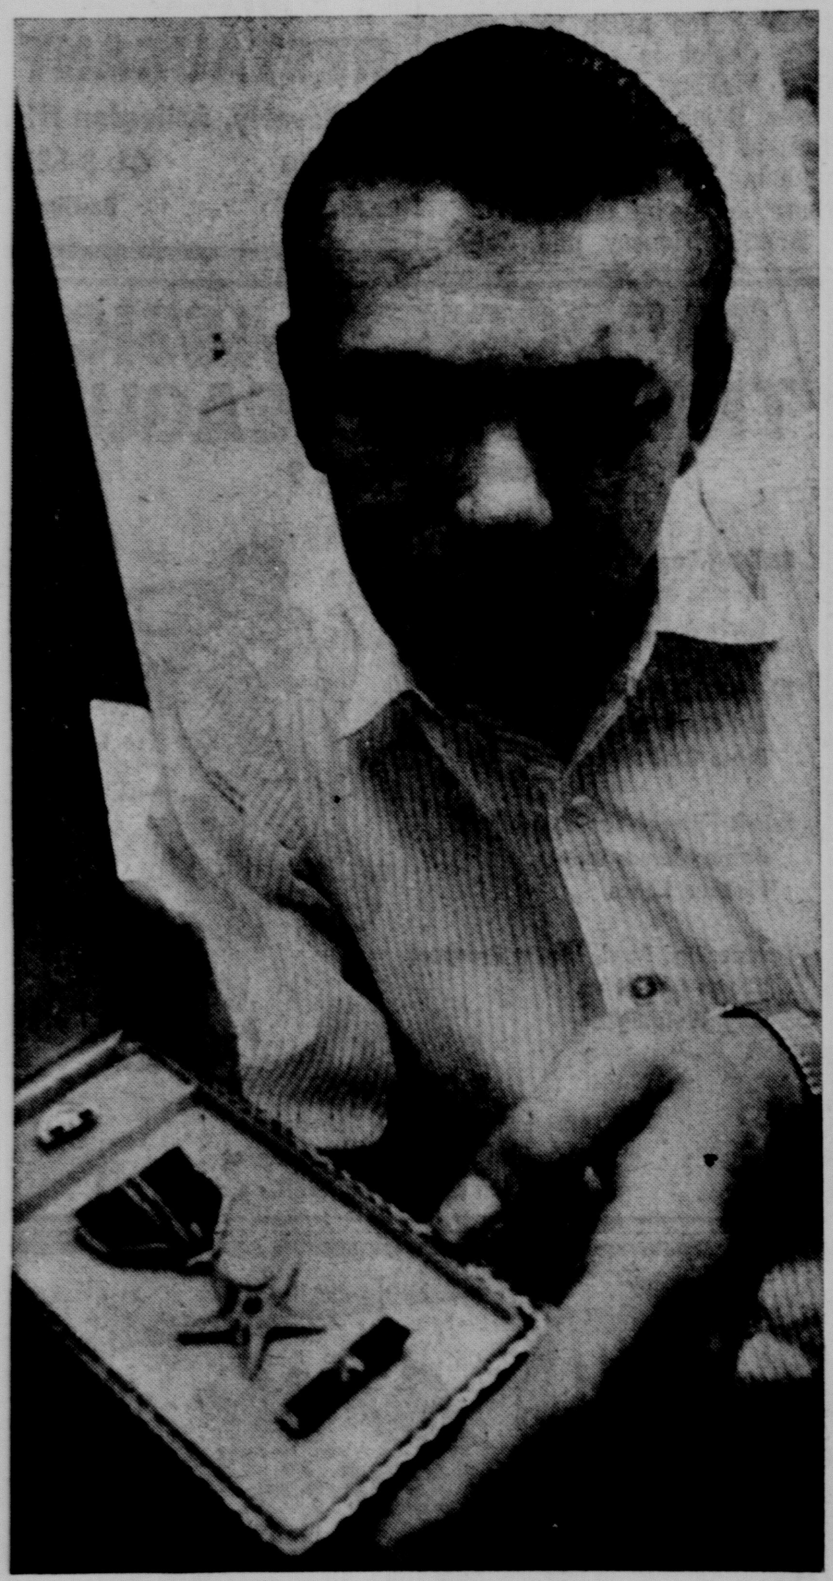
Staff Writer



BRONZE STAR WINNER Pfc. Michael Pabst of 1 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights, still hasn't worn his medal and battle ribbons for his mother and neighbors to see. His sea bags and winter uniforms are missing, perhaps lost in a warehouse fire in Okinawa, and since he hit the West Coast he's been relegated to civilian dress. It's a deprivation the former Arlington High student says, grinning, that he can "live with." (Staff Photo)

Because his sea bag and Marine Corps "greens," were lost en route, his mother still hasn't seen Pfc. Michael Pabst with that Bronze Star on.

But that doesn't bother Mrs. Paul Pabst a bit.

"I'm just glad that Mike's here instead of in Viet Nam," the Arlington Heights mother will tell you.

It's a sentiment Mike is quick to second. He'll point out the temperature change he's noticed—as much as 100 degrees between a chilly Illinois April and the sweltering Asian land—and say dryly that it's a change that he can adjust to.

PABST'S BRONZE Star was won last April in action against the Viet Cong. A radioman, he was cited for leaving cover and taking an exposed position swept with heavy automatic and sniper fire, so that he could keep his patrol in touch with badly-needed reinforcement units.

The incident that won Mike Pabst his Bronze Star was far from being his only close squeak. Not all of them were in combat. Pabst also received a letter of commendation for an unsuccessful attempt to rescue a fellow American who drowned while both were on an outing to a South China beach.

Then there was the time his squad was pinned down eight hours with the Viet Cong all around, as close as 20 yards.

"We thought we'd had it, especially when they dropped napalm and the wind changed and the fire started to come out our way," says Pabst.

That time the helicopters hovered low and blew the fire out. The score: for their 10 man squad, one dead, three wounded; and one helicopter downed.

For Mike, Viet Nam was an almost entirely guerrilla warfare.

It was also a "war without a front." When his squad went out to set up a position they had to be ready to defend it "for 360 degrees around."

"Only the North Viet Nam regulars wear khaki and they're likely to take to native clothes. And the farmer will work for a while in his field, then lay down his tools to take a couple shots, then go to work again," the Marine Corps veteran says.

"YOU CAN'T TELL the players without a score card," he'll add wryly.

Even this, the Marine says, one can adjust to. "I can remember one time when we were sitting out in our lounge chairs — like the ones at home but smaller — and a sniper started firing from a nearby hill. We just sat there and watched him," he says.

"And then a round landed between me and Ken—and the chairs almost melted, we moved so fast."

Such experiences, Mrs. Pabst says, have left her 19-year-old son changed, older and more mature—and taller. Truly.

Building Values At All-Time High

Construction permits for $6,853,700 worth of buildings, an all-time high, were issued by the Arlington Heights building department during March, according to building commissioner H. C. Best's monthly report.

The report shows a marked increase over the March, 1965, figure of $2,837,300 and brings to $12,842,135 the valuation of new structures since January. The valuation for the first three months last year was less than half of this year's with only $5,503,571.

Highest valuation of $2,679,000 was assigned to multi-family residents with $2,674,000. The office - apartment complex being constructed on the site of the old St. Peter's Church accounted for the bulk of this figure.

Single-family residence valuation set at $2,279,300 almost doubled that of last year. Industrial structures accounted for $1,250,000 of the total valuation. The planned construction of the new Weber Marking Systems plant is credited for this figure. No industrial building permits were issued last year during March.

The report also showed permits issued for: business buildings, $125,000 valuation; business alterations and additions, $79,000 valuation; home alterations and additions, $13,000 valuation; and schools, $424,000 valuation.

The Bell Savings report for 1965 showed total valuation of $28,938,305. The valuation for the first three months of this year indicates 1966 figures will be considerably higher. (A

Tires Taken At Lattof Lot

Four tires were taken Monday from two cars parked in the lot of Lattof Chevrolet, 800 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights.

Police detectives Maurice English and George Ekblad noticed the theft while on a routine patrol of car lots which have been hit by larcenies in the past.

The loss was valued at $100. (A

Brentwood Program Receives State Aid

Elk Grove School District 59 has received $26,800 from the state to conduct a summer teachers' institute on its "prescription learning" program at Brentwood School in the Des Plaines area of the district.

With this evidence of state interest in the program, District 59 applied Tuesday for $315,483 in federal funds for a three-year pilot project for extension of the "prescription learning" program.

William Merz, director of testing and research and the writer of the proposal, said Dist. 59 will apply for the funds in conjunction with the University of Illinois and the University of Pittsburgh. This combination on an application is unique, he noted.

MERZ EXPLAINED the funds would allow the prescription learning "engineered and designed by the University of Pittsburgh to be used in a school setting with definite controls." The program in use now at Brentwood would allow a comparison of its worth in relation to the Oakleaf School in Pittsburgh and traditional schools. "In a year we would be able to describe what the teachers and children do in this operation, noting significant differences is their use of time, rate of learning, and other things," Merz explained.

The "prescription learning" approach in reading and mathematics allows a child to proceed at his own pace set on the basis of a series of tests that "diagnose" his levels of understanding.

THE PROPOSED program would call for two research associates and close work with the Learning, Research and Development Center of the University of Pittsburgh and the Center for Instructional Research and Curriculum Evaluation of the University of Illinois.

Basically Dist. 59 would agree to invest $2 for every $1 the federal government would invest. (A

Salt Creek Enrichment Program Set

Extra academic and "enrichment" activities will begin after Easter vacation for about 70 to 80 students at Salt Creek School in Elk Grove Village.

Elk Grove District 59 this week received a $9,716 federal grant for a program of "compensatory education."

The program, which includes academic and physical education activities, social work, and health services, is designed to fill the "gaps" certain children have in their learning experiences.

MANY OF THE children to be involved come from backgrounds with different cultural outlooks because of Spanish speaking parents or unusually mobile families. Salt Creek School has the highest concentration of these students.

The school is the ideal community resource to reach the children, Paul Lewis, social worker and administrator of the program, said. Any other kind of program attempting to reach the children would be more expensive.

Children in the third, fourth, and fifth grades or a minimum of eight years old have been designated for the program. Many of the children have been categorized as slow learners partially because of these learning experience "gaps." However, the program allows any bused child to Salt Creek School to be eligible. (A

For the 27th consecutive year, Lombard will celebrate its famous "Lilac Time" with thousands of lilacs, tulips, pansies, and other floral displays.

Highlights of this year's Lilac Festival, which begins approximately Saturday, April 30, will be the coronation of the "Queen of the Lilacs" on Friday, May 6 or May 13, and the mammoth parade on Sunday, May 15. The coronation date is flexible, due to the possibility of inclement weather.

As in past years, thousands are expected to visit the famed Lilacia Park, scene of the festival, on Mothers Day, May 8.

GARDEN LOVERS from throughout the Midwest are expected to converge on Lombard during the festival. Last year, park district officials welcomed the 1,000,000th visitor to "Lilac Time."

Lombard's 7-½-acre Lilacia Park contains one of the world's finest collections of lilacs, some 1,200 lilac bushes which grow approximately 275 varieties of the flower. In addition, 62,000 tulips of 105 varieties and numerous colorful pansies form a matchless floral display. This is the 36th year in which Lilacia Park is open to the public.

According to Norman H. Klopp, president of the Lombard Park District, the lilac bloom will be at its best between May 2 and 19, and remain in bloom for approximately two weeks. Lilacia Park will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. during the blooming period of the lilacs. Visitors are particularly welcome during the weekdays, states Klopp, and points out that the park is also floodlighted at night.

Lombard is adapted to handle the thousands of visitors who attend each year, particularly over the May weekends. "We believe we have one of the miracles of nature out here, and we are anxious to share it with all who care to come," says Klopp.

FIVE PRINCESSES have been chosen in the annual "Queen of the Lilacs" contest sponsored by the Lombard Camera Club. The contestants, 17 to 21 years of age, reside within the Lombard Park District. The queen's selection is kept a secret until time for the crowning.

The 1966 Lilac queen and the four princesses will be in the park on the weekends to greet visitors and pose for photographers.

On Sunday afternoon, May 15, the festival parade will be held. The queen and her court will be in the vanguard of floats, bands, drum and bugle corps. The parade will end at the Lombard Common, where special exhibitions by parade participants are staged. (A-15

Road District Budget Has Smooth Sailing

Wheeling Township electors Tuesday night approved the 1966-67 road district budgets and distributed some $200,000 in surplus funds to school districts, local welfare agencies and the township general assistance funds.

Approximately 150 were present to authorize the spending of nearly $610,000 exactly as recommended by the township board of auditors.

THERE WAS NO opposition as moderator Roger Burke steered the $112,000 township budget and $298,000 road budget through swift approval.

The only slowdown in the efficient operation came during the distribution of surplus funds. There, voters asked for a spelled-out accounting of the transfers to community mental health agencies and the Over 50 Club of Wheeling Township, and proposed the transfer of surplus funds to the road district to bring about a lower tax levy.

APPROVED WITHOUT question within seconds of its presentation by Township Supervisor Albert D. Peters, the township budget allots $78,000 for the town fund, $27,000 for the general assistance fund and $6,500 for the cemetery fund.

At the recommendation of Peters, a transfer of $5,500 was made from the town fund to cover the planned edpenditures in the cemetery budget. Only $980 remained in the cemetery fund from last year.

At the same time, voters elected Henry Schuettler of Arlington Heights to a three-year term as township cemetery trustee. He had previously been appointed to complete the term of Tony Farina.

THE ROAD budget also got easy approval but not until it was outlined by Fred Weiszmann Jr., attorney for the township road department who represented the hospitalized Township Road Com. William W. Leuhring.

Weiszmann explained the following points:

The road budget for the coming year of $298,000 is almost identical with last year's $299,000 budget, with decreases in expenditures for equipment being made up for by increases in planned contract work and road material and supply purchases.

While the budgeted amount is the same as last year, the tax levy will go down from the 1965 levy of 11 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation to 10.02 cents. Weiszmann said that this is due to a $20-million increase in the township tax base.

Out of the $298,000, only $190,000 will be spent for township roads. The remaining $108,000 will be distributed to municipalities in the township.

Beginning next year, the end of the fiscal year for the township road district has been changed from the last day in February to Jan. 31. Weiszmann explained that this was to give the road commissioner more time to prepare the budget. The law requires that it be made public 30 days before the annual town meeting, and they wish to avoid a repeat of this year's situation when the fiscal year ended on Feb. 28 and the proposed budget had to be ready March 5, only five days later.

The latter point puzzled one person who pointed out that it would result in an 11-month fiscal year for this year. Weiszmann tried to clarify this by explaining that the change was in essence a bookkeeping transaction and would not affect actual expenditures because the road department spending does not begin until taxes start coming during June.

BREAKDOWN OF the transfer of $200,000 in surplus funds came about exactly as recommended by Peters: $140,000 to school districts, $40,000 to the community mental health agencies, $10,000 to the Over 50 Club and $10,000 to the township general assistance fund.

The words were barely out of Peters' mouth when Harold Sortor, president of the School Dist. 25 board, hastened to move for the $140,000 transfer to the schools. It was quickly seconded and approved.

THE $40,000 transfer to the mental health agencies did not have such smooth sailing.

Fredric Marks of Arlington Heights asked for an accounting of the funds spent by the recipient agencies and a presentation of their proposed budget for the coming year.

Peters answered that the expenditures of surplus funds by the mental health agencies are approved by the town board and a certified audit of those expenditures was available at the town hall.

He said that the breakdown would be based on last year's expenditures which were about $10,000 by Northwest Cooperative Community Mental Health Clinic, $16,500 by Clearbrook Center for the Retarded and $3,000 by Countryside Association for Retarded Children. He added that this year, a fourth agency, Door Inc. of Wheeling, had requested funds.

Marks asked that such an accounting be incorporated in next year's transfer proposals.

AT THIS POINT, an unidentified man in the audience pointed out that if all surplus funds were transferred as recommended by the town board, there would be nothing left to transfer to the road district.

He was referring to a proposal by Herbert Andersen of Wheeling at last week's budget hearings that a portion of the surplus funds be transferred to the road district to reduce the road tax levy.

A flurry was caused when Russell Lockwood of Scarsdale Estates moved that the entire $40,000 be transferred to the road district. He withdrew his mostion after Ralph Clabaugh, school Dist. 25 superintendent, and Byrn Witt of Clearbrook School rose to speak against it.

Lockwood said he proposed the transfer to demonstrate that at the town meeting voters could act directly to cut their taxes.

AN ACCOUNTING of expenditures also was asked before the transfer of $10,000 to the Over 50 Club was approved.

William G. Fisher, president of the Wheeling club, defended the transfer and said it would be broken down to $3,200 for the Arlington Heights club, $3,900 to the Wheeling Club and $2,900 to the newly formed Buffalo Grove club.

The meeting did not adjourn without a last ditch attempt for a token transfer of funds to the road district by its main proponent, Herbert Anderson. He noted $1,500 surplus in the town fund remained unassigned and asked that it be a token transfer to the road district.

His motion was defeated. (ACM

Building Values At All-Time High

Construction permits for $6,853,700 worth of buildings, an all-time high, were issued by the Arlington Heights building department during March, according to building commissioner H. C. Best's monthly report.

The report shows a marked increase over the March, 1965, figure of $2,837,300 and brings to $12,842,135 the valuation of new structures since January. The valuation for the first three months last year was less than half of this year's with only $5,503,571.

Highest valuation of $2,679,000 was assigned to multi-family residents with $2,674,000. The office - apartment complex being constructed on the site of the old St. Peter's Church accounted for the bulk of this figure.

Single-family residence valuation set at $2,279,300 almost doubled that of last year. Industrial structures accounted for $1,250,000 of the total valuation. The planned construction of the new Weber Marking Systems plant is credited for this figure.

No industrial building permits were issued last year during March.

The report also showed permits issued for: business buildings, $125,000 valuation; business alterations and additions, $79,000 valuation; home alterations and additions, $13,000 valuation; and schools, $424,000 valuation.

The Bell Savings report for 1965 showed total valuation of $28,938,305. The valuation for the first three months of this year indicates 1966 figures will be considerably higher. (A

Mother Glad Bronze Star Winner Is Safe

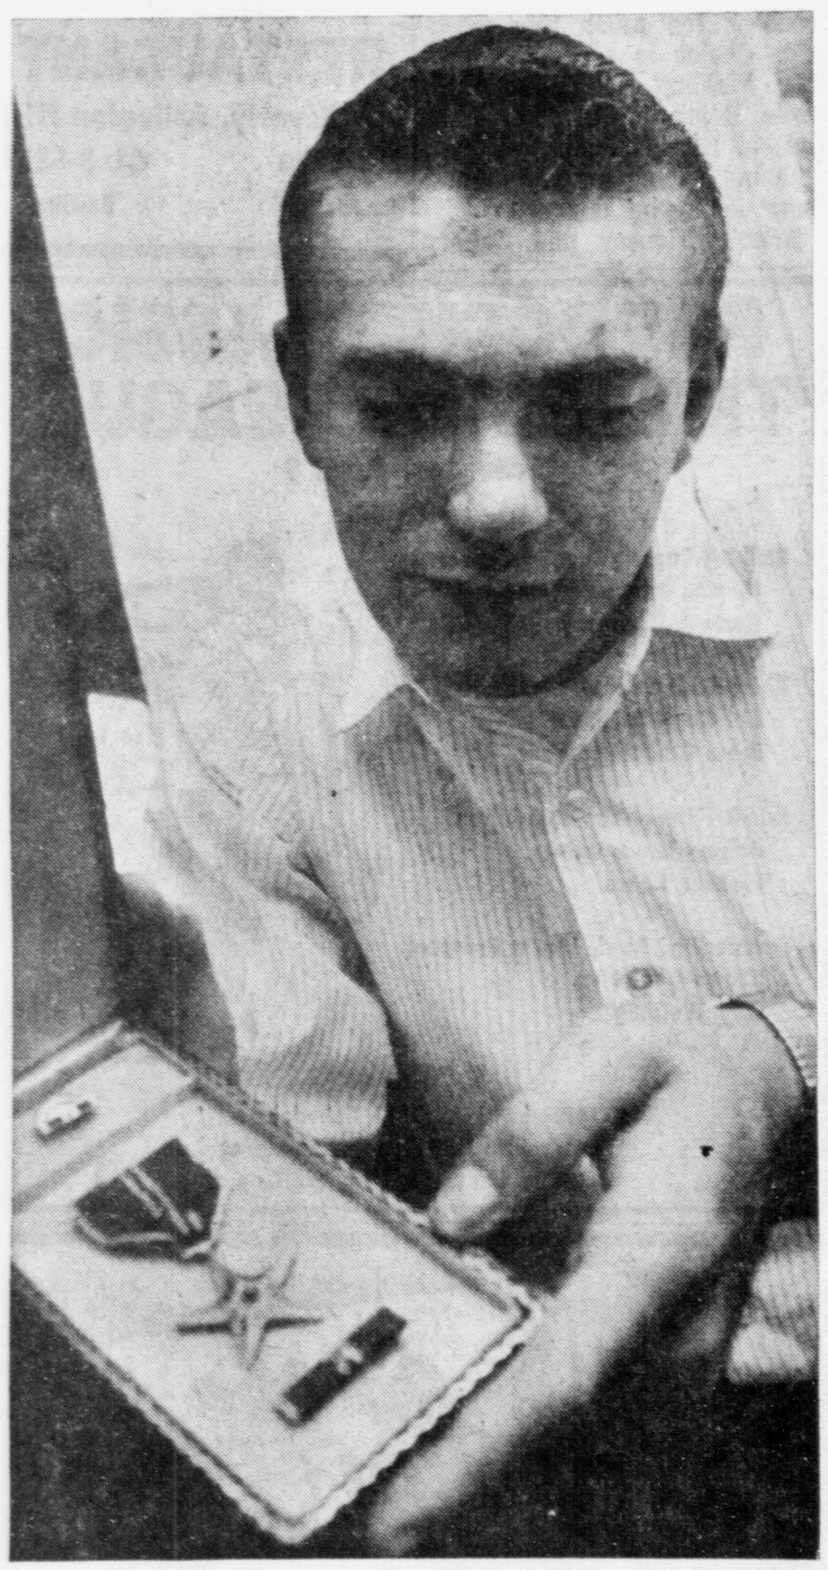
Staff Writer



BRONZE STAR WINNER Pfc. Michael Pabst of 1 S. Ridge Ave., Arlington Heights, still hasn't worn his medal and battle ribbons for his mother and neighbors to see. His sea bags and winter uniforms are missing, perhaps lost in a warehouse fire in Okinawa, and since he hit the West Coast he's been relegated to civilian dress. It's a deprivation the former Arlington High student says, grinning, that he can "live with." (Staff Photo)

Because his sea bag and Marine Corps "greens," were lost en route, his mother still hasn't seen Pfc. Michael Pabst with that Bronze Star on.

But that doesn't bother Mrs. Paul Pabst a bit.

"I'm just glad that Mike's here instead of in Viet Nam," the Arlington Heights mother will tell you.

It's a sentiment Mike is quick to second. He'll point out the temperature change he's noticed—as much as 100 degrees between a chilly Illinois April and the sweltering Asian land—and say dryly that it's a change that he can adjust to.

PABST'S BRONZE Star was won last April in action against the Viet Cong. A radioman, he was cited for leaving cover and taking an exposed position swept with heavy automatic and sniper fire, so that he could keep his patrol in touch with badly-needed reinforcement units.

The incident that won Mike Pabst his Bronze Star was far from being his only close squeak. Not all of them were in combat. Pabst also received a letter of commendation for an unsuccessful attempt to rescue a fellow American who drowned while both were on an outing to a South China beach.

Then there was the time his squad was pinned down eight hours with the Viet Cong all around, as close as 20 yards.

"We thought we'd had it, especially when they dropped napalm and the wind changed and the fire started to come out our way," says Pabst.

That time the helicopters hovered low and blew the fire out. The score: for their 10 man squad, one dead, three wounded; and one helicopter downed.

For Mike, Viet Nam was an almost entirely guerrilla warfare.

It was also a "war without a front." When his squad went out to set up a position they had to be ready to defend it "for 360 degrees around."

"Only the North Viet Nam regulars wear khaki and they're likely to take to native clothes. And the farmer will work for a while in his field, then lay down his tools to take a couple shots, then go to work again," the Marine Corps veteran says.

"YOU CAN'T TELL the players without a score card," he'll add wryly.

Even this, the Marine says, one can adjust to. "I can remember one time when we were sitting out in our lounge chairs — like the ones at home but smaller — and a sniper started firing from a nearby hill. We just sat there and watched him," he says.

"And then a round landed between me and Ken—and the chairs almost melted, we moved so fast."

Such experiences, Mrs. Pabst says, have left her 19-year-old son changed, older and more mature—and taller. Truly.

Brentwood Program Receives State Aid

Elk Grove School District 59 has received $26,800 from the state to conduct a summer teachers' institute on its "prescription learning" program at Brentwood School in the Des Plaines area of the district.

With this evidence of state interest in the program, District 59 applied Tuesday for $315,483 in federal funds for a three-year pilot project for extension of the "prescription learning" program.

William Merz, director of testing and research and the writer of the proposal, said Dist. 59 will apply for the funds in conjunction with the University of Illinois and the University of Pittsburgh. This combination on an application is unique, he noted.

MERZ EXPLAINED the funds would allow the prescription learning "engineered and designed by the University of Pittsburgh to be used in a school setting with definite controls." The program in use now at Brentwood would allow a comparison of its worth in relation to the Oakleaf School in Pittsburgh and traditional schools. "In a year we would be able to describe what the teachers and children do in this operation, noting significant differences is their use of time, rate of learning, and other things," Merz explained.

The "prescription learning" approach in reading and mathematics allows a child to proceed at his own pace set on the basis of a series of tests that "diagnose" his levels of understanding.

THE PROPOSED program would call for two research associates and close work with the Learning, Research and Development Center of the University of Pittsburgh and the Center for Instructional Research and Curriculum Evaluation of the University of Illinois.

Basically Dist. 59 would agree to invest $2 for every $1 the federal government would invest. (A

FROM RIDGE PARK

Craig Knight celebrated his third birthday March 25 with a luncheon party at 809 N. Patton for Larry Alice, Dawn Cary, Karen Collins and Daniel Burianek. Craig's parents are Kay and David Knight.

The Warren Blesses' daughter, Jaci, has had a houseguest from Indianapolis at 615 W. Vine. Kari Dunn arrived Saturday to spend her spring vacation visiting Jaci and old friends with whom she attended Miner Junior High School before moving from Arlington Heights.

Enjoying the colorful Ice Capades on March 26 were Barb and Frank Kieca, 821 N. Salem, with friends from Rolling Meadows.

Ronnie and Dick Lanzon, 814 N. Patton, were treated to dinner at the Carousel Restaurant on March 22 by Dick's brother, John Lanzon of Detroit, in the Chicago area on business.

Ronnie and Dick enjoyed dinner out again on Friday of the same week, when they took Donna to the Waterfall Restaurant to celebrate her sixth birthday.

THE CHARLES Laufers, 944 N. Kaspar, had a busy week with a birthday and a confirmation. On March 28, Clifford celebrated his 14th birthday and on Palm Sunday he was confirmed at St. John United Church of Christ. His grandmother, Mrs. Perry Sane, arrived from Cleveland to join in the celebrations.

The George Wojtkiewiczs, 920 N. Ridge enjoyed an evening out with the Norbert Lejas of Arlington Heights on March 26, with dinner and a floor show at Hyatt's Chalet Motel.

The Charles Vetters' guests for a week at 813 N. Patton were their son, John, his wife, Marge, and their baby. Upon leaving here March 28, John, who is a lieutenant in the Air Force, left for Okinawa, where he will be stationed for three years.

The day after they arrived it was Mary's birthday and it gave her a chance to get her family together for the first time in three years. Their daughter, Linda, was also home for two weeks between terms at Hamline University, St. Paul, and it gave her the opportunity to see her brother before he left.

Other family members getting their first glimpse of the baby on March 21 came from Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Elmhurst and Charles' mother, Mrs. C. H. Vetter of West Chicago. The baby, Steven, wasn't able to enjoy the company, as he was kept in bed with measles.

THE BILL Schmidts, 1611 W. Oakton, had a full house on March 27, when 12 school friends of their daughter, Kathy, arrived in the afternoon to help celebrate her seventh birthday. In the evening, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidt of Chicago, were guests for the occasion.

For their 22nd wedding anniversary, the John Oertels left 708 N. Salem on Friday evening for a relaxing weekend at Pheasant Run Lodge in St. Charles. While there, they attended a performance of "Two for the See-Saw" with Pernell Roberts.

Chuck and Connie Elste of Quincy spent a recent weekend with his parents, the Ed Elstes at 716 N. Fernandez. While here, the four drove to Chicago to attend a luau at Turners Hall.

The Elstes were hosts at a surprise party March 20 for Mike and Karen Schafer before they moved from 712 N. Fernandez to Milwaukee. When they invited the Schafers to Sunday dinner, instead of a quiet get-together, all the neighbors were there, laden with gag gifts and a beautiful set of dishes.

ON MARCH 23, Beverly and John Galandak got the happy news at 801 N. Patton from their daughter that their first grandchild had arrived. He has been named John Michael after his grandfather. Beverly has been traveling to Itasca every day to help take care of him. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Petersen.

Marge and Dick Goers, 1417 W. Elm, have a new daughter. On March 19, their son, Bob Bendix married Loretta Davenport of Palatine in Chicago. They are making their home in Rolling Meadows.

After 12 years with the same people, 939 N. Salem, changed hands recently, when the G. E. Humphreys signed the title over to Mr. and Mrs. P. Marsh. The Humphreys are moving on April 16 to Memphis, where he has accepted a position with Holiday Inn as buyer. Although it is quite a distance from here, they won't be strangers there, as her sister lives there. Their friends and neighbors wish them well in their new home.

FROM SHERWOOD

Amy Fellingham welcomed her husband, Paul, home to 1145 N. Patton after a month overseas on a business trip for Marshall Fields. Starting out, his first stop was in London, then India, Japan and Hawaii. His itinerary enabled him to see numerous interesting sights. Although he only saw Bangkok and Hong Kong from the airport, he did see the Taj Mahal at Agra, New Delhi, Calcutta and Mirzapur, India. In Japan, his sightseeing included Tokyo, Osaka and Kobe. On the Hawaiian Islands, he saw Honolulu.

The James Pooles, 1106 N. Princeton, had the best of weather while on a three-week vacation in Florida. They spent time on Treasure Island, off the coast of St. Petersburg, and in the Mobile Bay area, on Dauphine Island. In Sarasota they visited her father, William Rosengreen, formerly of Sherwood, and his wife.

ON THE WAY home, the Pooles stopped in Baton Rouge and New Orleans, returning March 24.

For a recent weekend trip, the Nick Shumans, 1001 W. Clarendon, flew to Washington, D.C., where Nick was a guest at the White House Press Correspondents annual dinner. While their husbands were at the dinner, the visiting wives and congressmen's wives were guests at a smaller party given by Mrs. Peter Lisagor whose husband is connected with the Washington Bureau of the Daily News. Mrs. Paul Douglas, Mrs. Sidney Yates and Mrs. Donald Rumsfeldt were among the guests at the party.

As the dinner was Friday evening, Marilyn and Nick had Saturday and Sunday free for sightseeing and to visit friends.

℞ EVERY CHILD SHOULD HAVE GOOD TEETH

It is a mistaken notion that "Baby" teeth do not need care just because the body replaces them with "permanent" teeth. Imperfect "Baby" teeth often cause many later-life dental problems.

Every child should be taken to a dentist at about two and a half years to three years of age. By then all the "Baby" teeth will be in. The dentist will check for minute signs of decay, or any malformations which can cause later troubles. Dental patients under four years old have an average of three teeth that need fillings. If dental-aids are needed, whether it be a child's toothbrush or a good tasting effective tooth paste, we have a complete stock.

Enjoying the colorful Ice Capades on March 26 were Barb and Frank Kieca, 821 N. Salem, with friends from Rolling Meadows.

Ronnie and Dick Lanzon, 814 N. Patton, were treated to dinner at the Carousel Restaurant on March 22 by Dick's brother, John Lanzon of Detroit, in the Chicago area on business.

Ronnie and Dick enjoyed dinner out again on Friday of the same week, when they took Donna to the Waterfall Restaurant to celebrate her sixth birthday.

THE CHARLES Laufers, 944 N. Kaspar, had a busy week with a birthday and a confirmation. On March 28, Clifford celebrated his 14th birthday and on Palm Sunday he was confirmed at St. John United Church of Christ. His grandmother, Mrs. Perry Sane, arrived from Cleveland to join in the celebrations.

The George Wojtkiewiczs, 920 N. Ridge enjoyed an evening out with the Norbert Lejas of Arlington Heights on March 26, with dinner and a floor show at Hyatt's Chalet Motel.

The Charles Vetters' guests for a week at 813 N. Patton were their son, John, his wife, Marge, and their baby. Upon leaving here March 28, John, who is a lieutenant in the Air Force, left for Okinawa, where he will be stationed for three years.

The day after they arrived it was Mary's birthday and it gave her a chance to get her family together for the first time in three years. Their daughter, Linda, was also home for two weeks between terms at Hamline University, St. Paul, and it gave her the opportunity to see her brother before he left.

Other family members getting their first glimpse of the baby on March 21 came from Elk Grove Village, Palatine, Elmhurst and Charles' mother, Mrs. C. H. Vetter of West Chicago. The baby, Steven, wasn't able to enjoy the company, as he was kept in bed with measles.

THE BILL Schmidts, 1611 W. Oakton, had a full house on March 27, when 12 school friends of their daughter, Kathy, arrived in the afternoon to help celebrate her seventh birthday. In the evening, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Schmidt of Chicago, were guests for the occasion.

For their 22nd wedding anniversary, the John Oertels left 708 N. Salem on Friday evening for a relaxing weekend at Pheasant Run Lodge in St. Charles. While there, they attended a performance of "Two for the See-Saw" with Pernell Roberts.

Chuck and Connie Elste of Quincy spent a recent weekend with his parents, the Ed Elstes at 716 N. Fernandez. While here, the four drove to Chicago to attend a luau at Turners Hall.

The Elstes were hosts at a surprise party March 20 for Mike and Karen Schafer before they moved from 712 N. Fernandez to Milwaukee. When they invited the Schafers to Sunday dinner, instead of a quiet get-together, all the neighbors were there, laden with gag gifts and a beautiful set of dishes.

ON MARCH 23, Beverly and John Galandak got the happy news at 801 N. Patton from their daughter that their first grandchild had arrived. He has been named John Michael after his grandfather. Beverly has been traveling to Itasca every day to help take care of him. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Petersen.

Marge and Dick Goers, 1417 W. Elm, have a new daughter. On March 19, their son, Bob Bendix married Loretta Davenport of Palatine in Chicago. They are making their home in Rolling Meadows.

After 12 years with the same people, 939 N. Salem, changed hands recently, when the G. E. Humphreys signed the title over to Mr. and Mrs. P. Marsh. The Humphreys are moving on April 16 to Memphis, where he has accepted a position with Holiday Inn as buyer. Although it is quite a distance from here, they won't be strangers there, as her sister lives there. Their friends and neighbors wish them well in their new home.

FROM SHERWOOD

Amy Fellingham welcomed her husband, Paul, home to 1145 N. Patton after a month overseas on a business trip for Marshall Fields. Starting out, his first stop was in London, then India, Japan and Hawaii. His itinerary enabled him to see numerous interesting sights. Although he only saw Bangkok and Hong Kong from the airport, he did see the Taj Mahal at Agra, New Delhi, Calcutta and Mirzapur, India. In Japan, his sightseeing included Tokyo, Osaka and Kobe. On the Hawaiian Islands, he saw Honolulu.

The James Pooles, 1106 N. Princeton, had the best of weather while on a three-week vacation in Florida. They spent time on Treasure Island, off the coast of St. Petersburg, and in the Mobile Bay area, on Dauphine Island. In Sarasota they visited her father, William Rosengreen, formerly of Sherwood, and his wife.

ON THE WAY home, the Pooles stopped in Baton Rouge and New Orleans, returning March 24.

For a recent weekend trip, the Nick Shumans, 1001 W. Clarendon, flew to Washington, D.C., where Nick was a guest at the White House Press Correspondents annual dinner. While their husbands were at the dinner, the visiting wives and congressmen's wives were guests at a smaller party given by Mrs. Peter Lisagor whose husband is connected with the Washington Bureau of the Daily News. Mrs. Paul Douglas, Mrs. Sidney Yates and Mrs. Donald Rumsfeldt were among the guests at the party.

As the dinner was Friday evening, Marilyn and Nick had Saturday and Sunday free for sightseeing and to visit friends.

℞ EVERY CHILD SHOULD HAVE GOOD TEETH

It is a mistaken notion that "Baby" teeth do not need care just because the body replaces them with "permanent" teeth. Imperfect "Baby" teeth often cause many later-life dental problems.

Every child should be taken to a dentist at about two and a half years to three years of age. By then all the "Baby" teeth will be in. The dentist will check for minute signs of decay, or any malformations which can cause later troubles. Dental patients under four years old have an average of three teeth that need fillings. If dental-aids are needed, whether it be a child's toothbrush or a good tasting effective tooth paste, we have a complete stock.

PALATINE NATIONAL BANK

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven.
A time to be born, and a time to die.
A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
A time to mourn, and a time to dance
A time to keep silence, and a time to speak.

We take this time to speak, and if we could, we would add to the above:

A time to borrow, and a time to save.

4½ PER CENT INTEREST

During the past 40 years, there has never been a time in which the rewards for thrift were greater. Money costs are at an all-time high. The saver who lends his money to borrowers (through a bank as an intermediary) reaps high rewards today. As high as 4-1/2% on Palatine National Bank 6-month Certificates of Deposit. These are changing times in the money markets and the time for the prudent man to make certain his funds are at work in a safe institution. May we strongly suggest that "This is a time to save" . . . at Palatine National Bank, of course . . . at the big, old, strong, safe bank where the interest is high, too!

"If the Village Board shall approve the requested planned development, it shall adopt an ordinance specifying the special conditions and restrictions imposed upon the planned development and shall include within said ordinance the plan and plat of subdivision, if any, approved as part of the planned development. Said ordinance shall further contain a legal description of the property subject to such planned development and said ordinance shall be recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Cook County."

WHEREAS, the said ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PUBLIC SCHOOLS — DISTRICT NO. 25 was given permission to construct said improvement by private contract with the understanding that an ordinance be passed by the Village of Arlington Heights, after completion of said improvement, requiring that the owners of any property benefiting therefrom desiring to make use thereof, pay the proportionate share of the cost of said improvement, to be used in reimbursement of the said ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PUBLIC SCHOOLS-DISTRICT NO. 25, or his successors or assigns for the proportionate cost of the construction therefore; and

WHEREAS, the parties recognize and acknowledge that said water main is the property of the Village of Arlington Heights;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS

SECTION ONE: That the cost of connecting to these improvements be determined on a front foot basis, the total frontage benefited being 600 feet, based on the foregoing legal description, or $4.72 per front foot.

SECTION TWO: That no person, firm or corporation, being the owner of or partly interested in, nor any contractor, agent or other representative of such owner or party interested, the above property shall connect to or obtain any services without first having obtained a permit from the Village of Arlington Heights to make such connection. No such permit shall be issued unless the applicant shall first pay to the Village of Arlington Heights for the use of ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PUBLIC SCHOOLS-SCHOOLS-DISTRICT NO. 25, or sors or assigns, the sum equal to the amount as such applicant's property to be served by the improvement as is heretofore set forth in SECTION ONE hereof. Such charge in the amount so paid shall entitle such owner to connect to the said improvement and shall be in addition to the usual charges payable to the Village for making water main connections. Such payment shall not release property owner or owners from the payment of the established fees chargeable by the Village for water service rendered.

SECTION THREE: All monies collected by the Village from such adjacent property owners for such connection charges, provided for in the preceding section of this ordinance, except the usual connection fees and charges made by the Village in other instances, shall, within thirty (30) days after receipt thereof by the Village, be paid to ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PUBLIC SCHOOLS—DISTRICT NO. 25, or its successors or assigns, less however, an amount of four per cent (4%) to be retained by the Village for the cost of collection, plus one hundred dollars ($100.00) representing the cost of preparation and publication of this ordinance, but in no case less than twenty dollars ($20.00) per subdivided lot.

SECTION FOUR: The monies collected and paid to ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PUBLIC SCHOOLS — DISTRICT NO. 25 shall in no case exceed the sum of $2,831.88 which sum represents one half of the portion of the cost of the improvement paid by ARLINGTON HEIGHTS PUBLIC—SCHOOLS DISTRICT NO. 25.

SECTION FIVE: Any person, firm or corporation being the owner or owners of or parties interested in any of said property being capable of being served by said improvement, and any contractor, agent or representative of any such person, firm or corporation making connections with the improvement herein before described, without first making application to the Village for a permit, and without first paying the fees and charges herein provided for, shall be subject to a fine of not less than ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($100.00) nor more than TWO HUNDRED DOLLARS ($200.00) and upon conviction thereof the Village shall enter upon said street and remove all such connections so made within the street lines of said street.

SECTION SIX: The main herein described is a public improvement owned by the Village of Arlington Heights and nothing herein contained shall be construed in any manner to vest any proprietary rights in said main in any other person, firm or corporation.

SECTION SEVEN: This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication in the manner provided by law.

SECTION FOUR: Subsection 7.5 defining "Planned Developments" is hereby amended to read as follows:

"7.5 Planned Developments. Planned developments, as defined in Section 3, are of such substantially different character from other special uses that specific and additional standards and exceptions are hereby set out to govern the recommendations of the Plan Commission and the action of the Village Board of Trustees. In addition to the standards which must be met with respect to special uses generally, the Plan Commission shall not recommend approval of a planned development and the Village Board shall not authorize a planned development unless such planned development shall meet the standards hereinafter set forth in this subsection."

It shall set forth the means of ingress and egress, the proposed circulation pattern within the area of the planned development, together with the location and description of public improvements proposed to be installed.

"The Village Clerk, upon receipt of such application for a planned development, shall forward said application to the Director of Building and Zoning, who shall examine the application and make a report to the Plan Commission respecting the compliance of the requested planned development to the building and zoning ordinances of the Village.

"The Village Board may impose such additional restrictions or conditions particularly applicable to such development and may, upon recommendation by the Plan Commission, grant or authorize a special use as defined herein. The Village Board may further require by appropriate covenants or other restrictions running with the land, the provision of open space wthin the area of the planned development which shall never be used for the construction of any building or structure and may otherwise require adequate arrangements to be made for the care and maintenance of such open space.

"If the Village Board shall approve the requested planned development, it shall adopt an ordinance specifying the special conditions and restrictions imposed upon the planned development and shall include within said ordinance the plan and plat of subdivision, if any, approved as part of the planned development. Said ordinance shall further contain a legal description of the property subject to such planned development and said ordinance shall be recorded in the office of the Recorder of Deeds of Cook County."

Ross Named Livestock Association Executive

Mylan Ross, 606 S. Louis St., Mount Prospect, was named executive vice president of the National Live Stock Producers Assn. at the organization's 36th annual meeting held at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

Ross succeeds P. O. Wilson who had served as executive president since 1961. Wilson, who has had more than 36 years experience with the organization, will continue to serve as consultant.

The National Live Stock Producers Assn. is the nation's largest live stock marketing cooperative which serves 404,000 farmers and ranchers on 142 live stock markets throughout the United States.

Previously Ross had served as director of research and secretary-manager of the National Live Stock Producers Assn. In 1965, the 17 member marketing associations affiliated with the National Live Stock Producers Assn. handled a total of 10,253,991 head of live stock valued at $865,341,287. By species the total volume included 3.9 million cattle and calves, 4.9 million hogs and 1.3 million sheep.

IN HIS new capacity, Ross also assumes direction of the National Feeder & Finance Corp., and National Live Stock Publishing Assn., both wholly owned subsidiaries of National Live Stock Producers Assn.

In 1965, the six regional credit corporations affiliated with the National Feeder & Finance Corp. loaned in excess of $127 million to farmers and ranchers for their various live stock enterprises.

The National Live Stock Publishing Assn. publishes the National Live Stock Producer, the nation's leading live stock magazine, now in its 44th year of service to 300,000 subscribers.

Ross, as the newly elected executive vice president, stressed the "challenge of change" in his address to the Producers Annual Meeting.

The fast-changing system that we live in demands a forward looking organization, Ross said, and the Producers Association must take a hard look at its existing structure and operations. He emphasized the need for action directed toward changes in operations in order to adjust to new demands of the economic environment of the market for live stock products. (BB

Ross Named Livestock Association Executive

Mylan Ross, 606 S. Louis St., Mount Prospect, was named executive vice president of the National Live Stock Producers Assn. at the organization's 36th annual meeting held at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

Ross succeeds P. O. Wilson who had served as executive president since 1961. Wilson, who has had more than 36 years experience with the organization, will continue to serve as consultant.

The National Live Stock Producers Assn. is the nation's largest live stock marketing cooperative which serves 404,000 farmers and ranchers on 142 live stock markets throughout the United States.

Previously Ross had served as director of research and secretary-manager of the National Live Stock Producers Assn. In 1965, the 17 member marketing associations affiliated with the National Live Stock Producers Assn. handled a total of 10,253,991 head of live stock valued at $865,341,287. By species the total volume included 3.9 million cattle and calves, 4.9 million hogs and 1.3 million sheep.

IN HIS new capacity, Ross also assumes direction of the National Feeder & Finance Corp., and National Live Stock Publishing Assn., both wholly owned subsidiaries of National Live Stock Producers Assn.

In 1965, the six regional credit corporations affiliated with the National Feeder & Finance Corp. loaned in excess of $127 million to farmers and ranchers for their various live stock enterprises.

The National Live Stock Publishing Assn. publishes the National Live Stock Producer, the nation's leading live stock magazine, now in its 44th year of service to 300,000 subscribers.

Ross, as the newly elected executive vice president, stressed the "challenge of change" in his address to the Producers Annual Meeting.

The fast-changing system that we live in demands a forward looking organization, Ross said, and the Producers Association must take a hard look at its existing structure and operations. He emphasized the need for action directed toward changes in operations in order to adjust to new demands of the economic environment of the market for live stock products. (BB

Federal Income Tax Questions Answered

(This column of questions-and-answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q—How do I report the gain from the sale of my home?

A—This should be done on Schedule D. If you do not have a copy, contact your local IRS office. Instructions are on the form.

Q—I made over $10,000 last year for the first time. Does that mean I have to file an estimated return this year?

A—Yes, if the total estimated tax exceeds your withholding by $40 or more. The requirements for filing estimated returns, Form 1040ES, are given on the form and it would be wise for you to check them.

Declarations of estimated tax should be filed if your expected tax liability exceeds withholding by $40 or more and either (1) your income exceeds $5,000 for an individual or $10,000 for married couples filing jointly, heads of households and certain widows and widowers; or (2) more than $200 of income is from sources not subject to withholding (dividends, business profits, etc.).

Q—I'VE HEARD that your agents are paid based on the amount they get when they audit returns. Is that right?

A—No it is not. There is no commission system, percentage deal or quota for our audit personnel or any other IRS employe. All employes up to the Commissioner are Civil Service employes who are rated on a merit system.

Q—Is a statement from a doctor sufficient to establish a medical deduction?

A—Such a statement may be used to establish the fact that you had a deductible expense, but you will also need records to show that the expense was paid during the tax year. A statement from your doctor which included this information usually would be acceptable to support a medical deduction.

Q—What can I deduct for sales tax this year?

A—The 1040 instruction booklet has tables that you may use as a guide.

Q—WHEN IS the sale of a home by someone 65 not taxed?

A—If you are 65 or older and sell your home, you may exclude the entire gain from the sale if the adjusted sale price is $20,000 or less, or if you owned and used the home as your principal residence for a total of at least five years within eight years from the date of sale. If the adjusted sale price is over $20,000, you may exclude part of the gain.

Note that this provision applies only to those 65 years of age and over, and that it is available only once in a lifetime. Other taxpayers who sell their homes should be sure to check the 1040 instructions and Schedule D.

Q—I just got my refund. Can I throw last year's tax records away?

A—No. Records should be kept as long as needed for tax purposes. This means a minimum of three years from the time the return was due. Some, like records on the purchase of a home, should be kept much longer. They would be needed to establish your cost basis.

Q—I HEARD that IRS has booklets for keeping track of tips. How can I, as an employer, get enough copies for my employes?

A—Call your local IRS office and ask for Document 5635, a pocketsized booklet which has been prepartd to help keep a daily record of tips. It is free and contains forms used to report tips to employers as well as a brief explanation of the law.

Q—We lost several trees to an ice storm. Is that a deductible item?

A—If the trees were on land held for your personal use, it is—provided you can show that the loss resulted in a decrease in the value of your real estate as a whole and it was not covered by insurance. Photos before and after the storm may be helpful in establishing the extent of damage. Note that if you do have a casualty loss on property held for personal use, the first $100 of the loss is not deductible.

Q—Why does my wife have to sign our joint return? She had no income.

A—The law requires it. Even though she had no income, on a joint return she is as legally responsible for any tax liability as you are. If the return is not signed, the processing will be delayed and any refund due will be held up.

Q—MAY I DEDUCT interest on a life insurance policy loan which I took out last year to make home repairs?

A—You may deduct it if you are on a cash basis and actually paid the interest during the tax year. If, on the other hand, the interest is added to the total amount of the loan, a person on a cash basis may deduct the interest only when the loan is finally paid off.

Q—Under what conditions can educational expenses be deducted? I'm a teacher and take courses from time to time.

A—Ordinary and necessary educational expenses are deductible if they are incurred primarily for the purpose of (1) meeting the express requirements of your employer or the requirements of the law or regulations or (2) maintaining or improving the skills required in performing the duties of your present employment. These expenses are not deductible if the primary purpose for which they are incurred is to obtain a substantial advancement in your present position, a new position, or to fulfill your general educational aspirations or for other personal purposes. Federal Income Tax Questions Answered

(This column of questions-and-answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.)

Q—How do I report the gain from the sale of my home?

A—This should be done on Schedule D. If you do not have a copy, contact your local IRS office. Instructions are on the form.

Q—I made over $10,000 last year for the first time. Does that mean I have to file an estimated return this year?

A—Yes, if the total estimated tax exceeds your withholding by $40 or more. The requirements for filing estimated returns, Form 1040ES, are given on the form and it would be wise for you to check them.

Declarations of estimated tax should be filed if your expected tax liability exceeds withholding by $40 or more and either (1) your income exceeds $5,000 for an individual or $10,000 for married couples filing jointly, heads of households and certain widows and widowers; or (2) more than $200 of income is from sources not subject to withholding (dividends, business profits, etc.).

Q—I'VE HEARD that your agents are paid based on the amount they get when they audit returns. Is that right?

A—No it is not. There is no commission system, percentage deal or quota for our audit personnel or any other IRS employe. All employes up to the Commissioner are Civil Service employes who are rated on a merit system.

Q—Is a statement from a doctor sufficient to establish a medical deduction?

A—Such a statement may be used to establish the fact that you had a deductible expense, but you will also need records to show that the expense was paid during the tax year. A statement from your doctor which included this information usually would be acceptable to support a medical deduction.

Q—What can I deduct for sales tax this year?

A—The 1040 instruction booklet has tables that you may use as a guide.

Q—WHEN IS the sale of a home by someone 65 not taxed?

A—If you are 65 or older and sell your home, you may exclude the entire gain from the sale if the adjusted sale price is $20,000 or less, or if you owned and used the home as your principal residence for a total of at least five years within eight years from the date of sale. If the adjusted sale price is over $20,000, you may exclude part of the gain.

Note that this provision applies only to those 65 years of age and over, and that it is available only once in a lifetime. Other taxpayers who sell their homes should be sure to check the 1040 instructions and Schedule D.

Q—I just got my refund. Can I throw last year's tax records away?

A—No. Records should be kept as long as needed for tax purposes. This means a minimum of three years from the time the return was due. Some, like records on the purchase of a home, should be kept much longer. They would be needed to establish your cost basis.

Q—I HEARD that IRS has booklets for keeping track of tips. How can I, as an employer, get enough copies for my employes?

A—Call your local IRS office and ask for Document 5635, a pocketsized booklet which has been prepartd to help keep a daily record of tips. It is free and contains forms used to report tips to employers as well as a brief explanation of the law.

Q—We lost several trees to an ice storm. Is that a deductible item?

A—If the trees were on land held for your personal use, it is—provided you can show that the loss resulted in a decrease in the value of your real estate as a whole and it was not covered by insurance. Photos before and after the storm may be helpful in establishing the extent of damage. Note that if you do have a casualty loss on property held for personal use, the first $100 of the loss is not deductible.

Q—Why does my wife have to sign our joint return? She had no income.

A—The law requires it. Even though she had no income, on a joint return she is as legally responsible for any tax liability as you are. If the return is not signed, the processing will be delayed and any refund due will be held up.

Q—MAY I DEDUCT interest on a life insurance policy loan which I took out last year to make home repairs?

A—You may deduct it if you are on a cash basis and actually paid the interest during the tax year. If, on the other hand, the interest is added to the total amount of the loan, a person on a cash basis may deduct the interest only when the loan is finally paid off.

Q—Under what conditions can educational expenses be deducted? I'm a teacher and take courses from time to time.

A—Ordinary and necessary educational expenses are deductible if they are incurred primarily for the purpose of (1) meeting the express requirements of your employer or the requirements of the law or regulations or (2) maintaining or improving the skills required in performing the duties of your present employment. These expenses are not deductible if the primary purpose for which they are incurred is to obtain a substantial advancement in your present position, a new position, or to fulfill your general educational aspirations or for other personal purposes. 'Growing Home' Built For Growing Families

Most young couples with small families find a 3-bedroom home sufficient to meet their space requirements. However, as the years pass and the family increases, they are faced with two equally inconvenient alternatives . . . either to move into a larger, more costly home or to endure the expense of adding-on to their present premises.

The Hawthorne, a 3-bedroom, 1½-bath split-level home in Hanover Highlands, is the perfect solution to a home for "now" and for "later."

It's unique "grow" feature is a partitioned bonus room that easily converts to that coveted fourth bedroom when the need arises. The bonus room is located on the lower level, just a few steps down from the main floor, and has its own finished powder room.

If one does not require an additional sleeping room, the bonus area may serve as a workshop, home-office, den or sewing room. The lower level also has a large finished paneled family room, and laundry-utility area.

On the main level are big living room which flows into a separate dining "L" area, and cheery, family-size kitchen, with IXL kitchen cabinets, loads of stainless steel double-bowl sink.

Upstairs are three generous-size bedrooms and a deluxe full bath with beautiful twin-bowl vanity and colored plumbing fixtures. Closets are huge and plentiful.

The Hawthorne totals, 2,050 square feet of living space plus attached garage. The exterior is lastingly and handsomely constructed of face brick and masonite. Paved driveway, post light and fully improved, seeded lot are included. The builders, 3-H Homes, have priced the Hawthorne at $18,490.

The Hawthorne and several other models ranging from $16,350 are furnished for display and open to inspection on Irving Park Road, ½ mile east of Barrington Road in Hanover Highlands.

Cape Cod Home Reflects Mediterranean Influence

The early settlers of New England would be thoroughly amazed — and surely delighted —at how one Chicago home builder has adapted Cape Cod architecture with interestingly unique results.

The Champlaine, a new model home which Fidelity Builders is now introducing in its Tallyrand residential development in Arlington Heights, combines traditional Cape Cod design with a Mediterranean flair. In addition, Fidelity Builders has expanded the usual Cape Cod proportions to provide the additional space requirements of families today.

On the first level of the home, to the right of an inviting foyer, is a large 20'x13'6" living room, and a dining room of generous size. A country-size kitchen is equipped with a Roper gas console range, dishwasher and garbage disposal. The roomy breakfast area here affords a full view of the spacious 20'6"x14' woodpaneled family room, and they are divided by a Spanish spindle rail, a typical example of the Old World-inspired accents which are found throughout the Champlaine.

COMPLETING THE first floor plan are a convenient utility room and a lavatory, both just off the family room. A hall entry here provides direct access to the two-car attached garage.

Occupying one entire upper floor wing of the house is a massive 25'x17'6" master bedroom suite, complete with dressing room and private bath. Three additional bedrooms on the second floor offer ample sleeping quarters for the large family. This area includes a full-size bathroom of its own, and has a two-bowl vanity.

HOMEBUYERS are offered a choice of wool or nylon carpeting in the living room, dining room, master bedroom, stairs and hall. Mueller forced air gas heating is one of the many comfort features offered. The Champlaine is priced at $37,900.

This home and four other furnished models by Fidelity Builders in Tallyrand, priced from $30,300 to $40,900, are located at Palatine Road one mile east of Rand Road (U.S. 12) or three miles west of Milwaukee Ave. (Ill. 21), Arlington Heights. (Rel

Split-Level Popular In Fairview Gardens

Anticipating increased residential building this spring and summer, Bob Bluett of Bluett Builders — developers of Fairview Gardens, located on the west side of Wolf Road, two blocks north of Central, in the Mount Prospect area — recently estimated home sales in the community to be up nearly 30 per cent over the same period last year.

The builder credited much of the increase to the popularity of several basic models, particularly an attractive three-bedroom tri-level known as the "Challenger." With one-and-a-half baths, large family room and basement, this home is priced at $28,900 on a quarter-acre lot.

BLUETT noted that the home offers over 2500 square feet of living area, and has a practical, well-planned traffic pattern for the growing family.

The exterior of the "Challenger" attracts all visitors with its shuttered windows, gabled roofs, and combined brick and stained cedar panel styling. The front entrance is set back, under a protective extension of the roof. Inside, the large entryway, with eye-catching vinyl tile flooring, is set broadside. Past a convenient guest closet and ornamental wrought-iron railing, a short flight of steps invites the visitor up to the main living level. From this central point, it is but a few steps to kitchen and living room, or up to the sleeping level, or down to the family room and basement.

Over 22 ft. long and 13 ft. wide, the living room has a wide view window across the front wall. The adjoining dining room features a large double window for plenty of natural light.

The kitchen can be entered from the main hall, the dining room or the family room. Here, a large corner area offers a comfortable informal eating space. And the imaginative layout has the kitchen overlooking the lower-level family room, separated by an ornamental iron railing. Matching appliances and wood cabinets are in a convenient "el."

On the lower level, the 21 ft. by 13 ft. family room is just a few steps down from the kitchen and main living level. Here, over 45 linear feet of wall space is available for decoration. In one corner of the room is the rear entrance of the house. In another corner are the powder room, and inside entrances to garage and basement. The latter offers 564 square feet of space,

ALL THREE bedrooms of this model have plenty of window space and wide, sliding-door closets. The bathroom has a wide vanity and mirrored cabinet, a special linen alcove, and a second entrance from the Master Bedroom. The latter also has its own private dressing room, with a second closet.

The popular "Challenger" and other Fairview Gardens models are located on the west side of Wolf Road, in the Mount Prospect area, two blocks north of Central. Models are open to the public daily from 10 a.m. till dusk.

SUPERB EDUCATIONAL facilities in Elk Grove Village prepare children for success in life. Its junior high schools and new senior high school are considered demonstration centers for visiting educators. They offer individualized guidance and special teaching techniques in English, modern math, science, social studies, foreign languages and, as shown above, in art, too.

Elk Grove's Advantages Cited by Centex Official

"Elk Grove Village enjoys unique advantages," said Robert C. Winkle, Centex sales director. "It is within a few minutes to Chicago, 29 minutes on toll free expressways to the Loop. It is a complete community, with new shopping centers, houses of worship, swimming pool, community house, all recreational facilities and transportation. A new library and Alexian Brothers' new hospital, the St. Alexius Auxiliary, will open soon. And our school situation ranks among the finest of the nation!"

Elk Grove Village belongs to School District 59. Enrollment has been increasing by about 1400 students a year. And the school district has been able to keep up with this increase. A two-year school building program, approved in November 1963, made it possible to provide needed classrooms for today's children.

Another building program was approved in the fall of 1965, all without increasing taxes. School district 59 has built 10 new schools in the last 5 years without increasing the building tax rate. New homes and factories pay off the bonds needed.

A junior college and swimming pools for the high schools are in the planning stage, so are increased salaries for teachers.

ELK GROVE Village schools furnish individualized guidance with success formerly never achieved. In the areas of reading and modern mathematics the skills have been sequentially organized into levels rather than grades. During special times students leave their classrooms to join with others of similar achievements. This enables them to move forward corresponding to their abilities.

The schools maintain library-study centers headed by a master teacher and library clerk, offering "multi-materials" to the students—not only library books but programmed materials for independent study, listening centers with tapes, records, controlled reading equipment and other tools of modern learning.

Team teaching has been introduced, pooling teacher talents and establishing a close relationship between teachers and their teams.

Psychologists, social workers, speech teachers, nurses, guidance personnel are available for handicapped children.

WITH STATE financial support of approximately $100,000 and with the help of a team of University of Illinois professors, special teaching techniques and subject content are offered for the academically talented students in English, modern math, science, social studies and foreign languages. Art classes develop individual talents.

The school district's junior high schools as well as the new Elk Grove Senior High School are considered demonstration centers for visiting educators.

A Teacher Exchange Program, whereby teachers will follow groups of children into the high school, has been worked out, thus insuring continuity between elementary junior high school's and the high school's learning programs. This, added to the already outstanding high school program makes available a fine Kindergarten through 12 program and, with the junior college, a kindergarten through 14 program.

Talented children are recognized at an early age through a special program. The children thus selected last year proved the soundness of this approach with a very high degree of success.

INQUIRY training teaches independent study and independent thinking. Creativity is being developed. Outdoor educational opportunities have been added to nature study, with students applying mathematics and creative writing to biological studies; summer sessions, foreign language studies are also being offered.

This superb educational curriculum is part of Elk Grove Village living, to make residents' children a success in life. One of the important reasons why sales trebled in 1965 against 1964—why some 17,000 families have chosen this model community for their homes—turning it from cornfields into a booming village in less than 10 years.

The Centex Corp., one of the nation's largest prestige builders known from coast to coast, offers a choice of six furnished models in Elk Grove Village. They feature ranches, split-levels, colonials, with 3 and 4 bedrooms, attached garages, large living-dining rooms or formal dining rooms, finished family rooms, 1½ to 12½ baths. Ranging in price from $20,000 to $28,000, VA, FHA financing are available.

"IN ADDITION to a quality home at a moderate price in an excellent location, the children of our residents enjoy an educational system second to none, as a built-in feature of our community," emphasized Winkle. "One of the secrets of our spectacular success."

The model homes can be reached by taking the Kennedy Expressway to Mannheim road (Route 45), north on Mannheim to Higgins (Route 72), then west for a few minutes. They are open daily and weekends from ten to six. (REL

'Patrician' Features Patio-in-the-Sky

There's a sweep and style to the Patrician, Realcoa's unusual split-level home in Airy Trace, Arlington Heights, that reflects the warmth and grace of the Mediterranean.

Designed by award-winning architect Herman York on the principle that "a home should have movement, it should greet the visitor with beauty," the Patrician features a "Grand March" double staircase, and a unique "patio-in-the-sky" upper-level outside deck.

According to the builder, Bill Alter, "Most families today not only prefer, but actually need two separate entertainment areas. That's why we included a roomy 275 sq. foot recreation room, with vacuum-insulated sliding glass doors at ground level, plus a dramatic formal living room on the upper level. This serves two purposes. First, the family with children, particularly teenagers, want individual entertaining areas. Second, many homemakers prefer a recreation room for everyday relaxation, with the living room kept for more formal occasions.

As one lady put it, 'Thank goodness. Now I'll be able to have at least one room in my home that always looks decent when company comes.' "

Another popular feature of the plan is the inclusion of the fourth bedroom at ground level. Many buyers choose the Patrician because of the seclusion of this room which makes it ideal for an at-home office; special den or study; or guest bedroom. You enter the Patrician through double doors, flanked with glass panels that flood the foyer with light and add to the airy open feeling created by the sweep of the double staircase.

In addition to the recreation room and bedroom, the ground level has a luxurious powder room, and a 25 foot utility room with full laundry facilities. The 20 foot garage is ample for not only two cars, but the storage of lawn mowers, bicycles and garden tools.

The upper level plan, in addition to the formal living room with a wall-of-window area, includes a formal dining room and adjoining kitchen. Alter says, "We included a big kitchen, 16'11" x 10'6", with a large eat-in section because our buyers continue to favor this feature. Frankly, this big kitchen, coupled with the unusual 23 foot deck just off it, is just as much a part of the Mediterranean mood as the 'Grand March' staircase effect."

The kitchen is equipped with built-in oven, range, dishwasher, disposal, and double sink. Handsome hard-core cabinets are included in glowing natural wood finishes.

The home has 100-ampere wiring with automatic circuit breakers; and duct work for central air conditioning is included.

Three double-size bedrooms are tucked away in a "quiet wing." The master bedroom has a private bath, the other two bedrooms are served by a centrally located family bath.

Exterior features of Airy Trace homes include brick construction of all four sides, double hung wood windows, full insulation through walls and roof; and gutters and down spouts. Lots are fully landscaped, with five bushes and two trees. And walkways and driveways are paved. Sidewalks, curbs, streets, and storm and sanitary sewer systems are in and paid for by the builder.

The Patrician and four other fully furnished models can be seen seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at Airy Trace in Arlington Heights, ½ mile north of Golf Road, on State (Arlington Heights) Road. Airy Trace homes are priced from $30,500 to $37,500. (REL

School Candidate Clarifies Stand On 2 Questions

I am a candidate for District 57 School Board. Since the open meeting of the school board candidates at Lions School on March 31, I have received a number of questions, directly and by telephone, which suggest my position on certain matters may not be clear to some people. To prevent misunderstandings, or mistatement of my position in these matters, I would like to comment as follows:

On my interest as a Catholic in public schools: More than 80 per cent of elementary school enrollment is in public schools. The impact which this and succeeding generations of public school children will have on the future of our country is proportionate.

Therefore, good citizens of all backgrounds and beliefs should have an interest in seeing that our public schools are kept strong and free. Locally, I have a special interest in this, for three of my children are in public school systems.

I believe board members should devote 100 per cent of their Board efforts to public school matters, and may not use their position to the advantage of any special group or organization.

On my endorsement by the Caucus: Prior to volunteering as a board candidate, I was not acquainted with the Caucus or its people. My response to its call for interested candidates was prompted by a sincere desire to provide voluntary service which would benefit our community. I was impressed by the careful and democratic manner in which all candidates were considered by the Caucus, and I am complimented by the endorsement, which is limited to recognition of interest and capability.

To the best of my knowledge, the Caucus represents the only organization in our community through which interested citizens may volunteer for school board service. For this it is to be commended.

Though endorsed by the Caucus, my viewpoints on school matters are my own. I am an independent candidate without prejudice for or against our present school administration, or any previous administration. I am interested only in our future, and in contributing to progress in our public school system.

Hopes People Will Vote in School Election

Chances are that the voting on Saturday, April 9, will be lighter than usual, even for a school board election. After all, that's the day after Good Friday. Many people will be out of town for the weekend. Others will be busy making plans and preparations for Easter Sunday.

Even so, if you can find the few minutes that it takes, you should vote. I am writing this letter because I am one of the candidates for our local school board, and I hope that you will vote for me. But I'm also hopeful that you'll join me in this opportunity to take a personal part in our local school affairs. This is one of the few opportunities most people have to do so directly.

In one sense my running for the board might be a selfish move. My son, Matt, is in school now, and I want to be sure that he . . . along with all the other youngsters his age . . . gets the best education we can possibly give. I'm hopeful that, by working with the board of education, I can make some personal contribution toward keeping up the high standards our schools have set. To do this, I know that we're going to have to find and recruit more good teachers, work carefully to make the most of our facilities, and explore the best ways to make our tax dollars work overtime for us.

It's my job, as a supervisor for a large corporation, to make certain that the company gets maximum value from the money it invests in materials, machinery, and skilled workers. I think my business experience can be put to practical use in our local schools.

On Saturday, April 9, two new members will be elected to the Board of Education in District 21. I am one of the candidates and would appreciate your support in this important election.

Anxious for Referendum on Garbage Issue

Your editorial, "The Garbage Issue" (March 24, 1966) is the last straw! How can you possibly take the position that "The Herald does not feel garbage collection is a matter of sufficient interest to merit an expensive referendum?" Do you openly condone a flagrant breach of faith by our village board? Your snide and belittling approach to this situation is not what one would expect from a responsible press.

If our village board had displayed one ounce of integrity, a referendum would have been mandatory before the fact. Obviously, what has happened is exactly what someone planned should happen . . . that once the change was accomplished, the whole affair would be swept under the rug and forgotten. Whoever engineered this piece of chicanery should feel proud of himself.

Expense is no valid excuse for avoiding a referendum; each month Arlington Heights citizens are paying more than the cost of a referendum in increased garbage collection fees. Please stop advocating halfway measures such as "sampling" surveys. There's only one honest way to rectify this situation, and that is with a well-publicized, full-scale legal referendum that gives every qualified resident the opportunity to participate as the Village of Arlington Heights originally promised.

Let's have it now!

Jack J. Lacker
1316 E. Eastman St.
Arlington Heights.

Editor's Note: The Herald editorial, noting the recent library referendum cost only about $200 because enough citizens were interested in the question to volunteer their time as poll workers, suggested a similar approach to the garbage collection survey. In the event not enough parties were sufficiently interested to volunteer their time, the editorial suggested an inexpensive sampling procedure be used. Quoting from the editorial:

"We believe elected officials promised a 'referendum' so that is what should be done, but at the $200 figure with interested parties donating their time as poll workers. If that cannot be arranged, an inexpensive, scientific sampling procedure should be used."

Information Wanted from School Boards

I wish to share my concern about a serious problem or issue of importance to all residents in Elk Grove School District 59. The issue is the pro-Schaumburg School District 54.

I am concerned that it has taken considerable public pressure to obtain the little information released to date. This appears wrong from a board of education elected by us to serve us.

I THINK WE should all be aware of the study concerning annexation being conducted by the two school boards. We should be concerned about this study. We should know that it was initiated outside the appropriate committee of the Board of Education.

Although Mr. Bardwell now admits to having called the meeting of the two boards of education, the study is not directed to his stated goal of annexing only 1,200 acres.

We need to know if the present study has, in fact, any specific goals, or if it is a cover up for purposes not admitted to or made known. It seems odd that two public bodies should enter such a study with so little information to their constituents and with such vague and undefined purposes.

Of more concern to each and every one of us should be the expressed attitude of our own board of education. The proposed annexation will change our tax structure and will mean high taxes for us, or it will mean less support for our schools.

I WOULD WISH that if annexation be a proper study that our board of education first of all decide on general and specific goals.

I would like to see these goals publicised and the citizens of our communities involved in the study pursuing these goals. As any decision for annexation will change our schools and taxes, we have the ultimate right to make the decision by a public referendum.

School Candidate Clarifies Stand On 2 Questions

I am a candidate for District 57 School Board. Since the open meeting of the school board candidates at Lions School on March 31, I have received a number of questions, directly and by telephone, which suggest my position on certain matters may not be clear to some people. To prevent misunderstandings, or mistatement of my position in these matters, I would like to comment as follows:

On my interest as a Catholic in public schools: More than 80 per cent of elementary school enrollment is in public schools. The impact which this and succeeding generations of public school children will have on the future of our country is proportionate.

Therefore, good citizens of all backgrounds and beliefs should have an interest in seeing that our public schools are kept strong and free. Locally, I have a special interest in this, for three of my children are in public school systems.

I believe board members should devote 100 per cent of their Board efforts to public school matters, and may not use their position to the advantage of any special group or organization.

On my endorsement by the Caucus: Prior to volunteering as a board candidate, I was not acquainted with the Caucus or its people. My response to its call for interested candidates was prompted by a sincere desire to provide voluntary service which would benefit our community. I was impressed by the careful and democratic manner in which all candidates were considered by the Caucus, and I am complimented by the endorsement, which is limited to recognition of interest and capability.

To the best of my knowledge, the Caucus represents the only organization in our community through which interested citizens may volunteer for school board service. For this it is to be commended.

Though endorsed by the Caucus, my viewpoints on school matters are my own. I am an independent candidate without prejudice for or against our present school administration, or any previous administration. I am interested only in our future, and in contributing to progress in our public school system.

Hopes People Will Vote in School Election

Chances are that the voting on Saturday, April 9, will be lighter than usual, even for a school board election. After all, that's the day after Good Friday. Many people will be out of town for the weekend. Others will be busy making plans and preparations for Easter Sunday.

Even so, if you can find the few minutes that it takes, you should vote. I am writing this letter because I am one of the candidates for our local school board, and I hope that you will vote for me. But I'm also hopeful that you'll join me in this opportunity to take a personal part in our local school affairs. This is one of the few opportunities most people have to do so directly.

In one sense my running for the board might be a selfish move. My son, Matt, is in school now, and I want to be sure that he . . . along with all the other youngsters his age . . . gets the best education we can possibly give. I'm hopeful that, by working with the board of education, I can make some personal contribution toward keeping up the high standards our schools have set. To do this, I know that we're going to have to find and recruit more good teachers, work carefully to make the most of our facilities, and explore the best ways to make our tax dollars work overtime for us.

It's my job, as a supervisor for a large corporation, to make certain that the company gets maximum value from the money it invests in materials, machinery, and skilled workers. I think my business experience can be put to practical use in our local schools.

On Saturday, April 9, two new members will be elected to the Board of Education in District 21. I am one of the candidates and would appreciate your support in this important election.

Anxious for Referendum on Garbage Issue

Your editorial, "The Garbage Issue" (March 24, 1966) is the last straw! How can you possibly take the position that "The Herald does not feel garbage collection is a matter of sufficient interest to merit an expensive referendum?" Do you openly condone a flagrant breach of faith by our village board? Your snide and belittling approach to this situation is not what one would expect from a responsible press.

If our village board had displayed one ounce of integrity, a referendum would have been mandatory before the fact. Obviously, what has happened is exactly what someone planned should happen . . .that once the change was accomplished, the whole affair would be swept under the rug and forgotten. Whoever engineered this piece of chicanery should feel proud of himself.

Expense is no valid excuse for avoiding a referendum; each month Arlington Heights citizens are paying more than the cost of a referendum in increased garbage collection fees. Please stop advocating halfway measures such as "sampling" surveys. There's only one honest way to rectify this situation, and that is with a well-publicized, full-scale legal referendum that gives every qualified resident the opportunity to participate as the Village of Arlington Heights originally promised.

Let's have it now!

Jack J. Lacker
1316 E. Eastman St.
Arlington Heights.

Editor's Note: The Herald editorial, noting the recent library referendum cost only about $200 because enough citizens were interested in the question to volunteer their time as poll workers, suggested a similar approach to the garbage collection survey. In the event not enough parties were sufficiently interested to volunteer their time, the editorial suggested an inexpensive sampling procedure be used. Quoting from the editorial:

"We believe elected officials promised a 'referendum' so that is what should be done, but at the $200 figure with interested parties donating their time as poll workers. If that cannot be arranged, an inexpensive, scientific sampling procedure should be used."

Information Wanted from School Boards

I wish to share my concern about a serious problem or issue of importance to all residents in Elk Grove School District 59. The issue is the pro-Schaumburg School District 54.

We need to know if the present study has, in fact, any specific goals, or if it is a cover up for purposes not admitted to or made known. It seems odd that two public bodies should enter such a study with so little information to their constituents and with such vague and undefined purposes.

Of more concern to each and every one of us should be the expressed attitude of our own board of education. The proposed annexation will change our tax structure and will mean high taxes for us, or it will mean less support for our schools.

I WOULD WISH that if annexation be a proper study that our board of education first of all decide on general and specific goals.

I would like to see these goals publicised and the citizens of our communities involved in the study pursuing these goals. As any decision for annexation will change our schools and taxes, we have the ultimate right to make the decision by a public referendum.

Says Mt. Prospect Fortunate To Have Choice of Candidates

Why does the Caucus fear competition? Whenever ROSE is mentioned, they rear back collectively as though they had all spotted a bee in the center of a blossom. Caucus representatives seem to spend more time tearing down ROSE than building up their candidates. Why? Didn't they agree that these were the two best qualified people?

ROSE is proud to present its two candidates for membership on the school board of District 57, Martin Hering and John Madigan. We hope many of you voters have had an opportunity to meet them and ask them questions. Both of them have assured you verbally and in print, as have all other ROSE candidates in years past, that they are not bound in any way to follow ROSE's dictates. All we ask is that they discharge their duties in the best way they know how, according to their own personal convictions.

Obviously, ROSE and the Caucus both have the same objective—an outstanding school system. Competition is a cornerstone of democracy, and it seems peculiar that an organization such as the Caucus looks upon it as something disagreeable. ROSE is performing a valuable service to the community by providing the voters with a choice, rather than leaving them nothing to do except rubber stamp the selections of one organization, or vote for some prejudiced or unqualified independent.

Don't forget that anyone can run for the school board if he can get 50 signatures on a petition. I think Mount Prospect should consider itself fortunate in having two organizations whose only function is to seek qualified school board candidates. In fact, at the public meeting held on Thursday, March 31, one of the Caucus nominees stated that the existence of ROSE is good for the community, since it provides healthy competition for the Caucus candidates.

ROSE critics are correct in saying that ROSE's membership has remained stable. This is true because we believe in our organization and its platform. A careful reading of it should convince everyone that ROSE has no axe to grind except for better schools—any candidate for school board membership would do well to subscribe to this statement of principles. The basic membership of ROSE is known to everyone, but naturally we welcome new members, who are the life of any organization.

It would be simple for us to disband ROSE—perhaps the Caucus would then present two candidates for each vacancy on the school board, but this, to my way of thinking as one of the founders of this Caucus, would defeat the purpose for which it was created. Further, isn't it better to draw opposing candidates from different sources rather than from one like-thinking group?

There is no question but that candidates from both ROSE and the Caucus are carefully chosen and well qualified, so that the voters may choose with confidence, knowing that whoever is elected will be conscientious and worthy school board members. This is true this year, as it has been in the past.

I deplore the bitterness and animosity which is exhibited among people who, the rest of the year, work amicably together in other ways. Can't we have a clean, constructive, good-natured contest, rather than one which carries on whispering campaigns built on half truths and rumors which make for juicy election fodder?

Let's point out the good qualities of our own candidates, and leave out charges and accusations against other candidates and organizations. This approach should not be necessary if one has confidence and trust in the candidates presented to the public.

I believe Martin Hering and John Madigan are highly qualified to serve on the school board of District 57, and I endorse them wholeheartedly, knowing that, if elected, they will serve the schools and the community well. But I say to you—think for yourself! Listen to the candidates and form an opinion on each man. Don't just vote on party lines, or worse, against something or someone. Vote positively, not negatively

'How Do You Find a Doctor?' Reader Asks

How do you find a doctor in Arlington Heights?

Last week while quite ill, I called the physician who has been attending me for the past seven years. This doctor has two associates. I was told that "doctor cannot see you til next Wednesday or Thursday (six or seven days), I am sorry." I am not a patient unknown to these doctors because under their care I was hospitalized three times at Northwest Community Hospital. I had major and minor surgery and many complications.

My husband then tried to secure the services of 11 other physicians in town; seven were taking no new patients at this time and four could see me in 10 days to two weeks.

He finally found a physician in Elmhurst who would help me.

In our search for a local physician, would it be helpful to place a "Help Wanted Ad" in Paddock Publications?

Say Roselle Has Stagnated For Too Long

We think the community of Roselle and the public school system of Roselle should give Frank and Claranne Zielinski a big vote of thanks for their talented leadership in last Saturday's successful school referendum.

We also want to thank the retired people and the childless couples who voted "yes." We appreciate their concern that youth in the community receive a good education.

We want to thank the people with children in private schools who voted "yes." It is not easy to carry a double educational burden. It is to be hoped that the Illinois legislators in Springfield will eventually pass some laws giving private schools state aid and part of the real estate tax.

To those citizens who voted "no" we want to say that the 20 to 30 dollars tax increase is an inexpensive investment for education. Roselle is no poverty-stricken town. Judging from the big, beautiful cars in front of the various churches on Sunday we are definitely part of the "affluent society." Also there evidently is plenty of money spent for "booze" at dances, the taverns and in private homes. The coffers of the tobacco industry are well supplied with money from Roselle customers.

To the obstreperous minority we would like to suggest that they do something constructive for a change. One area for action would be a concerted effort to broaden the tax base—to get industry and commercial establishments into Roselle on a big scale.

We have lived in Roselle for nine years and during that time towns like Addison have progressed in all fields while Roselle has practically stood still. Could it be that the Grand Old Party of stagnation has been in power too long?

Soon we are going to have an election for three school board members. We need people who are interested in furthering a positive program of quality education. We think the people of Roselle want the same kind of program. We would hate to see the type of negative thinking so preponderant in recent months gain access to the board.

Fears Monotony, Tax Burden Of All Single-Family Homes

As a resident and taxpayer in Palatine I am always interested in the development of open land within and adjacent to the village borders. I fear that we will all drown in a sea of houses within the next few years unless we adjust our thinking and examine new concept with a little foresight.

Housing developments as we presently know them are fine within limits; but we cannot permit every vacant residential acre to fill up with large 3 and 4 or 5 bedroom houses on small R-2 lots. We all know the impossible burden this would place on our school district. There are other more aesthetic factors to consider as well.

Use Winston Park as an example. This is a fine community — nothing wrong with it — up to a point. But just imagine it stretching for mile after mile after mile in all directions as far as the eye can see with nothing to relieve the monotonous landscape but an occasional highway or toll-road. It can happen here and, indeed, has already started. No matter who does the building

The individual charm of a Reseda or Willow Wood will be lost in a sea of roofs. We cannot keep the surrounding land vacant. There are laws to protect the developer's investment —laws which do not treat the wishes of the adjacent homeowner or the local government too kindly. We can only hope for a builder who will bring us a fresh concept.

I think Mr. Gleich's plan for townhouses, single family homes as a buffer and open space dedicated to the village or park district is a refreshing change from the 93-100 single family houses he could build on his 30 acres. (I checked the plan at the village hall for a breakdown: 102 townhouse units on twelve acres, 29 single family houses on six acres, nine acres of open land and about three acres for streets.) These are to be 60 per cent three-bedroom and 40 per cent two-bedroom. In my mind 100 three and four bedroom houses add up to a lot more children than 131 two and three bedroom units, besides providing no variety in the landscape. I suggest the dissenters direct their eneragies to the quality of the construction rather than to its form if they are truly concerned about their property values.

This example concerns only the northeast corner of Palatine. Building continues in other directions as well. Perhaps the "planned development" is the answer. I hope the county or state comes up with some legal safeguards to make this possible. At any rate we should take a long, critical, informed look at land development trends in the northwest suburbs before jumping to any conclusions. Yesterday's ideals do not always meet tomorrow's needs.

Not too many years ago "industry" was a dirty word in Palatine. Many people tried their hardest to keep it out of "the Real Home Town." They were dedicated — they were also very wrong. Anyone who cares to drive to Jewel Park in Barring- There are other equally shattering examples. We cannot afford any more such costly mistakes and hope to survive as a respected, self-supporting village.

Every property owner should know as much as possible about zoning and the restrictions the local government can and cannot impose. It is not enough to be concerned only when a builder comes next door with a plan we may mistakenly feel will lower our status. We all benefit from a good planning just as we all suffer from the bad in the long run. Sometimes the alternatives can be far worse than the "undesirable innovation."

The Way We See It

Urban Affairs Need State Attention

Citizens of urban areas in Illinois can expect greater attention from state government as a result of reapportionment, giving them greater representation in Springfield.

One suggested reform deserving serious consideration is creation of a state Department of Urban Affairs.

In a recent speech to a League of Women Voters meeting, Seymour Simon, president of the Cook County Board, called creation of a state Department of Urban Affairs "just as important as 'home-rule legislation' for solving our mounting metropolitan problems." After more than three years as county board president, Simon is in a good position to know.

Historically, the organization of state government has not reflected urban growth, and emergence of special urban problems. Rural-dominated legislatures have not reshaped state government to fit it for the task of solving these problems. Each individual municipality still must deal separately with a different state agency for every program that is attempted, whether it be a new airport, a mental health clinic, juvenile delinquency, air pollution, hospital construction, or building a sewage treatment plant.

A State Department of Urban Affairs could cut through much red tape by centralizing state services to municipalities. It could provide "one-stop service" for cities applying for state or federal assistance. And finally, as Simon pointed out, federal officials could work through this agency instead of dealing separately with each town or city.

In addition to streamlining the operation of existing programs, such a Department of Urban Affairs would develop programs at the state level for dealing with the challenges of metropolitan growth.

Because of neglect of urban affairs in the state capitals, a vacuum has developed which is being filled by federal programs.

In both political parties the feeling is widespread that this trend should be reversed and power should flow back to the states. This will be impossible without state agencies which have the scope and authority to act effectively.

For these reasons, creation of a Department of Urban Affairs should be at the top of the agenda of the next General Assembly.

For Better Understanding

An interesting approach to the problem of "Raising Children of Good Will" will be tried by the National Conference of Christians and Jews in a series of six televised panel discussions to be held in conjunction with locally organized workshop groups.

Human relations and clergy groups in a number of communities have organized workshop discussions keyed to a Channel 11 series which begins April 14. The northwest suburban communities involved are Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights and Des Plaines.

The televised portion of the workshops will give local groups the opportunity to hear experts in various areas: medicine, psychiatry, law, sociology action. The local group meetings and community. The local group meetings will afford an opportunity to discuss specific local problems. The combination should provide an excellent medium for exploring the complexities of inter-religious, inter-political, and inter-racial tensions, particularly as they affect children.

Purpose of the workshop is not to strip participants of their own convictions, but to help them understand the values and convictions of others; and to raise children equipped with this same understanding.

Residents who live in a community which does not have a local group discussion planned may make arrangements to attend a discussion in a neighboring community by calling Mrs. William Kuivinen, CL 5-6818.

They Deserve Your Vote

Arthur Aronson and Dr. Frank Smith, two able members of the District 214 High School Board, are seeking re-election Saturday. They deserve second terms.

District 214 schools are outstanding community assets. Their good reputation is growing. We would like to see the policies responsible for their success continued. Aronson and Dr. Smith are the candidates best qualified to achieve continued progress.

Opposition to them has centered around a dogmatic criticism of federal school aid having audible political overtones.

Also, the incumbents have been the target of misleading campaign literature charging secretiveness, fiscal waste and poor public relations. These charges are ridiculously inaccurate. Openness, economy, and good public relations have been District 214 strong points.

Aronson and Dr. Smith have shown ability to base their decisions on concrete analysis of students' needs and the resources available to meet them, without concern for any political "cause." This approach works best on school boards.

Aronson and Dr. Smith deserve your vote.

A Principle Is on Trial

Staff Writer

The power of public opinion once again may be tested in a court of law. The defendant will be a principle—the conflict between church and school.

The old "monkey trial" is coming up again in Little Rock, Ark. A young high school biology teacher has sued the state for prohibiting her from teaching the theory of evolution.

The defects of the American court system always seem to be brought into sharper focus when a principle is on trial.

HENSEL

Judges are revealed as human beings, often from the ranks of lawyers, sometimes with limited knowledge of the human sciences and philosophies.

Prosecutors are trained to believe in guilt, and defenders must believe in innocence. The two sides necessarily must clash in the zeal to win.

Juries, less accustomed to weigh evidence and arrive at logical conclusions, reflect the power of public opinion. Sometimes, higher courts have to get involved—human beings again, whose job is to correct the mistakes of lower courts and juries.

EVEN STATE and national legislators enter the picture, especially when public clamor demands changes in the law. The legislator is caught between the desire to make good laws and the desire for votes.

Yet, if it were not for all the chaos, some of the important messages of this century may never have come through.

Probably the most famous speech ever made by a defendant before an American court was the one made by an immigrant in 1927.

BARTOLOMEO Vanzetti, a fish peddler, and Nicola Sacco, a shoemaker, had spent seven years in jail for a 1920 payroll robbery, in which the paymaster and a guard were killed.

The two prisoners were convicted in a 1921 trial on circumstantial evidence, despite the fact that witnesses proved they were not at the scene of the crime.

In 1927, death sentences for the two were upheld in an appeal, even though a condemned criminal, meanwhile, had admitted he had been one of a gang responsible for the crime. Great men around the world pleaded for a reversal.

IN A LONG, impassioned plea, Vanzetti asked, "Is it possible that only. . .a handful of men of the jury. . .are right against the world?. . .

"There could not have been another judge on the face of the earth more prejudiced. . . The first lawyer of the defense. . .has sold me. . .like Judas sold Jesus Christ. . .

"We were tried during a hysteria of resentment and hate against the people of our principles, against the foreigner, against slackers. . .

"You have done all what it were in your power. . .to agitate still more the passion of the juror against us. . ."

A SHORT TIME later, Sacco and Vanzetti were put to death.

But the court system throughout the nation was uneasy.

One of the great men of the courts — defense attorney Clarence Darrow — had written his philosophy of the system in 1922. Within three years, his ideas were to be put to the supreme test in two classic cases.

Rich teenagers Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb murdered Loeb's 14-year-old cousin. Darrow took their defense.

DARROW'S defense was compassion. He was the first to successfully use the arguments of environmental psychology and perversion psychosis to persuade a jury and a judge to rule for mercy and understanding.

The sentence was life imprisonment. Loeb later was murdered by a fellow prisoner, but Leopold lived to establish "a brilliant educational system for incarcerated men."

Darrow barely recovered from the ordeal of that trial before he thrust himself into the "monkey trial" in Dayton, Tenn., in 1925.

One of the most shameful facts about the trial was that 99 per cent of it was tried in the absence of a jury.

John Scopes, the young school teacher willing to serve as the first example in the fierce church-school controversy, was fined $100 for teaching evolution in violation of state laws.

His conviction gave Darrow the chance to appeal the church-school principle to a higher court and win where it really counted.

It hardly seems possible that issues of race and creed still must be fought in the courts of this nation. Yet, better in the courts than in the streets.

EVEN IN THE midst of a theatrical courtroom trial, there will be an occasional moment when the judge, the jury and the attorneys must listen to the broken, martyred verdict of a convicted Vanzetti:

"If it had not been for these thing, I might have die, unmarked, unknown, a failure."

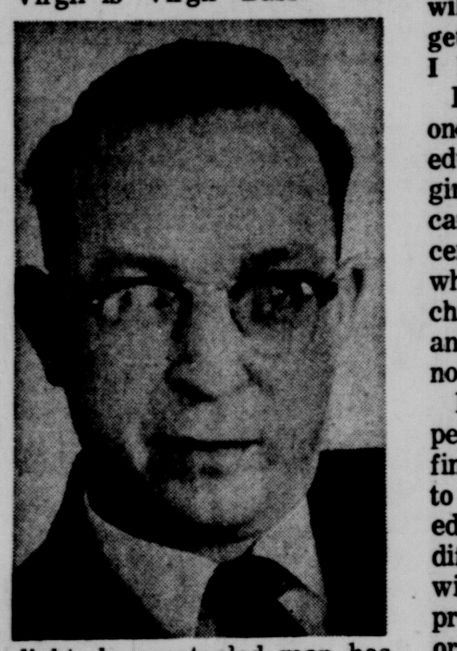
Man in the News

Help for Migrants

By JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

Those working to improve the plight of the Mexican-American in the northwest suburbs are not talking of the Latin poet when they mention Virgil.

Virgil is Virgil Bass. This slight, be-spectacled man has become closely identified with people and organizations concerned with adequate housing, education, and jobs for migrants and the families who have left the migrant mainstream.



THE 39-YEAR-OLD Bass is chairman of the Northwest Church Council for Migrant Aid and vice-chairman of the Northwest Cook Opportunity Council (Norwesco). He serves on the governing board of the Cook County Office of Economic Opportunity and he is third vice - chairman of the North Cook County steering committee of the Office of Economic Opportunity of Cook County. He is a member of the Metropolitan Migrant Commission of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago.

An old hand in working on migrant problems, Bass wears well under the frustrations of tangling with the problems of this minority group. Smiling and breaking his slightly formal air, Bass will admit he has thought of getting out of this work "but I have a stubborn streak."

He has been encouraged by one major breakthrough—in education. Teachers are beginning to relate to the Mexican-American children and certain schools have shown what can be done to help the children overcome language and cultural barriers, Bass noted.

It's frustrating to meet people with problems and not find the community resources to help them," Bass acknowledges matter-of-factly. "It's difficult to find volunteers willing to stay to work on the problems." Many lose interest or cannot relate to the Mexican Americans. His work focuses on the development of resources.

BASS MAKES it seem natural to devote the amount of time he does to the migrant problem and to manage a 60 to 70 hour work week in his occupation. He is vice president of J. E. Bernard & Co., Inc. and handles custom documents and shipping papers needed in this custom house broker and export-import freight contractor business.

Bass became involved in the area's migrant problem after he became mission chairman of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows. His committee donated clothes to needy migrant families and conducted Sunday services at the migrant camps. He is now chairman of the same kind of committee for the Palatine Presbyterian Church where he also is an elder.

"I haven't been as involved with individual families as much as I first intended," Bass said. He had to forego this field work when he found the need for organization and involvement of people and groups seemed more critical. He believed it necessary to find groups who would make a bridge between Mexican-Americans and the community. "These people have no feeling of belonging. They're shy and suspicious since they've been badly treated by the community and growers," the Hyde Park High School graduate observed.

BOOKS AND people have been his resources for learning about the Spanish-speaking people as he works along. He tries to pass along reference materials to others in the work.

The biggest problem for these Spanish speaking people is the mechanization of agriculture, Bass believes. This northwest area of Cook County is an ideal area to retrain and relocate these former agricultural workers, Bass said. Industry needs semi-skilled and unskilled labor.

The Federal government and the Ford Foundation have done some of the retraining and relocating in other areas of the country. "But it takes money," Bass admitted. He hopes the political pressure on Mexican-American housing will not drive the people and their problems to another county.

Bass always attended church and Sunday School as a child and youth growing up near the South Shore area of Chicago. After two years, 1945-46, with the Army of occupation in Japan, church work seemed natural for Bass' spare time.

"I worked for the institution of the church—keeping the wheels running," Bass recalls. Then a depth study of the meaning of lay ministry and its role changed Bass' outlook. He became more convinced the layman should become involved in the wider community, not just the church unit. His work with Spanish speaking people is an outgrowth of this viewpoint.

"CHURCH HAS been a good training ground," the man in the neat navy suit and quiet print tie declared. It develops an ability to get along with people. It didn't bother him as much as it irritated those with whom he worked when he was called "a stuffed shirt" at one time. That kind of thing grows from lack of understanding of each other's motives and problems, he said calmly.

With all his involvement in church work, Bass has never wanted to be a minister. "I don't think I'm cut out for that," he smiled. One of his brothers is a Methodist minister and another brother is a district lay leader in his church. Bass eliminates politics when he is trying for solutions to migrant problems.

NEITHER HIS wife May, nor his two daughters, Linnea, 15, or Gaylan, 12, have gotten involved in the migrant problems. His wife might "like him at home to play with the kids more often" but she respects his viewpoint, Bass said.

Tasteful, Tactful Teacher

A Stanford University professor and the IBM corporation have developed a computer which is ready to begin classroom teaching in Palo Alto, California.

The computer is described as "an infinitely patient, infinitely tactful" teacher. If the pupil tells it three plus three equals seven, it replies gently but firmly, "That is wrong. Now, suppose we go back to two plus two. What is two plus two?"

CUMMINS

In addition to its tact and patience, the computer is enormously wise, even for a teacher. It has been provided with 70,000 pieces of information, which are stored on its magnetic tape, instantly available to cope with almost any teaching situation.

IT SOUNDS wonderful—and it is. But a certain transition period will be necessary before the computer is fully integrated into the teaching profession.

Join me in the faculty lounge and you will see what I mean. Flesh and blood teachers Irene and Doris are chatting during their free period when IBM 1500, the new teacher, comes clanking into the lounge.

He moves with the stiff, angular gait characteristic of teachers who are made of metal, wire and transistors. Jerkily, he extracts a dime from his trousers pockets and inserts it in the coffee machine. Then he seats himself on the couch and lights a cigarette.

"ANOTHER DAY, another dollar," he sighs, in a tentative bid to begin a conversation.

"Oh, do you like it here at Jefferson School?" Irene asks breathlessly.

"Wonderful kids, wonderful teachers," IBM 1500 reylies. "But there are problems. For example, this morning one of the girls gave me this."

He reached in his pocket and pulled out a shiny red apple.

"What is it for? What do I do with it?" he asked.

"Why, that's an apple!" Doris replied laughingly. "Children traditionally polish apples and give them to teachers as a token of esteem. You are supposed to eat it."

"MARVELOUS!" IBM 1500 replied. "That's one on the programmers! That's one they blew. Tell you something else, just between the three of us: they did a sloppy job of programming me to help the kids put their boots on. I'm all thumbs at it. Took me 25 minutes to finish the job yesterday afternoon. Well, if old Ralph—I mean, if the principal thinks I'm going to spend my evenings putting boots on kids, he's got another guess coming!"

"Have you been stuck yet with lunchroom duty?" Irene asked solicitously.

"No, that's something I've been spared. But I do have another question. During 6th period yesterday, I was periodically struck in the face by soggy, wadded-up pieces of paper coming from the direction of Johnny's seat . . ."

"Spitballs!" Doris exclaimed, aghast. "What did you do?"

"Nothing, I'm afraid," IBM 1500 replied shamefacedly. "Another one the programmers blew. Thanks for clueing me in. And excuse me now—I have some business with Johnny."

HE ROSE, bowed ever so slightly and moved with his angular gait toward the door. Doris looked at Irene.

"He's sort of cute, isn't he?" she said. "I like that row of blue lights along the side of his head."

Pineapple for Gala Touch

Easter Tradition: Ham

Pineapple gives a gala touch to Easter menus. For breakfast the golden slices top flaky pastry — a festive accompaniment to an extravagantly delicious Canadian bacon roll.

Everyone will delight in the soft cooked eggs kept warm on rock salt in little terra cotta flower pots. Make perky Easter bonnets from brightly colored paper. Before church you might bake the Canadian bacon for about 45 minutes and leave the glazing for last minute while you cook the eggs and heat the pineapple.

BREAKFAST over, thoughts turn to dinner. A buffet, perhaps, with the traditional Easter ham, beautifully glazed and garnished with pineapple. The most popular glaze of all, and possibly the simplest, is pineapple syrup or juice with brown sugar. A pinch of herbs or spice personalizes this basic glaze — a spoonful of mustard, some dill weed, cinnamon or thyme are complementary. For something new try the sweet and sour glaze.

For a simple but elegant dessert top pineapple slices with creme brulee. It's cool and refreshing.

GALA BREAKFAST PLATTER

Not the production it may seem, you will be able to do much of the work beforehand. Make the pastry rounds. They will be topped with hot glazed pineapple so it doesn't matter if they are cool.

1 (1-pound 14-ounce) can pineapple slices
½ cup apricot pineapple jam
1½ tablespoons wine vinegar
1 (2 to 3-pound) Canadian bacon roll
8 baked 3½-inch pastry rounds
Red currant or cranberry jelly

Drain pineapple. To make glaze combine ½ cup pineapple syrup with jam and vinegar. Remove casing from bacon. Place bacon, fat side up, on rack in shallow pan. Bake uncovered in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Baste with glaze, then continue baking until meat is done, about 40 minutes longer. Continue to baste now and then with remaining glaze during baking.

About 5 minutes before bacon is done, place drained pineapple slices in pan. Add a little additional pineapple syrup if pan glaze is too thick. Heat pineapple, turning once.

When ready to serve, arrange bacon roll on hot serving platter. Spread or cover pastry round with thin slice of jelly. Top each with hot glazed pineapple slice. Arrange a few around meat on platter as garnish; serve remaining separately. Makes about 8 servings.

Pastry Rounds: Resift 1½ cups sifted flour and ¾ teaspoon salt together into mixing bowl. Cut in ½ cup shortening. Add about 3 or 4 tablespoons cold milk, mixing just until dough holds together. Roll out dough on floured board as for pie crust; cut into rounds about 3½ inches diameter with fluted cutter. Prick rounds with tines of fork. Bake in very hot oven (475 degrees F.) until crisp and golden brown, about 6 to 8 minutes. Makes 8 rounds.

SWEET 'N' SOUR PINEAPPLE GLAZE

Crushed pineapple can be used for an interesting allover texture, especially exotic with soy sauce, vinegar and sherry in this sweet-sour glaze. Decorate ham with flowers made of pineapple tidbits and cherries after glazing.

1 (1-pound 4½-ounce) can crushed pineapple
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
2 tablespoons soy sauce
¼ cup cider vinegar
¼ cup sherry
2 teaspoons cornstarch

Combine all ingredients and simmer 5 minutes. Spoon small amount slowly over ham during last 45 minutes of baking. Makes about 3 cups glaze. Enough for large baked ham.

CREME BRULEE WITH PINEAPPLE

The French have an especially good adaption of a soft custard which they call "Creme Brulee." A rich custard crowned with a broiled brown sugar topping, it's delicious served over canned pineapple slices.

1 cup milk
1 cup half and half
2 slightly beaten eggs
¼ cup sugar
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup brown sugar (packed)
6 slices canned pineapple

Heat milk and half and half to scalding. Combine eggs, sugar, and salt; gradually stir in hot mixture. Cook over low heat until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Add vanilla. Cool. Pour into shallow baking dish. When custard is thick and set, place baking dish in a larger pan and surround with ice. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Broil until sugar is bubbly and melted. Chill until serving time. Serve over pineapple slices. Makes 6 servings.

Her Battle with Abatement

by MARY B. GOOD

Ever been stung by the mosquito abatement control? mosquito snuffer-outers are I have, and no foolin', more pesky than the mosquitoes!

I usually wallow in the spring - is - here - can - summer - be - far - behind bit, but the picture I conjure up of last year's summer living leaves something to be desired.

The family delights in frequent outdoor cooking; I delight in avoiding a hot and messy kitchen. The brood at dinner is reminiscent of Genghis Khan and his horde sweeping down and wreaking havoc in their wake. So when the "Boss" works very late, the brood enjoys an early outdoor picnic. Then I char the "Boss" something up when he gets home. It's most convenient to set a little grill on my back door stoop and drop on his TV dinner or other gourmet treat.

ONE PARTICULAR evening last summer I anticipated the master's bear-like appetite and barbecued a juicy, 2½-inch porterhouse. Then panic hit! That ominous rotating floodlight that strikes fear in the hearts of many a suburbanite — that enormous hunk of steel that moves steadily up the street spewing a billow of chemicals into the untainted air of suburbia. The mosquito abatement control was back in business, and just in the midst of my shower!

The approach of the unwelcome bugaboo activated my adrenal glands. With the agility of Batman I bounded from the "bat-room." I flung some clothes on my half-wet self and made a beeline for the baby's room to set her gas mask firmly in place. While darting from room to room closing windows and doors, I shouted for the kids to come inside pronto. I glimpsed our cat, a stray dog and a field mouse heading for cover.

SUDDENLY, AND unfortunately for me lastly, I remembered the steak sizzling outside. What a sight I must have been grappling with a pee-wee size barbecue grill on the back stoop at 10 p.m. yelling, "No, no, don't spray my steak!" The menacing cloud of insect spray was a puff away from consuming me and my steak. Engaged in combat with the grill, I licked a singed finger and groped as the spindly legs of the grill gave out, jolting the whole she-bang!

And then in a split-second, fog engulfed me, and coughing and sputtering, I staggered back in, less than pacified with the knowledge that my lungs were obviously cleared of any insect material by the mosquito (here-I-come-ready-or-not) abatement control.

She's Schaumburg Fan

Suburban Living Editor

Though she's not a native, Mrs. Frank Wiley of Schaumburg probably knows as much about Schaumburg Township and the village of Schaumburg as anybody born there.

It's been a little more than 20 years ago since Canadian-born Loie Wiley and her husband, now a village trustee and businessman, moved from Oak Park to their 80-acre farm just south of the Northwest Tollway.

In those days there wasn't an incorporated area in Schaumburg Township, and the Wileys were surrounded by farm folk, many of them descendants of the original settlers. Nowadays the tollway runs along one side of their farm and the Schaumburg Industrial Park fronts their land on the other three. Just down the road from the farm is Frank Wiley Co., manufacturer of light-sensitized products and the first industrial plant to be built in the township. To the south and east are several other plants, including Northern Illinois Gas, Terry Foods and Nuclear Data.

LOIE WILEY'S social life centered in the village of Palatine when she first moved to the farm. Active in the Woman's Club, she served as its president and still is a member. Her sons, Don and Bob, attended both elementary and high school in Palatine. And she had a role in Palatine's Centennial some years ago.

"But I've always had a deep interest in Schaumburg Township," affirms Mrs. Wiley.

Now that her boys are grown, married and parents themselves, she is able to do something about that interest by giving time and talent to the civic life of the village.

Loie's first official role was as chairman of the committee that brought the bookmobile of the Fox River Valley Regional Library to the libraryless township. She's mighty proud of that, too.

LATER BOTH she and her husband were active in helping to establish the village of Schaumburg, and she has served on its planning commission for the past several years, acting also as the plan body's secretary.

When the Schaumburg Community Center was dedicated, Loie Wiley had charge of the arrangements, including putting together the printed program.

Always interested in the history of the area, she was instrumental in getting the Schaumburg Historical Society started, was its first president and recently got re-elected to another term. One of the society's projects is the historical museum in the original church building and first school of the St. Peter Lutheran Church.

Despite this involvement in community affairs, Loie Wiley still retains her interest and enjoyment in her home. The house itself, more than 100 years old except for the huge living room addition put on by its previous owner, is cozily furnished with antiques refinished by Loie. Several of the pieces of furniture came from her husband's family home in Earlville, Ill., where Frank's father and grandfather both were doctors.

Strewn throughout the house are lamps and lanterns of all sizes and shapes for these are one of Loie Wiley's favorite antiques. While many are only decorative, several are useful as well when there is an electric power failure.

Mrs. Wiley likes to braid rugs, finds it a relaxing pastime, and there are several in varying sizes covering the wide-board, wood-pegged living room floor.

Gardening is another of her diverse interests. Just off the porch that leads from the living room to the back yard is a rose garden where she has about 35 different varieties. The fenced-in garden is styled after an English garden, and in the spots where there are no roses, she grows a mixture of annuals and perennials that provide bloom all through the growing season.

"I ALSO have two tri-color awards for flower arranging," she notes proudly.

Mrs. Wiley sews, too, deriving some of her greatest pleasure in making garments and doll clothes for her two granddaughters, 5 and 3, daughters of son Don. That first-born daughter of Don's, incidentally, enjoys the distinction of being the first girl on the Wiley side of the family in more than 200 years.

Canning and freezing are others of Loie's skills though she does neither in the quantity she did when the boys were home.

And somehow, along with all her other activities, this busy Schaumburg homemaker manages to do the bookwork for her husband's business.

THE EXPLOSIVE growth of Schaumburg Township in the past decade hasn't changed the Wiley farm much. They still grow crops—soybeans, corn, some wheat or oats. They still breed animals—sheep right now, but other times hogs. They no longer keep a pony or horses as they did when the boys were growing up, but they do have a dog, an abandoned pup, now five months old, who can't love them enough for giving her a home.

There has been one change —a heartbreaking one for the Wileys. Dutch Elm disease has destroyed the long line of American elms that border both sides of the lane leading up to their farmhouse. They have already lost about 150 trees, and Loie expects the few remaining will go before long.

Though she finds the big changes in the township rather difficult to get into perspective—"they've come so fast"—she believes in looking forward and making the community "the best you can."

"The old days were more peaceful, but Schaumburg has a tremendous future," she says enthusiastically.

For Loie Wiley history lies ahead as well as in the past.

BRAIDING RUGS is an outlet for tensions as well as a hobby for Mrs. Frank Wiley, who keeps up a pretty fast pace as civic leader, homemaker, grandmother of six and bookkeeper for her husband's industrial firm in Schaumburg. A founder and president of the Schaumburg Historical Society, Loie Wiley has been deeply interested in the township and the village sinc emoving to the area some 20 years ago. (Staff Photo)

Radio Series Discusses Modern Marriages

Approximately 80 per cent of the marriages in the United States are in varying degrees of trouble, according to the chief social worker in the Marital Department of Forest Hospital in Des Plaines.

Mrs. Mary Tanzman, who has 20 years of experience working with the problems of married couples, candidly discusses modern marriages on one of a series of radio shows now heard on selected stations in Illinois and produced by Forest Hospital as a public service.

Host for "The Search for Mental Health" series is Morris B. Squire, administrator of the 90-bed psychiatric hospital.

THE SERIES, now heard in Kankakee, is soon to be scheduled on station WRSV-FM in Skokie and on stations in Springfield and Chicago.

Speaking statistically on marriages during her interview, Mrs. Tanzman states that 4 out of 10 marriages in the United States end in divorce, while 4 out of 10 continue "but are characterized by constant discord."

"The remaining 2 couples out of 10 live in harmony," continues Mrs. Tanzman, "but some studies show these are happy, dull marriages."

The problem seems to be to encourage couples to communicate constructively, she said. This is complicated by the fact that different ego states of the partners come in conflict with each other.

"THERE IS THE child state," she explains, "the pleasure-seeking, selfish part of a person. It is necessary to enable people to enjoy their lives, but it can create problems. The adult ego state is the part of the personality which works like a computer. It looks at a situation; examines the consequences and makes decisions on a rational basis without much emotion.

"The parental ego state incorporates the value system of one's parents. This gives us our values, habits, systems of behavior."

A primary cause of trouble between spouses is the fact that one spouse is acting in a child state while the other is acting in a parental ego state, according to Mrs. Tanzman.

THE JOB OF the marital counselor is to help the partners see what needs are being met by their conflicting behavior and try to make them understand the situation and move together, she adds.

A unique program to head off marital problems is also described by Mrs. Tanzman during the radio interview.

"We feel," she says, "that if we can encourage young people contemplating marriage to seek professional consultation, they have a better chance of anticipating problems which might arise and dealing with them before they become major crises."

"Generally, in dealing with couples, we try to help them in areas in which they seek help, but if we observe an area they are not aware of, we deal with it if we feel the couple can handle it."

ANOTHER preventive program of Forest Hospital's Marital Department is described by Mrs. Tanzman on the interview — the Well-Marriage Unit. The married couple is encouraged to come to the department as soon after marriage as they have a serious difference.

"This prevents the frequent problem we encounter of couples fighting for years and coming for counseling when negative patterns have already set in and have to be overcome."

You Can Get More Pleasure From Thos e Easter Flowers

You can get more than one day's enjoyment from that Easter corsage or other Easter flowers just by exercising a little care.

Orchids, for instance, are among the hardiest of all exotic blooms, and you can get a second wearing from that orchid corsage by following this simple trick. Remove the florist's tape and ribbon and plunge the stem of the orchid in cold water until you wish to pin it again to your suit or coat. A half-pint jar or bottle is just about right to keep the stem immersed and the orchid supported out of water.

The bloom should be kept in a cool place, 50 to 55 degrees, where there is plenty of moisture in the air. In the refrigerator this means the warmest part of it, but never exposed to hot dry air.

Freshening clusters of carnations or roses is easy; simply dunk the flowers in cold water once or twice, shake off the excess and put away in your refrigerator in the corsage bag or in a wrapping of tissues.

If the corsage is made with gardenias or camellias, wrap the blooms in moist cotton to keep their dewy freshness, but be sure the corsage goes back into the florists' delivery box when stored in your home refrigerator.

Especially for Women

A little care keeps any Easter flowers longer. If your roses, carnations or chrysanthemums are already arranged in the so-called "foam" materials, check the water level daily and replace as necessary.

WHEN YOU RECEIVE your flowers loose, place them in a cool place over night or several hours, preferably in a floral preservative. Roses or carnations should be cut with a sharp knife — about an inch off the bottom of each stem.

Your blooming hydrangea is a "water" plant and needs constant, ample watering every day. An excellent method is to dunk the plant in a pail of water after removing the florists' wrappings; leave it there until no more air bubbles are coming to the top.

The Easter lily does not need quite as much water as the hydrangea. A good test is to poke a finger into the top of the soil; if the soil seems dry or hard, it needs water. (SSD

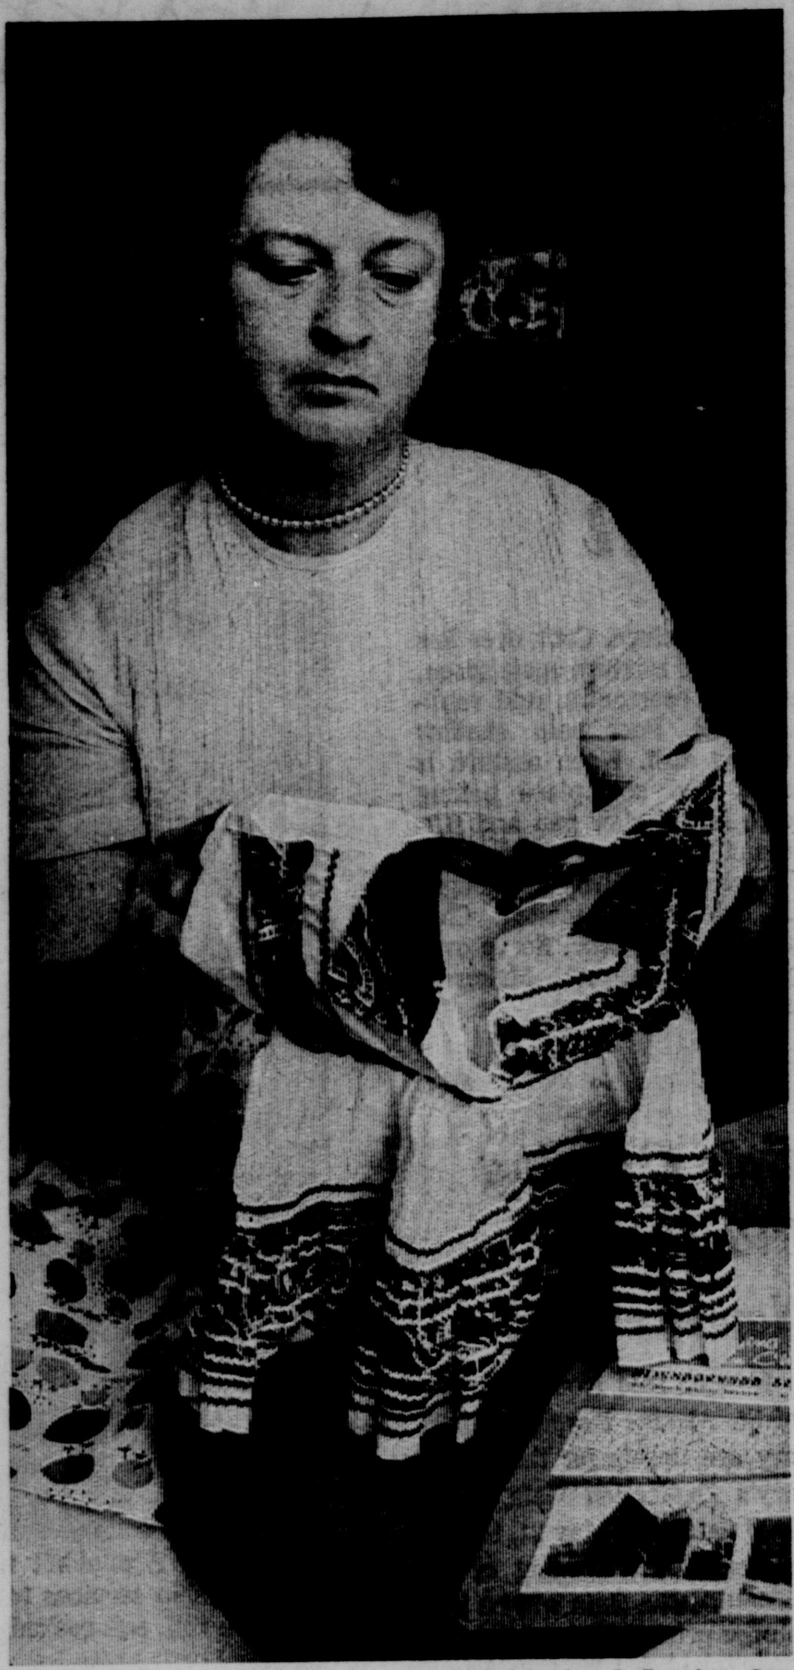
She Speaks Without Fear

by JUDY TREMORE



COLLECTING CLOTHES for the Neighborhood Service Organization in Chicago is only one of many interests of Mrs. Arthur Kauppinen of Arlington Heights, currently serving as president of Midtown Toastmistress Club. She joined the club to overcome her fear of speaking in public and is pleased that she's achieved that goal. (Staff photo)

Mrs. Arthur Kauppinen joined Midtown Toastmistress Club three years ago to get over her fear of public speaking. She has accomplished her goal, she says.

Currently serving as president of the Toastmistresses, Mrs. Kauppinen said she found herself speaking to groups frequently and wanted to feel at ease about it. She is also serving as secretary and board member of the Neighborhood Service Organization in Chicago. Her husband is a vice president of finance for NSO.

The Kauppinens became interested in NSO 4½ years ago when their minister at the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights asked for volunteers for the board of the social service agency. This is Mrs. Kauppinen's second year as secretary.

IN THE eight years the Kauppinens have resided in Arlington Heights, neighbor children have learned to look forward to special holiday decorations made by the couple. Mrs. Kauppinen has already decided on this year's Christmas decoration and plans to order materials soon.

Art work is probably the president's favorite hobby though she said she hasn't painted in years except for one burlap painting and collages. For three years now she has decorated the window in the Christian Education Building of the First Presbyterian Church at least every other month.

A den mother for Den 9 of Cub Scout Pack 34 at Wilson School, she currently is helping the boys work on costumes for a Knights of the Round Table tournament. The boys have finished their swords and are now doing shields and helmets. Mrs. Kauppinen is making the crown the winner, King Arthur, will wear.

THE KAUPPINENS have three children, Marc, 8; Karen, almost 6, and Allen, 18. Mr. Kauppinen is a sales engineer with Honeywell.

In her spare time, Mrs. Kauppinen sews, makes hats, collects clothing for the NSO Thrift Shop and reads a little. Her immediate plans for the future include learning to drive and enrolling in an art class, "for the comments and criticism the teacher and class would give," she explained.

The couple was instrumental in organizing Hasbrook Civic Association and plans to get into politics in some manner. They had been poll watchers in Chicago.

The Toastmistress president laughed when she said again that the most important thing to her right now, however, was learning to drive. "That nice car sits in the driveway unused every day." (SSD

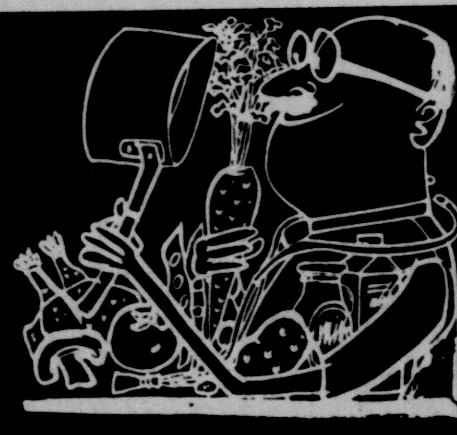
Teen Troubles Subject for Church Talk

All adults in the area are invited to hear William Gothard discuss "Basic Problems of Today's Youth" at the Tuesday, April 19, meeting of the Lutheran Churchwomen at Grace Lutheran Church, Euclid and Wolf Roads, Prospect Heights.

Suicide is the third major cause of teenage deaths, according to the A.M.A. Journal. Gothard, who will speak at 8 p.m., will explain why a growing number of teenagers become rebtllious and depressed, and he will tell how these young people can be helped.

Gothard is director of Campus Teames, an organization which deals solely in counseling youth at churches and on the campuses of colleges and universities.

Special music will be presented at this meeting by the Mello Tones from Prospect High School.



Doctor in the Kitchen

by Dr. W. W. Bauer

YOUR NOSE IN THE KITCHEN, The women of my mother's generation used to tell their husbands to stay out of the kitchen, warning them that sticking their noses into the utensils to see what was cooking was an infringement on the prerogatives of the gentler sex.

What good is anybody's nose in the kitchen?

"Aha," I hear you saying, "to smell things burning, of course!"

That's one use, obviously but there are others.

The nose is not commonly recognized as one of the principal organs of discriminating taste. This function is usually attributed to the palate, as indicated in the use of the phase "tickling the palate," or the adjective "palatable."

ACTUALLY, THE palate has no taste buds. These are on the tongue. They register four kinds of taste — sweet, sour (acid), bitter and salt and sometimes alkaline and metallic. The tip of the tongue is more sensitive to sweet tastes, the margins to sour and salt and the back to bitter. However, since dissolved substances quickly spread to other areas, these sense areas are not sharply defined; they have been determined by electrical stimulation.

Most familiar tastes are influenced as much or more by the odor of the substance as by its taste as recognized on the tongue. When one has a cold, the sense of smell lessens and with it the savor of food.

"It all tastes like straw," one hears people say when they have a cold.

The nose in the kitchen, or elsewhere in the home, is a very useful organ. It gives us the first anticipation of a tasty meal as we enter our homes after a hard day at work, but let that same delectable odor become too strong or stay around too long, and it grows stale and offensive, and we hasten to provide fresh air and ventilation.

A GOOD SENSITIVE nose stands the cook in good stead in flavoring her cooking; if it smells good, it probably teastes good. Conversely, if something in the refrigerator is beginning to grow too old, a sensitive nose detects it, and the offending substance can be removed, the refrigerator aired and cleaned, and the spoiling of other foods prevented.

Where cooking is done with gas or where gas heat is used, the odor of gas is a warning that a pilot light may have gone out or a pot boiled over and killed the burner-flame. Unfortunately, the most dangerous gas, carbon monoxide (produced by combustion), has no odor, taste or "bite," and it is colorless, so that the proper venting of all gas appliances to the outer air becomes essential.

A "runny" nose has no place in the kitchen. Regardless of the care with which handkerchiefs or tissues are used and the frequency of hand-washing, there is danger of spreading the cold virus on dishes and through uncooked foods which have to be handled, such as salads.

Resist pushing "seconds" at Junior, and discourage his overeating, and you may be preventing his getting a heart attack when he reaches middle age. This is the health note from the American Heart Association (AHA), which urges parents to take the following commonsense steps to protect their children's health:

Accustom your children to a healthful diet rich in fruit, vegetables, milk, meat, fish, fowl, cereals. But avoid animal or saturated fats (butter, cheese, bacon), substituting unsaturated fats, such as vegetable oils. Serve lean rather than marbleized meats. On such a diet, you may be safeguarding against hardening of the arteries, which, the AHA points out, sets the stage for heart attack.

SET AN EXAMPLE for your children by cutting down on cigarette smoking, or cutting it out entirely. Cigarette smokers, AHA spokesmen point out, run twice the risk of non-smokers of having a heart attack.

You Can Get More Pleasure From Thos e Easter Flowers

You can get more than one day's enjoyment from that Easter corsage or other Easter flowers just by exercising a little care.

Orchids, for instance, are among the hardiest of all exotic blooms, and you can get a second wearing from that orchid corsage by following this simple trick. Remove the florist's tape and ribbon and plunge the stem of the orchid in cold water until you wish to pin it again to your suit or coat. A half-pint jar or bottle is just about right to keep the stem immersed and the orchid supported out of water.

The bloom should be kept in a cool place, 50 to 55 degrees, where there is plenty of moisture in the air. In the refrigerator this means the warmest part of it, but never exposed to hot dry air.

Freshening clusters of carnations or roses is easy; simply dunk the flowers in cold water once or twice, shake off the excess and put away in your refrigerator in the corsage bag or in a wrapping of tissues.

If the corsage is made with gardenias or camellias, wrap the blooms in moist cotton to keep their dewy freshness, but be sure the corsage goes back into the florists' delivery box when stored in your home refrigerator.

Mrs. Reisner to Assume State Post

Mrs. Max L. Reisner of the Garden Club of Mount Prospect will be installed as community flower shows chairman of the Garden Club of Illinois when that organization holds its annual convention at the Sheraton-Chicago Hotel Monday and Tuesday, April 18 and 19.

In this post Mrs. Reisner will assist local garden club flower show chairmen in obtaining judges for their flower shows.

Election and installation of officers is only part of the program for the two-day convention.

There will be speeches and special workshops on various aspects of garden club activities.

Roselle Garden Club is responsible for providing table arrangements at the Monday evening awards banquet when past state presidents, district chairmen and club presidents are honored. For its theme Roselle Garden Club will use "Around the World."

The convention will be attended by garden club members and official delegates. (S

Double Dydees Plan 'Elephant' Sale Thursday

A white elephant sale will highlight the Thursday April 14, meeting of the Double Dydee Mother's of Twins Club. Main business for the evening will be the announcement of the nominees for office for the coming club year. Following will be a panel discussion concerning problems involved in raising twins.

The club meets the second Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. in the downstairs meeting room of the Lauterburg and Oehler Funeral Home, 2000 E. Northwest Highway, Arlington Heights. Any mother of twins may receive further information by calling Mrs. Robert Collignon, 289-3012. (S

Frosty Fashion In New Revlon Lipstick, Polish

New in Revlon lipstick fashions for spring are nine new Frostling lipsticks that combine the tingle of a snowflake with the glisten of a pearl.

The new shades include three off-beat paler-than-pales called Candied Violet, Almond Ice and Silver Nougat that gleam alone or ice other shades.

Both Revlon Frostlings lipsticks and nail enamel are now on display at Harris Pharmacy, Arlington Heights. (S

Lure of the Circus Calls Area 'Hams'

THE CLOWNS had the most fun at the recent "Under the Big Top" style show given by Meadowbrook Woman's Club. During the intermission in the fashion parade, club members staged a circus, complete with ringmaster, who was Mrs. Michael Valenza, "wild" animals and naturally a bunch of silly clowns. Shown in appropriate costumes are Mrs. Chuck Mihalek, Mrs. David Wright, Mrs. R. Ciolino (who was too shy to face the camera), Mrs. Henry Klien and Mrs. John Woods. Proceeds from the benefit event made possible two scholarships to seniors of Wheeling High School.

MEADOWBROOK WOMAN'S CLUB

EVEN THE PERFORMERS paused for refreshments during an "Under the Big Top" fashion show staged recently by Meadowbrook Woman's Club in the Union Hotel, Wheeling. During the intermission, clown Mrs. William Beiber and lion tamer Mrs. William Meucci displayed one of the fancy decorated cakes which added to the circus theme. The serious part of the show featured fashions from Bea's and Edward's in Wheeling and hair styles by Mister's.

Civic Fund Raiser

Divulge Clubwomen's 'Affair'

Buffalo Grove Women's Club will present its annual big fund-raising affair, a spring dance entitled "An Affair to Remember," Saturday, April 16, 8:30 p.m., at the Des Plaines Elks Club.

Music will be provided by Eddie Dale's Rhythm Club, featuring song stylist Laurie Johnson, former vocalist with Les Brown's band. Tickets can be purchased in advance through Mrs. Eugene LeClaire, dance chairman, at 537-0291, or at the Elks Club the night of the dance.

Essentially a civic organization, Buffalo Grove Women's Club devotes its efforts to working for the village by means of community services, club-sponsored events, and material gifts, presented annually.

AS A COMMUNITY service, the club has just completed the researching and writing of a 10-page booklet dealing with emergency measures which should be taken by the ordinary household in coping with such unpredictable problems as power failures, tornados and ice storms. Club members will soon be distributing free copies of this booklet, entitle "What to Do. . .," to every home in Buffalo Grove.

All proceeds from social events, to which the public is invited, such as "An Affair to Remember," are used to finance such civic projects as the emergency booklet. "Thus, the quality and volume of the club's program are in direct proportion to the amount of public support it receives," commented Mrs. Sandy Navin, president of the club.

There will not be a dinner served at the dance, as was mentioned, in error, in last week's edition of the Wheeling Herald. (S

Rheumatic Fever Symptom

Don't Neglect Sore Throat

Do you realize that even a minor sore throat can be extremely dangerous to your child? It's true.

Ignoring what you think is a "common sore throat" could cost your child his life or at least a lifetime of healthy living.

Why?

Because that so-called minor sore throat just might be one of the early symptoms of rheumatic fever. And rheumatic fever is nothing to fool with for it cripples the hearts of at least 28 American children every single day and causes more deaths than polio did in its heyday.

YET, RHEUMATIC fever can be prevented. Doctors know the cause and can destroy the germs before they get a chance to impair a child's heart.

The real tragedy, you see, is that it has such seemingly innocent beginnings—like that "minor sore throat" or a feeling of fatigue and muscle and joint pains which may be mistaken for what many persons wrongly call "growing pains."

In its more severe stage, rheumatic fever's symptoms are sore throat, high fever, sore neck glands and red and swollen joints. The trouble is, at this point irrepairable damage already may have been done to the heart.

ABOUT HALF of those who contact rheumatic fever recover without permanent damage to the heart valves. But the disease has a way of repeating itself, and each attack renews the chances for heart damage.

Actually rheumatic fever is the only major form of cardiovascular disease which can be prevented. Doctors can prevent it by prompt and thorough treatment of streptococcal sore throats and certain other strep infections.

Despite this knowledge, rheumatic fever remains the No. 1 heart crippler of children and the No. 1 killer of children between the ages of 10 and 14.

SO IF YOUR youngster suffers any respiratory infection—especially that "minor" sore throat, don't hesitate to consult your doctor.

Simple tests like a throat culture and blood test can enable him to identify the germ causing the infection. And if it's the streptococcus, early treatment with penicillin or other antibiotics offers an excellent chance of eliminating the potential threat of rheumatic fever.

Forced Branches, Flowers Are Demonstrator's Basics

Forced lilac, willow and forsythia branches combined with tulips or jonquils were the materials used by Mrs. Andrew M. Obara when she demonstrated basics of Japanese flower arranging before members of Plum Grove Garden Club. Retiring vice president of the club, Mrs. Obara also answered questions on shaping, pruning and the placement of each flower in the arrangements.

Sworn in as president at the meeting was Mrs. Charles Pease. Other officers sworn in were Mrs. George Orbin, vice president; Mrs. Tom Conforti, recording secretary; Mrs. Ronald Emmons, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. R. H. Golterman, treasurer. Mrs. Harry Eickenberg swore in the new officers after which Mrs. Pease named the following standing committees:

FRUIT AND FLOWER Guild, Mrs. Harry Eickenberg; Historian, Mrs. J. M. Evans; Hostess, Mrs. Otto Petersen; Librarian, Mrs. John Dols; Membership, Mrs. Robert Cromar; Program, Mrs. E. P. Rielley; Ways and Means, Mrs. Walter Dreyfus; Conservation and Horticulture, Mrs. Leonard Lawrenz; Publicity, Mrs. Thomas Spurr, Jr.; Year Book, Mrs. Thomas Omerod; Golf Mill Representative, Mrs. Arthur Schlueter; Invitational Committee Mrs. Eickenberg, Mrs. Obara and Mrs. Orbin.

Hostess for the evening meeting was Mrs. Tom Conforti with Mrs. Richard Lawrenz as cohostess. Members answered roll call with the name of a mineral found in the soil.

MRS. RALPH SANDEEN, a nationally accredited flower show judge, constructively criticized a flower arrangement made by Mrs. Orbin. These are brought by various members to enable the others to learn the do's and don'ts in arranging.

Guest at the meeting was Mrs. Paul R. Johnson, 560 Burno Drive, Palatine.

The club's entry in the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show under the "For Pilgrim Feet" class won a white ribbon.

Next board meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Evans, 573 S. Plum Grove, Palatine, at 12:30 p.m. Monday, April 18. (S

Elegant Lunch Features Chicken Breasts

Stuffing Is Made With Fruit, Nuts

by LOIS SEILER

Tireless in her efforts in behalf of the Northwest Community Hospital, Mrs. Ralph E. Clabaugh, recently retired president of the hospital's Women's Auxiliary, is equally energetic in her own kitchen. She tackles culinary chores with the same zest that she brings to organizational taks, and thus is equally successful in both endeavors.

This capable homemaker has also devoted over 2,500 volunteer hours to the hospital as a Pink Lady and is still going strong, yet she finds time to entertain graciously and prepare elegant food. She has found that recipes need not be over-complicated or time-consuming to be good, and some of her favorites are not difficult to prepare, yet they are delicious to taste.

One of her specialties for a luncheon or dinner is Boned Chicken Breasts with Fruit Nut Stuffing served with a spicy fruit sauce.

For ease in preparation, the chicken breasts should be deboned by your butcher. The tasty bread dressing, which contains chopped apple, nuts, crushed pineapple and raisins flavored with several spices, is spooned onto each breast. The sides are folded over to secure the stuffing.

"The chicken is baked in butter for over an hour, but will hold longer, if necessary," Ruth Clabaugh said.

It is served with a fruit sauce that adds a final gourmet touch to this dish. The sauce is made from both orange and pineapple juice spiced with cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Raisins and orange segments give the sauce additional interest. Served hot over the chicken, this is delightful dining fare.

"Wild rice is a nice accompaniment for this chicken when it is served for dinner," Mrs. Clabaugh commented, "but a green salad is ample for a luncheon."

Her favorite salad is unusually good and yet is quite simple to prepare. Unlike most green salads which require some last-minute preparations, this one must be made 4 to 6 hours in advance, as it makes its own dressing while it sits in the refrigerator.

Assembled in layers, it consists of three different types of salad greens, mayonnaise, onion rings, sugar and seasonings, cooked peas and Swiss cheese. Then just before serving it is topped with crisply-fried bacon bits and tossed well.

The fascinating feature of this salad is the way it makes its own dressing, and the hours of chilling mellow its flavor.

"A vegetable is totally unnecessary when this salad is served," Mrs. Clabaugh remarked, "and it goes well with steak as well as chicken."

As a festive finale to this excellent meal, we suggest this good cook's Fresh Fruit Tarts. These delicious tarts are elegant in appearance and yet easy to prepare.

She bakes 10 individual tart shells first and recommends using tins 3½ inches in diameter. The filling consists of a vanilla pudding mix prepared according to package directions.

One-third of the pudding is combined with sour cream, spooned into the baked shells and topped with fresh blueberries. The remainder has whipped cream folded in and is turned into the remaining shells. Half are topped with glazed strawberries, the other half with fresh peach halves.

The interesting variety of toppings make this assortment of tarts particularly pretty and appealing, and guests will enjoy making their own selection.

"In addition to bridge luncheons and buffet suppers, these tarts are nice for tea time, too" Ruth Clabaugh commented.

We suggest you try them for your Easter dinner.

In addition to the Northwest Community Hospital Auxiliary, Mrs. Clabaugh is a member of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church, a former president of Chapter ER of PEO and belongs to a PTA bridge group at Dryden School. Her husband, Ralph, is superintendent of District 25 elementary schools.

The Clabaughs live at 510 S. Beverley Lane in Arlington Heights. They have two children: a married daughter, Judy (Mrs. J. G. Doman), who teaches elementary school in Devon, Pa., and a son, Jim, who was recently graduated from the University of Wisconsin and is now in the Army's Officers' Candidate School at Ft. Knox, Ky.

ELEGANT FARE for a spring luncheon are the delicious boned chicken breasts prepared by Mrs. Ralph E. Clabaugh of Arlington Heights. She stuffs the chicken with a fruit-nut stuffing and serves them with a spicy fruit sauce. As an accompaniment, this good cook suggests a three-layer green salad, and she serves a festive assortment of fresh fruit tarts for dessert.

BONED CHICKEN BREASTS WITH FRUIT NUT STUFFING

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup diced, peeled apple
½ cup coarsely-chopped nuts
1 can (1 pound, 14 ounces) crushed pineapple
½ cup golden raisins
1 cup soft bread crumbs, toasted
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
6 whole chicken breasts, boned
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup melted butter or margarine

Melt the ½ cup margarine in a skillet. Saute diced apple and chopped nuts for 10 minutes. Remove from heat.

Drain pineapple, reserving syrup. Add ½ cup of the pineapple, the raisins, toasted bread crumbs, salt and spices.

Sprinkle inside of chicken breasts with remaining ½ teaspoon salt. Place 1/3 cup of stuffing inside each breast. Fold sides over. The breasts can be fastened together with string, if needed.

In a foil-lined, 9x13-inch baking pan, melt remaining ¼ cup butter. Place breasts, folded side down, in melted butter. Bake in a 375 degree oven for one hour and 15 minutes. (They will hold longer, if necessary.)

In the meantime, prepare the following:

FRUIT SAUCE

1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon ginger
1 cup orange juice
Reserved pineapple and syrup
½ cup golden raisins
1 tablespoon butter
1 small can mandarin oranges

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt and spices. Stir in orange juice, pineapple and syrup, raisins and butter. Cook, stirring over medium heat, until mixture comes to a boil and thickens. Lastly add orange segments. Serve over chicken brasts. Serves 6.

THREE LAYER SALAD BOWL

2 cups torn curly endive
2 cups torn romaine lettuce
6 tablespoons mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 medium white onion, thinly sliced in rings and separated
1 package frozen peas, cooked and drained
1 8-ounce package Swiss cheese cut in thin strips
6 slices bacon, crisp cooked and crumbled

Place 1/3 of salad greens in salad bowl. Dot with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Top with 1/3 of onion slices. Sprinkle with 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and freshly ground pepper. Add 1/3 of the peas and 1/3 of the cheese strips.

Repeat two more times, seasoning each layer. Do not toss. Cover with Saran Wrap and chill 4 to 6 hours.

Just before serving, top with bacon and toss. The salad will make its own dressing. Serves 6 to 8.

FRESH FRUIT TARTS

10 baked and cooled tart shells, 3½ inches in diameter
1 3¼-ounce package vanilla pudding mix
½ cup commercial sour cream
1 pint fresh blueberries, washed and drained
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
1 pint fresh, whole strawberries, hulled, washed and drained
3 tablespoons currant jelly
4 peach halves
Pineapple juice
Red colored sugar

Prepare pudding according to package directions. Cool slightly.

Into ¾ cup of the pudding, fold in the sour cream. Spoon this mixture into three tart shells and top with blueberries.

Fold the whipped cream into remaining pudding. Spoon into remaining tart shells.

Dip the strawberries into the jelly and place on top of three of the tarts.

Dip fresh peach halves into pineapple juice to preserve color and top remaining tarts with peaches, cut side down.

Chill tarts until serving time. Sprinkle red sugar on peaches just before serving. Serves 10.

Elegant Lunch Features Chicken Breasts

Stuffing Is Made With Fruit, Nuts

by LOIS SEILER

Tireless in her efforts in behalf of the Northwest Community Hospital, Mrs. Ralph E. Clabaugh, recently retired president of the hospital's Women's Auxiliary, is equally energetic in her own kitchen. She tackles culinary chores with the same zest that she brings to organizational taks, and thus is equally successful in both endeavors.

This capable homemaker has also devoted over 2,500 volunteer hours to the hospital as a Pink Lady and is still going strong, yet she finds time to entertain graciously and prepare elegant food. She has found that recipes need not be over-complicated or time-consuming to be good, and some of her favorites are not difficult to prepare, yet they are delicious to taste.

One of her specialties for a luncheon or dinner is Boned Chicken Breasts with Fruit Nut Stuffing served with a spicy fruit sauce.

For ease in preparation, the chicken breasts should be deboned by your butcher. The tasty bread dressing, which contains chopped apple, nuts, crushed pineapple and raisins flavored with several spices, is spooned onto each breast. The sides are folded over to secure the stuffing.

"The chicken is baked in butter for over an hour, but will hold longer, if necessary," Ruth Clabaugh said.

It is served with a fruit sauce that adds a final gourmet touch to this dish. The sauce is made from both orange and pineapple juice spiced with cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger. Raisins and orange segments give the sauce additional interest. Served hot over the chicken, this is delightful dining fare.

"Wild rice is a nice accompaniment for this chicken when it is served for dinner," Mrs. Clabaugh commented, "but a green salad is ample for a luncheon."

Her favorite salad is unusually good and yet is quite simple to prepare. Unlike most green salads which require some last-minute preparations, this one must be made 4 to 6 hours in advance, as it makes its own dressing while it sits in the refrigerator.

Assembled in layers, it consists of three different types of salad greens, mayonnaise, onion rings, sugar and seasonings, cooked peas and Swiss cheese. Then just before serving it is topped with crisply-fried bacon bits and tossed well.

The fascinating feature of this salad is the way it makes its own dressing, and the hours of chilling mellow its flavor.

"A vegetable is totally unnecessary when this salad is served," Mrs. Clabaugh remarked, "and it goes well with steak as well as chicken."

Otto Freemans Married Fifty Years

MR. AND MRS. OTTO FREEMAN

For Otto and Amanda Freeman, the Easter season has always had a special meaning for in addition to the religious significance, the couple celebrates a wedding anniversary at Eastertime. Married on Arpil 5, 1916 the Freemans this year will be observing their golden anniversary on Easter Sunday with an open hourse in their home at 25 W. Washington St., Palatine.

Both lifelong residents of Palatine, the couple met at a small party in the home of friends. Otto courted Amanda with horse and buggy and both remember the band concerts that were a part of the community social life. Ever since their marriage, the Freemans have been members of St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Palatine, which was Otto's church even as a small boy.

One of the six children of James and Mary Freeman, Otto was born Sept. 2, 1884 on his parents' farm on Freeman Road, which took its name from the family. He attended a one-room schoolhouse on Ela Road, which has since been torn down.

AMANDA WAS one of the three daughters of John and Emma Weinecke, who farmed the area which has since become Pleasant Hills. John and Emma are said to have purchased the property from the Indians.

Like Otto, Amanda, too, was born on her parents' farm, on Aug. 9, 1891, and she, too, attended a one-room schoolhouse. Amanda's school was located on Quentin Road and the building still stands, now converted into a home by a local family. Her church was St. John Evangelical Church at Algonquin and Roselle Roads.

She and Otto were married on the Weineke farm, and after their wedding, they took over the farm, operating it for 38 years and rearing their family of three children. Retiring 12 years ago, they moved to their present address.

Assisting the anniversary couple at the Sunday open house from 2 to 5 p.m., will be their sons, Howard of Palatine, and Robert of Roselle, their daughter, Mrs. Edward (Mae) Troyke of Roselle, and their nine grandchildren.

Should there be any Easter eggs on the buffet table, younger well-wishers might assume the gay decorations were for their own enjoyment. But Otto and Amanda could tell them that coloring eggs was popular even in the days of the one-room school. (SSD

Sex Education Reading List Is Available

The Child Study Association of America has just published "Recommended Reading on Sex Education," a 16-page pamphlet containing 36 titles divided into sections for adults, for children ages 5 to 9, 9 to 12, 13 to 15 and for older adolescents and young adults.

The pamphlet was published in conjunction with the Association's 42nd Annual Conference on "Sexual Behavior and Social Ethics: Their Meaning For Families Today," held in March.

In preparing the list, the Book Review Committee of the Association noted that books and pamphlets were evaluated and selected in answer to the many requests for reliable material on the subject that would be helpful to parents or professional persons working with children and adolescents.

THE LIST includes such classics as "What to Tell Your Children About Sex," by the Association, "The Wonderful Story of How You Were Born," by Sidonie Gruenberg, formerly director of the Association, and "Sex and Our Society," by Dr. Lester A. Kirkendall.

The pamphlet, which is available to those who write for it from the Child Study Association of America, 9 East 89 St., New York, N.Y. 10028, for 25 cents plus 10 cents postage and handling, also contains information about audio-visual aids and other materials on sex education. Quantity rates are available. (SSD

Methodist Missions Will be WSCS Topic

Methodist missions will be the concern of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Palatine as they meet for their annual Mite Box Luncheon Wednesday April 13, at noon. Mrs. Louis Hillendahl, a missionary on furlough from Southern Rhodesia, will be the speaker.

Rev. and Mrs. Hillendahl have been married 25 years and have two children, Don of Houston, Texas and Francine, a sophomore in high school. Rev. Hillendahl was a structural and mechanical engineer and served in the Navy both in World War II and the Korean conflict before receiving his call into the ministry. After two years' preparation, he and his family were sent to the Methodist missions in Hyadiri and Nyamuzuve, Rhodesia, where Mrs. Hillendahl served as treasurer and bookkeeper of these Methodist centers.

AFTER THEIR four year term terminated in Rhodesia, the Hillendahls joined the Rock River Conference and are now serving as minister to the Ingelside and Spring Grove Methodist Church.

Reservations for this luncheon are necessary as it will be a catered affair. Tickets can be obtained by calling Mrs. R. A. Wittig at 392-4099 before April 8. Members are reminded to bring their mite boxes, as all the money is used to fulfill the missionary pledge. Director of Christian Education, Mrs. Ann S. Walasek, will give the devotions. (S

Sherman Auxiliary Plans Benefit Ball

"Everything's Coming Up Roses" for Sherman Hospital. That's the theme the hospital auxiliary has adopted for its second annual benefit ball to be held Saturday, April 16, at Pheasant Run Lodge in St. Charles.

Chairman for the benefit dance is Mrs. Robert Sieber of Elgin, assisted by Mrs. Vincent McInnerney of Roselle.

This will be the second benefit ball sponsored by the auxiliary. According to Mrs. Donald Lloyd of Roselle, response to the affair has been "nothing less than overhwelming."

"THE FIRST benefit ball held in February, 1965, was a virtual mandate to continue such affairs but on a more expanded scale," said Mrs. Lloyd. "The event provides a marvelous opportunity for friends of Sherman Hospital to enjoy a social evening as well as support the hospital, a source of pride to ourselves and the entire community."

Entertainment will be provided by Paul Gary and his Swinging Strings. Dave Morrison will play for dancing.

Honorary ball chairmen are Mrs. Lyman Smith of Barrington, Mrs. Joseph F. Estes of Elgin and Mrs. George Edwards of Wayne. (SS

Some Facts Given On Breast Feeding

A mother's milk is "tailor-made" for her infant, and no substitute has proven superior.

Yet more and more American mothers are reluctant and even unwilling to nurse. Why? Because old wives' tales have brought much misunderstanding to this once taken-for-granted art of breast feeding.

Let's take this true or false quiz to distinguish some facts from fallacies:

1. Some mothers don't have enough milk.
2. Mothers who nurse are less likely to develop breast cancer.
3. Breast feeding helps space babies.
4. Mothers with breast infections should continue nursing.
5. Birth control pills affect the milk supply.

ANSWERS:

1. False. A mother's milk supply is not a static thing. It changes to meet the demands of the baby. When the baby's appetite grows, and the mother seems not to have enough milk, she should nurse him more frequently—even as often as every two hours. The more she nurses, the more milk for her baby.

2. Ture. The American Cancer Society in its publication "101 Questions about Cancer" states, "Mothers who breast feed are less likely to develop cancer of the breast." Studies conducted in the Scandinavian countries and Japan, where mothers are much slower to give up nursing, show breast cancer rates are extremely low among nursing mothers when compared to women who never marry and, therefore, never nurse.

3. True. Although a woman definitely can become pregnant while nursing, it's most rare before the first menstrual period if she is completely nursing (no supplements or solids). Since complete breast feeding delays the resumption of the menstrual cycle, mothers who nurse their babies usually have them about two years apart.

4. TRUE. Nursing with an infected breast usually has no adverse effect on an infant. And women who do not stop nursing when abcesses or potential abcesses are indicated have a much shorter illness and are much less likely to require medication. However, a mother with abcesses should not nurse unless she receives her doctor's approval.

5. True. Studies show that steroid pills directly suppress the secretion of milk by the mammary glands. It is believed, however, that suppression may be lessened if the pill is used after the milk supply is firmly established. One manufacturer suggests waiting six or more weeks following childbirth before starting the pill. (S

Hairdressers At Workshop

Carole Breust and Armand Gentile of Arlington Heights recently attended a 2-day workshop conducted by the Hair Fashion Committee of the Illinois Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association held at the LaSalle Hotel, Chicago. The 2-day seminar featured the presentation of the "Love Bird" hair fashion for summer.

Miss Breust is winner of the alternate state championship of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Junior Board Plans Benefit

At a luncheon held April 6 at Maxims des Paris, junior board members of the Park Ridge School for Girls discussed final plans for their annual benefit ball. Mrs. Robert Hayes of Arlington Heights, decorations chairman, delighted the luncheon goers with her description of the interior of Lake Forest Academy where the ball is to be held June 18. She told her audience that fresh flowers, with peonies predominating, will carry out the theme of the "dansant."

Mrs. Alan Appleton of Palatine is serving as news chairman of the dinner dance, proceeds of which will aid the junior group in its aim to furnish and upkeep Talcott cottage, one of the seven cottages on the school grounds. (S

Otto Freemans Married Fifty Years

MR. AND MRS. OTTO FREEMAN

For Otto and Amanda Freeman, the Easter season has always had a special meaning for in addition to the religious significance, the couple celebrates a wedding anniversary at Eastertime. Married on Arpil 5, 1916 the Freemans this year will be observing their golden anniversary on Easter Sunday with an open hourse in their home at 25 W. Washington St., Palatine.

Both lifelong residents of Palatine, the couple met at a small party in the home of friends. Otto courted Amanda with horse and buggy and both remember the band concerts that were a part of the community social life. Ever since their marriage, the Freemans have been members of St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Palatine, which was Otto's church even as a small boy.

One of the six children of James and Mary Freeman, Otto was born Sept. 2, 1884 on his parents' farm on Freeman Road, which took its name from the family. He attended a one-room schoolhouse on Ela Road, which has since been torn down.

AMANDA WAS one of the three daughters of John and Emma Weinecke, who farmed the area which has since become Pleasant Hills. John and Emma are said to have purchased the property from the Indians.

Like Otto, Amanda, too, was born on her parents' farm, on Aug. 9, 1891, and she, too, attended a one-room schoolhouse. Amanda's school was located on Quentin Road and the building still stands, now converted into a home by a local family. Her church was St. John Evangelical Church at Algonquin and Roselle Roads.

She and Otto were married on the Weineke farm, and after their wedding, they took over the farm, operating it for 38 years and rearing their family of three children. Retiring 12 years ago, they moved to their present address.

Assisting the anniversary couple at the Sunday open house from 2 to 5 p.m., will be their sons, Howard of Palatine, and Robert of Roselle, their daughter, Mrs. Edward (Mae) Troyke of Roselle, and their nine grandchildren.

Clubwomen Sew Their Way to Fashion Honors

Turn Out Winning Entries In IFWC Sewing Contest

A spring fashion show with a difference—this was the Seventh District IFWC Sewing Contest and models were wearing their own creations. Members of the District and friends were invited to the showing March 27 at the Clearbrook School in Rolling Meadows. Nineteen entrants were displaying the costumes which had already won in club competition and vying for the cash prizes that will be awarded winners in the daytime and evening wear divisions for both Woman's Club and Junior Woman's Club entrants.

Heading this year's contest is Mrs. Raymond Spletzer of Wheeling. The sewing contest is a project of the American Home Department of which Mrs. Fred Tonry of Des Plaines is district chairman. Arts and Crafts made by club members were also displayed at the show.

JUDGING THIS year's contest were Mrs. Floyd Jolliffe a member of the faculty of Wheeling High School, and Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson of Arlington Heights, vice president of the IFWC and also an expert were based 75 per cent on workmanship and 25 per cent on becomingness to the wearer and overall appearance. After the decisions were announced the judges stated some of the sewing aspects which they had considered and offered useful tips on sewing techniques.

Placing first in the Daytime Division for Junior Women's Club members was Mrs. Harold Greaves of Elk Grove Village. Her gray 3-piece double knit wool suit had an extra silk print blouse. A turban hat of her own design made of the print blouse material completed her ensemble.

The non-button, semi-fitted jacket, with three-quarter sleeve and rolled collar neckline, was a Vogue pattern. The skirt and blouses were her own. Doing alterations for her friends has taught her a great deal about sewing, but she encourages her friends to learn by sewing for themselves.

Crewel work, sand casting, sculpturing with vermiculite, bowls from plastic crystals, antiqued flowers and original yarn paintings were among the many items made and displayed by members of the Arts and Crafts committee of the Elk Grove Junior Woman's Club. Mrs. Greaves, who is chairman of the committee, says that she has avidly clipped and filed ideas from magazines over the years and finds her committee work a perfect incentive to try these.

FIRST PLACE IN the evening wear Division for Junior Women's Clubs went to Mrs. Donald Loew of Mount Prospect. She fashioned her elegant 2-piece beige with avocado green, floor-length evening dress with jacket from a cotton and acetate brocade imported from Holland. Her dyed-to-match satin shoes picked up the green in the brocade while her evening bag and elbow length gloves carried through with the beige.

A sewing machine given her by her husband on her first wedding anniversary was the impetus that started Mrs. Loew on her enjoyable hobby. Having no formal instruction until recently, she learned by doing and following the pattern instructions. She added that the tailoring course taken last year has given her additional tips, especially on the fine art of pressing.

Mrs. Loew's club, Mount Prospect Juniors, also had a display of crafts.

From Arlington Heights Woman's Club comes Mrs. Robert Hudak who is a repeater as first place winner of Daytime Wear for the Women's Clubs. This year's entry was a wool suit and hip-length cape done in a tomato and carmel check. The cape was milium lined for warmth. The outfit also included a matching bubble hat. Mrs. Hudak sews all of her own clothes and loves sewing enough that she finds time to sew for her family and friends also.

IN THE WOMEN'S Club Evening Wear Division the winner was Mrs. W. R. Stebbins of Park Ridge. She wore a navy blue silk cocktail dress with jacket in her original design. A cowl neckline and corded waist were used to set off the beautiful brocade which had been brought back from Japan by her son.

"But I already have three engagements for April 20," exclaimed Mrs. Stebbins when it was announced that winners' cash prizes would be awarded on that date. The statement illustrates the fact that these women, who sew so well, sew for many reasons but never because they have nothing else to do.

Second place winners were Mrs. Raymond Raedel of the Prospect Heights Woman's Club with a coral suit accented with black accessories. Another second place winner from the Prospect Heights Club was Mrs. Todd Olson. She entered a full length black evening gown and coat. The coat featured deep side slits and a contrasting white lining.

Mrs. John Danforth of Schaumburg Junior Woman's Club took second in the Junior Division with a turquoise brocade full length skirt and chanel type jacket with gold shell blouse. From Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club, Mrs. H. James Bahre won second in Junior Daytime with a double breasted green wool suit and matching pillbox hat set off with blue accents. (S

WOOL CAPE SUIT made by Mrs. Robert Hudak of Arlington Heights Woman's Club, took first place in the daytime division among entries in the women's club competition. Mrs. Hudak, who is a repeater as first place winner, admires the pink knit dress and jacket ensemble made by Mrs. Keith Paul of Schaumburg Juniors. The showing and judging was held March 27 at the Clearbrook School in Rolling Meadows.

CONGRATULATING Mrs. Harold Greaves of Elk Grove Juniors on winning first place in the Junior Woman's Club Daytime Wear is Mrs. Clarence Hendrickson, vice president of IFWC. Mrs. Hendrickson was one of the judges for the annual sewing contest.

BROCADES WITH MATCHING JACKETS won for Mrs. John Danforth of Schaumburg Juniors and Mrs. Donald Loew of Mount Prospect Juniors, second and first place, respectively, in the Evening wear class in the recent Seventh District Sewing Contest Junior competition. Mrs. Loew's floor-length gown was in avocado while Mrs. Danforth's was in turquoise.

SECOND PLACE WINNERS in the women's club daytime and evening wear divisions were Mrs. Raymond Raedel and Mrs. Todd Olson, both of Prospect Heights Woman's Club. The contest was sponsored by Seventh District and all affiliated clubs were invited to submit entries home sewn by members.

'Mary's Garden' Is Wayside's Program Thurs.

A well known poem, "The kiss of the sun for pardon, The song of the birds for mirth, One is nearer God's Heart in a garden, Than anywhere else on earth" will be included in Mrs. Joseph Grant's program Thursday, April 14, for Our Lady of the Wayside Woman's Club. Mrs. Grant, past president of the club, has chosen for her topic, "Mary's Garden," and is based on flowers named for the mother of Christ.

Tea hostesses for the evening meeting in Pioneer Park will be the library and literature committee.

The club will hold its bake sale Sunday, April 17, beginning at 7 a.m. Included in the sale will be fresh cakes, pies and other home made items. "Always a popular event, this sale should be bigger and better than ever," commented Mrs. William Patterson and Mrs. Herbert Klein, ways and means co-chairmen. "The parish keeps growing and we have added more wonderful cooks and bakers to our already fabulous list," they added. Mrs. Patterson and her committee will be on hand until 1 p.m. (S

TWO GAMES EACH WEEK

Consult your YELLOW Cards thru April 10 for BOTH GAMES — Once for April 3 SUNDAY SUBURBANITE Game, then the New Set of Numbers for the PADDOCK THURSDAY Game.

Get your RED CARDS for next week's games from sponsoring merchants starting April 10.

THESE BUGS MAY WIN YOU

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS

Each week pick up your Free Bingo Cards from any of the sponsors (adults only, please). Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. You may, however, make as many visits as you wish. The more cards you play the better your chances of winning!

HOW TO PLAY

To play, merely check the ads in the Sunday Suburbanite on Sunday, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. Different set of numbers each Sunday and each Thursday means two different games with the same card. Many ads contain one or more "Newspaper Bingo" numbers in the Bingo Bug (shown above). Other numbers, most of them in this symbol, will be scattered throughout the paper. On the want ad pages the numbers will be included in special type with the notation of "Newspaper Bingo Bug Sez." If you can match all 24 numbers on any one of your Bingo cards (see example of a winning card) with those appearing in either the Sunday Suburbanite, or the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications (but not both), you have a "Bingo" and you are a winner.

$100 WEEKLY!!

Winners will share a weekly cash prize of $100. If there is only one winner, he gets all $100. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share equally. If there are no winners any week, the $100 weekly prize money will be added to the following week's prize fund!

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER

Each Sunday Suburbanite game is complete within one issue of the Sunday Suburbanite; each Paddock Thursday game is complete within one issue of the Thursday editions of Paddock Publications. You cannot use numbers from both issues for the same game. A new set of numbers will appear in the Sunday Suburbanite each Sunday, plus another new set of numbers in the Paddock Thursday editions. A new color Bingo card will be available each week at the participating stores. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week's games. The color card for each week's games will be announced each week in the newspaper.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER . . .

If you have a winning Bingo Card, all 24 numbers of which appear in either the Sunday Suburbanite or your Thursday edition of Paddock Publications, write your name, address, phone number and from which store you procured the card on the back, and drop in the mail to Paddock office. Envelope must be postmarked by Friday of that week; or bring your card in to the office of Paddock Publications at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights by 9 a.m. of the following Monday morning.

RULES OF THE GAME:

NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY

There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at office of Paddock Publications as well as public libraries and at sponsors' stores. You can play as many cards as you wish — they're free. Get additional cards, one at a time, from the friendly sponsors listed below. (Adults only, please.)

DIFFERENT COLORED CARDS EACH WEEK

The color of the cards changes each week. To be a winner, you must use a Bingo Card of the correct color for that week. Mutilated cards will not be honored. All 24 numbers must be covered to win.

CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS

Bingo numbers will be drawn at random from a Bingo Number cage at 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights.

Some duplication of Bingo Numbers may exist in certain sponsors' ads due to a newspaper production problem. This duplication in No Way affects the total number of Bingo numbers drawn. All numbers Drawn at Random from our Bingo Cage Appear Somewhere In Each Issue Of the Newspapers.

Employees of Paddock Publications and their families are not eligible to win any cash prizes.

Suburban Living

Especially for Women

PUSSY WILLOWS are a sure sign of Spring and Mrs. Herbert Church and Mrs. Louis Reinert of Our Lady of the Wayside Woman's Club, Arlington Heights, find the spring branches lend an aura of the season as they plan the group's annual spring dance. The affair will be held Friday, April 22, at Itasca Country Club. (Staff Photo)

Busy Program Planned By Congregational Women

A book review dedicating the years' work, comparingrecipes and meeting the new officers will fill the afternoon for the women of Arlington Heights Congregational United Church of Christ Tuesday, April 12.

The afternoon will begin with a cooperative luncheon at 12:45 p.m. Each woman will bring either her favorite salad, main dish or a layer cake according to Mrs. Charles Clemins and Mrs. Carl Scheske, luncheon co-chairman.

Following the luncheon the main table will be completely cleared except for a cloth, two candles, a basin, and a washcloth. This will set the theme of service for the devotional portion of the program where all the service work of the group will be dedicated. According to Mrs. Harold Gordon, material aids chairman, the service will be divided into the seven parts which will represent the different areas of work.

THE AREAS ARE religious Christmas cards collected to send to India; mittens knit by the women for the Indian children; a hammer which is the symbol of the hours spent working at Pleasant Valley Farm, a retreat for the children in the inner city; draperies which they made for the church lounge; nylon stockings collected for Japan; receiving blankets made for the migrant workers; coupons collected to support Elan College in North Carolina and used stamps which buy milk for needy children in Asia.

Those women assisting with this program will be Mrs. Alexander Rabchuk, spiritual life chairman, Mrs. Gordon Johnson, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Ronald Hulka, Mrs. Robert Stahley, Mrs. William Hugill, Mrs. Jack Wilson and Mrs. Thomas Dickinson. Mrs. W. Rowland Koch, vice president, will coordinate the program with Bible readings.

The second part of the program will be a book review, Irving Stone's "The Agony and the Ecstasy," given by Esther Rapchuk. This book will continue with the recent church renewal and breakthrough program carried on by the United Church of Christ.

The afternoon will end with a report from the nominating committee. They will introduce the new president, vice president, secretary and treasurer who will be installed at the May meeting. (S

Essay Finalists Are Guests

Six high school senior girls, finalists in a $200 educational prize competition, will be both guests and participants at the Thursday, April 14, dinner meeting of the Mount Prospect Business and Professional Women's Club to be held at the Arlington Carousel Restaurant, near Euclid and Rohlwing. A hospitality hour will precede the 6:30 dinner.

Participation of the students in the evening's program will climax the Career Essay Contest sponsored by the club this past month for 1966 girl graduates of area high schools. It was planned in accordance with the 1965-66 "Plan for Progress" theme of the Illinois Federation of BPW Clubs, emphasizing youth, education and service.

A CONTEST committee, with Marian Heniken as chairman and Marian Baesel, co-chairman, selected the finalist-contestants whose names will not be announced before the April meeting. At that time, each of the six girls will read her essay telling why she plans to train for a particular career, and the members will decide which girl receives the $200.

Following the contest, Mrs. Barbara Johnson, president of the club, will conduct a business meeting highlighted by an election of officers to serve during the coming year. SET CONSTRUCTION CHAIRMAN Bob Gallagher, left, and his crew members, Jack Bartek, center, and Tom Birong, build the only piece of scenery to be used in St. James Players' "Seven Nuns in Las Vegas." The play will be given April 22, 23 and 24 in Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows.

Unusual Set Needed For 'Seven Nuns'

Backstage crews for St. James Players' "Seven Nuns at Las Vegas" are busy with brushes, hammers and saws preparing for the group's production later in April.

Due to the abstract setting asked for by the play's director, the Rev. Robert Strzelecki, stage manager Thad Ostrowski and his crew face a new set of problems, giving the illusion of something without actually using it.

"Thanks to my crew, I feel we will have an unusual set without any of the flats normally used," commented Ostrowski.

HIS CREW includes Robert Gallagher, set construction; Josephine Fricke, set design; Rick Janda, lights, and Cliff Harmon, sound.

Acquiring the props for this production isn't so easy either, according to Adelaide Fairfield, prop chairman. One of these is several sacks of money.

"We may have to call in Brinks," said Mrs. Fairfield, explaining that even the nuns win at the one-arm bandits in this play.

"SEVEN NUNS AT Las Vegas" promises to give a little different idea of convent life. Nuns will be garbed in pink and fuchsia habits and chorus girls in can-can costumes will do a dance routine in the convent. Responsibility for the costumes lies with Carole Harmon.

Dates for the play are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 22, 23 and 24. It will be presented at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Road, Rolling Meadows. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Al Walters, 392-8648, or Mrs. Thad Ostrowski, 255-6187.

'Flint' Held At Golf Mill

Held over at the Golf Mill Theatre for a second week, the spy thriller "Our Man Flint" will conclude its engagement this week.

James Coburn stars as Derek Flint, free-lance espionage agent who lives luxuriously in a New York penthouse with a harem of four international beauties.

Starting tomorrow (Friday) the Golf Mill will show a family entertainment bill of two Walt Disney features, "The Ugly Dachshund" and "Winnie the Pooh." Dean Jones and Suzanne Pleshette are starred along with a family of dachshund puppies and a 125-pound Great Dane in "The Ugly Dachshund."

Exhibiting currently at the Golf Mill is Louise Townsend, a member of the Park Ridge Art League. (Bill

Emil Flaim Duo Opens at Embers

The Emil Flaim Duo, featuring Emil and Lee Flaim, opened a four-week engagement at the Embers Northwest in Arlington Heights this week.

Combining comedy and music, the duo returns to the Chicago area after a record engagement in Los Angeles and Las Vegas.

Appears in Play

Al Nuti, 280 E. Forest Lane, Palatine, has a part in Elmwood Park Little Theatre's production of "Tom Jones," being presented Friday and Saturday, April 15 and 16, at Elmwood Park High School.

SET CONSTRUCTION CHAIRMAN Bob Gallagher, left, and his crew members, Jack Bartek, center, and Tom Birong, build the only piece of scenery to be used in St. James Players' "Seven Nuns in Las Vegas." The play will be given April 22, 23 and 24 in Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Rolling Meadows.

Unusual Set Needed For 'Seven Nuns'

Backstage crews for St. James Players' "Seven Nuns at Las Vegas" are busy with brushes, hammers and saws preparing for the group's production later in April.

Due to the abstract setting asked for by the play's director, the Rev. Robert Strzelecki, stage manager Thad Ostrowski and his crew face a new set of problems, giving the illusion of something without actually using it.

"Thanks to my crew, I feel we will have an unusual set without any of the flats normally used," commented Ostrowski.

HIS CREW includes Robert Gallagher, set construction; Josephine Fricke, set design; Rick Janda, lights, and Cliff Harmon, sound.

Acquiring the props for this production isn't so easy either, according to Adelaide Fairfield, prop chairman. One of these is several sacks of money.

"We may have to call in Brinks," said Mrs. Fairfield, explaining that even the nuns win at the one-arm bandits in this play.

"SEVEN NUNS AT Las Vegas" promises to give a little different idea of convent life. Nuns will be garbed in pink and fuchsia habits and chorus girls in can-can costumes will do a dance routine in the convent. Responsibility for the costumes lies with Carole Harmon.

Dates for the play are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 22, 23 and 24. It will be presented at Sacred Heart of Mary High School, 2800 Central Road, Rolling Meadows. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m.

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Al Walters, 392-8648, or Mrs. Thad Ostrowski, 255-6187.

'Flint' Held At Golf Mill

Held over at the Golf Mill Theatre for a second week, the spy thriller "Our Man Flint" will conclude its engagement this week.

James Coburn stars as Derek Flint, free-lance espionage agent who lives luxuriously in a New York penthouse with a harem of four international beauties.

Starting tomorrow (Friday) the Golf Mill will show a family entertainment bill of two Walt Disney features, "The Ugly Dachshund" and "Winnie the Pooh." Dean Jones and Suzanne Pleshette are starred along with a family of dachshund puppies and a 125-pound Great Dane in "The Ugly Dachshund."

Exhibiting currently at the Golf Mill is Louise Townsend, a member of the Park Ridge Art League. (Bill

Music Outgushes Plot in 'Wildcat'

BY JOAN REDDY
Paddock Drama Critic

"Wildcat" is an oil field musical producing both high and low grade results. It is blessed with a lively score. But it is afflicted with a 1930 "B" movie plot. And Music-On-Stage's recent production had the same mixed octane.

Performances ranged from excellent to less than adequate. In that excellent category was Ron Cowan as Joe Dynamite, the swaggering oil crew foreman who captures the heroine's heart. Cowan has a well-trained baritone that he knows how to use in musical comedy style. But he also knows how to act. And the blending of the two gave "Wildcat" a really first-rate performance. Of course, Cowan's strapping good looks scored another point.

However, "Wildcat" is really a vehicle for a woman. This tale of Wildcat Jackson, female "oil man" who finds out what feminity is all about on the 1912 Texas oil fields, was Lucille Ball's play on Broadway. And it was a one-woman show. When she left, the play collapsed.

AWARE THAT the weight of the over-done plot rested on her shoulders, MOS's Wildcat, Jacqui Cassel, gave it a mighty try. Perhaps part of her trouble was that she tried too hard. She exaggerated her gestures and grimaces, belted her songs and did her best to be all over the stage. But for all of that, she did create a likable character who made the audience care how her love and well turned out.

With such a flamboyant central character, the two supporting women's roles were pale by comparison. However, particularly effective was Carol Heisler as Wildcat's younger sister. She provided good counterpoint as the hesitant young ingenue.

Laverne Juhl, as the Countess O'Brien, contributed excellent timing to her comedy lines and a true, strong voice to her one musical number. However, she was faulted on the high crescendo in which she delivered most of her lines. True, the Countess was scatter-brained, but flighty women don't have to speak in the C above high C.

MOST SADLY MISCAST and burdened with an extremely poor make-up was Frank Wambach. As the young Mexican, Hank, his Nordic looks were a definite drawback. At the very least, his hair might have been black instead of light brown. But looks aside, he was unconvincing in the role although he made a valiant try at the Mexican accent.

In one of those sure-fire character parts, Hank Vandenboom stood out as Sookie. The make-up department let down again here, and he looked very little like "the dirtiest man in town," but his prancing comedy antics were the big asset in the "What Takes My Fancy" number.

Some good ensemble singing was turned in by Don Chropkowski, Dave Lindemann, Jack Wassmer, Jim Karlow and Roy Quid in the "Tall Hope" number. And, in general, they added a welcome comedy lift as the oil roughnecks.

CHOREOGRAPHERS Beth Vandenboom and Jim Karlow contributed some inventive routines that wisely concentrated their dancers' rather limited talents on action and liveliness.

That tired plot was a real burden for dramatic director Jerry Epperson. Instead of blending into the plot, the musical sequences were a welcome relief from the drag of the long passages of dialogue.

As for the music, musical director Paul Beringer had some lively, familiar tunes with which to work. (The most familiar was "Hey, Look Me Over.") But Beringer was not up to the task of making the small orchestra work as one. Although it lends a professional touch, there's nothing professional about discordant brass.

DuPage Art Exhibit Open to Amateurs

Any amateur artist, college age and older, will have an opportunity to exhibit and receive professional criticism of his efforts at the DuPage Town and Country Art Show to be held Thursday, May 5, at the DuPage County Fair Grounds, Wheaton.

The show, which will be open to the public from 10:30 a.m. until 4 p.m., is sponsored jointly by the DuPage County Superintendent of Schools and the DuPage County Homemakers Extension Association, an affiliate of the University of Illinois Extension Service.

Judges for the showing will be Prof. John W. Raushenberger and Prof. Walter M. Johnson of the College of Fine and Applied Arts, University of Illinois. They will select those paintings and craft exhibits they deem worthy for hanging in the District Town and Country Art Show to be held at the University Circle Campus in Chicago this summer.

TOP EXHIBITS from the district show will in turn be selected for showing at the statewide Town and Country Art Show to be held at the University of Illinois campus this fall.

In keeping with its purpose of stimulating interest in art as a satisfying hobby and providing professional advice to the amateur, a major feature of the show will be a judges' critique at 1:30 p.m.

Exhibitors may enter one or two works in each of the classifications, paintings and crafts. All exhibitors must be adult amateur artists living in DuPage County. Original works—including oils, water color, pencil, ink, charcoal, pastels or any media on paper, canvas or other flate surface—produced by the artist since the 1965 Town and Country Art Show are eligible for entry.

CRAFT WORK OF original design which may be exhibited includes many items such as ceramics, crewel embroidery, collages, Swedish weaving, metal work, jewelry, knitting, needlepoint, rugs, caning, wood carving, sand casting and sculpture.

A minimum entry fee of $1 will be charged each exhibitor for up to two exhibits. No more than two paintings and two craft exhibits may be entered by any one artist.

Registration will be from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. the day of the exhibit. For further information or entry blanks call 668-5114, or write Mrs. Rachel L. Crabb, DuPage County Home Adviser, 222 E. Willow, Wheaton, Ill., 60187. (Bill

Paddock Drama Critic

"Wildcat" is an oil field musical producing both high and low grade results. It is blessed with a lively score. But it is afflicted with a 1930 "B" movie plot. And Music-On-Stage's recent production had the same mixed octane.

Performances ranged from excellent to less than adequate. In that excellent category was Ron Cowan as Joe Dynamite, the swaggering oil crew foreman who captures the heroine's heart. Cowan has a well-trained baritone that he knows how to use in musical comedy style. But he also knows how to act. And the blending of the two gave "Wildcat" a really first-rate performance. Of course, Cowan's strapping good looks scored another point.

However, "Wildcat" is really a vehicle for a woman. This tale of Wildcat Jackson, female "oil man" who finds out what feminity is all about on the 1912 Texas oil fields, was Lucille Ball's play on Broadway. And it was a one-woman show. When she left, the play collapsed.

AWARE THAT the weight of the over-done plot rested on her shoulders, MOS's Wildcat, Jacqui Cassel, gave it a mighty try. Perhaps part of her trouble was that she tried too hard. She exaggerated her gestures and grimaces, belted her songs and did her best to be all over the stage. But for all of that, she did create a likable character who made the audience care how her love and well turned out.

With such a flamboyant central character, the two supporting women's roles were pale by comparison. However, particularly effective was Carol Heisler as Wildcat's younger sister. She provided good counterpoint as the hesitant young ingenue.

Laverne Juhl, as the Countess O'Brien, contributed excellent timing to her comedy lines and a true, strong voice to her one musical number. However, she was faulted on the high crescendo in which she delivered most of her lines. True, the Countess was scatter-brained, but flighty women don't have to speak in the C above high C.

MOST SADLY MISCAST and burdened with an extremely poor make-up was Frank Wambach. As the young Mexican, Hank, his Nordic looks were a definite drawback. At the very least, his hair might have been black instead of light brown. But looks aside, he was unconvincing in the role although he made a valiant try at the Mexican accent.

In one of those sure-fire character parts, Hank Vandenboom stood out as Sookie. The make-up department let down again here, and he looked very little like "the dirtiest man in town," but his prancing comedy antics were the big asset in the "What Takes My Fancy" number.

Some good ensemble singing was turned in by Don Chropkowski, Dave Lindemann, Jack Wassmer, Jim Karlow and Roy Quid in the "Tall Hope" number. And, in general, they added a welcome comedy lift as the oil roughnecks.

CHOREOGRAPHERS Beth Vandenboom and Jim Karlow contributed some inventive routines that wisely concentrated their dancers' rather limited talents on action and liveliness.

That tired plot was a real burden for dramatic director Jerry Epperson. Instead of blending into the plot, the musical sequences were a welcome relief from the drag of the long passages of dialogue.

As for the music, musical director Paul Beringer had some lively, familiar tunes with which to work. (The most familiar was "Hey, Look Me Over.") But Beringer was not up to the task of making the small orchestra work as one. Although it lends a professional touch, there's nothing professional about discordant brass.
